this side of Boston, I would respectfully call your attention, believing that it would be to your interest. It is better for persons about purchasing to see what they are buying than to buy of irresponsible agents who make looking Photographs of Monumental work. Having a thorough knowledge of the business gained in the principal cities of the Union and still giving my personal attention, all will be satisfied who will give me a call, as to quality of work and prices.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."

CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office." EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You prosecuted for me, in 1846, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

That Dirty Dandruff.

Dandruff is dirty and disagreeable in every way. It soils the clothing continually, and is accompanied by a hardly less annoying sensation of itching. The scale is dirty. There is nothing in the world so thoroughly adapted to this trouble as Parker's Hair Balsam. It cleanses and heals the scalp, stops the falling hair and restores its original softness, gloss and color. Is not oily, highly perfumed, an elegant dressing. Very economical, as only a small occasional application keeps the hair in perfect condition.

At Newark, N. J., John Hoffman, a saloon keeper, during a quarrel, shot his wife, from whom he had been separated, three times in the head, and then sent a bullet into his own brain. Both will die.

Pearline. With this article, it is cl imed, the family washing can be done with ease, with economy and despatch, and as it is thoroughly disinfectant, it will be seen that whenever used the result is pure and healthful. As there are imitations of this in the market, be sure and get the genuine, manufactured only by James Pyle, New York.

Commander B. F. Day, commanding the U. S. S. Mohican, reports to the navy department that the machinery has not worked very well, eight knots being about the best she has done under steam. Under sail alone, dragging her four-bladed screw, she has made over nine knots, which is very good. She is remarkably steady in a seaway, rolling but little, and very easily; and she steers like a yacht, under sail or steam, even when barely moving through the water.

What Parents Fear.

Many persons—especially parents—object to many quack nostrums as likely to engender or encourage a love for strong drink. They are right. Better die of disease than of drunkenness. The use of Parker's Tonic does not involve this danger. It not only builds up the system, curing all ailments of the stomach, liver and kidneys, but it stimulates without intoxicating and absolutely cures the appetite for liquor.

G. Eugene Gray of Willimantic, Conn., agent for Lee & Seldner's circus, attempted suicide at the hotel in Ellicott City, Md., by shooting himself in the head. He had complained of having been robbed, which seemed to prey on his mind. The wound is likely to prove fatal.

If you are tired taking the large old-fashioned griping pills, try Carter's Little Liver Pills and take some comfort. A man can't stand everything. One pill a dose.

I Have Always Paid Rent!

The action of Carter's Little Liver Pills is pleasant, mild and natural. They gently stimulate the liver, and regulate the bowels, but do not purge. They are sure to please.

In the course of a recent address on the grasses, Mr. J. R. Alcott said: "A town flock of sheep, with a shepherd and bush scythe, would be a grand thing to keep down brush and weeds along our highways, and would bring in our native grasses that would be a real ornament to every country roadside."

The Great American Chorus.

Sneezing, snuffing and coughing. This is the music all over the land just now. And will be until June. "I've got such an awful cold in my head." Cure it with Ely's Cream Balm or it may end in the toughest form of Catarrh. Maybe you have Catarrh now. Nothing is more nauseous and dreadful. This remedy masters it as no other ever did. Not a snuff nor a liquid. Applied by the finger to the nostrils. Pleasant, certain, radical.

too much for ATHLOPHOROS. It cured me of Rheumatic fever. I was so bad it took three men to move me. I tell the doctors that I cat arsenic by case of rheumatism, I don't care how bad, in twenty hours with one bottle of ATHLOPHOROS. I carry it with me all the time."—WM. SAWYER, West Hampden, Me.

ROMANCE OF A RIATA.

How a Boston Sophomore Became a Cowboy and Won a Bride.

The movements of a real cowboy on Kearney street attracted attention yesterday. He stood nearly six feet in his boots, and his regular features and blonde mustache gave his face an aspect of beauty fully in keeping with his handsome proportions. His attire was that of the vaquero, consisting of buckskin trousers, a woolen shirt fastened at the throat with a carelessly-knotted silk handkerchief, a coarse chinchilla sack coat, and broad-rimmed felt hat of the sombrero pattern. An Alta reporter learned his name and history. His name was Edward N. Willets, and six years ago he was at college, when he received peremptory orders from his father, a wealthy Boston merchant, to enter the theological class and fit himself for the ministry. The command came like a thunderbolt to the happy-go-lucky young fellow, who had always believed himself destined to follow his father in business when the latter should be ready to retire. A quarrel with his pere was the result, and the young fellow suddenly left for the west.

At Cheyenne he laid over for a short hunt on the plains. The wild life of the cowboys caught his fancy. Salary proved little object, and he had little difficulty in attaching himself to a big ranch until he had mastered his new vocation. Finally he drifted through portions of Montana, Nebraska, Dakota, Idaho, Nevada, and finally into Oregon and California. The opening of the summer found him engaged with three or four comrades in driving a small band of steers over the Santa Cruz mountains. Cattle in the mountains are not pleasant objects to deal with. Every unruly steer that broke from the band required an hour's chasing up and down steep slopes, over rocks and fallen trees, and through the spiteful brush.

Toward the end of the drive the steep bluffs that line the road on either hand kept the steers in fairly good order, and only occasionally did an unusually juicy bunch of grass tempt some hungry one to bolt up the slope or into the canyon below. It was an occasion of this sort that sent Willets careering among the brakes and ferns on the slope above. A chase of half a mile had seen the truant return to the road, and Willets was skirting the edge of the bank some distance in advance of the drove in search of a safe place to descend, when in the middle of the narrow road he saw a lovely girl. The drove was thundering down on her, and promising to soon crush her young life out beneath their ponderous weight. Escape for the girl seemed impossible. From the road to where Willett's horse stood was a wall of rock full twenty feet in height, and below to the bed of the stream was a sheer descent of double distance. For only a second was the horseman inactive. Then with the speed born of long practice he lifted his trusty rawhide riata from the horn of his saddle and threw it. "Put that under your arms Miss," was Willett's hasty injunction. It was obeyed, and not a moment too soon the girl was lifted above the heads and horns of the oncoming cattle.

When they were well by Willetts slowly slacked down until his "catch" dropped softly to the earth. Five minutes later, when he managed to find a pathway down and reached the subject of his daring bit of horsemanship, she was lying in the dust in a faint. When she recovered he learned that she too was from Boston, and with her father and mother was spending the summer amid California's most favored spots. The old gentleman, her father, was highly delighted when he learned of Willetts' identity, as he soon did. "His daughter foolishly placed a high value on my little service," explained Willetts, blushing, "and when I saw how she had overestimated it I meanly demanded the largest reward I could think of. The details were settled yesterday, and I came up by the evening train to fit myself for her society. She swears that I look like an angel in my woolen shirt and buckskin trousers, but I will try and get her used to me in civilized garb, for a vaquero's dress is hardly the thing for æsthetic Boston."

"Are you going back?"

"Yes, in September. We shall tour Yosemite as man and wife, and then go back home. My father-in-law says that my father has long been anxious to have me come home, and that he will set me up if the old gentleman doesn't, so I think I had better go."—San Francisco Alta.

His Pride Was All Gone.

The following details an actual occurrence in a Massachusetts city near Boston. He was a new convert in the ranks of the Salvation army, and was one of the loudest shouters in the meetings which were, and still are, being held. He was telling what religion had done for him, and after enumerating various sins of which he had been purged he came to the matter of pride.

"Before I joined the army," said he, "I was as proud as any of you sinners in the back part of the hall. But now my pride is all gone; there hain't none of it left; not a bit of it. There hain't a more humble man than me here tonight.

"Perhaps you don't take any stock in what I say," continued the humble convert, "but it's true, every word of it. To show you that my pride is all gone, I'll go right down from this platform and kiss that poor old nigger woman in the front seat."

True to his word, the convert started for the front seat, but before he had reached the floor both he and the audience had become motionless. Old aunty had slowly arisen. Her eyes glowed with indignation at the blatant insult which had been put upon her. The convert who would have ventured to kiss her in that mood might not have had pride, but would have required a large amount of nerve.

In a shrill voice she exclaimed: "Keep away from dyere; is if you hab got no pride, why t'ank the good Lor,' I hab, and you won't do none o' your kissin' roun' here."

As the humble recruit slunk back on the stage, she said: "You ought to be 'shamed ob yusself, you old hypocrite," and the audience applauded the sentiment as aunty took her seat.—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

In Too Much Haste.

"Father has failed, you know, George," said Clara, looking up into his eyes, "and——"

"No, I didn't know it," replied George emphatically, at the same time rapidly disentangling himself and looking about for his hat. "You will have to excuse——"

"Yes," went on the girl, "father has failed and has settled with his creditors at seven cents on the dol——"

"Nay, dearest," interrupted George passionately, as he resumed his former position, "why discuss such sordid business matters on a night like this? Let us speak of love, and the happiness the future has in store for both of us."—N. Y. Sun.

"Laugh and Grow Fat,"

Is a precept easily preached, but not so easy to practice. If a person has no appetite, but a distressing nausea, sick-headache, dyspepsia, boils, or any other ill resulting from inaction of the bowels, it is impossible to get up such a laugh as will produce aldermanic corpulence. In order to laugh satisfactorily you must be well, and to be well you must have your bowels in good order. You can do this and laugh heartily with Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," the little regulators of the liver and bowels and best promoter of jollity.

SKIN AND BLOOD

Diseases from Pimples to Scrofula Cured by Cuticura.

Hundreds of letters in our possession, copies of which may be had by return of mail, repeat this story:—I have been a terrible sufferer for years from Diseases of the Skin and Blood; have been disfigured to almost public places by reason of my disfiguring humors; have had the best physicians; have spent hundreds of dollars, and got no relief until I used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, which have cured me, and left my skin and blood as pure as a child's.

COVERED WITH SALT RHEUM.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are the greatest medicines on earth. Had the worst case of Salt Rheum in this country. My mother had it twenty years, and in fact died from it. I believe CUTICURA would have saved her life. My arms, breast and head were covered for three years, which nothing relieved or cured until I used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, externally. J. W. ADAMS. NEWARK, O.

HEAD, FACE AND BODY RAW.

I commenced to use your CUTICUTA REMEDIES last July. My head and face and some parts of my body were almost raw. My head was covered with scabs and sores, and my suffering was fearful. I had tried everything I had heard of in the East and West. My case was considered a very bad one. I have now not a particle of Skin Humor about me, and my case is considered wonderful. MRS. S. E. WHIPPLE. DECATUR, MICH.

ECZEMA FROM HEAD TO FEET.

Charles Eayre Hinkle, Jersey City Heights, N. J., writes: "My son, a lad of twelve years, was completely cured of a terrible case of Eczema by the CUTICURA REMEDIES. From the top of his head to the soles of his feet was one mass of scabs." Every other remedy and physicians had been tried in vain.

NOTHING LIKE CUTICURA.

The half has not been told as to the great curative powers of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, I have spended hundreds of dollars for cures for cure diseases of the blood and skin, and never found anything yet to equal the CUTICURA REMEDIES. PROVENCE, R.I. CHAS. A. WILLIAMS.

Dyspepsia.

GENTS:—I feel it my duty to say respecting Burdock Blood Bitters, that it is the best medicine I ever took. I suffered two or three years from stomach troubles and dyspepsia as well as from liver and kidney complaint. I was not able to attend to my business. My wife was afflicted in much the same way. We read of your Bitters in the papers and made up our minds that we would try them. The result is my wife and I began to improve at once, and I am now able to do more hard work than before in ten years. It relieved my kidney troubles as well. We both wish you, the makers of it, Godspeed.

RAMBLES ABOUT PORTSMOUTH

For Sale by LEWIS W. BREWSTER, at the Portsmouth Journal Office

It is said of an old physician in Philadelphia, when called upon to prescribe for a cough or cold, that he invariably refuses to do so, but recommends his patients to take Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

In Salt Lake, Utah, Oct. 13th, a man named Hopt was sentenced for the fourth time, for murder in the first degree. He will be shot on Nov. 24th. Andrew Smith, Emil Olsen, and John Nicholson, editor of the Deseret News, were sentenced to six months in the penitentiary and to pay a fine of $300 each, for unlawful cohabitation, all having refused to pledge obedience to the law.

It is foolish to suppose that coughs cease when warm weather comes. Often a summer cold is worse than one in winter. So that a purely vegetable remedy like Red Star Cough Cure is necessary in the household at all times.

The directors of the Munster (Ireland) bank, which failed some time ago, on the 14th inst. announced that on Monday, the 19th, they would open the head office of the institution in Cork, two branches in Dublin, and branches in Limerick and other towns.

The Best Internal Remedy.

Brandreth's Pills, the best medicine known for all diseases. They are purely vegetable. The same dose always produces the same effect; other purgatives require increased doses, and finally cease acting. They purify the blood. They invigorate the digestion and cleanse the stomach and bowels. They stimulate the liver and carry off vitiated bile and other depraved secretions. The first two or three doses tells the story. The skin becomes clear; the eye, bright; the mind, active; digestion is restored; costiveness cured; the animal vigor is recruited, and all decay arrested.

The trade in patent medicines, the Boston Globe states, amounts to about $22,-600,000 per annum, and of this $10,000,-000 a year is spent in adverising. There are 5,000 kinds in the market.

The First Keen Twinge.

As the season advances, the pains and aches by which rheumatism makes itself known, are experienced after every exposure. It is not claimed that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a specific for rheumatism—we doubt if there is, or can be, such a remedy. But the thousands benefited by Hood's Sarsapasilla, warrant us in urging others who suffer from rheumatism to take it before the first keen twinge.

State Teachers' Association.

The 32d annual meeting of the New Hampshire State Teacher's Association will be held in Concord, Nov. 6th and 7th.

Among the papers which will be read are the following: "Motives in education," by D. P. Dame, principal of the Littleton high school; "Language in the grammar school," by Lemuel S. Hastings, principal of the Claremont high school; "English Grammar in the high school," by John Pickard, principal of the Portsmouth high school; "Language in the common school," by W. E. Buck, superintendent of schools, Manchester; discussion by Channing Folsom, superintendent of schools, Dover; "Elementary instruction," by Walter Q. Scott, D. D., principal of Phillips Academy, Exeter; "Recent legislation," by Hon. J. W. Patterson, superintendent of public instruction; "Chemistry in the high school," by Edward R. Goodwin, principal of the Manchester high school.

Teachers, school officers and all friends of education are cordially invited to attend these meetings, and take part in the exercises.

Tickets to Concord and return at two cents a mile will be sold by the Concord & Portsmouth railroad. Charges to persons attending the convention, at the Concord hotels, will be, at the Eagle and the Phenix, $2 per day; at the American, $1 to $1.50 per day.

New Hampshire Odd Fellows.

At the annual session of the New Hampshire Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., in Nashua on the 14th inst., about one hundred members of the order took the grand lodge degree, and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Charles A. Jewell of Plymouth, grand master;

John A. Gledden of Dover, deputy grand master;

William O. Folsom of Henniker, grand warden;

Joseph Kidder of Manchester, grand secretary;

Robert C. Fernald of Salmon Falls, grand chaplain;

Hermon F. Dane of Nashua, grand marshal;

Lewis Malvin of Laconia, grand representative.

The location of the contemplated orphan home will be decided by the incorporators. The order is in a flourishing condition in New Hampshire.

"Josh Billings" Dead.

Henry W. Shaw, who was born in Massachusetts sixty-five years ago, and as won fame and wealth by his writings and lectures as "Josh Billings," died very suddenly at 9:45 o'clock A. M. on the 14th inst., of apoplexy, while sitting in a chair in the Hotel Del Monte at Monterey, Cal. He was a man of pure life, devotedly attached to his home and family, and practiced the morality which he taught in homely guise. Many of his "proverbs" contained whole sermons and essays in a dozen words, and he will be remembered as a wise philosopher as well as a genial humorist.

Carrie Swain appeared last night in her new comedy-drama, "Cad, the Tom-boy." The comedy is admirably adapted to display the varied talent of Miss Swain, who is the life and soul of the piece. As the "Tom-boy" she made a decided hit, and received a most enthusiastic reception from a delighted audience. She is an artist of unusual talent, and bids fair to stand unrivaled in her special line of comedy.—Fall River News.

At Music hall next Tuesday evening, 20th inst.

The lighthouse steamer Iris came up the river between three and four o'clock last Thursday afternoon, made a berth at the navy yard, laid there about fifteen minutes and then steamed off down river again. She has been taking the inspector of the first district on his quarterly tour of inspection.

Among the divorces decreed at the late term of the supreme judicial court of Maine at Alfred, was that of Addie L. Tetherley of Eliot from Charles C. Tetherly, for non-support.

THE WEATHER.

For New England to-day:—

Slightly warmer, generally fair weather, winds southerly and westerly.

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, indicated 44 degrees above zero.

Clear.

COLLECTOR PAGE.

A despatch of the 15th inst., from Washington, says:

The president to-day appointed Calvin Page of Portsmouth to be collector of internal revenue for the district of New Hampshire.

"BIRDS OF A FEATHER."

Fred Williams' "Birds of a Feather" gave an excellent entertainment at Franklin theatre on Thursday evening. There is a lot of fun in the piece, and the company makes the most of it. The price of admission is next to nothing, and the company will play again to-night.

ROWDYISM.

We are informed that there was a disgraceful exhibition of ruffianism while the salvation army was parading Thursday evening, a convert who was marching in the ranks being pelted with mud, a cornet knocked from the hand of one of the warriors, and the army in other ways persecuted. It is to be hoped that the scoundrelly perpetrators of these outrages will be brought to justice, and taught that the salvation army have the same right as other people to protection by the law.

LUCKY SPORTSMEN.

Officers Edward Watkins and Thomas Leary went to Greenland on a gunning excursion, Thursday, and pretty nearly paralyzed the rest of the force with the quantity of game they displayed when they got back, viz., thirty-one gray squirrels, three flying squirrels, nine partridges, two woodcock and a brown bittern. Mr. Watkins is an old gunner, and always brings back a full bag; but Mr. Leary has only commenced shooting this season, and the other officers have been accustomed to scoff at his skill, alleging that he would never learn to shoot well enough to hit one out of a flock of barns on the wing, or anything smaller than a cow on the ground. They will never scoff any more, a full half of Thursday's take having been his.

THE TENDER PASSION.

A young fellow about twenty years old, said to be the son of wealthy parents in Taunton, Mass., who has been following the "Ten Nights in a Bar-room" company from city to city, being deseperately in love with one of the actresses of the company, was detained in this city on the morning of the 15th inst. on a despatch from his father, and went back to Massachusetts in the afternoon in company with an officer who arrived from Taunton. The young man is said to have had plenty of money, and paid his way liberally wherever the company went.

INSTALLATION.

Rev. C. D. Hainer was installed as pastor of the Court street Christian church on Thursday evening, the order of exercises being as follows:

Voluntary on the organ; anthem, by a quartette; invocation, Rev. J. D. Waldron; reading of scriptures, Rev. E. E. Colburn of Kittery; anthem; prayer by Rev. Mr. Phillips of Rye; reading of hymn, Rev. C. R. Crossett; sermon, Rev. W. A. McGinley; reading of hymn, Rev. O. H. Jasper; installation prayer, Rev. H. J. Rhodes of Manchester; charge to the pastor, Rev. W. H. Alden, D. D.; right hand of welcome, Rev. Alfred Gooding; charge to the pastor, Rev. John A. Goss; doxology; benediction, by the pastor.

Between ten and eleven o'clock at night on the 14th inst. a barn near Greenland parade, belonging to Mr. Theodore Packer, was destroyed by fire, with its contents, including a couple of tons of salt hay, some corn fodder, a horse rake, sled, etc., the total loss being about $350, with $100 insurance. The fire is supposed to have been incendiary.

The company ("Birds of a Feather") now playing at Franklin theatre was the first to introduce the "people's prices" of theatrical entertainments in this city; and both the company and the play are much improved over what they were last year, though they were then good. This evening there will be considerable changes in the performance, from last night.

The report of the receiver of the Portland & Ogdensburg railroad for the second quarter of 1885 was filed in the office of the clerk of the Circuit court in this city on Thursday. The net earnings for April, May and June were $27,173.82.

The Penny Post, through a correspondent, says we are "an officer of the Granite State Ins. Co." Mistakes will occur, in spite of every care; only a few days ago we referred to the Penny Post as one of our democratic exchanges! That makes the blunders about even.

Mr. John W. Stott was called upon on the morning of the 15th inst., just half an hour after midnight, by a young gentleman who proposes to reside with him in future. It would take just ten such individuals as the new boarder to weigh a hundred pounds.

Mr. Fred Tebbets of Salem, Mass., representing the daily Telegram of that city, the Associated Press, and the Boston Advertiser and Record, gave us a pleasant call Thursday forenoon. Mr. Tebbets is a Portsmouth man, having been born on Christian Shore, but his last previous visit here was on the "reunion of the sons" in '73; he sees many noticeable changes, and thinks them all improvements.

During this fine autumnal weather, despite the lateness of the season, considerable boat sailing is indulged in.

The schooners Lillie, J. Chester Wood, G. W. Raitt, Estella, Triton and D. K. Ham, brick laden, sailed for Boston on the 15th inst.; and the Gold Hunter and Hattie Lewis arrived from Boston, light, and went up river to load.

Messrs. Andrew P. Wendell, Samuel W. Moses and Charles S. Prescott were on Thursday evening drawn as jurymen from ward two to serve at the October term of the supreme court

The attention of the ladies is called to the fall and winter opening of millinery at Mrs. J. M. Tebbetts', No. 14 Market street, to-morrow.

You can have a very pleasant evening's entertainment at Franklin theatre to-night, for a trifle; the Birds of a Feather are good.

The commission of Hon. J. S. H. Fribk as attorney for the United States, district of New Hampshire, was received on Thursday, and Mr. Frink took the oath of office before Col. William H. Hackett, clerk of the Circuit court of the United States.

The schooner W. H. Y. Hackett, Nickerson master, formerly of this port, arrived at Boston on the 14th inst. from a fishing trip to Labrador.

Terribly Shaken

As the system is by fever and ague, and obstinate as that malady is, nevertheless Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will repair the damage that it does to the constitution, and eradicate every trace of it. Used as a means of prevention, it invariably proves effectual. The most malignant forms of malarial disease prevalent in the tropics, the dreaded calenturra of the Guatemalan coast, the Chagres fever, and other types of miasmatic maladies, yield to and are prevented by it. Not only should it be used on the first symptom of a chill, but all persons residing in localities where malarial infection exists in air and water, should take it as a safeguard. It is an incomparable remedy for disorders of the stomach and bowels, for rheumatism, inactivity of the bladder and kidneys, and for debility and bilious ailments.

A man named Bancke, who recently landed in New York from Switzerland, and was detained by the officers under suspicion that he had been released from prison in Switzerland on condition of his emigrating to America, has sued the collector of the port for $50,000 damages. It turned out that though he was pardoned out of prison, the pardon was unconditional.

For earache, toothache, sore throat, swelled neck, and the result of cold and inflammation, use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil—the great pain destroyer.

The Roman Catholic cathedral in Hartford, Conn., has cost $200,000 so far, and it will take $300,000 more to complete it.

Elopement.

The elopement of J. B. Fletcher, proprietor of the Washington Avenue hotel in Haverhill, Mass., with Mrs. Esther E. Keayes, wife of the former proprietor, has caused an excitement in Haverhill. The furniture of the hotel is said to be heavily mortgaged, and it is alleged that numerous unpaid bills are left behind. A. L. Keayes, the injured husband, said to a reporter that he had not lived with his wife for some time, having detected her improprieties seven or eight months ago, and that she had of late occupied the position of housekeeper of the hotel for Mr. Fletcher.

"Histories make men wise, Poets witty." But what in the world does a man want either when he has sprained his ankle. No sir, not these, not these! Give him but one bottle of Salvation Oil. The greatest cure on earth for pain.

Brewer, Me., is shipping brick to Newfoundland and Hayti.

Try Carter's Little Nerve Pills for any case of nervousness, sleeplessness, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia, etc., relief is sure. The only nerve medicine for the price in market. In vials at 25 cents.

In Walla Walla, Washington territory, may be seen eighty miles of continuous wheat fields along the foot-hills of the Blue Mountains.

Catarrh is a constitutional disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a constitutional remedy. It cures catarrh. Give it a trial.

What Parents Fear.

Many persons—especially parents—object to many quack nostrums as likely to engender or encourage a love for strong drink. They are right. Better die of disease than of drunkenness. The use of Parker's Tonic does not involve this danger. It not only builds up the system, curing all ailments of the stomach, liver and kidneys, but it stimulates without intoxicating and absolutely cures the appetite for liquor.

The wife of Captain John F. Critchett hanged herself at Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 13th. She was forty-two years old, and had been subject to fits of insanity.

The action of Carter's Little Liver Pills is pleasant, mild and natural. They gently stimulate the liver, and regulate the bowels, but do not purge. They are sure to please.

It is said that 955 farms in Iowa are owned by women, and that twenty dairy farms are managed by women.

The Great American Chorus.

Sneezing, snuffing and coughing! This is the music all over the land just now. And will be until June. "I've got such an awful cold in my head." Cure it with Ely's Cream Balm or it may end in the toughest form of Catarrh. Maybe you have Catarrh now Nothing is more nauseous and dreadful. This remedy masters it as no other ever did. Not a snuff nor a liquid. Applied by the finger to the nostrils. Pleasant, certain, radical.

A meeting of citizens at Portland, Me., was held Oct. 13th to consider the best plan for securing the city's control of the Portland and Ogdensburg railroad. A resolution was adopted in favor of a foreclosure rather than voluntary organization.

I Don't Want a Doctor!

WHIPPING A MAD BULL.

Farmer Post's Successful Fight With His Valuable Beast.

Abram Post, of Elderville, Pa., owns a blooded bull, which has long been an object of terror to all employed on the farm, owing to its fierce and aggressive disposition. This bull had always been under the control of its owner, who declared that, so long as any one stood up boldly against the animal, no fear of its attacking him need be entertained. He urged this upon his hired help, but he never could employ any man who would not put himself in a safe place as soon as the bull assumed a belligerent attitude, and Post's wife frequently appealed to him to have the animal killed, believing that, sooner or later, it would rebel against the authority of her husband, and attack him. The beast was too valuable an animal to be sacrificed, and Post, ridiculing the idea that the bull could master him, refused to part with it.

On Thursday evening Post had finished milking a cow in the barnyard, and was returning to the house when he noticed that the bull, which was in the yard, shook his head savagely as he passed by it, and had an unusually vicious look in its eyes. Post passed on, paying no attention to the animal. He had gone only a short distance when he heard a quick step behind him and a low bellowing which he knew was made by the bull. He turned quickly and saw the animal bearing down upon him. He grasped the bull with one hand by the horns hoping to prevent it from goring him, and the next instant he was tossed in the air. He fell on the bull's head and neck, and was tossed the second time, this time being thrown to the opposite side of the barnyard fence. He was badly bruised and his clothing was torn by rough handling he had received, but believing that if he allowed the bull to remain master of the field its usefulness would be gone and its killing a necessity, Post determined to assume the offensive himself and use every effort to conquer the savage animal. He is a large and muscular man, and, arming himself with a heavy club, he jumped over the fence and advanced boldly upon the bull, which was pawing the ground and bellowing furiously. The moment it saw Post in the yard it plunged at him with horns lowered. Post met the bull with a terrific blow with the club across the forehead. The heavy wood was broken to pieces, but the blow had no effect upon the animal except to increase its fury. The bull pressed upon the farmer, who jumped aside and caught it by one horn and one ear, and endeavored to keep its head turned away. He was thrown from side to side and his hold broken. The bull caught him on his horns and once more tossed him in the air, this time throwing him over the fence into an adjoining field. The maddened animal charged against the fence and endeavored to knock down the barrier between it and the object of its rage.

Still the farmer was undismayed, and, entering his barn, he armed himself with a heavy three-tined pitchfork and returned once more to the barnyard. The bull rushed again to the attack. Post stood his ground and thrust the sharp tines of the fork into the bull's nose, supposing that the acute pain caused by the stabbing would force the animal to turn back and make it more cautious. In this he was mistaken. The animal rushed on, and was forcing him against the fence, where he would have been crushed to death in a moment. To prevent this, Post threw himself forward, and, the bull's head being lowered to the ground, jumped astride the animal's neck. A few plunges by the bull threw him from that position, and he fell on the ground close by. Fortunately he retained his hold upon the fork, and, rising quickly to his feet, he thrust the tines again and again into the animal's side and neck. The blood spurted from every wound made by the fork, and the bull bellowed with pain and redoubled its efforts to catch the farmer on its horns, but his desperate situation served to nerve him to greater activity, and the beast failed in all its efforts. Post continued his assaults with the pitchfork as he jumped from side to side to avoid the charges of the bull until both sides of the animal were dripping blood from neck to flanks. The bull continued the contest for a few minutes, and then turned and ran to the other side of the barnyard, bellowing with pain.

Post did not move away for some time, and then went to his house. He was covered with blood, almost naked, and dripping with perspiration. He washed himself, rested a moment, and then, against the earnest protest of his wife, went back to the barnyard. He found the bull standing in one corner of the yard. Post walked briskly up to the animal, and it cowed at his approach and stood trembling in fear. The beast was completely mastered, and walked sullenly into the barn at Post's command. On the farmer's return to the house he found that his own injuries were greater than he had supposed, and he is now confined to his bed under a doctor's care.

Grant's Cigar Stumps.

General Grant, when President, used to walk out every evening for a smoke. Just at dusk he would come out of the north gate of the White House alone, with a cigar in his mouth, his head bent down just a little, and his left hand behind him holding a cane. That was his favorite attitude, and the striking figure was familiar to everybody. The hackmen on the streets would take off their hats as he went by and he always returned their salutes. He would walk down past the Treasury Department, down Fifteenth to the avenue; thence past Willard's, past the National Theater, and up Thirteenth toward New York avenue. All the newsboys, bootblacks, and street arabs generally, knew him and would follow him in his walk, waiting for him to throw his cigar stumps away. There was always a scramble after his stumps, either because they were better than those ordinarily found or because he had smoked them, and there was some dignity attached to smoking after him. The urchin who got the stump would put it between his lips and stand with his back up against the door post of the National "peanut gallery," with his thumbs in the armholes of his vest, and puff away with a dignity that was the envy of all his admiring associates. One day the General turned to two little urchins who had been following him for several squares, watching his cigar very eagerly, and asked them what he could do for them.

"Pleesh, mishter," one of them replied, snatching his ragged cap off and holding it with both hands in front of him, while his companion got close behind; "pleesh, mishter, we only wants a smoke what the President hash had."

The General smiled good-humoredly, and taking an expensive cigar from his pocket—the only one he had left—he cut it in two and gave each of them half. The two little rascals ran off with their hearts in their throats, and for many weeks were held in awe and reverence by the whole of urchindom.—Washington Star.

"Shoot Polly as She Flies," —Pop.

Was the way it appeared in the proof-sli. The argus-eyed proof-reader, however, knew the quotation intended and changed it to read: "Shoot Folly as she flies."—Pope. Of course it was an error, yet how many are daily commituing much graver errors by allowing the first symptoms of consumption to go unheeded. If afflicted with loss of appetite, chilly sensations, or hacking cough, it is suicidal to delay a single moment the use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery,"—the great and only reliable remedy yet known for this terribly fatal malady. Send two letter stamps for Dr. Pierce's complete treatise on this disease. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

SKIN AND BLOOD

Diseases from Pimples to Scrofula Cured by Cuticura.

Hundreds of letters in our possession, copies of which may be had by return of mail, repeat this story:—I have been a terrible sufferer for years from Diseases of the Skin and Blood; have been obliged to shun public places by reason of my disfiguring humors; have had the best physicians; have spent hundreds of dollars, and got no relief until I used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, which have cured me, and left my skin and blood as pure as a child's.

COVERED WITH SALT RHEUM.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are the greatest medicines on earth. Had the worst case of Salt Rheum in this country. My mother had it twenty years, and in fact died from it. I believe CUTICURA would have saved her life. My arms, breast, and head were covered for three years, which nothing relieved or cured until I used the CUTICURA REMEDIES. Internally, and CUTICURA SOAP, externally. J. W. ADAMS. NEWARK, O.

HEAD, FACE AND BODY RAW.

I commenced to use your CUTICURA REMEDIES last July. My head and face and some parts of my body were almost raw. My head was covered with scabs and sores, and my suffering was fearful. I had tried everything I had heard of in the East and West. My case was considered a very bad one. I have now not a particle of Skin Humor about me, and my case is considered wonderful. MRS. S. E. WHIPPLE. DECATUR, MICH.

ECZEMA FROM HEAD TO FEET.

Charles Eayre Hinkle, Jersey City Heights, N. J., writes: "My son, a lad of twelve years, was completely cured of a terrible case of Eczema by the CUTICURA REMEDIES. From the top of his head to the soles of his feet was one mass of scabs." Every other remedy and physicians had been tried in vain.

NOTHING LIKE CUTICURA.

The half has not been told as to the great curative powers of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, I have paid hundreds of dollars for medicines to cure diseases of the blood and skin, and never found anything yet to equal the CUTICURA REMEDIES. PROVIDENCE, R. I. CHAS. A. WILLIAMS.

Read what the people say concerning the ability of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil to cure asthma, catarrh, croup, colds, etc. Mrs. Dora Koch of Buffalo, says: "For croup it is decidedly efficacious." [Mrs. Jacob Mellisor of Marion, Ohio, says the same thing.] S. S. Graves, Akron, N. Y., writes: "Had asthma of the worst kind, took one dose of Thomas' Eclectric Oil and was relieved in a few minutes. Would walk five miles for this medicine and pay $5 a bottle for it." Druggist C. R. Hall, Grayville, Ill., says: "Cured an ulcerated throat for me in twenty-four hours." "Sat up in bed and coughed till the clothing was wet with perspiration. My wife insisted that I use Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The first teaspoonful relieved me." E. H. Perkins, Creek Centre, N. Y., Thomas' Eclectric Oil is also a Tiger external application for rheumatism, cuts, scalds, burns, bites, bruises, etc. When visiting the druggist, ask him what he knows of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil; if he has been long in the drug trade, he sure he will speak highly of it.

Curious Wonders.

The Best Internal Remedy.

Brandreth's Pills, the best medicine known for all diseases. They are purely vegetable. The same dose always produces the same effect; other purgatives require increased doses, and finally cease acting. They purify the blood. They invigorate the digestion and cleanse the stomach and bowels. They stimulate the liver and carry off vitiated bile and other depraved secretions. The first two or three doses tells the story. The skin becomes clear; the eye, bright; the mind, active; digestion is restored; costiveness cured; the animal vigor is recruited, and all decay arrested.

After Diphtheria.

Diphtheria is a terrible disease, requiring the greatest medical skill to effect a complete cure. Even when its power is broken, it clings to the patient with great persistency, and often leaves the system poisoned and prostrated. Insurance.

Mr. Editor: The last legislature of New Hampshire passed sundry regulations in reference to companies out of the state and doing insurance business here. The two prominent features of the bill are—what is called the "valued policy," or insistance upon the payment of the entire sum mentioned in the contract, and the denial of any right of appeal from the courts of this state. In consequence of this law, all foreign companies have withdrawn their agencies and refuse to issue any policies or to make any insurance on individual application, even if all the conditions of the new law be waived and an agreement entered into to abide by the decisions of the foreign court.

The New Hampshire commissioner of insurance says that no company in the state, however much they may be multiplied, can cover more than one-sixteenth of the outstanding risks. This law takes effect on the first day of January next, and probably no one would be surprised if the foreign companies should cancel all their outstanding policies at that date. This leaves us in an undesirable position, and the evils of the same are beginning to show themselves in the difficulty of borrowing at savings banks or elsewhere on mortgage upon improved real estate.

What the outcome will be, no one can foretell, and some "personality," if such a word be here applicable, now enters into the subject, as it is said to be beneath the dignity of the state to repeal a law which will soon be the cause of untold losses to the citizens. Numerous suggestions for an extra session of the legislature have been made, and would doubtless be listened to were it not for that personal feeling above referred to, so that matter will probably be deferred till consequences compel action.

That the existing forms of insurance policies often cause injustice to the insured, cannot, I suppose, be denied, but the question resolves itself into total loss or partial loss, even if the latter has in it an element of unfairness. Thus we stand to-day, and must wait developments with natural anxiety.

Our legisiative sessions are biennial, so that no change can be made until June, 1877, unless by an extra session, but certainly among sensible men and business men the same principle can be made effectual, upon which nine-tenths of all our legislation and all our private actions depend, when there is a difference of opinion, namely, an honest and honorable compromise which carries with it more dignity than stubborn adherence to an expressed opinion. H.

Cardinal McCloskey's Funeral.

The funeral services of the late Cardinal McCloskey were performed in the Cathedral in the city of New York on Thursday, with all the pomp which the Roman Catholic church observes upon such occasions. And this was supplemented by the heartfelt sorrow of the Catholic community, and as well by the sincere mourning of that portion of the Protestant public which had known the work and worth of the distinguished prelate. The sermon of Archbishop Gibbons, of Baltimore, appears to have been an able and touching tribute to the late cardinal, while it enforced the duty of all to emulate his zeal and self-sacrifice. The late cardinal was the first of his rank in America. Pope Pius IX. recognized the growth of Catholicism in the United States, and the church in its first appointment of cardinal in the Western World made choice of one who approved himself not only Catholic, but catholic in his spirit and devotion to the wants of humanity.

JAMES M. CARR.

The death of Mr. James M. Carr creates another vacancy in the ranks of the sterling merchants who were conducting the business of the city half a century ago, and of whom but very few now remain. He was in business on Market street just fifty years, having in company with Mr. Aaron H. Hill purchased in September, 1835, the store and stock in trade of Elisha C. Crane; and for forty-two years he did business under one roof. Since 1876 he has been in business alone, the firm of Hill & Carr having been dissolved by the financial trouble of that year, he resuming trade in the old locality after the partial settlement of affairs. His cheerful and pleasant disposition, and high repute as a merchant, drew to him about all the patronage of the former firm; and so marked was his prosperity that he was enabled to—and did—cancel many of the claims against the old firm, though no legal claim demanded it. He was one of the most kind hearted and pleasant of men; employes grew gray in his service, and still kept on, not thinking of a change; he had no unkind words for any person. He was an active worker in and generous contributor to the Universalist church, and for thirty-four years was the superintendent of its Sunday school; he was also at one time a prominent Odd Fellow, being one of the oldest members of Piscataqua Lodge. He leaves to his widow and children a most pleasant memory.

VISIT TO THE COUNTY FARM.

By invitation of County Commissioner Newton Johnston a party consisting of Aldermen Edw. D. Coffin, Hiram F. Williams, Horace Hatch and Oliver H. Cook, City Messenger Gardner and Chief Engineer Marden, on the 14th inst. visited the county farm at Brentwood, where they met other commissioners and enough invited guests to bring the entire party up to about twenty in number, and found everything in excellent condition. The farm is in a high state of cultivation, 3000 bushels of potatoes having been raised this year, besides large quantities of other vegetables, and grain. The house and other buildings are scrupulously clean and well ordered, and there were but few prisoners in the lockup. The school, of about a score of bright-looking children, is in charge of a competent lady teacher. After a thorough inspection of the buildings and grounds, and being hospitably entertained, the party returned to this city, unanimous in the opinion that the institution is a credit to the county, and especially to the board of county commissioners and the superintendent and matron of the farm.

WASHINGTON BOSH.

A Washington despatch to the Boston Journal says:

There is some curious gossip caused by the appointment of Calvin Page, formerly mayor of Portsmouth, collector of internal revenue for New Hampshire. It appears that he has long been the counsel for the leading brewers of New Hampshire, has had charge of many cases where his clients were charged with violation of internal revenue laws, and that his strongest supporters were his former clients.

All bosh. The brewers of Portsmouth, as every one knows, pay their taxes on products by stamps on their ale barrels, and the stamps are paid for in cash when taken from the collector's office. Mr. Page has been counsel for Messrs. Jones and Eldredge, and for aught we know for the Portsmouth Brewing Co., but this was in general matters. No one hereabouts has ever heard of any "cases" before the internal revenue bureau against these clients. If there have been such, the incoming collector, had he been counsel, might have acquired a knowledge of the rules of the bureau and the law in such cases which would perhaps have been of service to the government and made him all the more efficient as a public servant.

As far as exercising any discretionary power favorable to a brewer or distiller, the collector has no opportunity whatever. The safeguards which protect the people in this respect are as numerous and efficient as are the varied methods by which every dollar collected is reported, deposited in bank, and placed ultimately in the treasury of the United States.

Calvin L. Hayes, Esq., of Kittery, late chief clerk in the equipment department at the navy yard, has been "required" as a first-class rigger, and again gone to work on the yard. Now, when it comes to managing school affairs, or saying something neat and pleasing when called on by the chairman at a society or social gathering, Calvin is "all there;" but if we had to trust to footropes of his fitting when laying out on the weather yardarm to reef down the maintopsail in a midnight gale in the Indian ocean, our head would be grey next morning; and we have no doubt that the deadeye turned in by him would be a natural curiosity far surpassing Jumbo and the sea serpent. However, we guess it is all right, as we understand he will be employed at the books, where he is perfectly at home, instead of being set to fooling around shrouds and ratlines, where all he would manage to do would be to jab the marlinespike into the palm of his hand.

Mr. Benjamin J. Lake, while at work alongside the U. S. S. Vandalia one day this week, painting, received an ugly thump on the forehead from the head of a topmaul, which flew off the handle in the hands of a carpenter. He was however able to go to work again next day.

The hours for work at the navy yard are now from 7:30 to noon and from one o'clock to 4:30, instead of from eight to twelve and from one to five as heretofore; the winter arrangement went into effect on the 14th inst.

Nine riggers and four sailmakers were taken on at the navy yard on the 14th, and fifteen caulkers were discharged on the 15th.

The Casino will be open Monday and Saturday evenings hereafter, instead of Monday and Thursday.

Opening of fall and winter millinery at Mrs. J. M. Tebbetts' to-day.

The Birds of a Feather close their engagement at Franklin theatre to-day, with entertainments afternoon and evening. Admission only 10 and 20 cts.

THE STEAM GONG.

The superintendent of the fire alarm will test the new steam gong, on Monday evening at 8:15, by pulling in box 26. The whistle at Eldredge's brewery and the steam gong will blow together the number of the box four times, the object being to hear them together as well as test the efficiency of the alarm at the south part of the city. The firemen are requested not to respond unless the number is struck at other hours than as above.

It is coming winter and the Holidays will soon be here, and the attention of all Advertisers is called to the

New Hampshire Gazette !

As an advertising medium it presents an excellent opportunity for a weekly issue to customers, at a reasonable rate, and all those who desire to reach customers in York county, Me., or in New Hampshire, will find it an economical medium. THE GAZETTE is in many instances the only paper taken by families, and it is read to a large extent in localities whence is derived much of the trade of Portsmouth, a fact which our merchants and out-of-town advertisers should bear in mind. Having a thorough knowledge of the business gained in the principal cities of the Union and still giving my personal attention, all will be satisfied who will give me a call, as to quality of work and prices.

PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,

No. 46 State St., opposite Kilby St., Boston.

Secures Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington. No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions. R. H. EDDY, Solicitor of Patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them as early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 10, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1860, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.
Boston, January 1, 1875. eodly

I had the rheumatism in my knees and hips so badly that I could not walk. I have taken four bottles of Athlophoros, and am perfectly cured, doing all the housework, with not a particle of rheumatism about me. Mrs. Harriet Strong, Westville, Ct.

Mr. Charles A. C. Gray lost one of the fingers of his right hand in a planer at the cooper's shop at the Jones brewery on Tuesday of this week.

That Dirty Dandruff.

Dandruff is dirty and disagreeable in every way. It soils the clothing continually, and is accompanied by a hardly less annoying sensation of itching. The scalp is diseased. There is nothing in the world so thoroughly adapted to this trouble as Parker's Hair Balsam. It cleanses and heals the scalp, stops the falling hair and restores its original softness, gloss and color. Is not oily, highly perfumed, an elegant dressing. Very economical, as only a small occasional application keeps the hair in perfect condition.

Elvin Newton & Co., at Commercial wharf, are selling No. 1 Isles of Shoals mackerel at $3 per quarter-barrel, and $5 per half-barrel. They are, as is well known, the best in the market.

The first load of apples to be brought into market this season, came in Friday. The load, sixty bushels, was bought by the schooner Abbie H. Hodgman, at forty cents a bushel in bulk.

The first installment ($6,000, minus the twenty per cent hold-back,) has been paid to the contractor for the big drain, on the civil engineer's certificate of work done.

Capt. Edwin M. Baker, formerly for a number of years master of the steamer Appledore, was in town on Friday. He has the past summer been engaged in yachting, in charge of the schooner yacht Frolic, of New York.

The Biddeford Journal says that the reports published to the effect that a race has been arranged between John May's stallion Pilot Knox and William Snell's brown gelding Jack Spratt, to come off in Portland, are nothing but rumors, as that paper is informed by the driver of Jack Spratt. No race has yet been arranged, and as things look now, although Snell would like to match his horse, none will take place this season. Pilot Knox's owner is not desirous of driving his horse any more this season.

Smallpox.

It is supposed that Edward Woodcock, aged forty years, who died at Sherborn, Mass., Oct. 13th, died of smallpox. The selectmen sent for Drs. Cook and Wright of Natick to investigate the case, and they advised the selectmen to send for physicians from the smallpox hospital at Boston. It is reported that the deceased had every appearance of a smallpox victim, although his case had been receiving treatment as a case of measles.

Every nervous person should try Carter's Little Nerve Pills. They are made specially for nervous and dyspeptic men and women, and are just the medicine needed by all persons who, from any cause, do not sleep well, or who fail to get proper strength from their food. Cases of weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia, nervous and sick headache, etc., readily yield to the use of the Little Nerve Pills, particularly if combined with Carter's Little Liver Pills. In vials at 25 cents.

The Providence Journal remarks: "The story that Secretaries Manning and Whitney are interested in the Bell Telephone company, and used their influence with the president to induce him to interfere with the suit against that corporation, is an interesting one, to say the least. It gives a color of probability to the rumor that Garland's relations with the cabinet are unpleasantly strained. However, we hope any extended argument was unnecessary to convince Mr. Cleveland of the impropriety of allowing the department of justice to furnish counsel for both the government and the Pan Electric company in a suit to try the validity of a patent in which the company is interested."

After using all the humbug liniments and salves with sure failure, go and get of your druggist a Hop Plaster. The strongest and best porous plaster ever made. Vastly superior to all other external remedies. The complete pain-allaying virtues of fresh hops combined with strengthening gums and Burgundy pitch. 25c.

Pearline. With this article, it is cl imed, the family washing can be done with ease, with economy and despatch, and as it is thoroughly disinfectant, it will be seen that whenever used the result is pure and healthful. As there are imitations of this in the market, be sure and get the genuine, manufactured only by James Pyle, New York.

For Sale by LEWIS W. BREWSTER, at the Portsmouth Journal Office

Salvation Oil, is what you want. It kills pain and cures the worst cases of rheumatism, neuralgia, sore throat, hoarseness, and headache. Take no "just as good." Price twenty-five cents a bottle.

At Springfield, Mass., Alonzo Payne has been held in $3000 for poisoning Sanford Marsh's cattle at Montague. In default he was committed to jail.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, and in this way positively cures catarrh.

Dennis O'Connor, superintendent of burials at Biddeford, is defendant in a suit in which he is charged with burying a body without shroud or coffin, and receiving pay for a coffin, a robe and full services.

Since last October I have suffered from acute inflammation in my nose and head—often in the night having to get up and inhale salt and water for relief. My eye has been, for a week at a time, so I could not see. I have used no end of remedies, also employed a doctor, who said it was impure blood—but I got no help. I used Ely's Cream Balm on the recommendation of a friend. I was faithless, but in a few days was cured. My nose now, and also my eye, is well. It is wonderful how quick it helped me. Mrs. Georgie S. Judson, Hartford, Conn. Easy to use. Price 50 cents.

A movement is on foot at Natick, Mass., to boycott the Chinese, who have been in that town two years.

What is the use!

Of buying worthless medicine, and spending money on quack doctors whose only idea is to gull the public. Is it not better to buy reliable medicine like Sulphur Bitters? I think so, as they cured me of Catarrh after suffering three years. —F. P. Clark, Manchester.

Why throw away so much hard-earned money trying worthless medicines, when for 35 cents a remedy can be procured that will cure coughs, colds, sore lungs and croup? Give it a trial. Adamson's Balsam will do it. Trial bottle ten cents.

Sea Twilight.

Cold falls the autumn eve on sand and shingle,
The breakers lift themselves with rush and roar,
And myriad ghostlike voices surge and mingle,
Along the lonely shore.

Hope has long since with summer hours abated,
And faith ebbs to and fro, like yonder tide,
And patient love, though she so long hath waited,
Is not yet glorified.

Oh, thou heart's dearest, take me, hide me, hold me
Close in the tranquil keeping of thy breast,
For storm and strife and stress of fears enfold me,
And the great sea's unrest.

MATTIE'S GOOD WORK.

"The doctor says he can not live more than a few days longer."

Mattie Colwell has been inquiring how it fared with Simon Hartright, the rich man of Upham, who lay wasting with a fatal illness. Not a young man, yet one who carried fifty-seven years as erectly as thirty, and who had borne promise of a long life before the fatal disease came suddenly to end his hope. In the "auld lang syne," which every man and woman past their first youth carry in their hearts, Simon Hartright had wooed pretty Mattie Colwell and won her love. Before their betrothal was six months old, when the lovers were driving out together, the horse had taken fright, run away and Mattie was thrown out and crippled for life. When this was an established fact the girl had bidden her lover farewell, and, refusing all his warm entreaties, had taken up the burden of her life alone. As years rolled by her infirmities had increased, until at 50 she was a feeble woman beside her strong, stalwart lover of her youth.

It had been one of the rare cases where love mellowed into life-long friendship, though Simon had married and lost his wife, and had one son living, estranged from his father, a son upon whom Mattie had poured out all the mother-love that ever woman hides in her heart.

But while sorrow, pain and loneliness had never hardened Mattie's heart, but left it at 50 as tender, pure and true as it was at 17, Simon Hartwright had grown hard and stern, devoted to money-making, and full of wordly wisdom. When his old love had timidly tried to heal the breach between himself and Edward, his first-born, he had repulsed her good offices so sternly that she had never dared repeat them and only comforted her heart by corresponding with the boy she loved so well.

But the tiat had gone forth that overcame all womanly timidity, and Mattie, when her question was answered, went slowly to her own room, her head bowed and tears coursing down her withered cheeks. Once there, she knelt and prayed long and frequently. She rose from her knees very pale, but with a steady light in her soft, brown eyes, and putting on her demure Quaker-like bonnet and cape, went out into the chill, Winter air. All about her the snowflakes whirled in the bitter wind, but she kept forward till she stood at the door of the great white house Simon Hartwright had built for his home. The housekeeper, who opened the door, knew Miss Mattie well, for the crippled old maid was beloved by every man, woman and child in Upham for her gentle charities and noble, self-sacrificing life.

"I'm glad you've come to see Mr. Hartwright," said the housekeeper, "for he is very bad to-day. He can't lie down at all without suffocating spells. Will you go up?"

Up to a lofty room, luxuriously furnished, where the sick man sat in a great arm chair, far away from the ruddy grate fire that tortured his lungs.

With a smile that but few people ever saw upon his hard face, Simon Hartwright stretched out his hand to Mattie Colwell.

"I felt sure you would come when they told you how bad I was," he said, folding her little white hand in his own, almost as white as snow. "You have not been my friend of late, Mattie?"

"Always your friend, Simon," was the answer, "but thinking you wrong in one act of your life, it is for that I am here."

She threw aside her hat and cape as she spoke, and took a chair beside the invalid. Upon his face had gathered a hard frown. His lips were firmly folded, and his eyes cruel as death. Undaunted, Mattie said:

"You will forgive Ned, Simon?"

"Never! He disobeyed me where I had most set my heart."

"He married Lucy Wheaton, loving her."

"A girl whose father was a common drunkard, who died in delirium tremens and was buried by charity."

"But a good, pure girl, who nobly did her duty to father and baby sister till both died. A loving, tender girl, against whom there was no whisper of reproach, and a faithful, good wife now for three years. You will not die unforgiving!"

"I have made my will. It is here," and he opened a drawer in the table beside him. "There are some legacies, but the bulk of my fortune goes to found a library at Upham, this house to be used for the purpose. Ned will have $500."

"Oh, Simon, destroy that will!"

"When Edward defied me, when he clung to the girl I detested and secretly married her, I told him he was my son no longer. He has lived for three years away from me——"

"Starving upon a clerk's salary, when he had passed twenty-two years of his life in luxury."

"He made his choice."

"I remember," Mattie said, in a dreamy voice, as if she had forgotten her listener, "the day Ned was born poor Mary lay so ill we feared she must die, and while others were busy around her bed the wee babe was brought to me. He was like you, Simon, with great dark eyes and a broad brow, and yet he had Mary's mouth, so sensitive and tender, quivering with every emotion. I remember when he was a week old. I had him in the nursery when you came in, staggering like a man under a heavy burden, till you fell on your knees beside me to sob:

"'God has taken Mary, but He has left my boy! Thank God for my boy!'"

A long quivering sigh broke from the invalid's lips.

"I can see him as he was at 3 years old, with his brown curls shining like satin, falling over his little velvet coat, his soft, round cheeks rosy with health, and his eyes full of frank, bright intellect. He was not quite 4 when he had the scarlet fever. How many nights you walked him up and down in your arms, when the fever would not let him sleep; how many days you sat beside him calming the delirious fancies of his baby brain till the day that life-giving sleep came to restore him, and again you thanked God for your boy's life."

"Mattie, you torture me! I can not bear this!" the sick man murmured hoarsely.

"I was at my window one morning," Mattie said, still in the same even monotone, "when a carriage dashed up the road with a pair of runaway horses. The reins were in the road, and there was no control over the terrified animals, who dashed forward, the carriage swaying heavily from side to side, threatening every moment to be dashed to pieces. Inside a man tried vainly to open the doors. The driver lay upon the road beyond, thrown from his seat half intoxicated and badly injured. While I looked, paralyzed with horror, a mere boy, not 18, ran from my door into the road, threw himself before the horses, battled with them as they reared and plunged threatening every moment to dash him to pieces, and held them until other aid came. Men ran to help, and the stripling opened the door of the carriage when the horses were quiet to release his father. The blood was streaming from a great gash in his face, but he never heeded it when his father held him in close embrace, thanking him for his life. Again, Simon, I heard you thank God that in saving your life your boy had not lost his own."

There was deep silence in the room as Mattie spoke the last words. Simon Hartwright's face was hidden, but his hands trembled, covering the agitated features. Mattie took from her pocket a letter, and read:

"MY DEAR AUNT MATTIE: Lucy is about again, and our boy is doing finely. He is a thorough Hartwright, with my dear father's eyes, and we have had him christened Simon. I wrote to my father, but again my letter has come back to me unopened. How can I ever soften his heart toward me if he will never read my letters? I weary for his forgiveness! I am doing well here, and my salary will allow some little comforts for Lucy and the boy beside mere necessities; but I long to hear my father say, 'Ned I forgive you.'

"If you knew Lucy in her life here, if you could see how patiently she bears every privation, how loving she is when we are still so poor, how careful she is never to reproach me for what she has suffered, you would not wonder that I can not say 'Father, I am sorry I married her!' I am not; I never can be sorry for that, yet I do sorrow over my father's anger.

"Will you not see him for me, plead for me? Tell him I care nothing for his wealth: we can live happily in our humble fashion, but I long unutterably to hear his voice in forgiveness, to clasp his hand, to know he loves me again! Plead for me, Aunt Mattie. He must be lonely, and my heart aches for his loneliness.

"Lucy sends love and this tiny lock of young Simon's hair. Lovingly,

"NED."

"Simon?"

Mattie's voice was solemn in its earnest tone of pleading.

"Simon, you will not die without forgiving your boy, Mary's boy, who saved your life at the risk of his own, who loves you so truly!"

Simon Hartwright lifted his face from the cushions, where it had been hidden. Upon the wasted cheek tears stood like great diamonds, and the voice was broken and hoarse that said:

"Send for my boy, Mattie!"

Gladly the message was written and sent to the telegraph office.

TO MR. EDWARD HARTWRIGHT, No. 37 ——street, New York: Your father wishes to see you. Come at once. He is dangerously ill. MATTIE COLWELL.

The evening shadows were creeping over the great room where Simon Hartwright waited for the dread summons he knew could not long be delayed. Mattie Colwell had not left him. By every sweet memory cherished in her soul she had kept alive the tender, forgiving spirit her words had already wakened in the father's heart.

The agitation of the morning had added much to the invalid's sufferings, and, as evening came on, the gentle, loving watcher feared the son would come too late for his father's words of reconciliation. He had been dozing uneasily, when he suddenly started awake.

"The will! Mattie, we forgot the will! It is in the drawer. Burn it, Mattie! Tell Ned there is a legacy for you—$10,000! If the will stands my boy is disinherited. Burn it, Mattie!"

With trembling hands Simon Hartwright drew from the drawer the will that left his son a beggar, and thrust it into Mattie Colwell's hands.

"Burn it! let me see it burn!" he said, feverishly; and with eagerness, and gladly Mattie laid the paper upon the burning coals of the grate. While they watched it burn there was a noise of rapid horses' feet, a roll of wheels, a bustle at the door, and quick feet upon the stairs.

"Ned! Ned!"

The voice of the sick man rang out clear and shrill, and was answered by a loud cry.

"Father, I am coming!"

Then Mattie stole out of the room as a tall figure rushed in, and Ned Hartwright knelt beside his father's chair to feel warm tears upon his face, the clasp of loving arms, and her broken words of blessing and welcome.

In the hall Mattie found a little figure waiting in bewildered patience for welcome, and took upon herself the office of hostess to the blue-eyed wife, for whose sake Ned had dared his father's anger and imperiled his inheritance. Mattie took Lucy into the warm drawing-room, ordered supper for the travelers, and unrolled the 2-months' baby from its multitudinous shawls and wraps.

Mattie listened to the tearful description of Ned's mingled joy and sorrow when the telegram came. Mattie smoothed the fair curls of the young wife, calmed her agitation and took her into loving confidence. And when Ned came, grave and pale, to say: "My father will see you, Lucy," Mattie took the boy from his mother's trembling arms and followed after the first words of reconciliation were spoken.

She found Ned holding his father's hand in closest grasp, while Lucy, leaning over the great chair, softly bathed the clammy brow, where the death-dews were gathering fast.

"Ned's boy! the dying man gasped, as the baby face was lifted to his own. "Ned's baby! May God bless the child! And may God ever bless Mattie! See to it, Ned, that she never wants love while you live—Mattie, who brought you to my arms, as she has brought your son this night! Mattie, who brought you to-night to take the sting from death! They will tell you, Ned, that Mattie never wearies in doing good, but she has done no nobler work in her life than she has done to-day in bringing my boy to my side."

These were the last words Simon Hartwright spoke until, at the last he whispered:

"Ned—forgive—my boy—God bless my boy!" and he died with the blessing on his lips.

Mattie Colwell lives her quiet life of usefulness, leaving undone no kindly act her hands can accomplish; but there is no memory of good work done so precious to her heart as the memory of the reconciliation her words accomplished between Simon Hartwright and his son.

Poems of Nature; by John Greenleaf Whittier. Illustrated from nature by Elbridge Kingsley. Boston: Houghton, Mifflin & Co.; price $6.00.

This is a beautifully prepared selection of fourteen of Mr. Whittier's poems of nature. The illustrations are adapted to each poem. The gateway to the White mountains, a view taken from Conway meadows, overlooking the intervales of the Saco Valley, with Mount Washington in the distance, is one easily recognizable by mountain visitors. Mount Chocorua, near whose base the quaker poet has spent many summers and become intimate with the grand scenery, is also produced.

Mr. Whittier's poems in which he sings the beautiousness of our New Hampshire lake and mountain region, are familiar to every lover of nature. But coming to us in this elegantly prepared manner, with artistic excellence in the delineation of the scenes of his songs, we read them with renewed zest and richer appreciation. Every one who recalls the wreck of the ill-fated San Francisco, which carried from Fort Constitution, years ago, officers and men destined for a distant service in the army, will remember the rescue of the survivors by the "Three Bells, of Glasgow." The tidings of the gallant act of the commander of the "Three Bells" in laying by the wrecked steamer during that December night, were received in this country with a thrill of grateful appreciation; and the reader of the poem, to admire it as it deserves should recall the associations of its inspiration.

The "Poems of Nature" is one of the finest books of the kind which has appeared of late. In its execution is seen discriminating, taste and artistic excellence, which make it an acceptable keepsake. In its mechanical appearance it is a new illustration of the excellence of the work issuing from the Riverside Press.

"GOOD NAME AT HOME"

won by Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequalled in the history of medicines. Such is its popularity in Lowell, Mass., where it is made, that whole neighborhoods are taking it at the same time. This success is extending all over the country.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "100 Doses One Dollar," which is an unanswerable argument as to strength and economy. Other preparations will average to last not over a week, while a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla contains 200 doses and will last a month. Hence, for economy as well as for health and strength, buy Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for a book containing statements of many remarkable cures.

In how many ways can the word "STRONGEST" be read above, employing only letters successively adjacent, without skipping?

It is freely admitted that this is merely an improvement on the Mutual Life Puzzle "Largest."

The answer will be published on Jan. 1st, 1886, with the names (in the order of reception) of all who send it correctly before that date to G. H. R., office Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

THE COTTAGE HOSPITAL.

On Thursday of last week the directors of the Cottage Hospital welcomed the general public to the small but commodious building devoted to their charitable work, and the occasion was certainly bright with promise for the future of the institution. There must have been nearly or quite one hundred and fifty guests present, and the heartiness of their sympathy with the undertaking was too evident to be mistaken for the mere curiosity which might have drawn them to the spot.

After the company was assembled a brief but impressive service of benediction was read by Rev. Henry E. Hovey, who, representing the board of trustees, introduced the speakers of the occasion, beginning with Rev. Alfred Gooding. Mr. Gooding made a felicitous address, and was followed by Rev. O. H. Jasper and Dr. J. W. Parsons, who were listened to with equal attention and pleasure. It was a matter of regret that the physicians, whose approbation and sympathy are so valuable, were not all present, but the endorsement and congratulations of Dr. Parsons left nothing unsaid in behalf of his professional brethren. The absence of Mr. George Bilbruck, the donor of the house, was also much regretted. The cordial utterances of those who addressed the company were echoed with equal cordiality by the guests as they subsequently passed through the rooms, attractive in their brightness and simplicity, as hospital wards should be, or chatted over the delicious coffee with which they were regaled.

It is confidently hoped that all our citizens who are at all interested in the work will at their convenience visit the hospital, and see what pleasant provision has been made for the comfort of the sick. Their interest will certainly be enhanced ten-fold by seeing what has been done thus far, and their co-operation increased for the future. The institution has no endowment, but it is in the power of each one to endow it with the constancy of sympathy and giving which shall supply all its needs. ***

MISSIONARY LECTURE.

On Friday evening, the 16th inst., in the Methodist Episcopal church, Miss Clara Cushman, a returned missionary from China, gave a very interesting and instructive lecture on her mission work in north China. The characters, dressed in Chinese costumes which Miss Cushman brought with her from China, together with many other articles connected with Chinese life, were of great interest to the audience. After Miss Cushman's address, which moved upon the hearts of those present and created a sympathy for, and a desire to help, these Chinese natives, the people willingly and readily responded to her appeal for help to carry on this work; even the children were interested, and pledged themselves to save their pennies for the Chinese children, twenty of them taking "mite-boxes." Mrs. Durell, the district secretary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, was present, and used her efforts in organizing an auxiliary society; such a society was formed, consisting of forty members, with the usual officers. This meeting will, we hope, result in great good, placing the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society in the minds of the people, abreast with other church work, a real part of it. COM.

A COMBUSTIBLE POST-OFFICE.

Mr. Howard Staples of South Eliot, Me., closed his general store in that town at eight o'clock last Friday evening, and about half an hour later fire was discovered to have got a strong hold of the inside of the building, having apparently started near the kerosene barrel. Mr. Staples is postmaster at South Eliot, and the office was located in the grocery; a window was smashed in and the mail bags gotten out, but nothing else is reported to have been saved. The store was insured, but to what amount we have not learned. A tramp was seen loitering around the place that evening, and it is suspected he may have had something to do with the fire. This is the fourth post-office burned in South Eliot inside of eight years.

The Boston & Maine railroad advertises a cheap excursion to Boston this week; tickets $1.60 for the round trip, from Kittery or this city, good going on the 22d and returning on the 23d, on any regular train.

The wharves were free of fish on Sunday. Daniel Clark received about 2500 lbs. of cod and blackbacks from the weirs the latter past of last week.

The work of laying the North River flag stones, which are to form the sidewalk in front of the Rockingham, and which arrived from the Hudson river recently by vessel, began on Saturday. The firm which supplied the stone sent a number of men to lay it properly. It is bedded in Roman cement, and the ground for some depth below the surface has been specially prepared, so that the stone when once put in place may be expected to remain there.

On Saturday, the 10th inst., while the schooner Chilion, Call master, was in Hingham, Mass., discharging a cargo of lumber from Bangor, she was attached on a suit brought by Mr. Townsend, contractor for the removal of Gangway rock, to recover for damages alleged to have been caused to his drill-platform through the schooner colliding with it last fall. Capt. Call gave bonds to answer, and when his cargo was out came to this port, and proceeded up river to load with bricks.

The brick schooners Estella and G. W. Raitt, and the sloop Stephen Orr, from Boston, light, and bound up the river to load, arrived at Portsmouth bridge Sunday morning; they will continue their trips as long as possible, but the supply of bricks at the up-river yards is fast becoming exhausted.

The only vessel at the Water street wharves on Sunday was the sloop Screamer, of and from Rockport, Mass., with a cargo of granite to Silas Philbrick.

The inventory of all the property on the navy yard was completed on the 14th inst. It was commenced in April last.

Rufus M. Adams and John F. Shea started for Florida on Thursday last to spend the cold season; they are energetic young men, and both have wintered in Florida before. Mr. Adams, the day previous to starting, was united in marriage with a young lady of Kittery, and his bride accompanied him to the land of oranges.

Col. Wm. A. Cromwell of South Berwick, for the past thirteen years the efficient New England passenger agent of the Michigan Southern railroad, is to retire from the service of that corporation, it having been determined to consolidate a number of offices and put them in charge of the Boston & Albany management in Boston.

The directors of the Cottage Hospital very gratefully acknowledge the gift of a hall lamp and two iron bedsteads from Mr. Thomas Neil; also a hall lamp from Mrs. G. B. French; some useful underwear from Miss Shores; and an axe, etc., from Pryor & Matthews. The directors were indebted to Mr. J. H. Hutchinson for the superb basket of flowers which adorned the refreshment table on the occasion of the opening of the hospital.

Frank Horton of this city, while in Dover on Monday of last week peddling fish, went into a store and made a brief stop, and while there had two kits of mackerel stolen from his wagon by Frank Moore and William Cowan, who were subsequently introduced to the police magistrate to answer for their irregular speculation.

RAMBLES ABOUT PORTSMOUTH

BY CHARLES W. BREWSTER.

A book for everybody. A highly interesting and entertaining SKETCH BOOK. A perfectly reliable HISTORY. Commended by the highest historical and literary authorities. Admired by all.

For Sale by LEWIS W. BREWSTER, at the Portsmouth Journal Office

"Give you a reason on compulsion?" Why of course I will. I am cured of rheumatism, which has kept me enslaved for twenty years, by using Salvation Oil, which cost me only 25 cents.

For 20 years Henry F. Balcom, of Shirley, Mass., suffered with rheumatism. He found no relief till he took Hood's Sarsaparilla.

F. J. Hawts, United States inspector of customs in San Francisco, sometime since accused Deputy United States Marshal Mellus with having offered him a bribe to allow Chinamen who had been remanded to China to come ashore. The matter has been investigated, and Mellus has been dismissed from the government service.

Since last October I have suffered from acute inflammation in my nose and head—often in the night having to get up and inhale salt and water for relief. My eye has been, for a week at a time, so I could not see. I have used no end of remedies, also employed a doctor, who said it was impure blood—but I got no help. I used Ely's Cream Balm on the recommendation of a friend. I was faithless, but in a few days was cured. My nose now, and also my eye, is well. It is wonderful how quick it helped me. Mrs. Georgie S. Judson, Hartford, Conn. Easy to use. Price 50 cents.

The Boston Traveller remarks that "The real trouble with President Cleveland, from the democratic standpoint, is his failure to understand that the democratic platform of 1884 was intended to be only an ingenious specimen of campaign literature, for campaign purposes only."

What Parents Fear.

Many persons—especially parents—object to many quack nostrums as likely to engender or encourage a love for strong drink. They are right. Better die of disease than of drunkenness. The use of Parker's Tonic does not involve this danger. It not only builds up the system, curing all ailments of the stomach, liver and kidneys, but it stimulates without intoxicating and absolutely cures the appetite for liquor.

Two factions are disputing for the possession of the Congregational church at Greenville, Mass. An injunction was obtained on Saturday and the service of papers prevented a service of praise. The sheriff and a watchman presided over the church yesterday.

Why throw away so much hard-earned money trying worthless medicines, when for 35 cents a remedy can be procured that will cure coughs, colds, sore lungs and croup? Give it a trial. Adamson's Balsam will do it. Trial bottle ten cents.

Superintendent Schmitt, of the police department of Cleveland, Ohio, has ordered all the gamblers in the city to close their rooms. The order has been obeyed, and the gamesters are leaving for other cities in swarms.

Why don't you try Carter's Little Liver Pills? They are a positive cure for sick headache, and all the ills produced by disordered Liver. Only one pill a dose.

Frank Larabee of Richmond was accidentally shot by his nine-years-old son on Thursday of last week, and died instantly.

Constipation is positively cured by Carter's Little Liver Pills. Not by purging and weakening the bowels, but by regulating and strengthening them. This is done by improving the digestion and stimulating the liver to the proper secretion of bile, when the bowels will perform their customary functions in an easy and natural manner. Purgative pills must be avoided. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Price 25 cents.

George B. Davis has been appointed postmaster at Somerset, Mass.

Where's the sense in spending money for a doubtful affair, when a sure and reliable thing is offered? Hop Porous Plasters for all aches, pains and soreness. The greatest strengthener known. 25 cents.

A Wonderful STRENGTHENER

Making Up After a Quarrel.

She stands beside the door in white disdain;
For some portentious nothing is at stake,
And she will not unsay the words she spake.

Nor be make right or wrong, though he were fain,
Alack! their honeymoon is on the wane;
The hearts that beat as one have learned to ache;
The stream wherein they two have come to slake
Love's thirst is parched for drouth of Love's sweet rain.

They brood in sullen silence 'neath the cloud
That new first rainbows this fair welkock o'er,
When lo! it bursts in tears from both their eyes,
And, on each other's lips, their anger dies.
Upon his breast her golden head is bowed,
And, in his arms, he clasps his Life once more.

SCENERY.

Summer Scenery Commercially and Æsthetically Considered.

This has been, on the whole, a very good season for "scenery." It has varied in price from two dollars and a half a day for a quiet article to five dollars for the broadest and best. A resort with "a full line of scenery" is, of course, expensive; that is, one that combines mountains, valleys, water, hamlets, rocks, cascades, islands, water-falls. It is difficult to define exactly what scenery is in the popular mind, but all are agreed that it is an article one must go away from home to get. It seems to be the general notion that it is a view, and with many the word means a wide and distant prospect. The commercial gentleman who was looking off from the platform of the Kaaterskill House, and remarked that it was the best place for scenery he knew, came very close to a good popular definition. With him it was a large prospect. The idle traveler is often asked whether he is fond of scenery. And the question is an embarrassing one. He may never have thought of it in that light. He is fond of beefsteak; perhaps he does not like to confess his love for things æsthetic. The Drawer met a charming girl in the Catskills who said that she was very fond of scenery, and she liked nature too. Both scenery and nature she would go a great ways to see, and the inference was that they couldn't be had at home. Perhaps scenery in her mind was associated with a hotel, and a number of young gentlemen in fancy walking costume. And, whatever scenery is, there is no doubt that it is vastly improved by the presence of young ladies in gay toilets. In fact, you may take an ordinary landscape, or a common brook with a twenty-five cent water-fall—that is, a fall that it costs a quarter of a dollar to turn on—or a piece of open woods with sunlight flickering on the ground and on the boles of the trees, or a tree-encircled lake with row-boats, and introduce the female figure, groups of girls in those engaging attitudes that nature teaches them, or pairs of lovers in the pretty self-consciousness of young affection, and you have what is probably the best article of scenery in the world. And yet this sort of thing is not that usually recognized as scenery.

The effect of scenery upon different persons is worth the student's attention. Let him take his seat before some recognized piece of "scenery," like that from the Catskill height just spoken of, and watch the effect of it upon those who come to look at it. The fat traveler who arrives perspiring seems to appreciate the value of it. He removes his hat and mops his forehead, and looks about with an expression of delight in the vastness of the prospect. His eye roves at once over all the States of the Union in sight, he seems to weigh the view in his mind for its size, but he wastes no time on it. He remarks that that is the scenery for him, and then abandons it in search of a cooling drink. Then comes the dominie school-master in a long-skirted broadcloth coat, a severe man, with half a dozen of his scholars. He waves his hand over the whole view with the air of imparting information to the young: that is the Hudson River, that is Connecticut, that is Massachusetts, that is Vermont, we are in New York—it is a gigantic lesson in geography, and the boys follow him away as soon as they have learned it. There, again, is a rather battered-looking middle-aged man reclining on the edge of the cliff—what does he see? A panorama of his life? Probably not. Few people are given to musing on their past. He enjoys the repose of the landscape, the faint rattle of wagons, or the clang of a railway train coming up from four or five miles away, the shadows on the immense plain, which is marked off in irregular plots of meadow and grain and woods, the gleam of the river—a monotonous picture full of variety too far removed to make a distinct impression—the sort of view that requires nothing but a lazy mind. And these two young girls in muslin, arms around each other's waists—no, not exactly young, but young for school-marms, too shy for absolute youth—sauntering along the edge of the precipice, expressing genuine rapture over the prospect. It must be confessed that their figures in silhouette against the sky have an artistic value. Nobody can tell how much they really see, but doubtless more than another couple who have just stepped out across the platform, and stand in an attitude of observation. Pretty soon, however, they are looking at each other, and if they get any view at all of the landscape, it is as reflected in each other's eyes. There is no landscape in the world equal to that, if the eyes are pretty, that is, if they reflect well. Are these lovers on a wedding tour? How charming the scenery is to them! She is sitting down now on a rock, pulling to pieces a wild azalea, with her eyes downcast, and he, seated on a rock at her feet, is looking up at her. Talk about seeing four States at once and a hundred villages and the Hudson River! This young gentleman sees the whole world; and the charming girl who has entangled him with her long eyelashes knows it as well as he does. This is an appreciation of scenery that goes to the heart. They never will forget this view all their lives. If the young lady is asked to describe it when she goes home, she will not be able to make half as good a description of it as the fat man, but how much more she saw and felt! The fat man just carried away with him a map, but this girl—Heaven be kind to her—has gone away with a piece of scenery in her heart that all mankind desires, and that life would be very poor without. We have seen some travelers who say they prefer the seashore to scenery. This is a mere matter of taste. What the Drawer prefers is the eyes of the young lady that have the power of transmuting everything into beauty.—Charles Dudley Warner, in Harper's Magazine for September.

A Wonderful Freak of Nature

Is sometimes exhibited in our public exhibitions. When we gaze upon some of the peculiar freaks dame nature occasionally indulges in, our minds revert back to the creation of man, "who is so fearfully and wonderfully made." The mysteries of his nature have been unraveled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, and through his knowledge of those mysteries he has been able to prepare his "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a specific for all blood taints, poisons and humors, such as scrofula, pimples, blotches, eruptions, swellings, tumors, ulcers and kindred affections. By druggists.

The New England glass works at East Cambridge, Mass., shut down on Saturday evening for six months, on account of the glass-blowers' strike. This throws 200 men and fifty girls out of employment.

Like Gen. Grant, the first Napoleon died of cancer. In his case the cancer was in the stomach instead of in the throat. It caused him much severer pain than Grant suffered. Toward the last he could not digest his food. He was tormented by a constant thirst. His pulse beat with a feverish quickness. He improved, grew worse, and had all the hope, depression and despair that marked Grant's illness. Unlike the American soldier, he did not retain his mental faculties to the last. The circumstances were different. Napoleon was a vanquished man, a prisoner deserted by his wife, and surrounded only by the members of his military family. His last words referred to his son and the army. Grant not only suffered loss, but his last hours were brightened by a thousand loving words and tributes from wife and children, old army comrades, his former foes, and the most distinguished men of the world.

River! This young gentleman sees the whole world; and the charming girl who has entangled him with her long eyelashes knows it as well as he does. This is an appreciation of scenery that goes to the heart. They never will forget this view all their lives. If the young lady is asked to describe it when she goes home, she will not be able to make half as good a description of it as the fat man, but how much more she saw and felt! The fat man just carried away with him a map, but this girl—Heaven be kind to her—has gone away with a piece of scenery in her heart that all mankind desires, and that life would be very poor without. We have seen some travelers who say they prefer the seashore to scenery. This is a mere matter of taste. What the Drawer prefers is the eyes of the young lady that have the power of transmuting everything into beauty.—Charles Dudley Warner, in Harper's Magazine for September.

SKIN AND BLOOD

Diseases from Pimples to Scrofula Cured by Cuticura.

Hundreds of letters in our possession, copies of which may be had by return of mail, repeat this story:—I have been a terrible sufferer for years from Diseases of the Skin and Blood; have been obliged to shun public places by reason of my disfiguring humors; have had the best physicians; have spent hundreds of dollars, and got no relief until I used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, which have cured me, and left my skin and blood as pure as a child's.

COVERED WITH SALT RHEUM.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are the greatest medicines on earth. Had the worst case of Salt Rheum in this country. My mother had it twenty years, and it in fact died from it. I believe CUTICURA would have saved her life. My arms, breast and head were covered for three years, which nothing relieved or cured until I used the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, Internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, externally. J. W. ADAMS. NEWARK, O.

HEAD, FACE AND BODY RAW.

I commenced to use your CUTICUTA REMEDIES last July. My head and face and some parts of my body were almost raw. My head was covered with scabs and sores, and my suffering was fearful. I had tried everything I had heard of in the East and West. My case was considered a very bad one. I have now not a particle of Skin Humor about me, and my case is considered wonderful. MRS. S. E. WHIPPLE. DECATUR, MICH.

ECZEMA FROM HEAD TO FEET.

Charles Eayre Hinkle, Jersey City Heights, N. J., writes: "My son, a lad of twelve years, was completely cured of a terrible case of Eczema by the CUTICURA REMEDIES. From the top of his head to the soles of his feet was one mass of scabs." Every other remedy and physicians had been tried in vain.

NOTHING LIKE CUTICURA.

The half has not been told as to the great curative powers of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. I have paid hundreds of dollars for medicines to cure diseases of the blood and skin, and never found anything yet to equal the CUTICURA REMEDIES. PROVIDENCE, R. I. CHAS. A. WILLIAMS.

The advantages of advertising are strikingly illustrated in the order just received by Mr. S. R. Niles, the widely known advertising agent of Boston, for one insertion of an advertisement in one publication for $2000. This is probably the largest order ever given for one insertion of an advertisement, and shows the extent to which advertising is done by those who appreciate its benefits.

Captain Mitchell, of the bark Antoine Sala, New York and Havana trade, came home in May, entirely helpless with rheumatism. He went to the mountains, but receiving no benefit, at his wife's request began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. He immediately began to improve; in two months his rheumatism was all gone, and he sailed in command of his vessel a well man. Hood's Sarsaparilla will help you. Sold by all druggists.

Railroad Accidents.

An emigrant train on the Pennsylvania railroad, Sunday night, stopped near the Hackensack river bridge to take coal, and was run into by a passenger train, which threw the two rear cars across the track of the Lehigh Valley road, and a moment later a Lehigh Valley train crashed into the derailed cars. The wreck was the most frightful on the road for years. A man and woman with their heads off, and a boy of twelve years with both legs off were soon taken from the ruins; also two men who shortly died, a woman fatally hurt, and her baby with both legs and one arm broken; all these were Norwegian emigrants. Three train men were badly injured, one fatally. The total number of killed was said to be eight, though it was feared there might be others under the wreck.

A collision occured at five o'clock Sunday morning on the Northern division of the Boston & Lowell railway, between East and West Andover, Mass., the Chicago express freight and a passenger train coming together at high speed, wrecking both locomotives and smashing several freight cars, instantly killing Lucius Grover of Concord, N. H., the passenger engineer, John P. Emerson of Concord, freight engineer, and William Harvey of Lebanon, a freight brakeman, and injuring five other train men; the passengers were roughly shaken up, but none were seriously hurt.

A Mystery.

The body of an unknown man was found on Bear hill in Waltham, Mass., last week, having evidently been there several days. On the body was found a note written in pencil on brown paper stating that the writer was hungry, homeless and penniless, unable to get work, and had concluded to die; four bullet holes, close together, were in the right temple, and a small revolver with four empty chambers in the left hand, and at first it was thought to be a case of suicide, but subsequent discoveries have led to the conclusion that the man was murdered and robbed, and his body carried by the murderers to where it was found. Some new clothing, similar to that on the body, has been found hidden in a stone wall not thirty feet from where the body lay. Near the body was found a crumpled sheet of brown paper, which appeared to have been used to wipe bloody hands, and from it the piece on which the note was written had evidently been cut. It is believed the man was carrying the clothing wrapped in the brown paper, when he was murdered. He appears to have been in comfortable circumstances, judging from his clothes and general appearance.

"The Satin-wood Box" is a story for juvenile readers, which bears the name of Mr. J. T. Trowbridge as its author. Mr. Trowbridge always has a purpose in his writings, and this time he has undertaken to show how very near an innocent boy can come to the guilty edge, and yet be able, by fortunate circumstances, to rid himself of all suspicion of evil. There is something very winsome about Gifford Norcroft, the hero; but he has a singular way of falling into bad luck, although the careful reader will never feel the least disposed to doubt his honesty. It is issued as one of the volumes of The Arlington series, of which "Phil and his friends," and "Tinkham Brothers' Tide-Mill," by the same author, have already found thousands of readers. There are several illustrations in the book, which help to explain the situation. Published by Lee & Shepard, Boston. Price, $1.25.

"The Eclectic" for November has the following table of contents: "A dialogue on novels," by Vernon Lee; "A dark page of Italian history;" "The cholera inoculation fallacy;" "Reminiscences of an attache;" "Lord Houghton;" "Karukaya," a story; "Color music;" "Paradise," a poem; "The automaton chess player;" "On the origin of the higher animals;" "Tegner;" "Mrs. Li Hung Chang's first dinner party," by Miss Gordon Cumming; "George Eliot's Politics;" "Girton college in 1885;" "Councils and comedians;" "Vittoria Collonna;" "M. Renan on himself;" and an unusual variety of foreign literary notes, miscellany, and book notices. Published by E. R. Pelton, 25 Bond street, New York. Terms $5 per year.

If you want to enjoy a lively, sparkling bit of fun go to Music hall this evening, and see Carrie Swain in "Cad, the Tom-boy."

Mr. Editor: Can you explain why it is that Deer street, from High to Market, has been so long left in the dangerous condition that it is in,—dangerous from accident to man or beast, for which the city would be liable; also dangerous to health, from the sewage lying exposed there so long? Then too, why is it that one of our most public streets should have been wholly closed up for so long a time, to the injury of all doing business in that section of the city, as well as of our friends who may wish to come here from across the river to trade with us?

ONE OF MANY.

Shook & Collier's "Storm Beaten" dramatic company passed through this city at nine o'clock Sunday evening, bound east. Their special car containing scenery, etc., was attached to the train, and is a gorgeously showy affair, beating Barnum's advertising car all hollow. Storm Beaten is to be played in Music hall shortly.

"Si Perkins; or, the girl I left behind me," Mr. E. A. Locke's new play, deals with the efforts of a rustic drummer, Si Perkins, to sell threshing machines and to save and win a pretty girl. In the first endeavor he talks the rural population half to death. In the second he thwarts a robbery, saves his love from poisoning by a wicked uncle, discovers that she has been abducted, and restores her to her father's arms. In pursuit of his virtuous purposes he gets blown up by dynamite that is placed in his threshing machine by the second villain, the supposed gypsy father. The machine and dynamite are both shown in operation. This play will be performed at Music hall on Thursday evening.

New Hampshire Lodge, No. 17, I. O. O. F., of this city, will leave this afternoon at three o'clock for Malden, Mass., where they will be the guests of Lodge No. 17 of that place. A banquet, exemplification of the work, and a dance in the skating rink, are included in the programme of festivities.

Mr. Philip Yeaton, formerly landlord of the Ocean house at Hampton beach, has taken charge of the Rockingham hotel, Nos. 1202 and 1204 Washington street, Boston. Mr. Yeaton is an experienced hotel man, and under his management the Rockingham will be well conducted and therefore popular.

Have you seen Coleman's elegant eight-inch range for $30, with all the apparatus, including hot closet, also the seven-inch range for $25? Mr. Coleman has one of the largest stocks of household goods in New Hampshire, and it will repay any one in want of articles in the housekeeping line to visit his warehouse on Market street.

Commander Theodore F. Kane, commanding the U. S. S. Galena, now undergoing repairs at this navy yard, is detached on the 31st inst., and placed on waiting orders. Commander Colby M. Chester is detached from duty as hydrographic inspector of the coast survey, and ordered to command the Galena on the 31st.

Gen. J. N. Patterson of Concord, United States marshal for New Hampshire, was in this city on Monday.

A somewhat queer divorce case was tried by Judge Peters, without a jury, at the October term of the supreme judicial court of Maine for York county, held at Alfred. Horace Smith of Kennebunk sued for divorce from Mary E. Smith, and she sued for divorce from him. The questions were, on which libel the divorce should be decreed; which of the parties should have the custody of the eight-year-old daughter; and whether the wife should have alimony. Smith acknowledged to fifty years; Mrs. Smith to twenty-eight, she having been married before she was sixteen years old, after a three months acquaintance with Smith. They charged each other with a large and select assortment of crimes, but he had a cloud of witnesses, and she only one of any account—herself. The court denied her libel, denied her alimony, gave him a divorce, and gave her the child.

Mr. Lafayette Frisbee, of Kittery Point, is building a dam at his farm on the Almshouse road, near Spruce creek, to make an ice pond from which he proposes to cut a good quantity of ice the coming winter. A large ice-house, and a wharf at the creek, are among the prospective improvements.

The loss by the burning of the store of Howard Staples at Eliot last Friday evening is put at $1500.

DELAWARE BREAKWATER LIGHT.—The lighthouse department gives notice that the fourth order light, heretofore shown from a temporary structure on Delaware Breakwater, Del., was, on the 2d of October, removed to an iron tower erected on the eastern end of the breakwater.

The characteristics remain the same, but as the focal plane is now sixty-five feet above mean low water, the light should be seen in clear weather from the deck of a vessel fifteen feet above the sea, 13½ nautical miles.

The structure is an iron tower painted dark brown, surmounted by a lantern painted black.

The bearings of the light are not changed.

BOSTON, October 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1860, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. Terribly Shaken

As the system is by fever and ague, and obstinate as that malady is, nevertheless Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will repair the damage that it does to the constitution, and eradicate every trace of it. Used as a means of prevention, it invariably proves effectual. The most malignant forms of malarial disease prevalent in the tropics, the dreaded calenturra of the Guatemalan coast, the Chagres fever, and other types of miasmatic maladies, yield to and are prevented by it. Not only should it be used on the first symptom of a chill, but all persons residing in localities where malarial infection exists in air and water, should take it as a safeguard. It is an incomparable remedy for disorders of the stomach and bowels, for rheumatism, inactivity of the bladder and kidneys, and for debility and bilious ailments.

At Haselton, Pa., by the explosion of an overloaded gun in the hands of Edward Burtley on the 16th inst., Robert Fitcher, a companion, was instantly killed, a large piece of the barrel penetrating his heart. Burtley's right arm was blown off, and Thomas Scott, another companion, was so seriously injured that he will probably die.

Charles D. Fredericks, 770 Broadway, N. Y., the celebrated photographer, says that Allcock's Porous Plasters have been used by himself and family over twenty years. He found them wonderfully efficacious in coughs, colds, and pain in the back and side. Applied to the pit of the stomach they quickly cured him of indigestion and dyspepsia. He also found them admirable liver regulators when applied on the right side.

That Dirty Dandruff.

Dandruff is dirty and disagreeable in every way. It soils the clothing continually, and is accompanied by a hardly less annoying sensation of itching. The scalp is diseased. There is nothing in the world so thoroughly adapted to this trouble as Parker's Hair Balsam. It cleanses and heals the scalp, stops the falling hair and restores its original softness, gloss and color. Is not oily, highly perfumed, an elegant dressing. Very economical, as only a small occasional application keeps the hair in perfect condition.

Odd Fellows' hall at Great Falls was damaged to the extent of $2000 by fire on Sunday; insured.

There were all the evidences of a coming storm; the very air vibrated with the odor of danger! but when the kind father took from his pocket a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup then came a calm, for the baby had the croup and would now get well.

—A Maine man asked a doctor what in his opinion caused the most sickness the year round. The doctor replied without hesitation, "The prohibitory law."

Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured thousands of cases of rheumatism. This is abundant reason for belief that it will cure you. Try it.

—"Your studies are costing me a great deal," said a father to his son, as he reached in his pocket for money to buy more books with. "I know it, father," replied the son, with some emotion; as he pocketed a ten-dollar bill, "and I don't study very hard, either."

Since last October I have suffered from acute inflammation in my nose and head—often in the night having to get up and inhale salt and water for relief. My eye has been, for a week at a time, so I could not see. I have used no end of remedies, also employed a doctor, who said it was impure blood—but I got no help. I used Ely's Cream Balm on the recommendation of a friend. I was faithless, but in a few days was cured. My nose now, and also my eye, is well. It is wonderful how quick it helped me. Mrs. Georgie S. Judson, Hartford, Conn. Easy to use. Price 50 cents.

—Why not let the milk wagon license money go to repairing the pumps? asks the Louisville Courier-Journal.

—"Smith, did you see my wife go down this street?" "Yes, she passed about an hour ago." "Wonder what my chances are for overtaking her?" "Good. The sidewalk is just lined with show windows."

The housekeeper who has not used Pyles Pearline should not wait a day longer without having it in the house. As an article to make washing easy, without having injury to the finest fabric, it is unequalled.

—"A wink in time strengthens the soda water," says the knowing Texas Siftings.

—There are only three newspapers in Persia, and yet there are persons in this country rash enough to start a paper in a town already supplied with half a dozen journals, instead of going to Persia to fill a long-felt want.

Why don't you try Carter's Little Liver Pills? They are a positive cure for sick headache, and all the ills produced by disordered Liver. Only one pill a dose.

—It is not permitted a Mexican to ride in the same carriage with a woman to whom he is betrothed. This is probably because there is always more or less danger of people in a carriage falling out.

Constipation is positively cured by Carter's Little Liver Pills. Not by purging and weakening the bowels, but by regulating and strengthening them. This is done by improving the digestion and stimulating the liver to the proper secretion of bile, when the bowels will perform their customary functions in an easy and natural manner. Purgative pills must be avoided. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Price 25 cents.

—A Massachusetts farmer wants to have his body burned. He has only to get upon his haymow and light his pipe.

Be your own doctor!

It won't cost you one-half as much. Do not delay. Send three two-cent stamps for postage, and we will send you Dr. Kaufman's great work, fine colored plates from life, on disease, its causes and home cure. Address, A. P. Ordway & Co., Boston, Mass.

—Queen Victoria's private fortune is estimated at thirty millions. What a time she will have entering the kingdom.

Where's the sense in spending money for a doubtful affair, when a sure and reliable thing is offered? Hop Porous Plasters for all aches, pains and soreness. The greatest strengthener known. 25 cents.

An Anecdote of Madison.

A letter published in the Washington Post gives an interesting account of a journey made by Andrew Jackson's secretary of state from Washington to James Madison's estate of "Montpelier" near Orange Court-House, Va. After an uncomfortable day and night ride in an old-fashioned Virginia stage coach over heavy roads, Mr. Livingston arrived at Montpelier at 1 o'clock in the morning. Mr. Madison was aroused and the secretary of state was shown to his chamber. The latter says:

He found the venerable father of the constitution a wan and wasted old man, whose hair was blanched and whose form was wasted by blasts of more than eighty winters. He had arisen from an antique poster and curtained bed and was sitting before a wood fire, and by his side stood a small and simple table, on which there burned a single tallow candle. The venerable statesman was himself curtained and almost concealed by a night-gown that reached to his feet. But Mr. Livingston said that as soon as he had opened up the contents of his solitary embassy to the old seer he showed, like Moses, that "his eye was not dim, neither was his natural face abated." He requested Mr. Livingston to read the proclamation to him (meantime ordering another candle to be lighted, Mr. Livingston holding the paper close to and between the two dim lights), and during the reading Mr. Madison gave austere audience, sometimes suggesting a modification, an interlineation or a slight paraphrase, but this mentally and subjectively. When Mr. Livingston had finished, Mr. Madison, after some quiet reflection, requested to have the paper reread. Again Mr. Livingston slowly and deliberately read, again the great and grave constitutionalist from beneath his night cap muttered mental modification. Finally, he asked that he might read the document and note upon it the changes or comments which Gen. Jackson had requested. This he did, and his interlineations were as terse and beautiful and pithy as the pages of the Federalist.

And now the gray of the dawn was stealing through the curtains. Mr. Madison remarked that he had had Mr. Livingston's carriage sent back, and that he would drive with the secretary in his own carriage to the Court-House to catch the stage for Fredricksburg and that they would walk down to breakfast while the carriage was being prepared. It so fell from some miscalculation that when they reached Orange Court-House they found the stage had already some time gone. Mr. Madison at once insisted that Mr. Livingston should use his carriage to Fredericksburg, writing and giving the coachman a note to the landlord of a tavern midway between the stages, or nearly so, instructing him to furnish a fresh team thence to Fredericksburg and return. When within some ten miles of Fredericksburg the stage was overtaken and passed, and Mr. Livingston was thus enabled to anticipate his closest calculations. When he reached the white house the following day and submitted the revised draft to the president, it was formulated and promulgated in the form and phrase of the revision.

Professional Jokers.

Among the frequenters of a well-known Parisian restaurant was a certain methodical personage, who dined there every day, and always at the same table, which the proprietor, with a due regard for so regular a customer, especially reserved for him. Once, however, by some mistake of the waiter, he found on arriving his usual place already occupied by a stranger; and, inwardly fretting at the disappointment, entered into conversation with the mistress of the establishment, who presided at the counter, and awaited the intruder's departure as patiently as he could. The latter seemed in no hurry, for, after consulting the bill of fare, he ordered another dish and a fresh bottle of wine, seeing which the habitue, who would rather have gone without his dinner than taken any place but his own, resolved at all hazards to get rid of the unwelcome guest, and addressing the dame du comptoir in a low tone, inquired if she knew who the individual at his table was.

"Not in the least," she replied; "this is the first time he has been here."

"And ought to be the last," he significantly remarked, "if you knew as I do."

"Why, who is he?"

"The executioner of Versailles!"

"Mon Dieu!" exclaimed the terrified dame du comptoir; and, calling her husband, imparted to him the information she had just received.

"Make out his bill," he said, and counter-order what he has asked for. He must not stay here, or we shall lose every customer we have."

Whereupon, armed with the document in question, he presently crossed the room to where the stranger was sitting, and, ing ired if he were satisfied with his dinner.

"Pretty well," was the answer, "but the service might be quicker. Why don't they bring what I ordered?"

"Monsieur," replied the traiteur, assuming an air of importance, "I am compelled to say that your presence here is undesirable; and that I must request you to leave my house as soon as possible, and on no account to set foot in it again."

"What on earth do you mean?" asked his astonished guest.

"You must be perfectly aware," continued the other, "that your being seen here is most prejudicial to me, and—"

"Speak plainly, man!" impatiently interrupted the stranger. "I insist on being told what you imagine me to be."

"Parbleu! you know as well as I do. The executioner of Versailles!"

"Ah! and pray who is your authority for this?"

"That gentleman," replied the proprietor of the restaurant, pointing to the habitue at the counter, who was beginning to feel uneasy as to the result of his "joke."

"Indeed!" said the stranger, raising his voice so as to be distinctly heard by every one present; "that gentleman has informed you that I am the executioner of Versailles. Well, he ought to know, for two years ago it was my painful duty to brand him!"

With these words, uttered in a tone of complete indifference, he left the amount of reckoning on the table, leaving the other mystifier to dine as he might.—Temple Bar.

The Lancet says that the pain of neuralgia headache experienced by women is generally located in one or more branches of the second cervical nerve, very commonly those terminating in the scalp at the occiput. The nerves of the scalp are irritated by the hair being drawn tightly back, and put on the strain, not as a whole, in which case the strain would be spread over a large area of the surface, but by small bundles of hair, which are pulled back and held in place by hairpins. Relief is often consciously experienced as a result of removing the hairpins, but this has only a temporary and partial effect. The injury done is lasting in its consequences. The present style of dressing hair should be discontinued, as it probably, in part, accounts for the extreme prevalence of neuralgic headache.

Dr. Tiffany says Grant told him that all music seemed to affect him as discord would the sensitive, skilled and cultured ear. He would go a mile out of his way rather than listen to a band.

$500 Not Called For.

It seems strange that it is necessary to persuade men that you can cure their diseases by offering a premium to the man who fail's to receive benefit. And yet Dr. Sage undoubtedly cured thousands of cases of obstinate catarrh with his "Catarrh Remedy," who would never have applied to him, if it had not been for his offer of the above sum for an incurable case. Who is the next bidder for cure or cash?

—Peter was the first man who "went out on a fowl."

Diseases from Pimples to Scrofula Cured by Cuticura.

Hundreds of letters in our possession, copies of which may be had by return of mail, repeat this story:—I have been a terrible sufferer for years from Diseases of the Skin and Blood; have been obliged to shun public places by reason of my disfiguring humors; have had the best physicians; have spent hundreds of dollars, and got no relief until I used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, which have cured me, and left my skin and blood as pure as a child's.

COVERED WITH SALT RHEUM.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are the greatest medicines on earth. I had the worst case of Salt Rheum in this country. My mother had it twenty years, and in fact died from it. I believe CUTICURA would have saved her life. My arms, breast and head were covered for three years, which nothing relieved or cured until I used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, externally. J. W. ADAMS. NEWARK, O.

HEAD, FACE AND BODY RAW.

I commenced to use your CUTICURA REMEDIES last July. My head and face and some parts of my body were almost raw. My head was covered with scabs and sores, and my suffering was fearful. I had tried everything I had heard of in the East and West. My case was considered a very bad one. I have now not a particle of skin disease about me, and my case is considered wonderful. MRS. S. E. WHIPPLE. DECATUR, MICH.

ECZEMA FROM HEAD TO FEET.

Charles Eayre Hinkle, Jersey City Heights, N. J., writes: "My son, a lad of twelve years, was completely cured of a terrible case of Eczema by the CUTICURA REMEDIES. From the top of his head to the soles of his feet was one mass of scabs." Every other remedy and physicians had been tried in vain.

NOTHING LIKE CUTICURA.

The half has not been told as to the great curative powers of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, I have paid hundreds of dollars for medicines to cure diseases of the blood and skin, and never found anything yet to equal the CUTICURA REMEDIES. PROVIDENCE, R. I. CHAS. A. WILLIAMS.

Sick Headache.

GENTS:—I have been subject to Sick Headache for years, and have tried, in vain, many advertised remedies and several physicians, but all to no purpose. At last I tried your B. B. Bitters—without much faith, I admit—but to-day I can truly say, that after taking the third bottle I have not suffered from it. I recommend it to all my friends; several have been cured by it. My little grandson was permanently cured of Biliousness and Sick Headache, which were so severe as to cause convulsions. They have all ceased since he commenced the use of B.B.B.

Yachtsmen's Dinner.

A dinner to the original owners and the designer of the sloop yacht Puritan will be given at the Parker house, Boston, on the 28th of October; it will be given by the Eastern yacht club, and will be a great social event. The correct list of the men who built the Puritan, and who were patriotic enough to uphold the honor of their country, and of their club, has never been given. They are: Commodore H. S. Hovey, Vice Commodore J. Malcomb Forbes, Rear Commodore W. T. Weld, C. J. Paine, W. H. Forbes, J. L. Gardner, Augustus Hemmenway, T. S. Higginson, Wm. Gray, Jr., J. Montgomery Sears and an unknown friend.

The wrecked engine at Hackensack, N. J., was raised from the mud of the swamp on the 19th inst., and beneath the boiler was found the body of a boy, apparently about ten years of age. Beside the body was found the right leg of a boy about twelve years of age, and it is thought that another life has been lost. This makes a total of nine deaths, and possibly ten, from the disaster.

Flour barrels are now being sought for by the apple producers of Rockingham county. Nathan Norton and Charles Scott of Stratham, and John L. Brackett of Greenland "Stayside" had their teams in this city Monday, loading empty barrels. Mr. Brackett brought in that morning a load of very handsome apples, which he sold to a Market street grocer.

The second assembly of this season's course by the Nonpareil Associates will be given at Congress hall on Thursday evening, the 22d inst., and they intend it shall be more successful even than the first one; music by Lord & Medcalf's orchestra.

Mr. Hanson Hoyt had on the steps of his store at Christian Shore, Saturday forenoon, a cabbage weighing twenty-six pounds, raised by Mr. John W. Shannon.

The sloop Screamer having discharged 105 tons of Cape Ann granite at Philbrick's wharf for Silas Philbrick, sailed for Rockport, Mass., on the 20th inst. The schooner Alma arrived at Philbrick's wharf the same day, with coal to O. F. Philbrick & Co.

Mr. Wm. Brooks Brewster came in from Smuttynose island, Isles of Shoals, Monday afternoon, bringing in 400 lobsters, which are now being taken of good size, but are sold at a much less price than last year at this time. He reports a school of mackerel as having appeared off the islands on Monday. Lemuel B. Caswell is at present engaged in hake fishing from Smuttynose, hake being quite plentiful off there now, as well as herring; other fish are scarce. Mr. Caswell is expecting the schooner Golden Gate at his fish stores for the transportation of a large stock of dried fish from the island, previous to his coming into Portsmouth for the winter. The Golden Gate was reported in Boston on Tuesday, about loaded with freight for this city.

It is announced with much positiveness that the Granite State Fire Ins. Co. will be ready for business the first week in November.

A Kittery lady wishes to know "Why is it that the boys are allowed play ball in so much-used a street as Daniel street, and at times when the most of the Kittery travel is passing? If they merely threw the ball it would not be so annoying, but when they strike it with a bat they cannot themselves tell just where it will go, and the passer-by runs a very positive risk of receiving a severe blow. Men may not care for this, but some women do—I for one; and I think the ball-playing should be sent to some other street."

Some hay has been brought in to the Parade from Kittery Point this week, and sold at about $16 a ton. The traditional charcoal merchants from the Mt. Agamenticus district of York have been on the Parade or moving about town several days last week and this.

On Thursday last Mr. William Card, one of the industrious and prudent farmers of York, met with a serious accident through the breaking of his right leg. He is attended by Dr. Hazen.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "100 Doses One Dollar," which is an unanswerable argument as to strength and economy. Hence, for economy as well as for health and strength, buy Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for a book containing statements of many remarkable cures.

SUPREME COURT--BLODGETT J.

TUESDAY, October 20th.

The Supreme Court came in at 10:30, with the usual attendance of the legal fraternity practicing in this county. The docket was read, and of the whole number of cases, nearly 150, only three were marked for trial by jury: John B. Pickering vs. Concord railroad, Francis M. Hatch vs. Joseph Jordan, and Francis M. Hatch vs. John Owen.

The grand jury went out at 11:30, and have, we understand, for examination some 225 witnesses, 75 of which are in liquor cases, coming mainly from Northwood, Deerfield, Derry and Nottingham. It is the intention to go through with these liquor cases to-day, if possible. The other cases will come up to-morrow and the day following. The case of John N. Winkley and George W. GRANITE STATE FIRE INS. CO.

At a meeting of the directors of the Granite State Fire Insurance Co., held on Tuesday, the annual assessment (seventy-five per cent) of the stock subscription was ordered payable Nov. 2d. Charles F. Eastman of Littleton was chosen director, vice Harry Bingham, resigned, and John Hatch of Greenland vice John F. Cloutman of Farmington, resigned. The entire amount of capital has been fully subscribed.

QUERIES.

"One of Many" having enquired in the Chronicle why Deer street was so long blockaded, "Tax Payer" in the Times says: "It is a fair question, and deserving of an answer. And still another question might be put, and perhaps both could be answered better by Contractor Shannehan than any one else. What caused the generous action of our city government towards Mr. Shannehan in lopping off the easterly end of the sewer at a saving of cost to him of at least $1,500, without any consideration to the city?"

AN UNPLEASANT EXPERIENCE.

Mr. C. Dwight Hanscom was on Monday afternoon caught in a sort of trap. He was bound to York, driving a powerful and spirited three-years-old colt, and on reaching the toll-house saw a train coming across the Portsmouth bridge. He would have liked to run away, but there was nowhere to run to, as the gates at the Noble's island bridge would have been closed before he could have reached them; so he hastened to hitch the colt to a ring in one of the buildings by a halter placed around his neck, and then held a firm grip on the bridle. As the train came close the terrified animal plunged wildly in the effort to escape, and Mr. Hanscom received a blow in the face from one of the creature's knees, which knocked him senseless and cut and bruised him badly, necessitating his going under a doctor's care instead of to York.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

The officers and crew of the U. S. S. Galena, who have been for some weeks quartered on board the receiving-ship Constitution, have gone on board their own ship again, and are rapidly fitting her for sea.

There is no concealment of the scandalous manner in which the democratic politicians are running the Brooklyn navy yard; indeed, Mr. Secretary Whitney seems bound to defy all laws of decency, and to care nothing for appearances even, in his zeal to carry the New York election. His ridiculous announcement that all the work in the navy yards north except a few slight repairs could best be done at the Brooklyn yard of course convinced no one—save the Brooklyn and New York democrats that their turn had come! If we may credit the reports, while many of the cabinet officers have managed their departments so as to greatly embarrass the president in his efforts to conduct the affairs of the country according to his pledges, Secretary Whitney is as much to blame as any one. True, it is claimed that though Grover looks the other way while his cabinet ministers violate his pledges, yet he knows it all; still here and there is found a man who believes he is honest in his professions. Let us see what he will do about "building up the navy." Recently Walking Delegate Cornell of the Progressive Painters of New York and Brooklyn found fifty men at work as painters at the Brooklyn yard, who knew absolutely nothing of the business. They openly boasted that they were there through political influence, and did not care for anything the union might do. Mr. Cornell saw the democratic district leaders for whom these men were appointed, but they denied any knowledge of such appointments. He hopes to have sufficient proof of the use of the navy yard as a part of the political "machine" in the course of a few days to go before Secretary Whitney, and if satisfaction is not given to him he will lay the matter before the president. Mr. Cornell is assisted in the matter by other walking delegates in the building trade.

Some of the Market street merchants are anticipating a big fall trade, judging from the numerous heavy boxes which are constantly arriving at their stores.

Pine wood has been selling on Market square at $4.50 per cord. Some of very fine quality, easily sawed and split, has of late been brought in by Mr. E. S. Odiorne from his farm on Rye road, near the Elwyn place.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

TUESDAY, Oct. 20th.

Ambrose Yeaton, for drunkenness, was called upon for $9.90, fine and costs; for not responding, he was sent to Brentwood.

Lewis Dissell, a man about forty years old, was brought up on a charge of aggravated assault on John Shea, aged eighty-four. The parties belong in Chester. Dissell and his wife have lived in Shea's house, and it appears that Mrs. Dissell, in Shea's absence, sold some of his clothing to a peddler. Shea, on learning of this, remonstrated with vigorous vehemence, whereupon Dissell knocked him down in a corner, pounded him, and hit him with a maul, breaking one of his legs and injuring his head. He was held in $800 for trial at the January term of the supreme court at Exeter, and failing to furnish sureties, was committed to jail. As Shea is an old man, it is quite possible that his assailant may have to answer to a more serious charge than aggravated assault.

Of Mr. E. A. Locke's new comedy, "Si Perkins; or, the girl I left behind me," the Evening News of New York says:

The author's heroes run in the line of countrymen, as illustrated by Uncle Dan'l, in "A Messenger from Jarvis' Section," and Gilderoy Punk, in "The Jerseyman." In the character of Si Perkins he illustrates a country drummer, for which he has fitted Mr. Frank Jones very nicely, or it would be fairer to say that the actor has very cleverly dropped into the part—which he has. The dry humor of Si Perkins of Pughtown, the irrepressible seller of threshing machines and persistent lover of Zana, were given with a quiet drollery that caused continuous laughter. So good a play, and so well acted, should draw large audiences during this, the only week it can be presented at this theatre.

Tickets for reserved seats now on sale at Goodrich's.

EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1845, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

What is the use!

Of buying worthless medicine, and spending money on quack doctors whose only idea is to gull the public. Is it not better to buy reliable medicine like Sulphur Bitters? I think so, as they cured me of Catarrh after suffering three years. —F. P. Clark, Manchester.

H. W. Clark and son of St. Paul, Minn., were badly, if not fatally, burned by the explosion of a can of gasoline, Oct. 26th.

Charles D. Fredericks, 770 Broadway, N. Y., the celebrated photographer, says that Allcock's Porous Plasters have been used by himself and family over twenty years. He found them wonderfully efficacious in coughs, colds, and pain in the back and side. Applied to the pit of the stomach they quickly cured him of indigestion and dyspepsia. He also found them admirable liver regulators when applied on the right side.

George Brewster fell from a tree at Maplewood, Mass., Oct. 19th, and broke his neck.

John Morrison has been arrested in Quincy, Mass., for murderous assault on Robert Sparrow, of Rockland, on May 24th.

Norris Peters of Washington, the contractor for photo-lithographing the Patent-Office Gazette, is negotiating for the purchase of an island on the Maine coast for a summer residence. Mr. Peters is very wealthy, and owns a fine steam yacht. This yacht, which hereafter be taken to Maine for the summer, will be greatly missed by some of the high officials in Washington, for its owner entertained them on his craft with great liberality.

What One Dollar Properly Placed Did.

Jackson, the driver of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express wagon, is the lucky man. He is highly elated at his good fortune. One day last week he offered half of his ticket for fifty cents, which offer was not accepted.—Newton (Kan.) Republican, Sept. 18th.

At Osawakie, Kansas, Oct. 19th, a farmer named Lander put ten pounds of powder into a wagon containing himself, wife and two children, and a Mrs. Steck. He then lighted his pipe, and the powder exploded, killing Mrs. Lander, and fatally wounding all the others.

There is no one article in the line of medicines that gives so large a return for the money as a good porous strengthening plaster, such as Carter's Smart Weed and Belladonna Backache Plasters.

The house of W. S. Bates of Chicago took fire in the kitchen on the 19th, and was considerably damaged. Mrs. Bates, her two children and her mother were burned to death.

A Wonderful Freak of Nature

Is sometimes exhibited in our public exhibitions. When we gaze upon some of the peculiar freaks dame nature occasionally indulges in, our minds revert back to the creation of man, "who is so fearfully and wonderfully made." The mysteries of his nature have been unraveled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, and through his knowledge of those mysteries he has been able to prepare his "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a specific for all blood taints, poisons and humors, such as scrofula, pimples, blotches, eruptions, swellings, tumors, ulcers and kindred affections. By druggists.

The most sanguine of the physicians in Montreal admit that their hopes in regard to a decrease of smallpox have not been fulfilled. The death rate, which had been a fraction in excess of fifty a day, for two or three weeks, was increased last week to over fifty-seven. The total mortality from the disease last week was 403, and of these, nine were Protestants.

The distressing disease, Salt Rheum, is readily cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier. Sold by all druggists.

A crematory is to be built at Buffalo, N. Y.

The housekeeper who has not used Pyles Pearline should not wait a day longer without having it in the house. As an article to make washing easy, without having injury to the finest fabric, it is unequalled.

Through the breaking of a guy at the Lowell, Mass., water works on the 21st inst. five derricks fell, killing one man and injuring four others, one fatally.

Why don't you try Carter's Little Liver Pills? They are a positive cure for sick headache, and all the ills produced by disordered Liver. Only one pill a dose.

By a coal mine explosion at Plymouth, Pa., Oct. 21st, fifteen men were killed or fatally burned, and it was reported that many men and boys were in the mine and nothing known of their fate.

Constipation is positively cured by Carter's Little Liver Pills. Not by purging and weakening the bowels, but by regulating and strengthening them. This is done by improving the digestion and stimulating the liver to the proper secretion of bile, when the bowels will perform their customary functions in an easy and natural manner. Purgative pills must be avoided. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Price 25 cents.

Rev. A. E. Goodnough, late of Brocton, was on the 19th inst. installed as pastor of the Unitarian church in Ithaca, New York.

That Dirty Dandruff.

Dandruff is dirty and disagreeable in every way. It soils the clothing continually, and is accompanied by a hardly less annoying sensation of itching. The scalp is diseased. There is nothing in the world so thoroughly adapted to this trouble as Parker's Hair Balsam. It cleanses and heals the scalp, stops the falling hair and restores its original softness, gloss and color. Is not oily, highly perfumed, an elegant dressing. Very economical, as only a small occasional application keeps the hair in perfect condition.

Divine Service at the Capitol.

Divine services were held every Sunday morning in the old hall of the house of representatives, but when the new hall was occupied, and the war was commenced; congress began to elect Washington clergymen as chaplains, who preferred to occupy their own pulpits, and thus save the expense of hiring substitutes. The result has been that while under the old plan of having congressional services at the capitol nearly all of the senators and representatives attended, but few of them now ever darken the doors of the city churches.

The old hall of the house, modeled after a Grecian theatre, was as imposing in appearance as it was unfit for legislation. The talent of successive architects, of the luxuriant L'Enfant, the magnificent Latrobe, and the practical Bulfinch, aided by the decorations of accomplished sculptors, foreign and domestic, and set off by all the gorgeousness of modern upholstery and Honduras mahogany, wrought and polished by the master artists of New York and Philadelphia, had conspired to make a room utterly unfit for any earthly purpose to which it could never be applied, for no member could hear what any other member said. At the bottom of a lofty colonnade, which rivaled the portico of the Pantheon in magnitude and surpassed it in the richness of its materials was the curtained pagoda, which, like the poet's nightcap, "a cap by night, a stocking all the day," after serving for six days as the throne of human legislation, became the chair of pulpit eloquence on the seventh. There was a choir composed of those officers of congress who were singers, with the wives and daughters of some of them, and hymn books were provided.

The chaplains of the senate and of the house, who alternately officiated, adhered to their respective forms of worship. Distinguished divines visiting the metropolis were invited to officiate at the capitol on Sunday, and thus Roman Catholic bishops, Hebrew rabbis, Unitarians, Presbyterians, Episcopalians, and Methodists each had an opportunity for explaining their respective creeds. Whenever the sermon was too long, and an inspection of watches told the audience that the northern mail had arrived, there were visible signs of impatience. When it waxed later, and resident auditors, who went to the city churches in the afternoon, began to fear that they would lose their own early and frugal Sunday dinner, other symptoms of disquietude were visible. And when at last the dinner bells were heard from the neighboring boarding-houses, many of the audience would unceremoniously leave, bringing the preacher to an abrupt conclusion. It is to be regretted that these congressional services at the capitol have been discontinued. They secured the attendance of the senators and representatives, not one in twenty of whom now hear a sermon, and they exercised a pleasant influence upon the asperities of legislation.—Ben: Perley Poore.

The Russian Peasantry.

I can see many signs of change and improvement since my previous visit to this country in 1872, writes a correspondent to the San Francisco Chronicle. For centuries the Russian peasant had scarcely any idea of personal liberty. He was liable to be worked to death, to be unlawfully and excessively taxed, to be torn from his family and sent into the army or to Siberia, and to see his children similarly treated. In 1868 a Russian serf-owner, a woman, was convicted of having done to death by inhuman tortures during a course of ten years no less than one hundred of her serfs, among them several young girls of not over 12 years of age. Another female fiend pricked a boy to death with a pen-knife because he had neglected to feed her rabbits. All this is now changed. The serfs have become independent of their lords, whose authority is replaced by communal self-government. The rural communes have gradually acquired the lands formerly held by the nobles, and have distributed them among the families which compose the commune with great impartiality and due regard to their several claims and abilities. The nobles have not failed to accommodate themselves to the change. Formerly they passed their lives in idleness, gambling and sensuality, despising commerce and finding their only career in the army. Since the emancipation many of them have become practical farmers and others have gone into business or into the legal profession and helped swell the rising middle class. The peasant has of late years fallen heir to new duties. The administration of justice has greatly improved, and trial by jury has usurped the place of the nobles' fiat. The peasants make very good jurymen. They are uneducated, but do not lack in shrewdness and common sense. Sharp dealing in trade, assaults and battery, and drunkenness they look upon as venial faults, but burglary, arson, highway robbery, and the graver crimes are dealt with sternly and, upon the whole, very fairly.

Greek Brigands.

A pamphlet written by a Greek, a cavalry lieutenant, gives some very curious accounts of the system of brigandage as it is now carried on in the Greco-Turkish boundaries. The brigand's code of laws, as at present existing, is a strange mixture of barbarity and chivalry. It contains several clauses, some of which run as follows: "All traitors to be killed and exposed. The rich to be captured, and not allowed to depart till they have paid ransom and sworn not to injure the brigands by a relation of their adventures to the authorities. All soldiers to be killed. The bearers of the ransom to be respected and small money to be given them on their departure. All robbers plotting with government to be killed. Should a captive escape, his keeper is to be held responsible and expelled from the band. Never to steal the goats and sheep from the shepherd but to pay for all taken. To offer gifts at any monastery or hermitage, by way of expiation for sin." It is the shepherds who support the brigands, and by whose means they are so well hid from the authorities. They supply them with bread, meat, and wine, serve them as guides in times of danger, and it is their children that are educated to be brigands and who reinforce their ranks. Immense precautions are taken by the robbers against surprises. They always travel by night, proceeding in file through the open country, never through the narrow passes, for fear of ambushes. The smallest object, the faintest sound startles them, and down they drop flat on their stomachs till their confidence is renewed. Before starting on any of those journeys, they always appoint a rendezvous in case of separation. Their scouts go on in front, driving horses or oxen, and habited as drovers. Under their shelter follows the main body, peeping cautiously beneath the cattle to see if an enemy is approaching, and behind come the vanguard, who, if anything is amiss, whistles like a night bird, and the band disperses.

A leading model has a set of cuff and shirt studs made of Chinese finger nails, set in gold. He points with pride at his exclusive possessions, which are made of a Chinaman's finger nail which was four inches long when cut. The nail in the studs presents a shiny appearance and is susceptible to changes in the weather. Their owner claims that they were successfully used by him as a weather barometer when he first got them, but their sensitiveness in this direction has been lost through age.

"My son, when you go to the city, get you a bicycle, some tight pants, some tooth-pick shoes, and a slender cane, but with all your gettings don't fail to get a bottle of Salvation Oil, for "pride (you know,) goeth before a fall."

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to evelop into serious consumption. Being constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, eaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Since last October I have suffered from acute inflammation in my nose and head —often in the night having to get up and inhale salt and water for relief. My eye has been, for a week at a time, so I could not see. I have used no end of remedies, also employed a doctor, who said it was impure blood—but I got no help. I used Ely's Cream Balm on the recommendation of a friend. I was faithless, but in a few days was cured. My nose now, and also my eye, is well. It is wonderful how quick it helped me. Mrs. Georgie S. Gen. Grant in a Great Crisis.

Hon. Chauncey M. Depew, of New York, has furnished the press with a copy of his open letter to Colonel F. D. Grant, in which he details a conversation had with General Grant about four years ago. This is the conversation mentioned by C. W. Depew in his speech before the chamber of commerce soon after the general's death, and which was published by the press at that time. It shows how Grant's firmness is resisting the overtures of Andrew Johnson for a reconstruction of the southern cause saved the nation from a fresh civil war, in which, as Johnson said, the northern men would have been "the rebels."

Bad Company.

In East Boston, on the afternoon of the 20th inst., Miss Lizzie Hodson, of No. 10 Bennington street, heard strange footsteps in the vicinity of the refrigerator on the second floor. With commendable strategy she removed her boots, and approaching the refrigerator saw two strangers busily engaged in the pleasurable pursuit of devouring some portion of the family's evening meal. Her approach was detected by the visitors, who strove to reach the street in advance of the "female spy;" but she descended the front stairway in advance of them, and closing the outer door held the same fast until she summoned her father, who was in an adjoining room, and the latter called in two officers, who placed the hungry callers under arrest.

On reaching the station it was found that both the prisoners were from Bangor, Me. One of them, named Michael McCloskey, had all the graces of a professional "pad," while the other proved to be a journalist of considerable reputation, connected with a Bangor paper and correspondent of some of the leading Boston journals. The latter was completely overcome by the disgraceful situation in which he found himself, declaring his connection with the petty theft was due in part to a semi-intoxicated condition, and in part to the fact that his companion (McCloskey) claimed to know the inmates of the house, and asked him in.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Oct. 20th.

Pepperrell Lodge of Good Templars, of Kittery Point, will give an apron-and-necktie party in Patch's hall on Wednesday evening, the 21st.

Miss Minnie Paul, daughter of Warrington Paul, Esq., of West Kittery, has kept a successful term of school in district twelve, closing the same with an exhibition last week.

The Salvation Army from Portsmouth came to Kittery Foreside on Tuesday forenoon, and formed in line and marched to the gates of the navy yard, but were not allowed admittance; this is the second time a detachment of the army have tried to gain admission to the yard, without success. Evidently they know the great reform needs salvation.

Mr. Calvin L. Hayes, another one of the old navy yard clerks, was last week called back to do the work of his former office. This time he is called a rigger; we should say it was quite a rig on the present regime.

Col. T. E. O. Marvin, agent of the S. F. C. A., came to Kittery one day last week and killed the old family horse of Mr. John F. Goodsoe. As the animal had always been a faithful servant, John would not let any one have him to abuse in his last days.

Rev. E. E. Colburn will commence another course of lectures at the 2d Christian church on Sunday evening next. Subject, "The two builders."

As Dennis Manson of North Kittery, was making some repairs on the roof of his brother Morrill's barn, the ladder on which he was at work slipped, throwing him a distance of eighteen feet to the ground, badly hurting his head and shoulder; it was a very narrow escape from a more serious injury.

Mrs. Thomas J. Pettigrew is this week packing, and preparing to start by Monday, the 25th inst. for Washington, D. C. She will be accompanied by her two younger daughters, Misses Augusta and Pearl; Miss Susie, the oldest, will remain north, she being at present a compositor in the office of the Newburyport Herald. Mrs. Pettigrew will probably make Washington her home in the future, or as long as her husband retains his position as a draughtsman there.

Mrs. E. S. Appleton is visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fannie R. Kierman, at Alliston, Mass.

Mr. Henry Moulton, we understand, has raised from one half peck of Pearl of Savoy potatoes planted last spring, ten bushels of nice looking potatoes.

Henry Muchmore who has been home from the west several weeks this summer, to visit his home in North Kittery, returned to Marshalltown, Iowa, last week.

The ladies of the 2d Methodist society at the Foreside will give a harvest supper at their vestry on Friday evening, the 23d inst. SUB ROSA.

At Indianapolis, Ind., Harrison Tasker, a negro hostler of bad reputation, married and having a family, inveigled a young German girl, Helen Huendland, into his room, and criminally assaulted her. The unfortunate girl has since been very much prostrated, and has attempted to kill herself; her mother is dangerously ill, and her father nearly insane. The ruffian was before the court on the 20th inst., when his victim's brother, a youth of nineteen, made a good shot at him, putting a bullet into his abdomen and fatally wounding him. The boy says he meant to kill the scoundrel, and only fears he may not die.

It is stated that the pope has signified his intention of placing the faculty of theology of the Laval seminary at Quebec upon the same footing as that of the faculty at Rome. It is the desire of his holiness to have Laval the principal university in America. All the ecclesiastics of North America, instead of going to Rome to complete their theological studies, will hereafter receive the same degrees at Laval.

In the equity case of Frank Jones vs. city of Portsmouth and Contractor Shannehan, a demurrer was opposed by Hon. John S. H. Frink, and supported by City Solicitor Emery. The court intimated that the demurrer could not be sustained, and a hearing in the case was ordered.

A BLACK MARK.

Two girls large enough to know better, amused themselves a few days ago by marking buildings and fences at the west end with charcoal. They were detected in their senseless pastime, and their names preserved to be handed to the police on the occasion of a repetition of the offence.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

HAMPTON, Oct. 20th.

The fiend of fire has been again at work at the beach. The summer residence and stable of Mr. N. P. Rines were burned last night, 19th inst. The house was not occupied, Mr. Rines and family having returned home to Concord.

The house or store of Mr. Locke was broken into a few nights since. * *

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

Orders have been received at this navy yard to ship to the Washington yard the huge pile of scrap iron, amounting to several hundred tons, together with a large number of heavy anchors which are unfit for issue.

The repairs upon the U. S. S. Galena are rapidly approaching completion, and it is expected she will be ready for sea in a week or ten days.

Most of the riggers employed on the navy yard were disrated from riggers to first-class laborers on the 21st inst., and set to work at moving scrap iron, unserviceable anchors, etc., preparatory to shipping the same to the Washington yard.

This evening, at Music hall, Frank Jones and Miss Alice Montague in "Si Perkins: or, the girl I left behind me," supported by a competent company. Tickets at Goodrich's.

The directors of the Cottage Hospital gratefully acknowledge the donation of a molasses jug, a biscuit cutter and a match safe from Mrs. John Shaw.

The hospital, as has been stated, will be open to visitors every day this week from ten o'clock till one and from two till four, and it is hoped that every one interested, and especially our active business men, will find time to call.

The gentlemen who bought the Worcester, Nashua & Rochester railroad stock at sixty, not long ago, are now pleased to find it has advanced nearly a hundred per cent since their purchase; while those who were glad to sell at par, now wish they had held a little longer. It is the most rapid rise in a New England railway stock seen in the market for many a year. The question that puzzles the *quid nunc*s is, what line is to have the road and at what rate?

Eastern railroad shares have advanced of late to fifty-three, which for a stock on which no dividend is paid is a fair price. Some one who has a thousand shares is to try them at auction on the 28th, and the block may have the effect, if sold without limit, to knock down the price of shares in the market. Conway stock, which is worth just as much, sells at forty-three.

Mr. George F. Plaisted of York Corner writes that on Monday evening, the 19th inst., the blasts of the steam gong in this city were distinctly heard in his store at the corner, the numbers two and six being plainly made out.

Mr. Joseph H. Gardiner of this city has been appointed a member of the board of trustees of the proposed Odd Fellows' orphans' home.

Ms. John W. Gerrish has gone on a vacation for two weeks, and Fence Viewer Abram S. Wa ron, Esq., is conducting his restaurant during his absence.

Col. D. I. Baker of the department of justice, who has spe some time in examining the records and papers of the federal courts in this state, and the accounts of the marsha district attorney, clerks, etc., left for Washington on Wednesday, the 21st inst.

In the United States circuit court the suit of King, administrix, against the Connecticut & Passumpsic River railroad, removed from the state court of Grafton county, has been settled, and an agreement to discontinue filed in the office of the clerk of the court. Th action was brought to recover ten thou and dollars damages incurred by reason the death of Chas. King, who was a conductor of an excursion train of the Boston, Concord & Montreal railroad, which ran over the Passumpsic road to Lake Memphremagog at Newport. King alight near the station to assist a passenger, nd as was alleged fell through a large open space between the ties in the bridge into the lake, and died in consequence.

The schooner L. T. Whitmore, th 476 tons of coal, arrived from Port Jenson, N. J., on the 20th inst., and schooner Leonessa, from the same po with 299 tons, arrived on the 21st, bo to E. F. Sise & Co.

The Nonpareil Associates' club room, corner of Daniel and Penhallow streets, is being still further ornamented and adorned; a new centre-piece has been painted by their decorative artist, Mr. Wm. Hennessey, who last season was an engineer at the Wentworth; and lambrequins have been put up at the windows under direction of Mr. Thomas Kelley, who is one of the best players and baritone singers of the club. Mr. James Flynn, who is a good organist and nice tenor singer, is another of their popular vocalists.

Kossuth still wears a hat like the one that he wore forty years ago. So does Judge Woodbury.—Boston Post.

Like it! It's the same hat.

On the 16th inst., in the United States circuit court at Portland, Me., Mr. Justice Webb granted an injunction restraining Frank E. Johnson of Wiscasset from further making or selling a liniment claimed by I. S. Johnson & Co. of Boston to be an infringement of their "Johnson's Anodyne Liniment," which is the oldest article of the kind made in the United States, having been manufactured and used more than three-quarters of a century. Messrs. Johnson & Co. propose to uphold in the courts their right to the benefits of the reputation as well as of the name of their valuable liniment.

Dan Gerry was locked up for drunkenness in Rochester on the 19th inst., but when the police looked for him next morning he was gone, and also Mary Jane Holland. Two monkey wrenches, a crowbar, a railroad pin and a steel cutter were found in Gerry's room. They had cut the locks and jumped out of an entry window fifteen feet from the ground. It is supposed that two chums of Gerry's stole the tools from a blacksmith's shop which they had broken into, and in some way got them to Gerry.

Louisa Wilson, aged eighteen years, daughter of John Wilson of Quincy, Mass., drowned herself in an abandoned quarry near her home on the 19th inst. She was engaged to be married, the day was fixed, and preparations for the ceremony had been made. The post mortem examination disclosed the fact that she was in a delicate condition, which was no doubt the cause of her suicide.

It is announced that "A new bird as big as a robin, with black body and brown head, now keeps company with the English sparrow, and is a puzzle to naturalists." If the new bird will only puzzle the sparrow by proceeding to eat him up, it will be satisfactory to many people.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."

CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them as early and favorable considerations at the Patent Office." EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1849, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

Medical Men of Distinction

Have been among the foremost to give honor where honor was due in the case of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Abjuring old fashioned professional prejudice, they have frankly borne evidence to its worth as a means of remedying dyspepsia, fever and ague, bilious remittent, rheumatism, constipation, liver complaint, debility and renal disorders. With all intelligent people this favorable professional verdict has had its due weight, especially as it was in direct confirmation of that of the people and the press. Far more effectual has it proved than bombastic assertion, too often resorted to by the proprietors of remedies of doubtful value. "The plain unvarnished truth" about the Bitters is more than sufficient to convince a skeptic. As a family medicine of comprehensive utility, prompt and thorough in action and pure in composition, it stands deservedly first.

The divorce case of Taber vs. Taber commenced in Boston on the 19th inst. Parson Downs was on the 20th asked to resign the pastorate of the Bowdoin square Baptist church, by a vote of 118 to eighty-nine.

Charles D. Fredericks, 770 Broadway, N. Y., the celebrated photographer, says that Allcock's Porous Plasters have been used by himself and family over twenty years. He found them wonderfully efficacious in coughs, colds, and pain in the back and side. Applied to the pit of the stomach they quickly cured him of indigestion and dyspepsia. He also found them admirable liver regulators when applied on the right side.

Miss Effie Littledale, of Glasgow, Scotland, arrived in Boston by the steamship Manitoba on the 17th inst., and took rooms at the American house. On the morning of the 20th she was found dead, having hung herself. She was about thirty-five years old, and suffering from consumption.

What Parents Fear.

Many persons—especially parents—object to many quack nostrums as likely to engender or encourage a love for strong drink. They are right. Better die of disease than of drunkenness. The use of Parker's Tonic does not involve this danger. It not only builds up the system, curing all ailments of the stomach, liver and kidneys, but it stimulates without intoxicating and absolutely cures the appetite for liquor.

At Quebec, two cases of smallpox have proved fatal. The local board of health have prohibited the disembarkation of passengers there until they shall have undergone an inspection by the medical officers.

If there ever was a specific for any one complaint, then Carter's Little Liver Pills are a specific for sick headache, and every woman should know this. Only one pill a dose.

A Wonderful Freak of Nature

Is sometimes exhibited in our public exhibitions. When we gaze upon some of the peculiar freaks dame nature occasionally indulges in, our minds revert back to the creation of man, "who is so fearfully and wonderfully made." The mysteries of his nature have been unraveled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, and through h's knowledge of those mysteries he has been able to prepare his "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a specific for all blood taints, poisons and humors, such as scrofula, pimples, blotches, eruptions, swellings, tumors, ulcers and kindred affections. By druggists.

Capt. E. O. Matthews is ordered to command the Brooklyn.

Chief Engr. Alfred Adamson is ordered to the Iroquois, and Chief Engr. W. Hall to the Yantic.

Rheumatism is primarily caused by acidity of the blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, and thus cures the disease.

Chaplain John S. Wallace is ordered to the Minnesota, and Chaplain John D. Bengless to the Brooklyn.

Asst. Engr. F. H. Eldridge is ordered to the Ranger, and Asst. Engrs. W. F. Darrah and C. W. Dyson to the Adams.

Constipation is positively cured by Carter's Little Liver Pills. Not by purging and weakening the bowels, but by regulating and strengthening them. This is done by improving the digestion and stimulating the liver to the proper secretion of bile, when the bowels will perform their customary functions in an easy and natural manner. Purgative pills must be avoided. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Price 25 cents.

Chaplain S. D. Boerum is ordered from the Minnesota to the Jamestown; Chaplain Donald McLaren, from Philadelphia naval asylum to the Tennessee; Chaplain F. B. Rose, from the Jamestown to the Philadelphia naval asylum; Chaplain R. R. Hoes, from the Tennessee and placed on waiting orders.

Be your own doctor!

It won't cost you one-half as much. Do not delay. Send three two-cent stamps for postage, and we will send you Dr. Kaufman's great work, fine colored plates from life, on disease, its causes and how to cure. Address, A. P. Ordway & Co., Boston, Mass.

Commodore John G. Walker, chief of the bureau of navigation, and Commodore Montgomery Sicard, chief of the bureau of ordnance, have been reappointed by the secretary of the navy, their previous terms having expired on the 22d inst.

Where's the sense in spending money for a doubtful affair, when a sure and reliable thing is offered? Hop Porous Plasters for all aches, pains and soreness. The greatest strengthener known. 25 cents.

Lieutenant G. H. Harbor is detached from the Washington navy yard and ordered to the Saratoga; Lieutenant W. H. Turner, from the naval academy and ordered to the Portsmouth; Lieutenant J. P. Comley, from the Portsmouth and placed on waiting orders; Lieutenant George W. Mentz, from the Vermont to the Saratoga; Lieutenant Lucien Flynn, from the Jamestown to the Portsmouth; Lieutenant George F. Holman, from the Saratoga and placed on waiting orders; Lieutenants Herbert Winslow and J. W. Sears, from the Portsmouth and placed on waiting orders; Lieutenant H. R. Tyler, from the Wabash to the Portsmouth.

Why throw away so much hard-earned money trying worthless medicines, when for 35 cents a remedy can be procured that will cure coughs, colds, sore lungs and croup? Give it a trial. Adamson's Balsam will do it. Trial bottle ten cents.

of ATHLOPHOROS cured my wife of acute neuralgia. Instead of being laid up for two or three days as usual, it was all over in three hours and she has not had an attack since."—JOHN AUGER, 129 Howe Street, New Haven, Conn.

Sometimes ATHLOPHOROS will not act as quickly as in this case, but it is sure and the more severe the pain the more quickly it will act. There is no disease more common and none more intensely painful than neuralgia. Ladies particularly are subject to headaches of neuralgic origin. Neuralgia in any form can be surely cured. Athlophoros is absolutely safe and absolutely harmless. Thousands who have suffered intensely with neuralgia and been cured by the use of Athlophoros prove the truth of this statement. Is it not worth a trial in your case?

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

Meadowsweet.

Through grass, through amber'd corn-fields, on slow stream—
Fringed with the flags and reeds and rushes tall
And meadowsweet, the chosen from them all

By wandering children, yellow as the cream
Of those great cows—winds on as in a dream
By mill and footbridge, hamlet old and small (Red roofs, gray towers), and sees the sunset gleam
On mullioned windows of an ivied hall.

There, once upon a time, the heavy king
Trod out its perfume from the meadow-sweet,
Strewn like a woman's love beneath his feet.

In stately dance or jovial banqueting,
When all was new; and in its wayfaring
Our streamlets curved, as now, through grass and wheat.

PLAYING FAN-TAN.

"Did you ever see Chinamen gamble? Come with me then, and I'll show you. They are the most inveterate gamblers in the world. A Canton Chinaman would sell his cue to raise a stake to gamble with."

Expressing a desire to see this exhibition of Oriental depravity, my cicerone led me to the front door of a house in the windows of which hung the tawdry red curtains and other decorations betokening a Chinese laundry.

"Chin-Chin," said he, as we entered the interior, to an almond-eyed Celestial engaged in polishing up the bosom of a linen shirt that was spread out on a narrow counter behind the dingy curtain.

"Chin-Chin," responded the Chinaman, as he looked up to take in the features of his visitors. "What can do for Melican man to-day?"

My guide stepped up to the son of the flowery kingdom, and laying his hand lightly on his shoulder whispered some most infernal tea-box gibberish in his ear. Our laundryman appeared to catch on satisfactorily, for he immediately said:

"Allee lite; clome this side," showing us the way into the interior heathen sanctum hung with more red curtains, and where the light was dim and the smell more than aromatic. "Me go catchee Ah-Kee. Back bly and bly. Sit down!" motioning us to a rickety rattan sofa, which from its age might have been used in the Confucius homestead, and then leaving us for the remoter part of the house, passing out through more red curtains, which contrasted patriotically with the immaculate white of his pajama and the blue nankeen of his trousers.

In a little while Ah-Kee, who appeared to be a sort of mandarin in the place, and who was a rather large-framed Chinaman, with keen, oblique, black eyes, cue tied up on top of his head, and dressed in semi-European costume, returned. A short confab took place between him and the guide, and turning he said:

"Allee lite, you flend wantee see Chinaman glamble, play fan-tan. Allee lite. Clome along," with which he led the way through the red curtains, along back by a narrow hallway, up a flight of stairs to a door leading to a rear room of the ded. At this he stopped. "Me lap," giving a mystic wink of his eye and an esoteric crack or two with his long, bony fingers on the panels. "Ah-Foo, velly much flade, Melican dlectective. No wanchee get pulled." In a few seconds the door was quietly unbolted on the inside, and with Messrs. Ah-Kee and Ah-Foo and the guide, who had such intimate acquaintance with them, the Times man was carried through another room, garnished with more red curtains and another door, where a queer sight met his gaze. Gathered about a large round table in the center of the room were some ten or twelve Chinamen, all so apparently intent on what was going on there that they scarce noticed or looked up at the intruders. The room was almost dark, the light was so dim. On the mantel over a disused fireplace was a blue Canton jar, in which were burning some tapers. Most of the Chinamen had little long bamboo pipes the small bowls of which were being incessantly filled. On some couches or bunks in a far corner of the room were huddled two or three sleepers, who either from opium or fatigue at the game, or both, had succumbed. In the center of the table was a huge pile of brass "cash"—the Chinese penny, with square holes in it.

One man, who was introduced as Hong Lee, acted as banker, and in a drawer by him was quite a comfortable pile of United States coin and a roll of notes. The game seemed to require each Celestial round the table in the play to rake out of the large central pile a smaller pile. Then they all began to assort these lesser piles, together with the banker, into small groups of four each. This counting off of fours was done with marvelous dexterity. As the last was reached the payments of the bets depended on how many of the cash were left in the banker's group, 1, 2, 3, or 4, and the coincidence of the individual better's group with it.

"This is the great Chinese gambling game, fan-tan. Everybody in China plays it, from Prince Kung down to the coolies," said the guide. "It is a very simple game, but the combinations of betting are very great. They do not all bet that the last remaining count of the cash in their groups by fours will coincide with the banker's, but that there will be one, two, or three cash in his group or four, which makes some out even, and on this they can bet, and, indeed, many other ways. Macao, the Portuguese concession of the bay from Hong Kong, is a gamble house, where as heavy gambling is done as any place in the world. There is a large one at Canton, another at Singapore, and one at Foo-chu-fu. Everybody plays in China has its fan-tan. Go to this. They gamble, smoke opium and tobacco in these places, and often days at a sitting. It's a comparatively square game; being so simple it would be hard to practice a skin on a Chinaman. A European, however, could be skinned by a Chinaman every day in the week at it, for, as you see, they play and sort the cash with wonderful rapidity. No European is as dexterous digitally or has such a sense of touch as a Chinaman. The latter can tell by feel and balancing on his fingers the slightest difference of weight in a silver coin. Chinese "shroffs," as they are called, are used in the California banks and the banks out in India and China to "shroff" the Mexican dollars—that is, examine and throw out from "first chop" second and third-chop dollars. This is done by the fingers, and with marvelous celerity.—Philadelphia Times.

The history of Frederic A. Gower, the popular inventor and experimenter in ballooning, whose fate since his recent ascent from an English town is shrouded in mystery, would make a fascinating romance. His mind was original in a distinct degree; he had presence, tact and skill, all in his favor, and, although he had for the time retired from business, it is evident that he possessed one of those temperaments which could not long be satisfied without action.

Gen. Grant did not like coarse stories. It is related that on the General's staff in one of his campaigns was a rough and ready fighter, "full of strange oaths" and stranger vulgarities. One evening, in the presence of Gen. Grant and several brother officers, he opened the conversation in some such way as this: "Well, boys, I've got a mighty good thing to tell you. It would hardly do to repeat, of course, in the presence of ladies." "Well," Grant interrupted, in his firm but quiet way, "allow me to suggest, then, that it might be advisable to omit it in the presence of gentlemen."

Mr. Joseph F. Marcer, chief clerk to Mayor Smith, of Philadelphia, found Red Star Cough Cure a most efficacious remedy, as also did his wife and family, on whom it effected a permanent cure.

In Grant's Honor.

Memorial services in honor of Gen. Grant were held in Tremont Temple, Boston, Thursday afternoon last. Mayor O'Brien presided. Part of an ode written for the occasion by Mrs. Julia Ward Howe was sung by a select choir, and Prof. Moses T. Brown of Tufts college read a striking poem entitled "Grant," written by Miss Louise Imogen Guiney; Rev. Henry Ward Beecher delivered an eloquent panegyric; "The American Song," composed by Rev. Mr. Savage, was sung, and Rev. Mr. Hamilton pronounced the benediction. Tremont Temple was crowded.

ALMOST READY.

The blanks for the policies of the Granite State Fire Insurance company have been prepared and printed. They are according to the Standard Policy of New Hampshire. Instead of a mass of recitals in small type, whose fine print can only be read with a magnifying glass, and then understood only by consulting some lawyer, who will in all probability disagree with every other lawyer, especially those who represent the companies, upon the construction of the law of the contract, the whole policy is printed in clear type, with marginal notes calling attention to the various phases of the contract. The paper is brief and can be read at a single sitting, and comprehended by a person of ordinary intelligence.

The company is rapidly becoming ready to issue its policies. The full sum of its authorized capital will be paid in early in November, and as soon thereafter as the insurance commissioner shall have certified to this payment, policies will issue. From all sections of the state have been received at the office applications for agencies, and it would seem that the company would have a large business in the state. The problem for the officers to solve is not how much property they can issue policies upon, but how to discriminate and judiciously place their risks so that with the ordinary experience in such matters the company will be successful in its operations.

If, as is alleged by some of the insurance men, fires have been frequently the result of deliberate fraud, it is to be hoped that under the new law, with less inducement to over-insure property, such illustrations of depravity will be lessened. If so, the act of the New Hampshire legislature in reforming the world will be hailed in financial circles as a public benefit, and the good work will of course extend to other states, and this commonwealth, which has furnished to the rest of the country so many men who have become eminent in business success, legal lore and financial and political relations, may after all prove something better than the poor, benighted, bankrupt region, (with only about one hundred and seventy-five millions of taxable property besides what is invested in the railways, banks, and bonds of other states, and its mortgages upon the farms and property in the great west,) as the honest fellows in Wall street who in their articles in the metropolitan newspapers, with a trifle of malicious commiseration, incline to describe us.

There is a good story of Dr. Geo. P. Crosby, a leading physician of Manchester. He remained a bachelor until late in life. At a social gathering at an eastern watering place he saw a lady whose bearing impressed him so favorably that he said to a friend, "If I were going to marry, there is a lady I would be proud to call my wife." She was the daughter of Ex-Mayor Bryant, of San Francisco, and before the summer was ended the doctor had won her consent to be his bride. They were married at San Francisco, and went on a wedding trip to a pleasant resort forty or fifty miles south of that city. When they arrived at their hotel the doctor walked up to the desk and registered as in his old bachelor days, "George P. Crosby, Manchester, N. H." The clerk looked up inquiringly. The doctor met his gaze with unconsciousness of anything uncommon. The clerk glanced through the parlor door to where the bride sat, and suggested, "The lady, sir?" "Oh, my stars, it's my wife," ejaculated the doctor, as he hastily seized the pen and added, "and wife" after his signature. But his wife had seen and heard the action and remarks, and having a keen sense of humor she appreciated it as a joke that their friends must know. She told the story, and so it became public property.

"Gift Enterprises"

Seem to be all the rage in the soap business, owing to the idea of some manufacturers of getting something out of nothing, if possible. Grocers get six boxes for five of some kinds, and are offered all sorts of "Nick-Nacks" with others, as an inducement to recommend such soaps to their trade.

It is a well known fact, however, that a genuine article in this day of competition pays no fancy profits. "Welcome Soap" represents this class of goods, and demonstrates the value of quality in manufacture, which is the only guarantee of a pure and legitimate washing quality.

Present the full board.

The records of the last meeting were read and approved.

Petition of Charles H. Mendum for sidewalk on Bow street, was referred.

Petition of John Newick for street light on Morning street, was referred to the committee on street lights, with power.

Petition of A. P. Wendell for the removal of a telegraph pole to the opposite side of Daniel street, was granted.

Communication from the clerk of steam fire engine No. 2, relative to the state of the engine house roof, was referred to the committee on city lands and buildings.

Bill of Frank O. Brown, $45, for three calves killed by dogs, and of Joseph H. Leavitt, $15, for one sheep, were referred to the committee on claims.

Communication from Mrs. Helen C. Knight, of the board of instruction, relative to a division of the Spalding schoolhouse, at the Creek, was referred to the committee on school houses, to report.

Joseph Bilbrack and others appeared before the board relative to the petition for the acceptance of a new street at the west end. No action was taken.

Committee's report in favor of granting the request of the Gaslight Co. for a sidewalk on Bow street, was accepted and adopted.

In regard to the purchase of land adjoining the city yard, occupied by the city, the committee recommended that $400 be offered the Peirce heirs for the lot; and the committee were so authorized.

The placing of automatic fire alarm apparatus at the Portsmouth brewery, at a cost of $500, was voted.

William Sladen's bill of $10 for damage caused by the flooding of his cellar, was approved and ordered paid.

Levi Moulton was heard in support of his claim for damages from cattle breaking into his fields, but no action was taken.

Adjourned for two weeks.

RUNAWAYS.

Mr. Charles S. Grace, twenty-six years old, grocery store keeper at Kittery Point, was driving into this city about seven o'clock in the morning on Thursday, the 22d inst., with two horses harnessed to a timber truck, and when on Noble's island the horses took fright from the escaping steam of a locomotive standing on the Eastern railroad switch, and ran away. Coming down the steep incline from the draw of the Noble's island bridge to the level of the street great speed was attained, and when the wheels struck the level ground Mr. Chase and a boy about sixteen years old, who was on the seat with him, were thrown out. The boy was but slightly hurt, but Mr. Chase struck very heavily on his head and shoulders, and was taken up insensible and it was feared fatally injured; medical aid was promptly rendered, after which, still insensible, he was placed on a mattress in the wagon of Capt. Thomas Hoyt of Kittery Point, and taken to his home. The runaway horses, after throwing out the two men, kept on through the entire length of Market street and across the Parade, but when entering on Pleasant street were confronted by a street workman flourishing a hoe, and attempted to turn into the alley back of the North church, but were there caught by two young men employed in the Globe grocery store. No damage was done to the runaway team, nor to any other. How the frightened horses managed to navigate through the narrow passage at the foot of Deer street, where the obstructions of the sewer extend half-way across Market street, is a wonder.

About nine o'clock Thursday forenoon a span of heavy grey horses, hitched to a big lumber wagon, started on a run out of Call's lumber yard, and up Market street toward Deer. The street was thronged with country teams, and for a few moments things had a very ugly look; but Mr. George Scott, who was standing in the doorway of his restaurant and saw the team coming, jumped into the street and hastened to give his lungs and muscles vigorous and unaccustomed exercise by way of remonstrance against the continuance of such proceedings. The spectacle of a dignified and solid citizen engaged in the performance of an erratic war-dance in the middle of the street, and whooping in a style to make the steam gong blush, caused the big greys to settle back a bit in the breeching as they neared him, and enabled him to catch the flying reins and bring them to a very fortunate stop. The team, which belongs to Mr. Card of Newcastle, neither did nor suffered damage during the short spin.

A little later in the forenoon a span of horses belonging to one of the livery stables attempted to get up a runaway from near the railway station, but it resulted in a flat failure, they being caught before they were fairly started.

MATRIMONIAL.

Mr. Herbert M. Kennedy, formerly engaged in telegraphy in this city, but for some two years past agent at Contention station, Arizona territory, for the New Mexico & Arizona railroad, has been spending several weeks of his vacation in this city, and left for his western home by the 7:40 P. M. train on Wednesday, the 21st inst., having a few hours previous, at the residence of Samuel P. Treadwell, Esq., been united in marriage to his daughter, Miss Lizzie A. P. Treadwell, Rev. Alfred Gooding officiating. The newly married couple will spend about two weeks on the way to Contention, visiting the larger cities and places of interest on the route. It requires a week's steady riding, night and day, to go from this city to Contention, which now has 500 inhabitants, horse-cars running from there to Tombstone, (very ephonious names the Arizona cities have,) which has a population of 5000

In another column will be found a card of thanks from Mrs. Orintha A. Lockhart of this city to the general agent of the Mutual Life Ins. Co. of New York, acknowledging the prompt settlement of a claim on that company. From another source we learn that the claim was for $1000, on the life of the late George A. Lockhart, and that he had paid only $34.20 in premiums.

Have you seen Coleman's elegant eight-inch range for $30, with all the apparatus, including hot closet, also the seven-inch range for $25? Mr. Coleman has one of the largest stocks of household goods in New Hampshire, and it will repay any one in want of articles in the housekeeping line to visit his warehouse on Market street.

DEATH OF MRS. BROWN.

Mrs. Mary A. Brown, widow of Edmund M. Brown, died at 7:30 o'clock last Thursday morning, the circumstances attending her demise being peculiar and sad. On the previous afternoon she attended the marriage of her niece, the daughter of Mr. Samuel P. Treadwell, to Mr. Herbert M. Kennedy, at Mr. Treadwell's residence, the ceremony taking place at five o'clock. On the conclusion of the ceremony, as she was advancing to congratulate the young couple, she suddenly fell back in an apparent faint; restoratives were applied, but she did not recover consciousness, and died Thursday morning as above stated. Her age was seventy-seven years and eight months, and she was in her usual state of health up to the time of her sudden prostration. She was the oldest daughter of the late Thomas Treadwell.

Among the appointments to fourth-class post-offices made on the 22d inst. were the following: Kittery Point, Thomas Clarkson; York Corner, George F. Plaisted; Berwick, Horace B. Tibbetts; Ogunquit, W. F. Cousins; Cape Porpoise, Allison B. Hull.

Hon. Ichabod Cole, of Eliot, was on Thursday appointed clerk to the naval constructor at the navy yard, in place of Mr. Frank Staples of Eliot, removed.

A large number of people went from this city to Boston on the 22d inst., on the excursion rates.

James L. Whittaker, formerly of this city and long an engineer on the Eastern railroad, died in Charlestown, Mass., of dropsy, on the 22d inst. He was a member of Piscataqua Lodge of Odd Fellows.

New Hampshire Gazette!

An advertising medium it presents an excellent opportunity for a weekly invitation to customers, at a reasonable rate, and all those who desire to reach patrons in York county, Me., or in New Hampshire, will find it an economical medium. THE GAZETTE is in many instances the only paper taken by families, and it is read to a large extent in localities where is derived much of the trade of Portsmouth, a fact which our merchants and out-of-town advertisers should bear in mind. are cautioned against MISLEADING IMITATIONS of Brainerd & Armstrong's "Wash Silks," now in the market, of American manufacture, that WILL NOT WASH without loss of color and injury to the fabric upon which they may be worked.

The method of applying ASIATIC DYES necessary to produce fast color in silk fibre is a SECRET, PURCHASED, POSSESSED and USED in America exclusively by ourselves. Avoid worthless imitations by taking only skeins bearing our ticket—"Wash Silk."

Assignments recorded at Washington. No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions. R. H. EDDY, Solicitor of Patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practioners with whom I have had official intercourse."

CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office." EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir—You procured for me, in 1846, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

"Men should be what they seem," and if they are suffering torures with toothache, they should not try to smile and look cool and handsome. How much wiser to ease the pain with a bottle of Salvation Oil, which can be bought for 25 cents.

The Garrison Lyceum Organization of Colored People, of Boston, on the 21st inst. celebrated by a meeting and speeches the 50th anniversary of the mobbing of William Lloyd Garrison in the streets of Boston by a "blue-blooded" crowd, on account of his abolition principles.

Charles D. Fredericks, 770 Broadway, N. Y., the celebrated photographer, says that Allcock's Porous Plasters have been used by himself and family over twenty years. He found them wonderfully efficacious in coughs, colds, and pain in the back and side. Applied to the pit of the stomach they quickly cured him of indigestion and dyspepsia. He also found them admirable liver regulators when applied on the right side.

Mrs. John Conway and her daughter Kate were beaten to death with a car-coupling pin in their house in the thickly-settled part of Kansas City, Mo., at midday on the 21st inst., by an unknown assassin.

What is the use!

Of buying worthless medicine, and spending money on quack doctors whose only idea is to gull the public. Is it not better to buy reliable medicine like Sulphur Bitters? I think so, as they cured me of Catarrh after suffering three years. —F. P. Clark, Manchester.

Aaron Beck, of South Sunapee, seventy-two years old, had both legs broken a few days ago by falling from an apple tree. His recovery is doubtful.

If there ever was a specific for any one complaint, then Carter's Little Liver Pills are a specific for sick headache, and every woman should know this. Only one pill a dose.

Why don't you try Carter's Little Liver Pills? They are a positive cure for sick headache, and all the ills produced by disordered Liver. Only one pill a dose.

The Times of the 22d inst. said: "Mr. J. L. Davis, formerly of Kittery, left today for Chicago, Ill., to attend to his business affairs there. He will be absent two or three months. Before leaving he sent to each of the following charitable organizations his check for $25: Faith Home, Children's Home, Cottage Hospital, and the Howard Benevolent Association."

Constipation is positively cured by Carter's Little Liver Pills. Not by purging and weakening the bowels, but by regulating and strengthening them. This is done by improving the digestion and stimulating the liver to the proper secretion of bile, when the bowels will perform their customary functions in an easy and natural manner. Purgative pills must be avoided. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Price 25 cents.

There was a tennis tournament at Exeter on the 21st inst. between Phillips Exeter and Phillips Andover academies. In singles Exeter won, 6-4, 6-2; Huntington for Exeter and Breed for Andover. In doubles Exeter won, 6-1, 5-6, 6-3; Huntington and Meehan for Exeter, Breed and Shaw for Andover. The prize for each was a silver cup.

What Parents Fear.

Many persons—especially parents—object to many quack nostrums as likely to engender or encourage a love for strong drink. They are right. Better die of disease than of drunkenness. The use of Parker's Tonic does not involve this danger. It not only builds up the system, curing all ailments of the stomach, liver and kidneys, but it stimulates without intoxicating and absolutely cures the appetite for liquor.

The Only

medicine I ever found that helped me at all is ATHOROPHOROS, and I have not had the Rheumatism since I took it."—EDWIN SEARS, Provincetown, Mass.

A professor in a medical college once said to his class "put your hand in a vice, turn the screw until the pain is all you can bear, and that's rheumatism; turn the screw once more, and that's neuralgia—and gentlemen, the medical profession knows no cure for either." That was before the discovery of the ATHLOPHOROS which does and will cure both Rheumatism and neuralgia, and many physicians use it regularly—frankly admitting that they can prescribe nothing else so effective.

Many persons have tried so many so-called remedies, without benefit, that they have no faith to try more, but it is worth your while to try Athlophoros, if you have any doubts as to its value write for names of parties in your own State who have been cured by its use.

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

Diphtheria is a terrible disease, requiring the greatest medical skill to effect a complete cure. Even when its power is broken, it clings to the patient with great persistency, and often leaves the system poisoned and prostrated. Just here Hood's Sarsaparilla does a vast amount of good, expelling impurities from the blood, giving it richness and vitality, while it renovates and strengthens the system.

Right Rev. H. A. Shultz, senior bishop of the Moravian church, recently died at his home at Bethlehem, Pa., aged eighty years.

Since last October I have suffered from acute inflammation in my nose and head—often in the night having to get up and inhale salt and water for relief. My eye has been, for a week at a time, so I could not see. I have used no end of remedies, also employed a doctor, who said it was impure blood—but I got no help. I used Ely's Cream Balm on the recommendation of a friend. I was faithless, but in a few days was cured. My nose now, and also my eye, is well. It is wonderful how quick it helped me. Mrs. Georgie S. For Collector, Samuel J. Anderson.

The long-mooted question as to whom the president would appoint as collector of the port of Portland and Falmouth has been solved by the designation of Gen. Samuel J. Anderson. There can be no question as the fitness of this appointment as far as the political orthodoxy of the general, or his entire capacity to properly administer the affairs of the office, are concerned. The president seems to have patiently considered the merits of the several candidates, and as usual when he puts his mind on a case, has doubtless done the very best he could in the premises. The general has many friends in New Hampshire, who gladly congratulate him on his appointment, which in many respects must be regarded by the business interests of Portland as the best that could have been made by the president.

Naval Constructor Hichborn's Report.

The report of Naval Constructor Hichborn, U. S. N., lately received at the navy department, contains many subjects of importance to the members of the corps, and will be read with much interest by all who feel the necessity of placing the naval equipment of our country on a plane commensurate with her greatness.

By order of the secretary of the navy this officer visited the principal dockyards of Europe, and has collected a large amount of varied information, abundantly illustrated by sketches, photographs and drawings, the whole forming a report of great practical value. The work deals with facts, and the constructor's aim has been to present concise statements, from which his professional brethren may draw unbiassed conclusions, rather than labored disquisitions on the comparative merits of different systems and types, in which truth is sometimes sacrificed to elegant argument, and important principles are often obscured or perverted.

The report, which covers two hundred and fifty pages of caligraph, is divided into eight parts or chapters. The first relates to the "National Dockyards," and contains descriptions of the principal vessels now building by England, France, Germany and Russia, with numerous illustrations. This is followed by an interesting and very practical chapter on the "Details, Fitting and Equipment of Naval Vessels Abroad." The next division relates to "Torpedo Boats," after which comes "Iron and Steel Works, Steel Castings and Armor Plates."

The part devoted to "British Private Shipyards" will be found interesting both to naval people and to private builders, as it contains descriptions and plans of the most celebrated establishments in Europe. It is appropriately followed by a chapter on "Shipyard Appliances and Tools." The latter subject has received much attention from Constructor Hichborn, in obedience to a special clause of his orders, inserted in view of the early necessity of equipping several of our navy yards with the most improved iron-ship-building plant. "The Management of Work and Employes," and the "Systems of Education for Naval Constructors Abroad," are then treated, and here American mechanics may learn how superior their condition is to that of their transatlantic brethren.

The work concludes with some general remarks upon the "Docks" observed in the progress of his tour, and when printed the whole will be of great practical value.

Mr. Charles S. Grace of Kittery Point, who was injured by the runaway accident at Noble's island bridge on Thursday, recovered consciousness that evening; on Friday he was able to converse a little, and his friends were greatly encouraged Friday afternoon, though he was still suffering much pain in the head and across the shoulders.

NEWCASTLE, Oct. 23d.

Rev. William Bluett, the Irish evangelist, has for the past three weeks been preaching in the Christian church in this town. A part from its own intrinsic value in setting forth in simple directness the gospel of salvation, Mr. Bluett's preaching is invested with a peculiar interest, owing to the fact of his early conversion from Catholicism,—such conversions, although of course not unknown, being of sufficiently rare occurrence to claim an interest for that reason. Descended from an ancient family, he was educated for the Romish church, but having experienced in a wonderful manner the saving power of Christ, he renounced papacy, and has since devoted himself unreservedly to the spreading of the gospel. That his heart and soul are in the work none who hear him can doubt.

Mr. Bluett will deliver a lecture upon the subject of his life and travels in Association hall, Portsmouth, Monday evening, Oct. 26th. All who desire to listen to an entertaining and instructive lecture will do well to attend. NUMER-US.

If it were possible to get the testimony of the multitude who have used HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA for debility, hangover, lassitude, and that general feeling of stupidity, weariness and exhaustion which every one feels during this season, we should be able to present to our readers such an overwhelming mass of commendatory messages, that the few who have not tried it would do so at once. It is a positive fact, and has been so effectually demonstrated that no one to-day denies it, that Hood's Sarsaparilla contains more real medicinal value than any article before the people.

What a Man Did with Kidney Complaint

DRACUT, MASS.
MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.:
Dear Sirs—I have suffered from kidney complaint and biliousness for fifteen years. Have tried everything and never got any good. Last January, before I commenced taking Hood's SARSAPARILLA, everything I ate bloated me all up, pain in my chest and arms, headache and dizzy. I could not get up without feeling weary and all fagged out. Many mornings I was obliged to lie down on the lounge. To do any work seemed almost impossible. Have taken two bottles. The backache, dizziness, pain in my chest and arms, and that feeling of intense weariness are all gone. I can eat anything and it does not press me at all. Feel just like work; in fact, like a new man. Can heartily recommend Hood's SARSAPARILLA and hope all who desire to know anything about it will come to me and ask what I think of it. Very truly yours,
JONATHAN J. COBURN.

"STORM BEATEN."

The Boston Advertiser closes as follows a column article describing the acting and beauties of "Storm Beaten," which will be presented in Music hall, on Monday evening:

The piece is beautifully set, and admirably well acted. All the rustic scenes are pretty, and two of them are positively beautiful; the ship's deck is capitally well done; the ice-bound vessel and the ice-clad island are grandly painted, and the mechanism which effects the ship's delivery from the ice works neatly and with keen results upon the spectator's nerves. The auroral lights of the northern night are very ingeniously imitated by electric flashes of many colors. The "business" of the play—and there is a great deal of it—is finely done, the incidents of country life, especially the enthronement of the May Queen, and a rustic song and chorus dance, being made brilliantly effective; and a capital sea song and chorus is given from the vessel's deck in the third act.

Tickets for reserved seats can be procured at Goodrich's bookstore to-day.

BAPTISED ON A STEAMSHIP.

Capt. Small, of the steamship Anchoria, was very decidedly surprised when he arrived in New York on his late trip, by his daughter and her husband, W. J. Fraser, Esq., of Rye beach, and a number of friends, appearing on the vessel and making preparations for the baptising of his youngest grandson, Henry Gordon Fraser. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Kerr of the Thirty-fourth street Presbyterian church, New York city, in the ladies' cabin of the steamship. Mr. Fraser is the popular superintendent of the Direct United States Cable Co.'s station at Rye beach.

The company which will play "Storm Beaten" in Music hall on Monday evening travel in a special car, and have another car for the scenery, which they carry everywhere with them.

The engines of the U. S. S. Galena were started on Friday, and worked satisfactorily.

The New York Tribune of Oct. 22d remarks: "The incompetent democratic voters who calked the decks of the Tennessee at the Brooklyn navy yard, and whose bungling work was spoken of in the Tribune recently, put in such poor resin that it kept the decks continually dirty by its working out. The consequence was that the work had to be done over again, thus giving more employment for democratic voters. The calking of the Tennessee's decks was unnecessary in the first place, and money was used in the work which should have been expended in repairing her hull. The Swatara sailed yesterday for Hampton Roads. The Portsmouth, Saratoga, Jamestown and Powhatan are already there, and it is generally understood that they will stay there until after the state election in Virginia. The administration finds the navy of considerable use after all."

Medical Men of Distinction

Have been among the foremost to give honor where honor was due in the case of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Abjuring old fashioned professional prejudice, they have frankly borne evidence to its worth as a means of remedying dyspepsia, fever and ague, bilious remittent, rheumatism, constipation, liver complaint, debility and renal disorders. With all intelligent people this favorable professional verdict has had its due weight, especially as it was in direct confirmation of that of the people and the press. Far more effectual has it proved than bombastic assertion, too often resorted to by the proprietors of remedies of doubtful value. "The plain unvarnished truth" about the Bitters is more than sufficient to convince a skeptic. As a family medicine of comprehensive utility, prompt and thorough in action and pure in composition, it stands deservedly first.

That Dirty Dandruff.

Dandruff is dirty and disagreeable in every way. It soils the clothing continually, and is accompanied by a hardly less annoying sensation of itching. The scalp is diseased. There is nothing in the world so thoroughly adapted to this trouble as Parker's Hair Balsam. It cleanses and heals the scalp, stops the falling hair and restores its original softness, gloss and color. Is not oily, highly perfumed, an elegant dressing. Very economical, as only a small occasional application keeps the hair in perfect condition.

Mr. Charles Tuffboy got his overcoat out of hock last Wednesday.

Mr. James Highflyer is again wearing his watch and chain. Congratulations.

Miss Yseult McMurtry gave a soiree dansante last evening at the residence of her present employer, Mrs. Le Smythe.

Mr. H. Clay Cavendish of the Cutte-Cavendishes is seriously ill with brain fever. Where he caught the brain is not stated.—The Rambler.

A Chicago man has been arrested for being too fond of his mother-in-law. This we consider by all odds the finest joke of the season.—Peoria Transcript.

Thirteen is an unlucky number. It is for this reason that when a shopkeeper halves a 25-cent piece he invariably gives you 12 cents. The shopkeeper is unselfish, and as somebody must run the risk of bad luck he freely takes it himself.—Boston Transcript.

"I was never exactly buried alive," said an old clerk, recounting his experiences, "but I once worked a week in a store that did not advertise. When I came out my head was almost as white as you now see it. Solitary confinement did it."—Cincinnati Gazette.

Miss Boston (to base-ball pitcher)—I was present at the game this afternoon, Mr. Homerun, and I admired your pitching so much. Your curves reminded me of Hogarth's line of beauty.

Pitcher (college club)—Indeed! What nine does Hogarth pitch for?—N. Y. Sun.

An Italian scientist says that "wrinkles depend mainly on the fasciculi which form the reticular part of the dermis." We always supposed that age had more to do with it than the fasciculi. Persons who would escape wrinkles, it would seem, must first get rid of that italic thing.—Norristown Herald.

Mrs. Pendergast—"I've been in luck again. I bought a Rembrandt yesterday for $8,000."

Mrs. Van Dusen (illiterate and slightly deaf)—"Three thousand dollars for a remnant! Why, bless my soul, what sort of goods was it? You should have bought the whole piece for that.—Philadelphia Call.

These are the days when the young man puts on knee-breeches and stockings, and mounting a bicycle, starts on a long tour, feeling perfectly happy till a 16-year-old country girl with blue eyes as big as saucers, shouts: "Hey, mister, come here and I'll lend yer money enough ter buy legs for them pants."—Philadelphia News.

Speaking of civilization an old lady who had traveled much says it is very hard to describe the civilization of other races. "The Chinese are civilized enough in some things. They make many pretty things, chinaware and silks, which latter they embroider beautifully—yet they throw their children to the pigs and eat mice and puppy-dogs. I never for breakfast could even get my hard toast and buttered mutins!"

What is it that keeps you busy writing so late in your study every night?" asked Mrs. Yerger of her husband. "I am writing the history of my life." "I suppose you mention me in it? "Oh, yes; I call you the sunshine of my existence." "Do I really throw so much sunshine into your daily life?" "I refer to you as the sunshine of my existence because you make it hot for me." rise in the thermometer occurred immediately after the foregoing conversation.—Texas Siftings.

A Kentucky hen, while being driven out of a neighbor's garden, let fall an egg which the woman who drove her out picked up and utilized. A suit was brought in court to recover the price of the egg, when it was decided that "the egg being laid on the premises of the defendant it was her egg." An appeal was taken to a higher court, when the decision was reversed on account of the word "layed" having been used. "The hen did not lay the egg, but dropped it."

Lieut. Preston Ingelow, who is a prominent staff officer of the Travis Rifles, was instructing a recruit as to his duties towards his ranking officer. "What does the private soldier owe his superior officer?" asked Lieut. Ingelow. "Nothing at all, I reckon. I know I'd be scared to try and borrow any money from my superior officers. Besides, I don't believe they have got any money to lend. I notice they always tell the barkeeper to 'hang 'em up'"—Texas Siftings.

The grocer's son, a good, dutiful boy, had never been away from home much, but stuck close to the shop all his life. His father was going to put up a new house, and one day the youth went to see how the workmen were getting along with the cellar. He came breathless, white, excited. "Father!" the poor lad cried feebly, "Father! Father! Our everlasting fortune is made! The men digging the cellar have struck a sugar mine!" And he fell fainting to the floor.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Sir Edward Watkins tells the following capital story to paint the moral of "as right as ninepence in a lawyer's pocket." An attorney in the Black Country, says Sir Edward, swallowed half a sovereign. With a view to recover the gold coin surgical skill was invoked, but the utmost the stomach-pump, aided by strong emetics, could recover was 3s 4d change. The balance of 6s 8d had gone into the legal system of the unfortunate attorney, and was not get-at-able.

They tell a good story on a South Georgia statesman who went to Charleston in the old days and stopped at a hotel. A waiter brought out some shrimps, which the Georgian stowed away as best he could. In a moment the waiter reappeared with a stand of celery.

"No," said the Georgian, shaking his head, solemnly, "I have tried your bugs and I don't like them, and you can bet yer life I don't want none er your grass."—Atlanta Constitution.

Old Judge Saunders is a great brag, and has told about a dozen different stories in regard to the weight of a certain big catfish that he caught. A friend, trying to entrap him, asked: "Judge, what was the precise weight of that fish you caught?" Judge Saunders (to colored waiter): "Bob, what did I say yesterday that catfish weighed?" "What time yesterday, boss—in de mawning, at dinner time, or after supper?"—Christain at Work.

Mrs. G——had entertained the whist club, and everything going off smoothly, and, having gotten her hand in, she decided to invite in a few more people, to whom she was indebted, the next evening. So, making out her list, she sent her little daughter Louise to deliver the invitations. Louise's first stop was at Mrs. Dr. A——'s, and, having delivered her message, Mrs. A—— said; "Why, Louise, I am afraid your mamma is undertaking too much, after having had the whist club last evening."

"O, I guess not," said the little girl; "I heard her tell papa this morning that there was still enough left for three parties.—Harper's Bazar.

"Her face so fair, as flesh it seemed not,

Clear as the sky, without a blame or blot,

This is the poet's description of a woman whose physical system was in a perfectly sound and healthy state, with every function acting properly, and is the enviable condition of its fair patrons produced by Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription." Any druggist.

BILIOUSNESS.

Bilious symptoms invariably arise from indigestion, such as furred tongue, vomiting of bile, giddiness, sick headache, irregular bowels. The liver secretes the bile and acts like a filter or sieve, to cleanse impurities of the blood. By irregularity in its action or suspensions of its functions, the bile is liable to overflow into the blood, causing jaundice, sallow complexion, yellow eyes, bilious diarrhœa, a languid, weary feeling and many other distressing symptoms. Biliousness may be properly termed an affection of the liver, and can be thoroughly cured by the grand regulator of the liver and biliary organs, BURDOCK BLOOD BITERS. Act upon the stomach, bowels and liver, making healthy bile and pure blood, and opens the culverts and sluiceways for the outlet of disease. Sold everywhere and guaranteed to cure.

The pain and misery suffered by those who are afflicted with dyspepsia are indescribible. The distress of the body is equalled or surpassed by the confusion and tortures of the mind, thus making its victims suffer double affliction. The relief which is given by Hood's Sarsaparilla has caused thousands to be thankful for this great medicine. It dispels the causes of dyspepsia, and tones up the digestive organs. Secretary Whitney's Circular to Navy Yard Foremen.

Commodore Chandler, commanding the Brooklyn navy yard, last week received from the navy department the following circular letter to the foremen of the several navy yards:

NAVY DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 10th, 1885.

To the Foremen in the Respective Navy Yards:

I have by orders heretofore issued invested you with the responsibility of recommending for appointment your subordinate employes. This has enabled you in each case to constitute your forces, without limitation, except that of a veto power in the shape of the approval of your superior officers. It put into practical effect a naval regulation which, as I understand, had grown into general disuse. Under this arrangement you can properly be held responsible for the character and efficiency of the force you respectively superintend.

The reports received by me from the naval officers in the various yards are in general to the effect that the efficiency of the yards has been greatly increased since the late reorganization, and in general there is satisfaction among your superior officers. Complaints, however, come to me from time to time of individual cases of foremen, which make it proper for me to state more distinctly than I have heretofore done what the law and the department both expect of you in exercising this power. The law contemplates, I think, that no political consideration shall influence the selection of workmen in the navy yards. That it has been disregarded in the past can constitute no justification for the future. If the law was entirely silent on this subject, it would necessarily be involved in any attempt to make the yards effective. The yards should be placed where the public work can be done economically and well, and unless they are made so, it is perfectly evident that they will not be intrusted with any large amount of public work. It is your duty to disregard every consideration except the efficiency of the men as workmen.

I am quite aware that the clamor for places in the navy yards is so great as to involve great disappointment on the part of those who cannot be given employment, and that you will be subjected often to unjust criticism, from the effects of which it is my duty to protect you. That I will do. But I shall from time to time investigate the manner in which you conduct in this regard, and if in any case I shall ascertain that men have been taken into the yard—men who are not competent workmen—for political reasons, I shall consider it sufficient ground for dismissal of any foreman, and I shall dismiss him. I have heretofore in many cases applied to your superior officers for the purpose of ascertaining the truth of charges that men were being employed because of their political relations and influence, and am happy to say that in almost all cases the reports have been of a satisfactory character. But in the heat of a political canvas I fear that in one or two cases there may be ground for just complaint, and I shall satisfy myself with reference thereto. I have communicated personally and sometimes by formal communication with your superior officers, who have the veto power upon your appointments and can be held practically responsible for any maladministration of the kind referred to.

I am unable to see how, under the system as at present constituted, the navy yard can be made any other than effective workshops, separated from politics. In requiring the approval of your superior officers to your selection of men, a check upon you is interposed for the purpose of making difficult the growth of abuses of the character referred to therein. But I ask your special co-operation, and I desire you to understand that you have no discretion whatever in this matter. I do not expect to investigate the politics of men employed, and I am quite aware that whatever you do will probably displease and disappoint. But your deviation from the correct rule will be seen in the employment of inferior men, in constituting an inefficient force, and in the subordination of the yard as a workshop to the interest of political friends. This can be readily detected by your superiors, and will result in your dismissal in any such case. W. C. WHITNEY,
Secretary of Navy.

Hanlan Beaten.

Edward Hanlan of Toronto and John Teemer of McKeesport, Pa., on Saturday afternoon last at Troy, N. Y., pulled a race of 1 1-2 miles and return for $2000 and the championship of America. At the turn Teemer was fifteen seconds ahead, and Hanlan in turning ran into his judge's boat and sank his shell. Hanlan said he had rowed his best and was beaten.

We are informed that not a solitary apple-purchasing speculator has been through Kittery, Eliot or York this season — something unknown for many years, the bulk of the apple crop having generally been bargained for while on the trees. Good merchantable apples are offered at $1.00 a barrel, by measure, or $1.25 with barrel, and few sales are made even at these prices.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

Has "decided" claims upon the public. This is positively proven by the immense good it has done to those who have been cured of diseases from which they have suffered intensely for years, as verified by the published testimonials, every one of which is a positive fact.

CHELSEA, VT., Feb. 24, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.: The 6th day of last June I was taken sick with a swelling on my right foot, and with an awful pain. The swelling went all over me. My face was swelled so that I could with difficulty see out of my eyes, and I broke out over the whole surface of my body; my right foot up to my knee was one raw, itching mass, and my ankle and foot so lame and sore I could not step on it, and it would run so as to wet a bandage through in an hour. In this condition Mr. W. F. Hood (of the firm of A. B. Hood & Son, druggists, of this town), handed me a bottle of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA, and told me to take it. I did so, and by the time I had taken one bottle I found that it was doing me good. I have since taken five bottles more. After I had taken three bottles my soreness began to leave me, and I have been growing better every day, so that to-day I can walk without going lame. I have no soreness in my ankle and it has healed all up, and does not run at all. I owe my recovery to your Sarsaparilla. I write this to let you know that I think it deserves the confidence of the public, especially those who are troubled with humors.

Yours most truly,
JOSIAH PITKIN.

P. S. Every person that saw me said that I never would get over my lameness without having a running sore on my ankle; but I did. J. P.

Noother Sarsaparilla has such a sharpening effect upon the appetite. No other preparation tones and strengthens the digestive organs like HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA.

THE NAVY YARDS.

We print this morning the letter of Secretary Whitney to the commandant of the Brooklyn navy yard. We are glad to see such a letter, not for the reason that we desire to keep the democrats from enjoying a chance of employment on the navy yards, or that republicans should be kept on the rolls. There is a higher consideration than this. If the yards are to be run as political machines, it is quite evident that appropriations, as has been the case during the past few years, will be meagerly and grudgingly voted for the use of whichever party may be in power, and this properly, too. If the object is to show how badly the results can be made to appear, as evidence in behalf of the contract system, as seemed to have been the purpose of the late administration, then the sooner a reform is instituted the better.

The secretary of the navy is a good enough democrat, but he is also a gentleman of sound ideas as to the administration of his bureau. More than all that, President Cleveland early made this discovery: That if he was led by the spoilsmen with a hook in his nose, he would soon be buried in a politician's grave. Now, no matter what is the effect upon a few voters near the Brooklyn navy yard, (and the navy yard patronage always has been, under the spoils system, a source of ultimate weakness to the party wielding it for the time being,) the country, if in good faith there is an effort to build up the navy, and the shocking depravity as to patronage in the Brooklyn navy yard, to which the attention of the president has been called, is not to be suffered to continue, but if an honest day's work is to be exchanged for a day's pay in the yards, by competent workmen, so that the cost of construction and repairs of our naval vessels shall be somewhere within reasonable limits, — then the country will say to Grover, "Well done, good and faithful servant; what are the figures of your budget? Congress shall vote the supplies."

To us, in this locality, the subject is of vital importance. Every man in Portsmouth, Kittery and Eliot knows that the contract system, which we have always condemned in spite of the theories of a secretary of the navy from our own state, means the disuse of the navy yards, and the confirmed power of the contractors in politics and in expending the people's money; and that it would prove in the end disastrous to the country, and in an exigency would place us in an awkward dilemma.

We are glad to see the independence of the executive and his naval cabinet officer here displayed, and in all their honorable efforts toward elevating the efficiency of the navy yards, we are with them, heart and soul.

SUPREME COURT--BLODGETT J.

FRIDAY, Oct. 23.

A divorce was granted Laura J. French from James B. French of Nottingham.

The hearing in the case of Birtwell vs. Portsmouth Machine Company, was concluded. Decision reserved.

SATURDAY, Oct. 24th.

Lewis Dow of Seabrook, against whom an indictment was found by the grand jury for malicious injury, was fined $5 and costs.

Several of the persons against whom indictments were found for violation of the liquor law, pleaded guilty, and settled by the payment of fines on each indictment.

The case of Pickering vs. Pickering, a bill in equity, was heard this morning.

The new docket which comprises 135 cases was read.

The case of Levi & Alex Ladderbush, charged with an aggravated assault upon a young Frenchman named Beachemin, was put on trial by jury. The evidence for the prosecution was all in at one o'clock, when the court took a recess until two o'clock.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

SATURDAY, Oct. 24th.

John Kelly, a transient person who came here "to work on the sewer," was assessed $9.90 for drunkenness, and will work the same out at Brentwood, unless he runs away.

John Mahoney and Fred Strong, two more temporary citizens of drunken proclivities, were allowed to go on their promise to leave town in the shortest possible time.

OVERBOARD.

A pair of horses belonging to Harvey Jenness of Rye, and attached to a long farm wagon, in attempting to turn on Philbrick's coal wharf, on Saturday last about noon, backed off into the dock. For a short time it appeared likely the animals would both drown, but one of them was saved by Edward Dearborn and Oscar Johnson, and the other by Charles Quinn and George Carleton, who all got well soaked in so doing. After being cleared from the wagon one of the horses was hauled out on Lewis Holmes' floating stage, and led up the brow to the wharf, and the other was towed around to what was formerly known as Goodrich's wharf, where he walked ashore. Frank E. Clark and Charles Quinn afterward rode the horses about town for half an hour or more, to warm them up.

The play of "Storm Beaten," which is to be presented at Music hall this evening, is a strong spectacular drama, well set and finely played by Shook & Collier's dramatic company. The scenery is a series of magnificent stage pictures.

The sidewalk in front of the Rockingham house is finished, and is as fine a flagged walk as we ever saw. It is fifteen feet wide inside the curb, and consists of two courses of heavy North River flagstones, laid by experts and pointed with Portland cement.

Reserved seat tickets for the great spectacular play, "Storm Beaten," at Music hall this evening, can be procured at Goodrich's bookstore to-day.

The appointment of Capt. Thomas Clarkson as postmaster at Kittery Point seems to be generally approved by the people of the Point, of all parties.

The Pepperell house at Kittery Point still has a few "summer boarders."

Hon. Leonard Andrews, of Biddeford, died in that city on Thursday evening, Oct. 22d, aged sixty-three years. He was a member of the Maine legislature in 1855, and obtained the city charter of the city of Biddeford; in 1861 he was elected senator. In 1860 he was a member of the national convention that nominated Abraham Lincoln and Hannibal Hamlin. He was originally a democrat, but was a strong anti-slavery advocate, and became a member of the republican party at its organization. He was once considered the strongest man, physically, in Maine; his business was that of a stone mason and contractor, and he furnished all the stone work for the Grand Trunk road between Portland and the Connecticut river, also for the Bangor & Piscataquis road. Several government contracts were executed by him in Portland, and in removing obstructions from Portsmouth harbor.

Have you seen Coleman's elegant eight-inch range for $30, with all the apparatus, including hot closet, also the seven-inch range for $25? Mr. Coleman has one of the largest stocks of household goods in New Hampshire, and it will repay any one in want of articles in the housekeeping line to visit his warehouse on Market street.

The schooner Grace K. Green, Seaward master, sailed from this port for the Kennebec on Thursday afternoon of last week, light, to load ice for a coal port. Capt. Seaward negotiated for freighting the navy yard "scrap heap" to Washington, but he wanted $1.75 a ton and the best he could get from government was $1.70, so he wouldn't take it. We guess he is about as well off, for the four or five hundred tons of old iron is not a very desirable cargo, and there are some very heavy pieces in it—old boilers taken out of ships at different times, the engine bed-plate and the turret casing of the was-to-have-been ironclad Massachusetts, which was broken up at the yard last year, etc.

It was reported on Saturday that the steamer City of Portsmouth, which has been lying idle at C. E. Walker & Co.'s wharf ever since she ceased running between this city and the Isles of Shoals, more than a year ago, is to be taken to New York and offered for sale, after going on the ways at Kittery to have her bottom cleaned and examined. Her bottom is a good deal like a hay field, the grass on it being long enough to mow. The attempt to establish a steamboat line between this city and York beach was a total failure, the obstacles to the making of a safe and convenient landing being found practically insurmountable.

The schooners G. W. Raitt and Lillie, from this port with bricks, the Rockaway, from York, and the Frank, from Kennebunk, arrived at Boston on the 23d inst., and the brickers Estella and D. K. Ham, from this port, and the Nautilus, from York, on the 24th.

The schooner Active, from New York for this port, struck on a bar off Watch Hill, R. I., on the 22d inst., but got off, and arrived at Vineyard Haven on the 23d, leaking.

Medical Men of Distinction

Have been among the foremost to give honor where honor was due in the case of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Adjuring old fashioned professional prejudice, they have frankly borne evidence to its worth as a means of remedying dyspepsia, fever and ague, bilious remittent, rheumatism, constipation, liver complaint, debility and renal disorders. With all intelligent people this favorable professional verdict has had its due weight, especially as it was in direct confirmation of that of the people and the press. Far more effectual has it proved than bombastic assertion, too often resorted to by the proprietors of remedies of doubtful value. "The plain unvarnished truth" about the Bitters is more than sufficient to convince a skeptic. As a family medicine of comprehensive utility, prompt and thorough in action and pure in composition, it stands deservedly first.

It is reported that 2000 families of French Canadians have left Montreal to obtain employment in the New England states.

S. B. Darfey, mate of steamer Arizona, had his foot badly jammed. Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured it. Nothing equal to it for a quick pain reliever.

Ferdinand Ward's trial began in New York city last week.

For several years I was troubled with Catarrh, have tried many remedies. Ely's Cream Balm has proved the article desired. I believe it is the only cure.—L. B. Coburn, Hardware Merchant, Towanda, Pa. See adv't.

I had suffered from Catarrh for ten years; the pain would be so severe that I was obliged to send for a doctor. I had entirely lost sense of smell. Ely's Cream Balm has worked a miracle.—C. S. Halleys, Binghamptou, N. Y.

The popular idea has been that the world contains seven wonders, but the eighth made his appearance at the Capitol. It was a poor benighted man limping with rheumatism who had never heard of Salvation Oil. It is sold by all druggists at twenty-five cents a bottle.

While taking down the large front stairway of the state house at Springfield, Ill., Oct. 23d, an arch gave way precipitating a gang of workmen among the crumbling walls. Patrick Flynn's skull was crushed, killing him instantly, and seven others were injured, but none fatally.

"100 Doses One Dollar" is true only of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it is an unanswerable argument as to strength and economy.

The fourth annual meeting of the general board of managers of the Women's Home Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church was held at Philadelphia on the 23d inst., there being about 450 ladies present. Mrs. Rutherford B. Hayes called the meeting to order.

Something that will quiet the nerves, gives strength to the body, induce refreshing sleep, improve the quality of the blood, and purify and brighten the complexion, is what many persons would be very glad to obtain. Carter's Iron Pills are made for exactly this class of troubles, and are remarkably successful in accomplishing the ends desired, as named above. They are useful for both men women. Sold by druggists. Price, 50 cents a box. See advertisement.

A case of malignant smallpox was discovered in Springfield, Mass., Oct. 25th, caught from a man recently from Montreal. Many persons have been exposed.

Thomas Manahan, No. 33 Montgomery street, Hudson, N. Y., two years ago was given up by his physicians. He was afflicted with dyspepsia and obstinate constipation; had lost forty pounds in weight and was a bed-ridden invalid. He commenced taking Brandreth's Pills in doses of five, four, two and one. Then he took two every night for a month, gained eight pounds in weight, and was able to attend to business. He took two pills every night for the following six weeks, and was entirely cured.

A case of smallpox has been discovered at the Chamberlain house, Portland, Me. The patient, a brakeman on the Portland & Rochester railroad, has been sent to the hospital.

That Dirty Dandruff.

Dandruff is dirty and disagreeable in every way. It soils the clothing continually, and is accompanied by a hardly less annoying sensation of itching. The scale is diseased. There is nothing in the world so thoroughly adapted to this trouble as Parker's Hair Balsam. It cleanses and heals the scalp, stops the falling hair and restores its original softness, gloss and color. Is not oily, highly perfumed, an elegant dressing. Very economical, as only a small occasional application keeps the hair in perfect condition.

An Elopement Spoiled.

"Ah, one yard or two?"

The speaker was a ribbon wrestler in a First street dry goods store, and the above query was addressed to the only daughter of a prominent citizen of the city a few months ago. She was very much struck with the young man, and told several of her intimate friends that "Cholly was just splendid."

She used to go to the store nearly every day, and the governor would kick savagely when the bill would come in on the first of the month. Their acquaintance over the counter at length resulted in an invitation to call, and Cholly made himself very numerous around the family mansion several evenings during the week. The old man said to his daughter one day:

"Julia, who is this waxwork who is making himself so soon around here?"

"Why, pa, that's Mr. ——, and he is a real nice young man; he plays the piano and sings lovely."

The governor informed his daughter that he did not want him monkeying around there any more, and if he ever found him in the house again he would tie him to the fence and back a mule up against him.

Julia cried for a few hours, and finally went back to the store and told Cholly that the governor had rendered an opinion and issued an injunction.

Clandestine meetings followed, and one evening while they were discussing the unevenness that characterized the course of true love, Cholly said:

"Let's skip out and get married, and let old Joblots sweat."

After a moment's hesitation Julia consented, and the elopement was at once arranged. On the next evening Cholly was to come under her window at 11 o'clock and she would lower herself by means of a rope.

Old Joblots, as the young man very disrespectfully designated the father of his idol, occupied a room directly below that of his daughter. Julia, although a very charming girl, kicks the beam at 150 pounds, and when she commenced to slide down the rope the next night she bumped against the side of the house and raked the shutters of her father's window.

The old man hearing the noise thought the robbers were trying to break in, and rushing to the window he saw the rope stretched very tight and shaking around as though some one was climbing up. The old man seized his razor that was lying on the bureau and cut the rope.

Cholly at this moment was standing directly under Julia, ready to rescue her as she neared the ground, and when the rope parted she fell on him like a brick house, and he was crushed to the ground a hopeless mass.

"Oh, my darling! I have killed him!" said Julia, and two screams rent the air.

Old Joblots, who heard the exclamation, rushed downstairs and out the front door. He took the situation in at a glance, and also took his daughter in the house, where she fell into her mother's arms, hysterically crying that Cholly was dead.

Joblots went for assistance, and Cholly's insensible remains were taken to his boarding-house, where he now lies in a critical condition.

Friends of the family have tried to keep the affair quiet, but it has leaked out, and it is stated that the young lady's father has said that he will offer no further opposition to the marriage if the unfortunate young man recovers. —San Jose Herald.

A Solemn Vow.

Mrs. Col. Percy Yerger went into Mose Schaumburg's dry-goods emporium recently to buy some dress goods.

"I'll give you 30 cents a yard for this stuff," said Mrs. Yerger, examining some goods.

Mose shook his head and said:

"I never sells dose goods under 40 cents. When my diseased vater vas his death-ped on he made me schwear dot I would never sell dot qwality of goots for less den 40 cents."

"I'm sorry, but I can't pay that price," said Mrs. Yerger, moving toward the door.

Mose saw that he was about to lose a customer. He motioned frantically to his son Solomon, who was in the back part of the store to come to the front. Solomon did so.

"Solomon," said Mose, "you tid not yet schwear to your dying vater his death-ped on dot you vould not sell dose goots for less den 40 cents a yard. Mrs. Yerger, O Mrs. Yerger, choost come pack a leedle; dot young man will give you avay dose goods at 35 cents a yard, choost because I vas a goot friend by your husband.

Mrs. Yerger bought twenty yards at 35 cents, and Mose made a clear profit of only 100 per cent.—Texas Siftings.

How Butler Became a Yacht Owner.

One of the intimate friends of Gen. B. F. Butler said to me the night of the Puritan-Genesta race: "Do you know how Butler came into possession of the yacht America? No, of course you don't, for it has never been told. I have it from Butler himself. A man came into his office in Washington one day and said: My name is Lamar. I've got a cotton claim against the Government for $200,000. It's as straight as a string. But I need your help to collect it." 'Leave the papers and call to-morrow,' said the General. Lamar was a relative of the present Secretary of the Interior. He called next day. 'You have a clear case,' said Butler; 'I'll collect it for 20 per cent.' 'That is 5 per cent less than I expected to pay,' said Lamar; 'so I shall be liberal. I'll tell you what I'll do. I owned a yacht, which the Government seized. It's over at the navy-yard. I can't get possession of it without a more expensive fight than it is worth. If you win this claim I'll give you a bill of sale of that yacht, in addition to 20 per cent.' The claim was duly allowed, Lamar got a check for $200,000, and Butler got $40,000 and a bill of sale of the yacht. It was in Secretary Robeson's time. Butler walked down to the office of the Secretary of the Navy one day and said to Robeson: 'You've got my boat and I want it.' Robeson was nearly frantic. 'Look here, Butler,' he pleaded, 'there's already a heap of talk about my department, and if I let you have this boat, right or wrong, it will make an awful howl.' 'I want my boat,' was Butler's stubborn reply. A naval officer sat in the office and heard this talk. He finally got up and made signs to Butler to follow him out. When the General did so the officer said: 'General, there's an easy way out of this. Buy the boat at auction. There's lead enough in the bottom to pay the purchase price. If you insist on having your property they will strip her of ballast. Besides, if you buy it there can be no scandal.' Butler went back and told Robeson that he was not in earnest in his demand, but would bid on the boat when sold. Robeson had it put up and Butler bought it. Then he had a curiosity to know how the bargain stood, and had the lead ballast weighed. There was $400 worth more than he bid for the boat."—N. Y. Tribune.

Piute Courtship.

If a Piute maiden does not like her lover she tells her grandmother, and when the young man comes again at night that good old lady rises from her bed, takes a handful of hot ashes from the fire and throws them in his face. That's the mitten. If he persists in his attentions and continues to come again and again the whole family unite in heaping indignities upon him, but the girl is never a party to this. Her brothers and sisters and father and mother throw ashes upon him, douse him with water, flagellate him with stout switches, and drive him from the lodge. Sometimes an Indian persists in spite of such assaults, and goes again and again to the tent where the girl is sleeping. Sometimes this perseverance wins her heart, but not often. If the girl likes him and is willing to marry him, then she tells her grandmother, who informs the girl's father.

A Boston paper says "The wife of Capt. Robert Kidd, who recently left him and then returned, has gone away again, and is said to be consorting with a colored man in Anderson court." This Capt. Robert Kidd is not the "bad man" who "murdered William More, as he sailed," many years ago; people didn't care to run away with that Capt. Kidd's wife.

Under False Colors. Nothwithstanding the protection with which the law encircles patent rights and trade marks, no sooner does a valuable patent or proprietary article makes its appearance than a horde of unprincipled persons try by every means to imitate the original. Tyler's Pearline, celebrated as a washing compound, has had a score of imitations, but the superiority of the genuine article over the counterfeits is so plainly apparent that very few people have been deceived.

QUEER FISH.

On Friday morning the men tending the weir at the entrance to this harbor found in the trap a large school of small fish the like of which they had never seen, and a number of them were taken out and brought up to the city for the inspection of fishermen. The strange fish are from eight to ten inches long and weigh from four to six ounces each. The body is shaped something like that of the flying fish; it is nearly straight on the under side, from the under lip to the tail, but the back rounds up in a very decided and nearly regular curve from the snout to the small, the fish being about 2 1-2 inches deep at the highest point of the back, and about 1 1-4 inches in thickness from side to side. The mouth is very small, and situated beneath and some distance back of the snout. The coloring of the fish is peculiar, being white beneath, and oddly barred with purple and brown on the sides. At the end of the pectoral fin is an irregular blotch of purple, from which a stripe runs to the tail; this is the only lengthwise stripe there is, but from the fin a number of bars radiate in all directions except downward,—straight up to the back fin, forward to the head and back toward the tail, like the spokes of a wheel. These bars show purple or brown, according to the light, and the ground color of the back and sides is a bluish brown. None of the fishermen ever saw such a fish before, nor ever heard of it.

Collector Smalley of Burlington, Vermont, has been to Washington, and says the great business of the Burlington office can be transacted with about one-quarter less force than formerly employed, and the work be done as well. It is stated that an investigation will be had in regard to other New England offices, with a view of determining whether all the men on the pay-rolls are actually need to properly protect the interests of the revenue, and if not, reductions will be made where there appears a redundancy of officers.

Black-backs (plaice) have been taken in great numbers this fall in the weirs at the harbor's mouth; about 2000 lbs of them were brought up to Daniel Clark one day last week. Sea perch, fish rarely seen north of Cape Cod, have been recently taken in small numbers off the harbor; they are a kind of "connecting link" between the tautog and cunner, and have golden scales underneath; Mr. Harding turned some of them loose in the upper Piscataqua, hoping they might spawn here. A few cunners have been brought in during the past week, but these fish have mostly disappeared; many fishermen have an idea that they bury themselves in the mud during the cold season, but it seems much more likely that they make off into deep water.

A Portsmouth gentleman while driving over the Kittery Point bridge one day last week saw a lobster fisherman haul up a pot near the bridge, and throw back into the water every lobster the pot contained, five in number. The reason was that the lobsters were not large enough to "cover the law," and the severe lesson given in the Portsmouth police court some weeks ago has been learned on both sides of the river. We are assured that the state fish commissioners of New Hampshire do not propose to trust wholly to local officers for the enforcement of the fishery laws in the future, but will themselves give an occasional look after lobsters caught out of season, "short" lobsters caught in season, and females carrying their eggs caught at any season.

The leaves of the elms have fallen, but a jaunt through the adjacent country this fine weather shows most of the other deciduous trees clad in a most gorgeous array.

B. F. & C. E. Russell one day last week sent off by express 200 dozen eggs, brought in from the surrounding country and sold at their store.

MARITIME NOTES.

The British schooner Arthur, from a provincial port with ties to the Boston & Maine railroad, and the Concordia, from Rockland with lime ashes for South Newmarket, arrived at this port on the 24th inst.; and the J. Chester Wood and Triton, with bricks, sailed for Boston the same day. The schooner Yale arrived from Newport News, Va., on Sunday, the 25th, with 1100 tons of coal, 700 tons to be landed at the Concord railroad wharf, and the remainder at the navy yard. The Yale has been running all the season between Newport News and Boston, Portland and this port, with coal, under contract with the Boston & Maine railroad; the present is her last trip under that contract. The Golden Gate, Capt. Amee, with freight from Boston, arrived on the 25th, having put into Salem harbor on the trip down through stress of weather.

It is reported that an offer has been made to Capt. Aderton, of the schooner Satellite, to settle the claim for damages alleged to have resulted from the schooner's collision with the drill-platform of Solon S. Andrews in 1883, on the payment of $200. It is not stated whether the offer has been accepted.

The schooner Fleur de Lys, Capt. Kennard M. Green, is fitting out for winter fishing at Randall & Caswell's wharf. Her dories came in quite handy for the rescue of drowning horses on Saturday.

The schooners J. Chester Wood and Triton, from this port, and the Emily A. Staples from Saco, all brick laden, arrived at Boston on the 25th inst. The Lillie, G. W. Raitt and Garnet arrived at this port on the 26th from Boston, light; also the Mary Willey from Bangor, with 120,000 feet of lumber to John H. Broughton.

Sunday morning shortly after seven o'clock an individual rejoicing in the sobriquet of "Wildy" Murphy, and who evidently been taking breakfast out of a tumbler, visited the lower end of Deer street to wipe out the sewer workmen, and, interfering with the man who was mixing cement, was by him pitched into the mortar pen, where the cement held him so lovingly that he could not escape unaided, and the workmen had to help him out. "Wildy" went to the dock and washed the cement from his clothes, and then, taking a stand by a pile of bricks, proceeded to fill the atmosphere with them to such an extent as induced the cement mixer to remove to where the air was more suitable for breathing purposes. "Wildy" then went roaming about as a roaring lion, seeking whom he might devour, and meeting three or four gentlemen made them offers for a fight; a message was sent to the station house for a policeman to come and abate the drunken nuisance, but before the officer's arrival he had got under cover somewhere.

The old wooden scald-shed at the Jones brewery is to be jacked up and moved to a site in the yard more convenient to the present scald-shed, where it will be utilized for the winter storage of barrels. The temporary wooden building formerly used as a tun-room is also to be moved, to make room for further contemplated improvements. Mr. Edwards of Salem, Mass., will do the work.

It was stated in a local paper, Saturday, that [illegible] of the supernumerary police officers was on Deer street that day, reeling drunk. We are told that the man referred to is not connected with the police force, and has not been for some time.

Mr. Smith and Mr. Hurley were on Sunday on a wharf near Noble's island, amusing themselves with the performances of a big dog that was swimming around in the dock. Mr. Smith, in tossing a stick for the dog to swim after, lost his balance, and to save himself from falling caught hold of Mr. Hurley, who not being prepared for such a proceeding also lost his balance, and both went into the dock to join the dog. As the water was about eight feet deep, they got wet.

The Alabama claims court rendered judgment in several hundred cases on the 23d inst., among them one in favor of Walter N. Weeks, administrator of the estate of Nathaniel G. Weeks, for $332, with interest at four per cent from Dec. 16th, 1864.

The suit against Asst. Marshal Hurley and Officer McCarthy, growing out of the arrest of Mary Lynch, has been dropped.

Messrs. W. T. Dodge, night editor of the Manchester Union, and J. B. Quaid, reporter of the Dover Democrat, were in this city on Saturday.

A postal card received in this city on Friday last from Jacksonville, Florida, announced the safe arrival at that place on the 19th of Mr. John F. Shea, who left this city at a quarter to eleven o'clock in the forenoon on the 15th in company with Mr. Rufus M. Adams and bride, to spend the winter in that state.

Mr. John Leavitt of Rye was last week appointed weigher and receiver in the construction department store at the navy yard. Mr. Leavitt has always been a democrat.

Mr. D. Foxwell Stoddard, formerly of this city but recently of Hampton, has purchased a farm about a mile from Dover, toward Garrison hill.

A "snide" horse race (we do not know exactly what "snide" means, but it indicates something extremely inferior) took place at the Rockingham trotting park on Friday of last week; only two horses appeared on the track, and the racing was very slim. The attendance of spectators was as slim as the racing.

A commercial traveller and a newspaper man of this city had a foot-race from National block to the Creek last Friday evening, for glory, and refreshments for the crowd. It is generally regarded as difficult for anything to get ahead of a commercial traveller, but on this occasion the press did it, and won the race.

The 4th Assembly of the Nonpareil Associates, last Thursday evening, was a success financially and socially. Ex-Alderman Glancey, of Manchester, was present as a guest of the club, and prompted for one dance. He is claimed to to be the best "caller" in the state.

Saturday was simply a perfect day, and loads of wood, charcoal and hay were quite numerous on the Parade, and seemed to meet ready sales. There was also a drove of cows and a very handsome black Dutch bull, brought from Orange county, Vermont, by James H. Foss of Stratford Centre, who sold quite a number of the animals during the day.

One of the earliest risers in the city last Sunday was his honor the mayor, who was seen inspecting the Deer street end of the big sewer soon after daylight. The contractor's workmen were engaged in laying bricks at that end of the sewer on Sunday, to advance the time when the obstructions can be removed.

The Ullie Akerstrom dramatic company will commence a fortnight's engagement in Music hall on Monday evening of next week. The charming young actress will be warmly welcomed.

William Kelleher, a workman in the Jones brewery, had his right shoulder dislocated on Sunday by falling down the elevator well. Dr. Whittier attended him.

Moses H. Goodrich steam fire engine company at a meeting on Saturday evening voted to give a grand ball in Franklin hall on New Year's eve. Eastman's orchestra, of Manchester, will be secured if possible.

Mrs. Ann F. Trumbull, thirty years old, was taken with hydrophobia in the street at Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 24th.

Have you seen Coleman's elegant eight-inch range for $50, with all the apparatus, including hot closet, also the seven-inch range for $25? Mr. Coleman has one of the largest stocks of household goods in New Hampshire, and it will repay any one in want of articles in the housekeeping line to visit his warehouse on Market street.

What Parents Fear.

Many persons—especially parents—object to many quack nostrums as likely to engender or encourage a love for strong drink. They are right. Better die of disease than of drunkenness. The use of Parker's Tonic does not involve this danger. It not only builds up the system, curing all ailments of the stomach, liver and kidneys, but it stimulates without intoxicating and absolutely cures the appetite for liquor.

Prices of Sheep and Lambs—In lots, $2 00, $3 00 @ $3 50 each; extra, $4 00 @ $4 50, or from 2 @ 4½c ⅌ lb; spr ng lambs, 4 @ 5½c ⅌ lb.

There were less western and New York cattle with about the same amount as last week from the other sections. The trade opened dull and did not improve much during the day, the bulk of the cattle selling from 5 @ 7¼c, dressed weight. The butchers declare that they want better quality, but in the absence of such they bid at low rates, full as low as last week. Some dealers were of the opinion that they sold cattle full as well, but the generality of dealers called the market a shade lower in value. The exceptional instances of fancy cattle were very few.

Milch Cows—The movement rather moderate, with sales at $25 @ $65, except for selected quality.

The Sheep Call—A decrease in the supply of some 30,00 head was all that saved a serious decline in values. The market was not as firm as last week, and the quality was largely inferior and not at all desirable; 5½c on lambs was an exceptional rate, one not we heard of being sold at 5¾c, but they were previously contracted for.

Fat Hogs—5c, dressed weight, is all slaughterers will pay this week, and western live are delivered here at 4 @ 4½c.

Veal Calves steady in price with sales at 2½ @ 6½c.

Live Poultry—4 tons on sale with 8 @ 10c on mixed lots, 12 @ 14c for turkeys.

"This, Too, Shall Pass Away."

Art thou in misery, brother? This I say,
Be comforted! Thy grief shall pass away!

Art thou elated? Ah! be not too gay;
Temper thy joy! This, too, shall pass away.

Art thou in danger? Still let reason sway,
And cling to hope! This, too, shall pass away.

Tempted art thou? In all thine anguish lay
One truth to heart—this, too, shall pass away.

Do rays of laureled glory round thee play?
Kings like art thou? This, too, shall pass away.

Whate'er thou art, where'er thy footsteps stray,

ABOUT GEOLOGY.

Geology is that branch of natural study which treats of the structure of the earth's crust and the mode of formation of its rocks. It is a pleasant and profitable study, and to the man who has married rich and does not need to work the amusement of busting geology with the bible, or busting the bible with geology, is indeed a great boon.

Geology goes hand in hand with zoology, botany, physical geography and other kindred sciences. Taxidermy, chiropody and theology are not kindred sciences.

Geologists ascertain the age of the earth by looking at its teeth and counting the wrinkles on its horns. They have learned that the earth is not only of great age, but that it is still adding to its age from year to year.

It is hard to say very much of a great science in so short an article, and that is one great obstacle which I am constantly running against as a scientist. I once prepared a paper in astronomy entitled "The Chronological History and Habits of the Spheres." It was very exhaustive and weighed four pounds. I sent it to a scientific publication that was supposed to be working for the advancement of our race. The editor did not print it, but wrote me a crisp and saucy postal card requesting me to call with dray and remove my stuff before the board of health got after it. In five short years from that time he was a corpse. As I write these lines I learn with ill-concealed pleasure that he is still a corpse. An awful dispensation of Providence in the shape of a large, wilted cucumber laid hold upon his vitals and crushed him with an inward pain. He has since had the opportuning by actual personal observation to see whether the statements made by me relative to astronomy were true. His last words were: "Friends, Romans and countrywomen, beware of the q-cumber. It will sup." It was not original, but it was good.

The four great primary periods of the earth's history are as follows, viz., to-wit:

I. The Eozoic or I am of life.
II. The Paleozoic or period of ancient life.
III. The Mesozoic or middle period of life.
IV. The Neozoic or recent period of life.

These are all subdivided again, and other words more difficult to spell are introduced into science, thus crowding out the vulgar head who cannot afford to use high priced terms in constant conversation.

Old timers state that the primitive condition of the earth was extremely damp. With the onward march of time, and after the lapse of millions of years, men found that they could get along with less and less water, until at last we see the pleasant, blissful state of things. Aside from the use of water at our summer resorts, that fluid is getting to be less and less popular. And even here at these resorts it is generally flavored with some foreign substance.

The earth's crust is variously estimated in the matter of thickness. Some think it is 2,500 miles thick, which would make it safe to run heavy trains across the earth anywhere on top of a second mortgage, while other scientists say that if we go down one-tenth of that distance we will reach a place where the worm dieth not. I do not wish to express an opinion as to the actual depth or thickness of the earth's crust, but I believe it is none too thick to suit me.

Thickness of the earth's crust is a mighty good fault. We estimate the age of a certain strata of the earth's formation by means of a union of our knowledge of plant and animal life, coupled with our geological research and a good memory. The older scientists in the field of geology do not rely solely upon the tracks of the hadrasaurus or the cornucopia for their data. They simply use these things to refresh their memory.

I wish that I had time and space to describe some of the beautiful bacteria and gigantic worms that formerly inhabited the earth. Such an aggregation of actual, living Siluriau monsters, any one of which would make a man a fortune to-day, if it could be kept on ice and exhibited for one season only. You could take a full-grown mastodon to-day, and with no calliope, no lithographs, no bearded lady, no clown with four pillows in his pantaloons and no iron-jawed woman, you could go across the continent and successfully compete with the skating rink.

There would be but one difficulty. Your expenses would not be heavy. The mastodon would be willing to board around and no one would feel like turning a mastodon out of doors if he seemed to be hungry, but he might get away from you and frolic away so far in one night that you couldn't get him for a day or two even if you sent a detective for him.

If I had a mastodon I would rather take him when he is young, and then I could make a pet of him so that he would come and eat out of my hand without taking the hand off at the same time. A large mastodon weighing a hundred tons or so, is awkward, too. I suppose nothing is more painful than to be stepped on by an adult mastodon.

I hope at some future time to write a paper for the Academy of Science on the subject of "Deceased Fauna, Fossiliferous Debris and Extinct Jokes," showing how, when and why these early forms of animal life came to extinct.—Bill Nye in New York Mercury.

Japanese Women.

Pretty as she is on a pictured fan, a Japanese woman is far more satisfying to the aesthetic soul as she patters along, alive, on her wooden clogs or straw sandals writes a correspondent of the Boston Herald; the poorest woman in her single, cheap, cotton gown or kimono is as much a picture as her richer sister in silk and crape. With their heads elaborately dressed, and folds of gay crape or a glittering hairpin thrust in the smooth loops of blue-black hair, they seem always a gala array, and, rain or shine, never cover those elaborate coiffures with any more than a paper umbrella. Below that the loose dress, opening in a point nearly to the waist, has lining and folds of gayer crapes and silks laid inside, and the glory of the toilet culminates with the broad obi or sash. The obis of striped and figured crapes, brocades, and silks are lined with stiffly-starched cloth, wound round and round the waist, and fastened in a big cushion-like bow at the back. The long, loose sleeves give grace and ease to the scant, smooth gown, and each slender figure is a pretty study by herself. The sweet, soft voices, the gentle manners, and the elaborate courtesy displayed by every one of them add the last and most gracious touches to these picturesque and irresistibly charming women.

Life in the Paris Sewers, is possible for a short time to the robust, but the majority of refined persons would prefer immediate death to existence in their reeking atmosphere. How much more revolting to be in one's self a living sewer. But this is actually the case with those in whom the inactivity of the liver drives the refuse matter of the body to escape through the lungs, lards, the pores, kidneys and bladder. It is astonishing that life remains in such a dwelling. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" restores normal purity to the system and renews the whole being.

The first death from smallpox in Toronto occured on the 25th inst.

Diseases from Pimples to Scrofula Cured by Cuticura.

Hundreds of letters in our possession, copies of which may be had by return of mail, repeat this story:—I have been a terrible sufferer for years from Diseases of the Skin and Blood; have been obliged to shun public places by reason of my disfiguring humors; have had the best physicians; have spent hundreds of dollars, and got no relief until I used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, which have cured me, and left my skin and blood as pure as a child's.

COVERED WITH SALT RHEUM.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are the greatest medicines on earth. Had the worst case of Salt Rheum in this country. My mother had it twenty years, and he finally died from it. I believe CUTICURA would have saved her life. My arms, breast and head were covered for three years, which nothing relieved or cured until I used the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, externally. J. W. ADAMS. NEWARK, O.

HEAD, FACE AND BODY RAW.

I commenced to use your CUTICUTA REMEDIES last July. My head and face and some parts of my body were almost raw. My head was covered with scabs and sores, and my suffering was fearful. I had tried everything I had heard of in the East and West. My case was considered a very bad one. I have now not a particle of Skin Humor about me, and my case is considered wonderful. MRS. S. E. WHIPPLE. DECATUR, MICH.

ECZEMA FROM HEAD TO FEET.

Charles Sayre Hinkle, Jersey City Heights, N. J., writes: "My son, a lad of twelve years, was completely cured of a terrible case of Eczema by the CUTICURA REMEDIES. From the top of his head to the soles of his feet was one mass of scabs." Every other remedy and physicians had been tried in vain.

NOTHING LIKE CUTICURA.

The half has not been told as to the great curative powers of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, I have paid hundreds of dollars for medicines to cure diseases of the blood and skin, and never found anything yet to equal the CUTICURA REMEDIES. PROVIDENCE, R. I. CHAS. A. WILLIAMS.

WHAT IS DYSPEPSIA?

Among the many symptoms of Dyspepsia or indigestion the most prominent are: Variable appetite; faint, gnawing feeling at pit of the stomach, with unsatisfied craving for food; heartburn, feeling of weight and wind in the stomach, bad breath, bad taste in the mouth, low spirits, general prostration, headache, and constipation. There is no form of disease more prevalent than Dyspepsia, and none so peculiar to the high-living and rapid-eating American people. Alcohol and tobacco produce Dyspepsia; also, bad air, rapid eating, etc. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS will cure the worst case, by regulating the bowels and toning up the digestive organs. Sold everywhere.

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Under False Colors. Nothwithstanding the protection with which the law encircles patent rights and trade marks, no sooner does a valuable patent or proprietary article makes its appearance than a horde of unprincipled persons try by every means to imitate the original. Pyle's Pearline, celebrated as a washing compound, has had a score of imitations, but the superiority of the genuine article over the counterfeits is so plainly apparent that very few people have been deceived.

Rev. H. C. Graves, pastor of the First Baptist church in Haverhill, Mass., resigned Oct. 25th.

The Administration's Regard for Civil Service Reform.

There are some persons who pretend to be unable to understand the true position of the administration upon the civil service question. There are none so blind as those who will not see, if they can. The administration is in favor of the civil service law, but opposed to its execution. For example, when appropriations are to be voted for the expenditures of the navy, the disgruntled democrats are to be overcome and republican votes in Congress are to be obtained by a manly, high-toned observance of the rule, to turn out the republican foremen at the navy yards, put in their places democratic bosses, and instruct them not to employ men for political purposes!

On the other hand, in the post-office and treasury departments the rule of "go-as-you-please" will be observed. As for example, the case of Assistant Secretary Coon of the treasury department. Mr. Manning acknowledges his great familiarity with his duties, and his knowledge, which of course new men could not possibly acquire except by experience in the discharge of official duties.

Mr. Coon has been recognized as the active, working chief of the treasury department under several heads, and no man has ever held the position who has evinced greater familiarity with its duties or more painstaking fidelity in their discharge. When the change of administration occurred, Mr. Coon went frankly to Secretary Manning and put his place at the secretary's disposal, saying that he had always been a republican and always expected to be one; that he had no desire to remain in office a day longer than he was wanted, and that he was ready to retire at any moment. Secretary Manning especially requested him to remain, assured him that he would be of the greatest service, and that in fact his remaining would be considered in the light of a favor. Secretary Manning has alw ys since gratefully acknowledged the constant loyalty and zeal of Mr. Coon's service.

Mr. Manning contrived to kill two birds with one stone. He was able to learn the duties of his office, and have fresh men instructed in their new and untried positions, and at the same time the friends of civil service reform were pleased to see this signal token of the sincerity of the administration in its professions displayed in the department where Higgins had caused only disgust and condemnation at his unscrupulous decapitations. But the secretary has become posted. The office is worth $4500. The administration wishes it filled by one of its supporters. Coon is a republican, and like the animal treed by Col. Crockett, must come down.

No one complains of this doctrine of the victors and spoils being enforced by a democratic administration; our democratic friends assure each other it can be carried on successfully on no other plan. Mr. Cleveland sees this. He is a shrewd politician. He will take all the chances, and trust to his good luck. At present the navy and war departments will be managed with a due regard to civil service rules, and efficiency. The next appropriations will be voted in the expectation that they will be judicially expended for their intended purposes. The secretaries of war and the navy will wheel into line and keep step with the music of reform. The post-office and treasury departments will on the other hand be able to satisfy the most recalcitrant democrat who writes commendatory editorials and caucus resolutions in support of the administration during the pauses of his profane utterances at its entire disregard of what is expected of a democratic president by the "life-longs" who claim to have elected him.

HEREDITARY SCROFULA.

ARE you aware that in your blood the taint of scrofula has a prominent place? This is true of every one. It is liable at any time, on the slightest provocation, to develop itself in some insidious disease. Consumption and many other diseases are outgrowths of this impurity of the blood. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA has a wonderful power over all scrofulous troubles, as the remarkable testimonials we have received unmistakably prove.

"MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—* * * My youngest son has always been troubled with Scrofulous Humor; sores in his head discharging from his ears, and a running sore on the back of his ear for two years; his eyelids would fester and ulcerate, discharging so that I was obliged to wash them open every morning, his eyelashes nearly all coming out; he was exceedingly dainty, most of the time eating but two slight meals a day. We were unable to find anything that had the least effect upon him till last spring, 1878, we gave him two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla. His appetite improved at once. * * The back of his ear healed up without a scar, and not a sore in his head since. Sincerely yours,
MRS. N. C. SANBORN,
No. 108 Merrimack St., Lowell, Mass.

"We do not as a rule allow ourselves to use our editorial columns to speak of any remedy we advertise, but we feel warranted in saying a word for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Sarsaparilla has been known as a remedial agent for centuries and is recognized by all schools of practice as a valuable blood purifier. It is put up in forms of almost infinite variety, but Messrs. Hood & Co., (Lowell, Mass.) who are thoroughly reliable pharmacists, have hit upon a remedy of unusual value. Certainly they have vouchers of cures which we know to be most extraordinary."—Editors Lowell Weekly Journal.

SUPREME COURT--BLODGETT J.

TUESDAY, Oct. 27th.

Case Pickering vs. Pickering was concluded, and sent to the law term.

The case of C. M. Gignoux vs. estate of Wm. Downs, was continued to the next term.

The case of Frank Jones vs. City of Portsmouth was continued, and it is understood that the case will be dismissed by the counsel for the plaintiff, which will virtually end all litigation on the sewer question, and the city will be allowed to construct the sewer in the alleged town landing and dock at the foot of Deer street.

The case of John Kelly vs. Elvin Newton, to recover the balance of an unsettled account, was heard. The plaintiff was awarded $25; claim $158.

Diverces were decreed in the cases of Eliza M. Gilman from John S. Gilman of Brentwood, and Emma F. Riley from Judson Riley of Portsmouth.

The business coming before this term is now nearly completed, and it is thought that the term will be concluded Thursday.

CIRCUIT COURT--COLT J.

King, adm'r., vs. Connecticut & Passumpsic River railroad, was entered neither party. Aldrich & Remick for plff.; Edwards, Dickerman & Young for deft.

Price, receiver of Pacific National Bank, vs. C. A. Dole. The receiver presented a petition to the court for leave to accept a sum in compromise of the sum claimed as damages; allowed. Batchelder & Faulkner: Ranney & Clark, for Price; Dole pro se.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

TUESDAY, Oct. 27th.

Dennis Carey, charged with an assault on Harry Breen, was let off on probation.

FIRE.

A small building on Water street near Liberty bridge, owned by Benjamin Russell and occupied as a barn by Thomas G. B. Moulton, was burned with its contents of hay about six o'clock Tuesday evening. A second alarm was pulled in from box nineteen, steamer No. 3, whose duty it is to answer the first alarm, not showing up at the fire, owing to some trouble with the horses appointed to draw it. No. 2 promptly answered the second alarm, and soon drowned the small conflagration.

MARITIME NOTES.

The claim of the owner of the drill-stand against the schooner Chilion, for damages caused by the schooner colliding with the stand, has been settled by the payment of $400.

It is now said the project of hauling the steamer City of Portsmouth out on the ways at Kittery has been given up, the owners finding the railway not long enough to take her up.

The schooner Franklin Pierce, of Portland, Me., is loading with 600 barrels of apples at Randall & Caswell's wharf, for Bermuda and a market. She is paying thirty cents a bushel.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

Mr. William F. Pinkham, of Kittery, has been reappointed to his former position as quarterman in charge of the rigging loft at the navy yard, under the boatswain of the yard.

The sails of the U. S. S. Galena were being bent on Tuesday, the 27th inst.

A choice vocal and instrumental concert will be given in Music hall on Thursday evening, Nov. 19th, with the following array of talent: The Weber male quartette of Boston, and Miss Edith Wendell of this city, vocalists; Miss Carrie Ernestine Hall of Boston, reader; Miss Fannie P. Hoyt of Newington, violinist; Mrs. Geo. P. Philbrick and Miss Emily Hoyt of this city, pianists. So strong a concert combination as this has rarely appeared in this city, and undoubtedly Music hall will be filled on that occasion.

Mr. Albion S. Carroll is still engaged in blasting for Charles E. Walker at his new house on Middle street, through 600 feet of solid blue ledge, for placing the aqueduct pipes there.

At the regular meeting of Hope Division, No. 56, Sons of Temperance, of Newcastle, the following officers were installed by D. G. W. P. Charles E. Campbell, assisted by Octavia Amazeen as D. G. C.: Miss Ida Locke, W. P.; Miss Abbie S. White, W. A.; Miss Josie H. Rand, rec. sec.; Miss Mary B. Neal, asst. rec. sec.; Mrs. Louise Yeaton, fin. sec.; Mrs. Fannie Harding, treas.; Mr. Nathaniel Yeaton, chap.; Mrs. Clara Hall, con.; Marian Yeaton, asst. con.; Mrs. Phila Murray, I. S.; Octavia Amazeen, O. S.; Mrs. Eliza Rand, P. W. P.

A new truss is being made for the span of the bridge between Newington and Dover point, by the Portsmouth bridge gang. The timbers are sawed from heavy hard pine sticks, and the structure is being made very strong.

A large addition has just been made to Daniel Mason's sawmill, in the rear; a large luthern window has been placed in the roof, to give additional light during the short days; and steam pipes have been placed along the interior to keep the workmen comfortable in cold weather.

The foundation of the new tenement house to be erected on Penhallow street for Ed. S. Fay, is already finished. The structure is to be quite an extensive one. If the building on the corner of Penhallow and Daniel streets could be moved back on a line with the street, it would be a great improvement.

A correspondent of the Bangor Whig, writing from Camden, Me., says: "A man thirty-five years old, calling himself J. F. Jones, and claiming to be the son of Hon. Frank Jones of Portsmouth, N. H., called on citizens here recently, soliciting subscribers for the Boston Journal and Kennebec Journal; said his father was worth $30,000,000, and owned one-half of the Western Union Telegraph Company stock, and one-half the Boston Journal; that he had walked from Portland, Oregon, within thirty days, and was getting a dollar an hour as inspector of post offices; and was the owner of a hotel at Belfast. His extravagant stories elicited a good deal of curiosity. He was well dressed, and told his stories as though he believed them."

A South Berwick correspondent writes concerning Mrs. Olivia S. Nason, who died in that town on the 21st inst., that "her long life of nearly ninety-one years was spent almost wholly in her native town, where her name was always significant of generous and charming hospitalities, of sincerity and loyal friendship, as those know best who came nearest to her in every day life. The poor have lost a kind helper; her own household and all her friends will long remember her wit and drollery, as well as her courage and touching patience through all the sorrow and losses and infirmities that her great age brought. One of the last ladies of the old school, she never outgrew her kindness or her beauty; she never forgot to sympathize with the wishes and interests of young people. She brought to a new generation the best traditions of her own early days, and was an example of the manners, the elegance and courtesy of an olden time."

Medical Men of Distinction

Have been among the foremost to give honor where honor was due in the case of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Abjuring old fashioned professional prejudice, they have frankly borne evidence to its worth as a means of remedying dyspepsia, fever and ague, bilious remittent, rheumatism, constipation, liver complaint, debility and renal disorders. With all intelligent people this favorable professional verdict has had its due weight, especially as it was in direct confirmation of that of the people and the press. Far more effectual has it proved than bombastic assertion, too often resorted to by the proprietors of remedies of doubtful value. "The plain unvarnished truth" about the Bitters is more than sufficient to convince a skeptic. As a family medicine of comprehensive utility, prompt and thorough in action and pure in composition, it stands deservedly first.

Dr. Hewett Chandler Fessenden, a brother of the late William Pitt Fessenden, died in Eastport, Me., Oct. 22d, at the age of sixty-six years.

S. B. Durfey, mate of steamer Arizona, had his foot badly jammed. Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured it. Nothing equal to it for a quick pain reliever.

James Johnson, a veteran of the war of 1812, and believed to be the last survivor of the "Dartmoor massacre," died recently in Brocton, Mass., aged ninety-six years.

Carter's Little Liver Pills will positively cure sick headache and prevent its return. This is not talk, but truth. One pill a dose. To be had of all Druggists. See advertisement.

Hon. Elbridge Gerry, the distinguished ex-congressman of Maine, is seriously ill, and his recovery is dobutful.

What is the use!

Of buying worthless medicine, and spending money on quack doctors whose only idea is to gull the public. Is it not better to buy reliable medicine like Sulphur Bitters? I think so, as they cured me of Catarrh after suffering three years. —F. P. Clark, Manchester.

Michael O'Donnell, aged thirteen years, was fatally shot in a stable at Worcester, Mass., Oct., 24th, by Richard Kane, aged nineteen. The shooting was accidental.

That Dirty Dandruff.

Dandruff is dirty and disagreeable in every way. It soils the clothing continually, and is accompanied by a hardly less annoying sensation of itching. The scale is diseased. There is nothing in the world so thoroughly adapted to this trouble as Parker's Hair Balsam. It cleanses and heals the scalp, stops the falling hair and restores its original softness, gloss and color. Is not oily, highly perfumed, an elegant dressing. Very economical, as only a small occasional application keeps the hair in perfect condition.

The First Keen Twinge.

As the season advances, the pains and aches by which rheumatism makes itself known, are experienced after every exposure. It is not claimed that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a specific for rheumatism—we doubt if there is, or can be, such a remedy. But the thousands benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla, warrant us in urging others who suffer from rheumatism to take it before the first keen twinge.

Under False Colors. Nothwithstanding the protection with which the law encircles patent rights and trade marks, no sooner does a valuable patent or proprietary article makes its appearance than a horde of unprincipled persons try by every means to imitate the original. A Strange Case.

Mrs. Anna Amelia Coolidge, wife of a Boston policeman, is under arrest on a charge of soliciting a person to commit murder. Mrs. Coolidge is alleged to have been employed by William A. L. Mellen, proprietor of the St. James hotel in Baltimore, to kill, or have killed, his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Edward L. Mellen, because she was distasteful to the family, being their inferior by birth and in education. The younger Mellen is twenty-five years old, and he was married last April to Mary J. Somerset, whom he had seduced while she was serving as a domestic in his father's hotel, they having a child nine months old at the time of their marriage. It is charged that old man Mellen engaged Mrs. Coolidge to secure the putting of his daughter-in-law out of the way, and she was arranging with James Donohue, alias "John Bull," and "Bose" Cobb, two notorious ruffians of Boston, to do the horrid work, but Donohue exposed the conspiracy to the police.

Manufacturers' Lock-Out.

Beverly, Mass., has thirty-four shoe manufactories, all doing a good business; they employ an aggregate of 2000 persons, and the weekly payroll amounts to $25,000. The manufacturers have a union, to a committee of which the grievances of any one shop may be referred. The edgemakers and trimmers also have a union, the headquarters of which is in Lynn. On Oct. 23d the secretary of the edgemakers' union called at one shop with a list of prices for the firm to adopt, and was referred to the manufacturers' committee; he refused to recognize this committee, and ordered the workmen out of the shop. The manufacturers were willing to adopt the labor union's scale of prices, but said it must be done through their own union; and the edgemakers refusing to treat, on Tuesday evening, Oct. 27th, every shop in Beverly shut down for an indefinite period. As reported in the papers, the action of the edgemakers seems to have been overbearing and ill-advised, they insisting that the manufacturers shall bow low to the edgemakers' union, while the manufacturers' union is ignored by the edgemakers.

Disastrous Storm.

Advices from St. Johns, Newfoundland, of Oct. 27th, say that a great storm raged along the coast of Labrador from Oct. 11th to the 15th, during which time eighty vessels were wrecked or driven ashore, and at least 300 men from the crews of the vessels lost their lives. Two thousand persons are now ashore in a destitute condition. The news created great excitement in St. Johns, and steps were taken for the immediate despatch of steamers to the scene of the disaster with provisions, clothing and other comforts for the use of the castaways.

"The Royal Baker and Pastry Cook," a "Royal" addition to the kitchen library, contains over seven hundred receipts pertaining to every branch of the culinary department, including baking, roasting, preserving, soups, cakes, jellies, pastry, and all kinds of sweetmeats, with receipts for the most delicious candies, cordials, beverages, and all other necessary knowledge for the chef de cuisine of the most exacting epicure, as well as for the more modest housewife who desires to prepare for her lord and master a repast that shall be both wholesome and economical. With each receipt is given full and explicit directions for putting together, manipulating, shaping, baking, and kind of atensil to be used, so that a novice can go through the operation with success; while a special and important feature is made of the mode of preparing all kinds of food and delicacies for the sick. The book has been prepared under the direction of Prof. Rudmani, late chef of the New York Cooking School, and is the most valuable of the recent editions upon the subject of cookery that has come to our notice. It is gotten up in a high style of the printer's art, in illuminated covers, etc. We are assured that every can of the "Royal Baking Powder" contains an order for one of these valuable books.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Wm. D. Cargill, from Bangor for Vineyard Haven with lumber, put into the lower harbor Oct. 28th with four feet of water in her hold, to haul on the beach at Kittery for examination before proceeding. The schooner Wide Awake, which arrived from Rondout, N. Y., on the 28th, brought 1000 barrels of Newark cement to John H. Broughton; and the Golden Gate, from Boston, had in her freight 150 barrels of Portland cement to the same. The brickers Hattie Lewis, D. K. Ham and Gold Hunter arrived on the 28th from Boston, light; and the Mary Willey sailed in the afternoon on her regular trip—for Portland to load corn for Bangor, and at Bangor load lumber for John H. Broughton.

The United States coast survey steamer A. D. Bache, Lieut. Eugene D. F. Heald, U. S. N., commanding, came up the river on Tuesday evening, Oct. 27th, and anchored off Pier wharf, where she remained through Wednesday.

Mr. John Neal of Kittery was capsized out of a boat at the Gas Co.'s wharf on Tuesday of this week, with two barrels of sand and a barrel of cement. The sand and the cement went to the bottom, but Mr. Neal climbed up the steps to the wharf.

Ths schooner Rambler, Isaac Pridham master, arrived at Commercial wharf on Wednesday af this week with 8000 lbs. of fish to E. Newton & Co. She reported very thick weather outside the previous night, and considerable sea running.

An American Wheelman.

Mr. E. F. Powers, of the firm of Atwood & Powers, Mansfield, Mass., is a famous bicyclist. The most expert, however, will some times come to grief; and through an accident while riding recently Mr. Powers sustained a serious injury to his right leg. A few applications of St. Jacobs Oil effected a cure.

A True Story with a Very Happy Ending.

Such is the story of Tepping, the Market st. tailor, who was poor and is rich; who bought a fifth of a Louisiana State Lottery ticket origon for one dollar and won a fortune last month. It is said that Tepping has forsaken the scenes that he formerly haunted; that the paths he trod now know him no more. Where is Tepping? Has he returned to the land where Prince Bismarck rules and where the American hog is unknown? It is hinted that Tepping has gone to visit his Fatherland and to there astonish the natives with graphic accounts of how fortunes have been made by Californians investing in Louisiana State Lottery tickets.—San Francisco (Cal.) Chronicle, Sept. 13.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Oct. 27th.

A little son of Geo. A. Peirce of North Kittery, while at play about the room on Tuesday evening, the 20th inst., accidentally upset a cupful of hot fat that set on a table just within his reach, badly scalding the left side of his face and one hand; he is at present doing well.

Rev. E. E. Colburn, pastor of the Second Christian church, will preach a sermon in that church next Sunday afternoon on "The Probabilities of Divine Miracles."

It is rumored that Dr. M. F. Wentworth will reside at the new Rockingham house in Portsmouth during the winter, after that building is completed.

Mrs. Charles Shackford, who went to Mexico over a year ago where her husband is employed, returned to Kittery on Tuesday last.

A large fire on Mount Agamenticus was plainly seen by residents at North Kittery on Sunday evening.

Mr. Clarence Prince slaughtered a pig for Augustus Spinney last week that was nine months old and tipped the scales at 381 lbs.

Mr. Arthur Cleborne, son of Medical Inspector C. J. Cleborne, U. S. N., and for some time past employed in the construction department draughting room at this navy yard, has been ordered to Chester, Pa.; he left on Monday for his duties there.

Mrs. Wentworth, wife of Dr. Andrew R. Wentworth, U. S. N., who has been visiting relatives, left town last week to join her husband, who is stationed on the U. S. S. St. Louis at League Island.

Mr. John F. Goodsoe has a yoke of five-years-old steers that he raised, which girth seven feet and seven inches. He also has an Alderney bull one year old, raised from imported stock, and considered full blooded.

Mr. Charles S. Grace of Kittery Point, who was so badly injured by being thrown from his team through the horses taking fright at a locomotive on Noble's island last Thursday morning, has recovered partially from what was thought to be a fatal injury, and states that before crossing the track he stopped, and the flagman stationed there motioned for him to come across; supposing everything all right he started to do so, but when opposite the engine the engineer blew the whistle full blast, which frightened his horses, causing them to run. His story is corroborated by the young man who was with him.

Mr. George A. Lambert left town Saturday last, and will sail from New York Thursday, the 29th inst., on the steamer Orinoco for Bermuda to pass the winter.

A petition is being circulated in the northern part of the town asking that the post-office at Kittery Depot be changed to the new store of Mr. C. A. Todd in North Kittery, and that he be appointed postmaster. Should there be a change, and we hope there will, North Kittery would be the most desirable and best situated to accommodate the largest number of inhabitants. At present the depot post-office is located but one-half mile from the Foreside office. All who live in the vicinity of the former would be as well accommodated at the Foreside office; while some of those in North Kittery, the eastern part of Eliot, and a part of York, who receive their mail through the Depot office, have to drive five or six miles to get it; in fact, the present office accommodates but few, while if changed to North Kittery it would accommodate many, being on the stage road, and three miles from any other office. Since July last the Depot office has been disrated as a distributing office, that work being now done in the Portsmouth office; and Putnam Brothers, who carry the mail between Portsmouth and York, pass Mr. Todd's store every day on their trips, and we think the expense of their carrying the mail would not be any more if as much as under the present system.

Mrs. T. J. Pettigrew left town Wednesday morning, the 28th inst., for Washington, D. C. We understand that Mr. Oliver Hatch has engaged Mrs. Pettigrew's house and will move therein as soon as his wife and daughter return from the west, where they have been for a year past visiting Mrs. Hatch's parents.

SUB ROSA.

The Girard & Vokes combination will give an exhibition of fancy skating and bicycle riding at the Casino this (Thursday) evening. Tickets 20 cts., reserved seats 30 cts., for sale at Goodrich's.

Hon. Calvin Page on the 28th inst. received his commission as collector of internal revenue, and will assume the duties of the office on the 1st of next month.

Mr. Robert A. Stott is debarred at present from active service as conductor on the Portsmouth & Dover railroad, by nervous prostration superinduced by injuries and shock received at the time of the recent collision of trains at Dover.

Elvin Newton left this city on Tuesday morning of this week for New York, on a business trip.

The Boston & Maine railroad has declared a dividend of four per cent.

In Life's Decline

Infirmities beset us to which our youth and maturity were strangers. Weakness of the loins, rheumatic ailments, dyspepsia, loss of appetite and nuquiet sleep, are among these. As a means of counteracting the infirmities of age, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is unrivalled. It quickens and enriches the sluggish and impoverished blood, begets a hearty appetite and youthful relish for the food, and enables the stomach to digest it. It soothes and invigorates the nervous system and checks a tendency to rheumatism. Its quieting action upon the great sympathetic nerve, which connects the stomach with the brain, results in the speedy departure of the restlessness by night and disquietude by day, which are the reflected manifestations of dyspepsia. It is a most effectual antidote to the poison of malaria, gives a healthful impetus to the action of the kidneys and bowels, and is an admirable means of resuscitating vigor when impaired by overwork or other cause.

Unless King Thebaw's complete acceptance of the East Indian government's terms be received at Rangoon by Nov. 10th, hostilities against Burmah will begin November 11th, and another prince and regency will be substituted for the present government of that country.

S. B. Durfey, mate of steamer Arizona, had his foot badly jammed. Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured it. Nothing equal to it for a quick pain reliever.

The friends of Lorenzo M. Davis, civil engineer of New Bedford, Mass., who has been employed on the Canadian Pacific railroad, are apprehensive concerning his fate, nothing having been heard from him for a year. The last letter received from him was dated at the head of Columbia river.

Pain from indigestion, dyspepsia, and too hearty eating is relieved at once by taking one of Carter's Little Liver Pills immediately after dinner. Don't forget this.

What Parents Fear.

Many persons—especially parents—object to many quack nostrums as likely to engender or encourage a love for strong drink. They are right. Better die of disease than of drunkenness. The use of Parker's Tonic does not involve this danger. It not only builds up the system, curing all ailments of the stomach, liver and kidneys, but it stimulates without intoxicating and absolutely cures the appetite for liquor.

Then he took two every night for a month, gained eight pounds in weight, and was able to attend to business. He took two pills every night for the following six weeks, and was entirely cured.

of ATHLOPHOROS cured my wife of acute neuralgia. Instead of being laid up for two or three days as usual, it was all over in three hours and she has not had an attack since."—JOHN AUGER, 120 Howe Street, New Haven, Conn.

Some ATHLOPHOROS will not act as quickly as others, but it is sure and the more severe the pain the more quickly it will act. There is no disease more common and none more painful than neuralgia. Ladies particularly are subject to headaches of neuralgic origin. Neuralgia in any form can be surely cured. Athlophoros is absolutely safe and absolutely sure. Thousands who have suffered intensely with neuralgia and been cured by the use of Athlophoros prove the truth of this statement. Is it not worth a trial in your case?

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

After Diphtheria.

Diphtheria is a terrible disease, requiring the greatest medical skill to effect a complete cure. Even when its power is broken, it clings to the patient with great persistency, and often leaves the system poisoned and prostrated. Just here Hood's Sarsaparilla does a vast amount of good, expelling impurities from the blood, giving it richness and vitality, while it renovates and strengthens the system.

The second "Popsy Story," by Mrs. Helen Jackson ("H. H.,") in the November "Wide Awake," gives some amusing features of the great "overland" journeys forty years ago.

The best is always the cheapest. In nothing is this more manifest than in medicines. Cheap imitations may be offered, but they will do no good. The only medicine which cures rheumatism is St. Jacobs Oil.

The British cutter yacht Genesta arrived at Portsmouth, Eng., Oct. 28th, in nineteen days and ten hours from New York.—an excellent passage for so small a craft.

Death of Gen. George B. McClellan.

Gen. George B. McClellan, "Little Mac," former commander of the army of the Potomac, died at his residence on Orange mountain, New Jersey, about midnight on the night af Oct. 28th. He had been indisposed for two weeks, but nothing serious was feared until a few hours before his death.

Gen. McClellan defeated Lee at the battle of Antietam; was the democratic candidate for president in 1864, and was elected governor of New Jersey in 1877.

New Hampshire Patents.

The following list of patents granted Oct. 27th to citizens of New Hampshire, is specially reported by Franklin H. Hough, solicitor of American and foreign patents, No. 925 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C.:

No. 329,370. F. G. Cushman, Barnet, Vt., assignor to F. A. Cushman, Lebanon, N. H., and others, making paper-pulp from wood.

No. 329,397. W. Esty, Laconia, steam-boiler.

The whole number of patents granted to citizens of the United States for the week ending Oct. 27th was 490.

Robert J. Cook, who was captain of the famous "centennial crew" of Yale college, inventor of the "Yale stroke" in rowing, and "coach", of the Yale 'varsity crew for several years, was murderously assaulted with a hatchet in Philadelphia, Oct. 28th, by a negro named Stephen McPherson, and fatally injured. The murderer is under arrest.

The American Yacht club has awarded the first prize in the recent steam yacht race to the Atalanta, it being held that the Stiletto did not follow the prescribed course. Another race will be run next spring for a cup purchased jointly by Gould and Herreschoff, and a club cup worth $10,000.

Near Hamilton Station, N. Y., Oct. 28th, masked men invaded the room of Emory Thayer, and while stealing his money he awoke and they shot and killed him.

A. J. Burns shot and fatally wounded Mrs. Ray Good and Miss Lillian Walter, sisters, in Chicago, on Wednesday evening, Oct. 28th. He had been discharged from the employ of R. G. Dun & Co. for insulting them. Burns narrowly escaped lynching.

Arthur Spill, a young man, was found in the yard of Edward Crockett at Northboro, Mass., on the night of Oct. 28th, fatally shot through the lungs. He talked after being found, but refused to give any account of the shooting. Supposed to have been a case of suicide.

The selectmen of Newington have called a town meeting to be holden on the 5th of November at the town hall. The circumstances of the case are these: That the town sold by vote a lot of land at a nominal price, for building a parsonage house, but one of the selectmen is dissatisfied, and desires that the old parsonage house, which now belongs to the town, shall be sold to be refitted as a parsonage. The old house is now occupied by a widow lady, one room being occupied by the selectmen for their official sittings.

Mr. Lyman D. Spalding and family, of this city, who have passed the summer in the suburbs of Chicago, will spend the winter months at San Antonio, Texas.

Landlord J. W. Goodwin, of the Kearsarge house, started for Wolfeboro on Wednesday of this week in company with Capt. Moses P. Warren of Dover, to spend a short vacation in boating, fishing and shooting.

Albert Emery, a brakeman on the Boston & Maine railroad, was fatally injured at Biddeford on the evening of Oct. 27th, by falling between the tender and forward car of his train while uncoupling; four cars passed over him, cutting one leg off above the knee and the other above the ankle, causing death in about four hours. Emery was near getting killed in Dover not many weeks since, through a telephone wire hanging so low as to catch him across the face as the train passed beneath it. He was married only two months ago to a young lady of Saco.

The whistling of the locomotives when nearing a crossing, or a post marked "W," which is near a station, has in the past bothered the brakemen so, they thinking it a call for brakes, that General Manager Furber of the Boston & Maine railroad has adopted the signal that is used on the Grand Trunk railway, that is, "two long and two short whistles (—— - -);" and the company has also a fire alarm, which it would be well to remember; it is "one long and three short whistles (—— - - -)."

Abram Whitney Thompson died at the residence of his mother in New Gloucester, Me., Oct. 15th, after an illness of several months, of paralysis, aged fifty-seven years. Deceased was the eldest son of the late Hon. J. M. Thompson of New Hampshire, with whom he was for many years associated in the management of the Glen house in the White mountains. He subsequently resided in Lancaster, and was for a time in the employ of the Eastern railroad, being stationed at Bar Harbor, Mt. Desert, during the season of 1883, as passenger agent of that road. He was known to a wide circle of friends and acquaintances in New England, by whom he was much esteemed for his honorable character, generous and obilging disposition, and the faithful and efficient discharge of all duties assumed by him. Mr. Thompson was a brother of George F. Thompson, of the Wentworth and Rockingham hotels. He leaves a widow, but no children.

THE NEW COLLECTOR OF INTERNAL REVENUE.

The office of collector of internal revenue for this district will be assumed by Hon. Calvin Page at the close of business on Saturday, the 31st inst., when a special agent of the department having these matters in charge, Mr. F. D. Sewall, who arrived last Thursday, will be present at the transfer.

The new collector will doubtless avail himself of the services and obtain the benefit of the experience and capacity of Mr. Harvey Putney, whose accurate and clear system of accounting has done so much to bring the office into its present condition of excellence in point of clerical work. We have been informed that there are several persons who desire the appointment of deputy collector at Manchester. The new collector will probably administer the affairs of his office on business principles, and consult the personal record of candidates as well as their political affinities. As the collector is responsible for large sums collected at Manchester, the selection of a responsible deputy and a person of personal as well as political integrity, is one of the early duties he is called upon to execute. The deputies of the present collector, of course, retire from office with that officer.

EXTENSION OF WAITING TIME.

The New Hampshire board of railroad commissioners, at a meeting in Concord on Oct. 26th, gave the following decision on the petition of the Boston & Maine railroad for an extension of time at the Vaughan street crossing:

The petitioner, the Boston & Maine railroad corporation, asks for an extension of the time in which it may obstruct the Vaughan street crossing in Portsmouth, in accordance with the statute enacted at the recent session of the legislature, empowering the commissioners to make extensions, but not exceeding five minutes in any instance, upon hearing all parties interested.

The hearing upon the petition was held in Portsmouth on the 26th of September, and notice of the same was given by seasonable advertisement in the local papers.

West-bound passenger and freight trains, on the Eastern division of the Boston & Maine road, if composed of more than eight cars, extend upon and beyond the Vaughan street crossing, on arriving at the station in Portsmouth. During the summer each passenger train has been separated, requiring the employment of an extra engine, and involving much annoyance to passengers and trainmen to accommodate themselves to the situation and avoid accident in the confusion attending the separation of the trains. At the hearing several complaints were made of longer detention than two minutes, but the complaints nearly all related to a condition of things existing prior to the present season. The corporation asked for an extension of time to five minutes, or long enough to handle the baggage and for the locomotives to take water and then move the trains off the crossing. It appearing from all the testimony that the balance of protection to the public is on the side of the petitioner, the following order, in compliance with the statute, is made, with the recommendation that such less time shall be used as the baggage can be handled and the locomotives can take water in, and forthwith move the trains off the crossing:

Ordered, That the legal time for obstructing the Vaughan street crossing in the city of Portsmouth by the trains of the Boston & Maine railroad be extended to five minutes.

By the Board.

E. B. S. SANBORN, Clerk.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Gurnet, commanded by Capt. Osgood A. Clark of this city, passed through the draw of Portsmouth bridge on Thursday, the 29th inst., bound to Ford's brickyard to load for Boston. This schooner was built at Bath, Me., two years ago, and well fitted out; she draws only six feet of water with a load of 110,000 bricks, and is said to be a fast sailer. The bricks are bought on account of her owners.

The British schooner Arizona, from Cow Bay, Cape Breton, with 194 tons of soft coal; the Silver Spray, from Elizabethport with 194 tons of anthracite, and the schooner Willie Newton, from Perth Amboy with 655 tons, all to J. Albert Walker, arrived on Thursday, Oct. 29th.

The regular meetings of the overseers of the poor are now held on Monday forenoons at 10:15 o'clock, in the city rooms.

On and after Sunday the services at Christ church will commence at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, instead of at 4:30 as previously.

The attention of the ladies is invited to Miss Bickford's advertisement of millinery opening.

Miss Ullie Akerstrom, the charming young actress who was so favorably received in this city night after night a year ago, commences a two weeks engagement in Music hall next Monday evening. See advertisement.

Mr. William Matthews, formerly with Mr. Wm. DeCourcey of this city, is now engaged as pressman at the Dover Clothing Co.'s store in Dover.

Preliminary preparations have been commenced by the United States coast survey, for a new survey of Portsmouth harbor from Whalesback in.

Paymaster Joseph Foster of the United States navy has prepared a sketch of the grandchildren of Col. Joseph Foster of Ipswich and Gloucester, Mass., and it has been printed in pamphlet form in Philadelphia. Col. Foster was born in Ipswich in 1730, and died in Gloucester, where for many years he was a merchant, in 1804. Paymaster Foster is a great-grandson of the colonel.

The town farm of Eliot contributes to Stott's store in this city very fine specimens of the orange yellow turnips which have been raised there from the seed during the last three years. This is a delicate variety of the turnip, of good size, smooth skin, and pleasing color and flavor.

Mr. William Boyson of Gloucester is reported to have leased the store and wharf formerly occupied and owned by John Dixon, for carrying on the fish-buying business the coming winter.

Mr. John H. Dowd, the carver at Hon. John S. Treat's marble works, has been constantly occupied ever since the first of February last without any loss of time, in consequence of the press of business there.

Mr. John Hall came in at noon on Thursday from the Shoals with 1500 lobsters, which were boiled at Commercial wharf by J. O. Downs & Co.

The Boston & Maine railroad has opened a new telegraph office at Dover Point station for service while the repairs are being made upon the bridge, an undertaking which will occupy about three weeks. Mr. Frank P. Hobbs, who has been an assistant at the station in this city for some time, is presiding over the instruments.

Mr. A. G. Nealley, station master and telegraph operator of the Boston & Maine railroad at South Berwick, has resigned, to take effect upon the appointment of his successor.

Reserved seat tickets for the Pearl of Savoy, at Music hall on Monday evening, can now be procured at Goodrich's bookstore.

Have you seen Coleman's elegant eight-inch range for $30, with all the apparatus, including hot closet, also the seven-inch range for $25? Mr. Coleman has one of the largest stocks of household goods in New Hampshire, and it will repay any one in want of articles in the housekeeping line to visit his warehouse on Market street.

In Life's Decline

Infirmities beset us to which our youth and maturity were strangers. Weakness of the loins, rheumatic ailments, dyspepsia, loss of appetite and unquiet sleep, are among these. As a means of counteracting the infirmities of age, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is unrivalled. It quickens and enriches the sluggish and impoverished circulation, begets a hearty appetite and youthful relish for the food, and enables the stomach to digest it. It soothes and invigorates the nervous system and checks a tendency to rheumatism. Its quieting action upon the great sympathetic nerve, which connects the stomach with the brain, results in the speedy departure of the restlessness by night and disquietude by day, which are the reflected manifestations of dyspepsia. It is a most effectual antidote to the poison of malaria, gives a healthful impetus to the action of the kidneys and bladder, and is an admirable means of resuscitating vigor when impaired by overwork or other cause.

The November "Wide Awake" will give some interesting schoolgirl reminiscences of Cooper, the novelist, by Mrs. Harriet Pinckney Huse.

S. B. Durfey, mate of steamer Arizona, had his foot badly jammed. Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured it. Nothing equal to it for a quick pain reliever.

The ferry boat Hackensack, with more than a thousand passengers on board, during a fog in New York harbor Oct. 28th ran into the Cunard steamship Servia, at her wharf. One of the Servia's seamen jumped overboard and was drowned, and many of the Hackensack's passengers were badly hurt in the resulting panic.

Pain from indigestion, dyspepsia, and too hearty eating is relieved at once by taking one of Carter's Little Liver Pills immediately after dinner. Don't forget this.

Rev. Jacob Chapman of Exeter has published a small pamphlet entitled "Leonard Weeks, and some of his descendants."

What is the use!

Of buying worthless medicine, and spending money on quack doctors whose only idea is to gull the public. Is it not better to buy reliable medicine like Sulphur Bitters? I think so, as they cured me of Catarrh after suffering three years. —F. P. Clark, Manchester.

The jury in the case of Ferdinand Ward in New York returned a verdict of guilty of grand larceny, admitting a sentence of ten years in the penitentiary.

For several years I was troubled with Catarrh, have tried many remedies. Ely's Cream Balm has proved the article desired. I believe it is the only cure.—L. B. Coburn, Hardware Merchant, Towanda, Pa. See adv't.

What Parents Fear.

Many persons—especially parents—object to many quack nostrums as likely to engender or encourage a love for strong drink. They are right. Better die of disease than of drunkenness. It not only builds up the system, curing all ailments of the stomach, liver and kidneys, but it stimulates without intoxicating and absolutely cures the appetite for liquor.

Prices of Sheep and Lambs—In lots, $2 00, $3 00 @ $3 50 each; extra, $4 50 @ $4 25, or from 2 @ 4½c ⅌ ℔; spring lambs, 4 @ 5c ⅌ ℔.

Veal Calves 2½ @ 8½c ⅌ ℔.

Prices of Hides, Tallow and Skins—Brighton hides, 7 @ 7½c ⅌ ℔; Brighton tallow, 5 @ 5½c ⅌ ℔; country hides, 6½ @ 7c ⅌ ℔; country tallow, 3 @ 3½c ⅌ ℔; calf skins, 10c ⅌ ℔; pelts, 50 @ 85c each; dairy skins, 50 @ 75c each.

The arrivals are not as large in cattle but larger in sheep. A part of the stock trains were late at market, for which cause the movement in cattle was hindered, as buyers want to see all arrivals before purchasing if possible. The trade was slow and prices of last week slightly sustained. Fancy cattle were very scarce, and the quality in general only fair.

Milch Cows—A few fancy cows were at market, selling from $75 @ $85. The bulk from $30 @ $55 ⅌ head. Sales moderate.

The Sheep Trade—Nearly 10,000 head of northern. The market opened dull, and the early bids were less than sellers wanted to accept, but necessity finally compelled them to select a 1c decline from last week. The top of the market was 5c ⅌ ℔, and but few sales at that rate. The quality of the goods were better and sold readily at the decline.

Fat Hogs—Market unchanged, but liable to drop next week.

Veal Calves—Supply light, and steady prices realized.

Live Poultry—Supply 6¾ tons at 8 @ 10c for mixed lots, 10 @ 12c for turkeys; 800 live geese at 90c each; 300 ducks at 40c each.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York City.

The Only

medicine I ever found that helped me at all is ATHLOPHOROS. and I have not had the Rheumatism since 3 dock st.—EMMIN SEARS, Provincetown, Mass.

A professor in a medical college once said to his class "put your hand in a vice, turn the screw until the pain is all you can bear, and that's rheumatism; turn the screw once more, and that's neuralgia—and gentlemen, the medical profession know no cure for either." That was before the discovery of ATHLOPHOROS which does and will cure quickly and permanently all cases of Rheumatism and neuralgia and many physicians use it regularly and say emphatically that they can prescribe nothing else so effective.

Many persons have tried so many so-called remedies, without benefit, that they have no faith to try more, but it is worth your while to try Athlophoros, if you have any doubts as to its value write for names of participants in your own State who have been cured by its use.

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you can not get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$2.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order it once from us as directed,

Poor, pretty, little, blue-eyed baby! How he coughs! Why don't his mother give him a dose of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup?

John Hogg, sixty years old, watchman at the Globe mills, Lawrence, Mass., slipped into the raceway and was drowned.

The pain and misery suffered by those who are afflicted with dyspepsia are indescribable. The distress of the body is equalled or surpassed by the confusion and tortures of the mind, thus making its victims suffer double affliction. The relief which is given by Hood's Sarsaparilla has caused thousands to be thankful for this great medicine. It dispels the causes of dyspepsia, and tones up the digestive organs. Try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Under False Colors. Nothwithstanding the protection with which the law encircles patent rights and trade marks, no sooner does a valuable patent or proprietary article makes its appearance than a horde of unprincipled persons try by every means to imitate the original. Pyle's Pearline, celebrated as a washing compound, has had a score of imitations, but the superiority of the genuine article over the counterfeits is so plainly apparent that very few people have been deceived.

Rev. E. Alden, has closed his pastorate of the Congregational church in Marshfield, Mass., after a settlement of thirty-five years.

A High Old "Court."

A remarkable "court" convened at Fort Meyer, Washington, D. C., last week. It appears that on the 18th of October Lieut. Frank Green, U. S. A., instructor of the class of young men in training for the signal service, got angry at eighteen of them for failing to satisfactorily execute his orders, and ripped and swore at them like a back-slums bully. The young men naturally objected to this, and signed a protest which was sent to Gen. Hazen. Had each one sent a separate protest it would have been all right, but as all their names were signed to one paper Mr. Hazen immediately ordered them to be court-martialled for insubordination, the ruffianly conduct of the "officer and gentleman" being quietly ignored.

The court as organized consisted of Second Lieutenants Walsh, (president,) S. Field and Mitchell, (members,) and Finlay (judge-advocate;) and from the start it was evident the only object in view was the conviction of the young men in order to screen Lieut. Green. The accused were taken out of bed at midnight to be arraigned; the court has held evening sessions without notice to defendants' counsel; an order was issued that no question should be asked by the counsel for the accused, except under sufferance of the "court;" and Lieut. Walsh several times threatened to run the counsel out of the room, and to kick them out if they attempted to speak.

It is very evident that a few vacancies are needed in the list of second lieutenants of the United States army, and they should be procured as soon as possible.

A $20 Biblical Prize.

The publishers of Rutledge's Monthly offer twelve valuable rewards in their Monthly for November, among which is the following:

We will give $20.00 to the person telling us which is the middle verse in the Old Testament Scriptures (not revised edition.) by Nov. 10th, 1885. Should two or more correct answers be received, the reward will be divided. The money will be forwarded to the winner Nov. 15th, 1885. Persons trying for the reward must send 20 cents in silver or postal notes, (no postage stamps taken) with their answer, for which they will receive the Monthly for Dec., in which name and address of the winner of the reward and the correct answer will be published, and in which several more valuable rewards will be offered. Address Rutledge Publishing Company, Easton, Penna.

The "Art Amateur" for November gives a superb double-page design of birds (parrot and blue jay) for either oil or china painting; the first of a series of animal studies—a most lovable cat; a fruit design for a repousse panel; one of nasturtiums to be painted on a dessert plate; four designs for ecclesiastical embroidery (alms bag and altar frontal decorations) and one for a table cover; a page of monograms (H;) twelve studies of cupids from paintings by the old masters; and several small designs for screen and panel decoration. Articles of special interest are the illustrated biographical notice of Henry Mosler, and the first of a new series on the "Decoration of our Homes." The Boston letter, dramatic feuilleton, art notes and hints, literary notices, and answers to correspondents are especially interesting. The value of this magazine to students and lovers of art is not easily overestimated. Price thirty-five cents; $4 a year. Montague Marks, publisher, No. 23 Union square, New York.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

The lighthouse board gives notice that the characteristic of the light at Cross Ledge light station, Delaware bay, N. J., has been changed. Instead of showing as heretofore a flash every fifteen seconds, without any period of fixed light, it now shows a fixed light for one minute, followed by a flash every fifteen seconds during the next minute. From north-northwest, through north, to southeast by south, the light shows white; throughout the remaining arc the light shows red.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

Is designed to meet the wants of a large portion of our people who are either too poor to employ a physician, or are too far removed to easily call one, and a still larger class who are not sick enough to require medical advice, and yet are out of sorts and need a medicine to build them up, give them an appetite, purify their blood, and oil up the machinery of their bodies so it will do its duty willingly. No other article takes hold of the system and hits exactly the spot like

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

It works like magic, reaching every part of the human body through the blood, giving to all renewed life and energy.

My friend, you need not take our word. Ask your neighbor, who has just taken one bottle. He will tell you that "It's the best dollar I ever invested."

LEBANON N. H., Nov. 19, 1883.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Dear Sirs—Although greatly prejudiced against patent medicines in general, I was induced, from the excellent reports I had heard of your Sarsaparilla, to try a bottle, last December, for dyspepsia and general prostration, and I have received very gratifying results from its use. I am now using the second bottle, and consider it a very valuable remedy for indigestion and its attendant troubles.

Yours truly,
F. C. CHURCHILL,
(Firm of Carter & Churchill.)

THE WEATHER.

For New England to-day:—

Colder, clearing or fair weather.

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, indicated 38 degrees above zero.

Snowing.

WRECK.

The schooner Express, Rich master, from New York and bound for Machias, Me., with coal, went on the rocks off Odiorne's point at about ten o'clock in the evening, Oct. 29th, the weather at the time being thick, with frequent heavy rains, the wind blowing a gale and the sea running high. The schooner filled in a few minutes after striking, and her bottom was soon ground out on the rocks. The crew, consisting of the master and two seamen, remained on the wreck until four o'clock in the morning on the 30th, when they floated ashore on the deck-house, having lost everything except what they stood in. The seamen were brought to this city, and given transportation to their homes by the Boston & Maine railroad. The captain remained in the vicinity of the wreck, to see if anything could be saved.

The castaways on landing were in a nude state, and almost dead with cold and fatigue when they reached the house of Mr. Charles Odiorne, who generously administered to their needs and furnished them with clothing, and brought the two seamen to this city in the morning.

The Express hailed from Ellsworth, Me., registered 92.90 tons, and was an old vessel, having been built in Hampden, Me., in 1842. She is a total loss, with her cargo of 130 tons of coal.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

FRIDAY, Oct. 30th.

Hiram Gove was brought before the court on a charge of having assaulted his son, Hiram D. Gove, but no one appeared to prosecute, so he was dismissed.

FELLOWSHIP MEETING.

A fellowship meeting of the Congregational churches of this vicinity was held with the church at Greenland, Rev. Edward Robie, D. D., pastor, on Wednesday, Oct. 28th. Pastors of the following churches were present: Rev. J. H. Fitts, South Newmarket; Rev. T. Y. Haines, North Hampton; Rev. Wm. A. Rand, South Seabrook; Rev. Wm. W. Dow, Kittery Point, Me.; Rev. Mr. Boynton, Rye; Rev. Mr. Thompson, Newington; Rev. W. A. McGinley, Portsmouth; Rev. Joseph Kimball, Seabrook. Besides members of the above named churches, members were present from Hampton and Stratham.

The exercises consisted of devotional reading of the bible; remarks by Rev. Messrs. Haines, Rand, Thompson and Fitts; discussion of topics, "Public worship," and "What is the best arrangement of Sunday services?" by Revs. McGinley, Fitts and Robie. Shortly after twelve o'clock a collation was provided at the academy. At 1:30 the topic "How to keep the Sabbath" was discussed by Rev. Messrs. Dow, Kimball, Robie, Rand, Thompson, McGinley and Baketel, and Bros. Leavitt of North Hampton and Holmes of Greenland. The fourth topic, "Advantages of observing the Lord's supper," was discussed by Revs. Boynton and Robie. The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 18th, with the church at Rye; the subject of discussion will be "Revivals." R.

A FALSE ALARM.

There was a false alarm of smallpox in this city on Thursday last, it being reported that Michael Hurley, living at No. 10 Penhallow street, had the dreaded disease. The discovery was brought about by the fact that the teachers in some of the public schools reported some of their pupils as playing truant, and Assistant Marshal Hurley, in looking up these alleged truants, learned that they had been kept at home on account of the supposed case of smallpox. He at once called upon the city physician and they went to the house together, and it was found that the sickness was nothing more than a case of measles.

Ulie Akerstrom's impersonation of the Pearl of Savoy, at Music hall on Monday evening, will draw a crowd, the young actress having many admirers here. Persons wanting good seats that evening had best secure tickets at Goodrich's to-day.

A game of polo in the Franklin skating rink, Friday evening, between the Red Stocking and Franklin clubs, was won by the latter in three straight goals.

At the recent state conference of Adventists, at Concord, Mr. William P. Israel of Little Harbor was ordained to the ministry.

Col. George F. Towle, captain in the 19th regiment United States infantry, after a visit of some weeks to his parents at Newcastle has started to rejoin his command at Fort Clark, Texas.

A man from Boston was on Friday engaged in putting up a cash railway in Fay's store—the first contrivance of the kind to be introduced in this city.

A free clam chowder will be served at Martin Garrity's, on Daniel street, this (Saturday) evening at 7:30 o'clock.

It was announced on Friday that the manager of Hotel Flanders, the hostelrie on the corner of Vaughan and Elm streets, near the railroad station, had skipped the town, magnanimously leaving behind a lot of unpaid bills. His brother, who remains in charge of the house, we understand claims the furniture and fittings as his personal property.

Capt. George W. Towle, first selectman of Newcastle, has notified the city authorities of Portsmouth that should smallpox appear in this city the town of Newcastle will oppose the using of the pest-house on Pest island as a smallpox hospital.

Rear Admiral J. C. P. DeKrafft died at his residence in Washington, D. C., Oct. 29th. In 1870, '71 and '72, he being then a commander in the navy, he was stationed at the Portsmouth navy yard as equipment officer.

Secretary Whitney has written another letter to the commandant of the Brooklyn navy yard, requesting a report as to the efficiency of the newly-organized force, and inquiring especially whether selections of workmen have been governed by political considerations.

Another post of watchmen on the navy yard—the "bell post," so called, one of the duties of its members having been to ring the yard bell—has been done away with; it was composed of John P. Tibbetts of this city, John McKenney of Eliot and John Tobey of Kittery. A reduction in the force of mechanics in the departments of yards and docks and steam engineering is expected shortly.

The Portland Advertiser of Oct. 29th remarks: "Contrary to all precedent, the secretary of the navy has caused the discharge of a hundred men from the Brooklyn navy yard. Such a thing on the eve of an election was never heard of. It is not exactly the endorsement of Hill for which the New York democrats have been begging." It does seem a little unusual, to discharge a lot of "fine workers" (political fine workers) during the last week of October, with an important state election coming off Nov. 2d.

That Dirty Dandruff.

Dandruff is dirty and disagreeable in every way. It soils the clothing continually, and is accompanied by a hardly less annoying sensation of itching. The scale is diseased. There is nothing in the world so thoroughly adapted to this trouble as Parker's Hair Balsam. It cleanses and heals the scalp, stops the falling hair and restores its original softness, gloss and color. Is not oily, highly perfumed, an elegant dressing. Very economical, as only a small occasional application keeps the hair in perfect condition.

FRUIT SYRUPS.

Correspondents inquire with so much interest for the mode of making grape syrup and other fruit preparations that it is a pleasure to introduce things certain to prove of service. Grape syrup, or fruit syrups of any kind, is not jelly, but the pure juice boiled down without sugar until it thickens like maple syrup. All fruits have their own sugar, which may be condensed by long evaportion, making the most delicious and healthy form of preserves.

Pick over the grapes, rejecting all unsound ones, and press in a cloth in any convenient way, the old wooden screw press being much better than anything with metal about it, which gives a harsh flavor. Strain the juice into a procelain kettle, or what is better, a thick, shallow stoneware jar, holding four gallons or more; heat quickly and boil hour after hour steadily, without scorching. Stoneware holds the heat and is less apt to burn juice or jelly than any stoveware. The juice cooks best set in the oven, out of dust, where no draft can check its boiling. All syrups evaporate faster in certain states of the atmosphere than others—and a clear, drying day, or one just before a rain, when the water boils away fast in the tea-kettle, is the chosen time for all preserving. Making syrup is an all-day affair, and a good plan is to set the jars of juice in the oven at evening, and keep a low fire all night, finishing off next forenoon. Six quarts of grape juice should make one of syrup, wine-colored, lucent, of delicious, refreshing perfume and flavor. One tablespoonful in a glass of water gives a delightful drink, like fresh grape juice, the true substitute for wine with all temperate people, and the finest medicine for correcting a feverish, bilious state ever known. The syrup itself is valuable for restoring strength, and consumptive persons should take it by the tumbler daily, sipping it leasurely, with sugar, if to tart for the taste. It makes new, rich blood, it cleanses the system, clears the brain and feeds starved nerves. It has the hypophosphites which doctors prescribe for waste of tissue, and taken freely will arrest even critical stages of disease. People fed on pure food with abundance of fruit need never dread cancer, Bright's disease, gout, neuralgia, dropsy or a dozen other of the worst scourges of the race.

All fruits, save lemons, perhaps, will turn into syrup with long boiling. Watermelon juice, you know makes a very good molasses to eat on cakes. Peach syrup is delicious, and so are pear and apple syrups, as you know by the candied juice in the pan of baked fruit left long in a mild oven, without sugar, except that of their native sap. This bakes into a clear, leathery substance, like Jujube paste, and Turkish women prepare a dozen of these fruit pastes iron figs, plums, nectarines, melons and things of which we hardly know the names, but which have a European repute for choice desserts. Healthier food, or more delicious, the skill of man does not afford, and the best of it is, these preserves and confections need no expense of special pans or boilers or great skill to make them. A shallow stoneware crock over a slow fire, the juice from sound ripe fruit, strained through a cloth, skimming if any froth arises, and care not to scorch the pan at any time, will insure good results.

Cherries are better dried than preserved any other way. No fruit keeps its flavor and substance so well in drying, and the price ought to pay anyone. I will guarantee sale of all the dried cherries that can be put into market in America this year, for at least 25 cents a pound. The best housekeepers know that cherries with stones left in are finer for stewing than pitted ones; for the kernel adds richness to the juice, and a strengthening agent for digestion lost by the more troublesome process. I believe there are housekeepers who would like their cherries peeled, if it were possible, and plume themselves on their superior nicety in the matter. Better leave off some of this painful preciseness about paring and stringing fruit, and bestow the care on points more neglected. For instance, fruit ought to be far more carefully selected for eating and preserving than it is. The markets are full of fruit this year round which I should hesitate to feed a well-reared cow. Such fruit is responsible for cramps, gastric irritations and irregularities. It is only fit to ferment for spirit to make perfumes and cleansing fluids, or for laboratory use.

Never fear raising too large fruit crops. The condensed fruit juice can be stored in so small space and bear packing so well, it will be a staple supply for family use, long voyages, miners and construction camps, cold, fruitless regions, and the greatest part of the world which is not favored enough to raise fruit for itself. No fuss of canning is needed for the work. Grape syrup will keep in a keg or stoppered jug in a cool cellar the year round, if it has the chance; but let heated, thirsty hay-makers or harvesters taste a goblet of cold well water flavored and acid with grape or plum syrup or cider jelly, and the chances of that season's supply taking harm are very small. It will strengthen the weakly women working in hot kitchens, and keep the children from feverishness and "rashes" and "prickly heat" if allowed to drink as much of the diluted juice as they will.—Vick's Magazine.

Fault Finding at Table.

Woe betide the woman married to a man who systematically growls at the table! Life brings her neither peace nor happiness; three times a day her tyrant growls and snarls like any other wild animal over his food. I knew a man of this kind once, and how I pitied his wife and daughters. One of the latter married in haste one day—joined her fortunes with those of a comparatively poor man, not exactly in the same set as she was accustomed to live in, simply to have her meals in peace. It is said that she made her future husband swear that he would never make a fuss over his dinner, and I understand that they are to-day the happiest couple living. Reconciliation took place before they were married, but they left before the nuptial breakfast—we all remarked that—and though of course, she visits the house, nothing could ever induce her to take a meal there. She is a woman of spirit. As for the man's wife—poor woman! May be in younger days she might have thought of possible relief by means of divorce, and they do say—mind you, I do not assert it, though it did come from a distinguished jurist—that something of this kind was entertained; but such a plea of mental insanity, when only food was placed before him, could not be advanced, for in every other relation of life—that is to say save when at the table—he was amiability itself. If he were only younger the habit might be whipped out of him; as it is, it can only be borne with patience.—Springfield Union.

Fred Archer, the famous English rider, is reported to have made $75,000 this season.

Edward Strauss has many mannerisms when conducting an orchestral concert. According to a London journal, he "twirls his violin in the air, dances to his own music, and rushes to and fro; he menaces a musician to the right with his bow, to the left with his fiddle. He smiles, he weeps; he is, particularly to the English mind, quite absurd."

Secret, involuntary drains upon the system cured in thirty days. Pamphlet giving particulars, three letter stamps. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

—A slow-match—Sparking but never popping.

Adamson's Botanic Balsam has gained a reputation which places it in the front ranks of curative agents. It has been in the market but about ten years. It is recommended by the best physicians because it cures coughs and colds every time. Price 35c.

CONSTIPATION!

There is no medium through which disease so often attacks the system as by Constipation, and there is no other ill flesh is heir to more apt to be neglected, from the fact material inconvenience may not be immediately felt from irregular action of the bowels. When there is not regular action the retention of decayed and effete matter, with its poisonous gases, soon poisons the whole system by being absorbed into it, causing piles, fistula, headache, impure blood and many other serious affections. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS will immediately relieve, and one bottle positively cure or relieve any case of Constipation.

"Was troubled for a year with torpid liver and indigestion, and after trying everything imaginable used BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. The first bottle revived me and the second cured me entirely."—J. S. Williamson, Rochester, N. Y.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1885.

THE IMMEDIATE DELIVERY.

The Dover Democrat says: "Postmaster Varney has been compelled to discharge Geo. A. Sinkerson, one of the special-delivery clerks, as there was not enough business for both clerks. In three weeks Sinkerson had but sixteen letters to deliver, total income $1.60, and he had to be paid $10.60. Loss $9, out of the postmaster's pocket. The other clerk, Harry Hadley, now does all the work, and he has very little to do. In Dover this special delivery is a failure. Some days one or two letters are received, other days none."

The average number of special-delivery letters received at the postoffice in this city daily is three, making a total of $0.24 per diem to be divided between the two messengers—that is, if Postmaster Gerrish still keeps two.

It is evident that the special delivery is not made use of to the extent that was anticipated by the inventors of the plan, and that the clause in the law providing that the compensation of messengers shall not exceed $30 per month, from fees, is at present superfluous, and likely to be so for some time to come. Yet in spite of the slowness of the people to avail themselves of the advantages of this provision of the mail service, we believe it will prove a success in the end; and that when the public fully realize in how many ways the immediate delivery can be made to contribute to their accommodation, it will be availed of in such manner as will enable one messenger or more, even in a city no larger than Portsmouth, to earn the maximum amount of pay allowed by the law.

It is not business men alone, writing important business letters from other cities, who will find the special delivery a convenience; we are confident that in time it will become a popular, because a prompt, cheap and sure, means of local inter-communication. For instance, the banker who is unexpectedly dropped in on by a friend whom he must ask to his home, will write a line requesting his wife to cook for dinner the pair of ducks hanging down cellar, instead of setting forth the ribs and trucks of yesterday's boiled ham, and to have a decanter of claret put on the table instead of the pitcher of cider; a postage and an immediate-delivery stamp will insure the lady's immediate receipt of the message, and when the banker and his friend arrive they will find the ducks cooked to a turn, and the spirit of the household as unruffled as the bosom of the north millpond. The down town clerk, on duty for the afternoon, becomes possessed of two "comps." for the theatre that evening. How in the world can he get word to his best girl, inviting her to attend the show at his expense? Happy thought! the immediate delivery. He writes the invitation, puts on the proper stamps, rushes the note to the postoffice, and for the remainder of the afternoon enjoys the happy assurance that the young lady will be all ready for a start when he arrives. The master mechanic who wants a workman to turn-to after dinner, will make a sure thing of getting word to him by employing the postal department. In short, as time goes on a thousand and one instances will be discovered in which it will be convenient to secure at any moment and at trifling expense a trusty messenger, acting under government supervision, depending for the continuance of his employment on doing his duties with faithfulness and alacrity, and obliged to carry with him a full record of just how his duties are performed.

Mr. Cleveland has stood his assessment from the democratic committee, like a true democrat, but the democrats must not think because he pays promptly and goes home to vote the ticket that he is anxious to have Mr. Hill chosen governor. This assessment may be allowed, though it is not quite in keeping with the rules at Washington, which prohibit republican clerks, etc., from contributing for campaign purposes. Grover's little subscription in the present aspect of the New York contest, reminds us forcibly of the ways of a former president of a railway in our state, who lived in Boston and whose ashes now repose in the Harmony Grove cemetery in this city. He always paid cheerfully a subscription to the committees of both sides in a contest, the result being like that of the contest between the husband and the bear, where the spouse encouragingly looked on, and enjoying the fight exclaimed, "Go it, husband; go it, bear. I don't care a snap which licks!"

R. Hamilton Perkins, superintendent of schools in Chicopee, Mass., was in town on Saturday. He proposes removing his family from this city to Chicopee shortly.

The schooner Yale landed 1060 tons of coal on Seavey's island, (navy yard,) for the department of yards and docks, last week. A windmill has been erected on Seavey's island, to be used for pumping water into the upper reservoir.

The barque Furness Abbey, Capt. J. Touro Marcy commanding, cleared at Philadelphia for Nagasaki, Japan, on Friday, Oct. 30th.

The owners of the schooners Grace K. Green and Annie F. Conlon were on Saturday being paid dividends on their shares by Charles E. Walker, who is agent for both vessels.

The coast survey steamer A. D. Bache, which came into this harbor on Tuesday evening of last week, did not sail again until low-water slack on Saturday, being detained by the heavy and thick weather that prevailed.

The schooner Clara E. Simpson, of this port, Hontvet master, has been chartered to proceed from Boston to Economy, Nova Scotia, and load laths for Baltimore at fifty-five cents per thousand.

The steamer Reading, Smith master, which arrived at this port on the evening of Oct. 29th, in making her berth at the Concord railroad wharf the next forenoon fouled the schooners Silver Spray and Willie L. Newton, damaging the headgear of both schooners, and having her own maintopmast carried away.

DIPHTHERIA!

THE PROSTRATION which follows Diphtheria, and the persistency with which it clings to the patient, are well known to all who have had any experience with this terrible disease.

The following letter shows how the restoring and invigorating properties of overcome it, and how by vitalizing and enriching the blood it neutralizes and eradicates the poisoned matter from it, bringing to the convalescent the color, life and vigor of robust health.

LOWELL, MASS.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—My little girl had the diphtheria last April. The disease left her very weak, blood poor, with no appetite, and she could not seem to rally from its effects. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA was recommended by a neighbor. After she had been taking it a few days we noticed a change for the better—she began to eat with a relish. It seemed to take out the poison the disease had left in her blood, the change being very noticeable in her face. She took it two months and fully regained her health, much to our delight. We now recommend HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA with a great deal of pleasure. Very truly yours,
J. E. SMITH,
19 Butterfield Street.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

SATURDAY, Oct. 31st.

John Cooper and William Shannon, "transients" both, were brought up for drunkenness; they were given fifteen minutes start of the police, and promised six months each if caught. They are supposed to be well out of town now. There were eight tramps in the station for lodgings on Friday night, but only these two were taken before the police magistrate.

SEAMAN INJURED.

The fishing schooner Flying Dart was on Saturday night lying at the end of Randall & Caswell's wharf, with the schooner Bonita alongside of her, on the outside. About midnight, it being then low tide and the Flying Dart's deck ten or fifteen feet below the capsill of the wharf, a seaman named James Conners, one of the crew of the Bonita, in attempting to go on board reached for the fore rigging of the Flying Dart, but in the darkness miscalculated the distance, and fell heavily to her deck, being knocked senseless by the blow. He was taken on board the Bonita, and for over two hours was in an unconscious state, though everything possible was done for him. No bones are reported broken, but we are informed that Dr. Potter regards his injuries, though probably not fatal, as very serious, and likely to lay him up for many weeks, even should his recovery ever be complete, which there is fear may not be the case. The injured man is said to belong in Gloucester, Mass.

In this connection we mention, as a matter of decided interest to our fishermen, that the solicitor of the treasury has given an opinion that seamen engaged on fishing vessels are legally entitled to treatment in the marine hospitals, and the announcement is made that Surgeon General Hammond will issue an order to the medical officers of marine hospitals to admit seamen of the class indicated.

A "NEWS" ITEM.

The Boston Journal of Saturday morning contained the following item of "news" from this city, dated Oct. 30th:

"Shortly before midnight information was received that a vessel had gone ashore on Odiorne's point at the entrance of the harbor. The fog set in so thick that it was impossible to make out what the wreck was except that the vessel was a schooner. Large crowds stood on the beach looking at her, and it was feared that her crew had been lost. Numerous suggestions how to reach the wreck had been made, but no one had the courage to risk pulling off a boat through such a surf. When daylight began to dawn it showed the vessel was beginning to break out, and soon after she went to pieces. As the wreckage began to come ashore those watching the vessel were about to leave the scene, when those still on the look-out reported a piece of wreckage being driven toward the shore with some men clinging to it. Willing hands helped the half-drowned men safe ashore, when it was learned they were all that composed the crew of the schooner Express," etc.

The correspondent who sent that item should at once organize himself into a sensational-romance bureau. The first that was known of the wreck was the arrival at Charles Odiorne's house, on the point, of the naked crew, who had previously failed to arouse the winter keeper of Col. Eastman's cottage, farther out on the point. It was intensely dark when the wrecked seamen were washed ashore on the deckhouse, between three and four o'clock in the morning, and there were no "willing hands" near to aid them; nor had there been a soul on the beach from the time the schooner struck until her crew landed. Had the wreck been discovered as stated by the Journal correspondent, a message to the life-saving station at Straw's point, some three miles away, would have speedily brought succor.

Why any person should send such a cock-and-a-bull story as the above under the alias of "news" we cannot comprehend.

Dr. Miller will lecture in the Universalist church this evening to ladies only; subject, "Health and Disease of American Women;" admission 25 cents. On Tuesday evening, to gentlemen only.

Boxes 38, 7, 17 and 26 will be pulled in during the inspection of the fire alarm apparatus this afternoon.

This evening, at Music hall, the popular and pleasing drama "The Pearl of Savoy" will be presented, with a popular and pleasing young actress, Miss Ullie Akerstrom, in the leading part, and well supported. Tickets can be procured at Goodrich's.

There was quite a brisk snow storm on Saturday morning about six o'clock, the flakes coming down in good style for a short time; but it all disappeared in less than an hour. Saturday night was the coldest one of the season; pans containing water an inch deep were frozen solid, and the miliponds were skimmed over with ice along the shores on Sunday morning. The church goers on Sunday made a good display of overcoats and warm wrappings.

The ladies will be interested in L. E. Staples' advertisement of furs, now that cold weather is close at hand.

At the Unitarian church on Sunday the tenor was Mr. Abercrombie, of London, a gentleman now on a three months professional visit to this country.

The records and papers of the central internal revenue office for the district of New Hampshire were formally turned over by Collector Putney on Saturday afternoon to Hon. Calvin Page—now Ex-Collector Putney and Collector Page. The new collector has appointed George I. McAllister deputy collector at Manchester.

Police Officer Hennessey has been seriously ill of late with an attack of typhoid fever, but on Saturday was reported to be rapidly recovering. He is attended by Officer Watkins, another member of the police force.

The St. Mary's Benevolent Association will give a ball in Franklin hall next Wednesday evening. The surplus funds, as usual, will be devoted to the relief of distressed worthy invalids.

Charles W. Taylor, stove and furnace dealer on Market street, has recently finished some quite heavy contracts in his line, such as plumbing the Cottage Hospital, putting a new furnace in the Unitarian chapel, also furnaces in the houses of Mrs. A. R. Hatch, Mr. George L. Treadwell and Mrs. A. B. Wilson of this city, and in the summer residence of S. E. Jeneson, Esq., at Gerrish's island, Kittery; and he has some large orders ahead. In the plumbing of the Cottage Hospital he used Weeden's celebrated earthern water closet, Brown's seamless copper boiler, and Magee's New Mystic range. Mr. Taylor is also setting a number of furnaces for parties out of the city.

"A friend of the life-saving service" enquires if the station at Rye beach has not yet been manned; and if it has been, how it was that the schooner Express, which went on the rocks off Odiorne's point at ten o'clock in the evening, and whose crew did not get ashore until four o'clock next morning, was not discovered by the patrol. The station was manned on the 1st of September, by a crew of as bold and skillful surfmen as any station can boast of; but the beach they cover in their patrol, and which is quite as great in extent as can be effectually attended to by one crew, has its eastern terminus at Rye harbor. When the much-needed new station at Jerry's point, Newcastle, is established, the men of that station will patrol the broken and ragged piece of coast between Odiorne's point and Rye harbor, which has "picked up" so many vessels in the past, though fortunately with little loss of life.

NUT-TIME.

When the birds begin to leave us
For a warmer summer clime,
When the trees are clad in glory
With the hues of autumn time;
Then the boys and girls are happy,
And Jack Frost they hail with cheer—
For his magic fingers scatter
Ripened to ensure cheer a year.
Once a year, and that the gladdest,
Every country child will say,
Tho' they prize the floral beauties
That they gather in sweet May.
Oh, the laughs and shouts that echo
Through the woods, so lately still!
One may know the nutting season
Has begun with right good will.
Scampering rabbits, noisy blue jays,
Busy squirrels, all make way.
They must keep the early hours
For their shelter and their play.
Nutting time, like youth, is fleeting;
Childhood is the time for glee.
Older grown, and nutting season,
Boys, will lose its zest for thee.

In Life's Decline

Infirmities beset us to which our youth and maturity were strangers. Weakness of the loins, rheumatic ailments, dyspepsia, loss of appetite and unquiet sleep, are among these. As a means of counteracting the infirmities of age, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is unrivalled. It quickens and enriches the sluggish and impoverished circulation, begets a hearty appetite and youthful relish for the food, and enables the stomach to digest it. It soothes and invigorates the nervous system and checks a tendency to rheumatism. Its quieting action upon the great sympathetic nerve, which connects the stomach with the brain, results in the speedy departure of the restlessness by night and disquietude by day, which are the reflected manifestations of dyspepsia. It is a most effectual antidote to the poison of malaria, gives a healthful impetus to the action of the kidneys and bladder, and is an admirable means of resuscitating vigor when impaired by overwork or other cause.

W. C. Campbell has sued John Stetson for $50,000, for alleged libel.

The powerful curative properties of a Hop Plaster are irresistible when applied to Backache, Swollen Joints and Muscles, Sciatica, Pleurisy, Sharp Pains, or sort of soreness. The best and strongest porous plaster made. A trial will demonstrate it. 25c.

Rev. Charles H. Wheeler of Providence, R. I., a recent graduate of the Newton Theological Institute, has received a call to become pastor of the Baptist church at Pittsfield.

Prompt relief in sick headache, dizziness, nausea, constipation, pain in the side, etc., guaranteed to those using Carter's Little Liver Pills. One pill a dose. 25 cents.

Mrs. Grant asserts in the most positive manner that she has no intention of having the remains of General Grant removed from Riverside park, New York city.

That Dirty Dandruff.

Dandruff is dirty and disagreeable in every way. It soils the clothing continually, and is accompanied by a hardly less annoying sensation of itching. The scalp is diseased. There is nothing in the world so thoroughly adapted to this trouble as Parker's Hair Balsam. It cleanses and heals the scalp, stops the falling hair and restores its original softness, gloss and color. Is not oily, highly perfumed, an elegant dressing. Very economical, as only a small occasional application keeps the hair in perfect condition.

Sam Jones, the revivalist, is opposed to all lotteries, which reduces his popularity in Louisiana.

A woman made the first orange box used in California, and now runs a factory which turns out 50,000 of them a year.

Within a week after publishing a book on the perils of Alpine climbing, a Vienna lawyer fell down a glacier and was killed.

Irregular eating at restaurants is becoming a fruitful source of dyspepsia in our cities, according to an eminent writer on hygiene.

The death of an aged Ohioan was caused by the shock of discovering that he was only ninety years old, instead of being the centenarian that he had supposed.

A Boston man whose gums had commenced to shrivel, or recede, stopped the trouble by the use of common table salt, applied to the gums by the ball of the finger.

A man died lately in London from the effects of a bite of a cat. And a verdict of "death from hydrophobia" was rendered by the coroner's jury that investigated the case.

The subscription throughout Germany for Prince Bismarck, who has been gentleman enough to grow poor in his great office instead of speculating on his knowledge, has amounted to $685,000, of which $375,000 was paid for his ancestral estate at Shonhausen.

Knoxville, Tenn., publishes no paper on Monday, thus allowing the printers to keep the Sabbath day strictly. It is said to be the only city in the United States, having 30,000 inhabitants, with railroads, steamboats, telegraphs and telephones, that has no Monday morning papers.

"Hiawatha," told in words by Mr. Longfellow, is being put into carved wood by Winthrop Pierce, artist, at the fine new house of George Slater at Norwich, Conn. Mr. Slater inherited about $15,000,000 from his father, who gave $1,000,000 for the benefit of Southern freedmen.

Watches were formerly made with 14,400 beats to the hour, or four to the second. This is called slow train and is obsolete except for quarter-second watches. English standard is 16,200 beats to the hour, while the American standard is 18,000, or five to the second, called quick train.

"Bath bags" are sold in Paris. By their use "refined people may obtain a sort of velvety, oatmeal soap complexion abution for the moderate sum of 8 cents. These queer articles consist of a bag containing half a pound of bran, some meal and a little powdered soap. On wetting and pressing the bag a lather is produced and at the same time a soft pad for rubbing purposes.

It is the custom to have a clock in the parlor, but whether it is right seems a reasonable question. Some women, desirous of keeping their guests in complete ignorance of the fleeting hours, have a miniature timepiece concealed in a paper-weight or an album. In either case it is no larger than a watch, and a convex cover of frosted gold will conceal it if set in the center of the binding of an album or on the back of a portemonnaie.

Lawn tennis was being played on the Long Branch grounds of a wealthy family, and the game struck a spectator as being inordinately elaborate in its movements. Every pose and stir was laboriously carnal in its grace, and at the same time there was a strange disregard of the real progress of the game. A glance at the adjacent veranda revealed an amateur photographer making a series of instantaneous views, in which the players would be shown in a succession of attitudes.

A hundred prepared plates were in the holders, ready to be exposed one after another, and the scheme contemplated the printing of copies from these numerous negatives, so that every person portrayed could have a bound volume of the pictures.

Lord Houghton was fond of showing a letter from a certain well-known American, in which that gentleman told him that, as he sailed down the Mississippi one evening, he heard the slaves on the banks of the great river singing his song, "The beating of my own heart was the only sound I heard," and keeping time to the refrain with their feet, as they worked among the ridges of the cotton-fields. In speaking of this song, which was his favorite, and perhaps sweetest bit of sentiment, as he often did, he always described how he had composed it while riding on an Irish outside-car from the railway station to Carton, the residence of Ireland's then only strawberry, the Duke of Leinster. When he arrived he committed the verses to paper, and after dinner read them to the host and other guests. The advice given to him was to destroy the trifle as not being worthy of his reputation.

The vast bed of pitch which extends from a point far inland in South America to the center and south of Trinidad ends there in the famous pitch lake. The bed dips under the sea in the Serpent's Mouth, as the channel is called which divides Venezuela from Trinidad, and also off the southwestern coast of the island. Here and there, on land and under the sea, in the direction of the strata, springs of liquid pitch bubble up and overflow. The lake is easily accessible by land and sea, being only three-quarters of a mile from the shore. It seems to have cropped up to the surface, warmed by the angry breath of some huge subterranean caldron. Numerous cavities or depressions, filled with water, honeycomb its surface, but do not affect its level appearance to the eye of a spectator. The lake is mostly solid; it is in the center that it boils and betrays its volcanic origin.

Everybody has read of the "Unter der Linden" of Berlin, and imagined it to be a beautiful avenue, but a correspondent of the New York Evening Post dispels the pleasing illusion. He says the reality is sad enough. Unter der Linden is a street, with houses, shops, palaces, etc., about a mile long and about 200 feet broad. In the middle is a dirt walk, perhaps fifty feet wide, a row of trees on each side of it, guarded by iron rails. Upon one side of the dirt foot-path is about twenty feet of thicker dirt for horsemen; upon the other side about twenty feet of stone roadway. Then come two more rows of trees, those of the roadway being in a narrow plate-bands. Then on each side follow ordinary street and sidewalk reaching to succeed shops, hotels, and palaces. The lime tree in its proper place is a lovely tree, but here neither it nor any other tree can be made to flourish, and the result is dismal enough.

The distinguished President of Princeton College, Dr. McCosh, has two daughters who are great walkers. They are in the habit of walking to Trenton and back, a distance of about twenty miles, where they do their shopping. One day a dude accosted Miss Bridget McCosh on the road and said in the usual manner: "Beg pardon, but may I walk with you?" She replied: "Certainly," and let herself out a little. After the first half mile the masher began to gasp, and then, as she passed on with a smile, he sat down panting on a mile-stone and mopped the perspiration from his brow.

Composed of Smart-Weed, Jamaica Ginger, Camphor Water and best French Brandy, Dr. Pierce's Extract of Smart-Weed is the best remedy for diarrhœa, cholera morbus, dysentery or bloody-flux, colic or cramps, and to break up colds.

John Sullivan and Jesse Lipsett, two of the crew of the fishing schooner Lillian Baxter, of Gloucester, have been rescued after drifting in an open boat for three days on the banks, and were landed in London the 30th ult.

Pearline. James Pyle's Pearline stands pre-eminent as a most valuable acquisition to the laundry, for it very greatly lessens the labor of washing. It should be, as it very generally is, in every household. No family is so rich as to be able to do without it and none so poor as not to afford to have it. It is obtainable at all grocery stores.

"Perched upon a bust of Pallas," or better yet, on some handy shelf, the sensible housekeeper has her bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, and when the child has a distressing cough, or a touch of croup, she cures the little one in no time.

It is estimated by the Montreal authorities that at least $3,000,000 will be needed for the poor during the coming winter, owing to the ravages of smallpox. Business seems prostrated, and such of the poor as are not sick, or too poor to move, are preparing to move into New England.

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

PORTSMOUTH VESSEL LOST.

A despatch was received in this city on Monday evening from Capt. Charles W. Frisbee of Kittery, master of the schooner Adeliza of this port, saying the vessel was run down by an unknown schooner on Sunday night, and left in a sinking condition, and he was obliged to run her ashore on Fire Island, where she now lies, full of water. She is owned by Capt. Frisbee, George T. Vaughan, C. H. Garrett, John H. Wells, George E. French, B. F. Webster and others of this city; registers 232.29 tons, and was built at East Machias, Me., in 1867. She was bound from New York to Bangor at the time of the disaster. The damage to the unknown schooner was not ascertained.

The Times says that "A letter received in this city by Mr. John Harmon, from his brother on board the U. S. S. Ossipee in the Pacific, gives particulars of the terrible suffering of the crew from cholera, which got into the ship at Kobe, Japan. It also says that news has just reached the Ossipee, saying that the dreaded disease had broken out on board the Marion at Cheemulpoo."

The navy yard "scrap heap" of old bolts, pieces of machinery, plates, and iron rubbish of all kinds, has been hauled to the wharf under the shears, in readiness to be shipped to the Washington navy yard whenever a vessel is procured to take it. A lot of old boilers and obsolete guns and anchors, which have been cumbering the yard for years, have also been placed with the scrap heap, to be removed from the yard. Some of the anchors were brought to the yard over sixty years ago.

Commander Oliver A. Batcheller, U. S. N., has arrived at Portland to assume the duties of inspector of the first lighthouse district, in place of Commander A. S. The first district extends from Eastport, Me., to Hampton river, and includes the lighthouses at Fort Constitution and the Isles of Shoals—the only lighthouses on the New Hampshire coast.

Mark W. Junkins of North Berwick, aged seventy-seven years, was struck by the cars while attempting to cross the track near his residence on Weddesday, Oct. 28th, and instantly killed. He was quite deaf, and probably failed to hear or see the train. He sits on the edge of the floating stage and watches patiently for his prey, and if the water is not too deep (he is not afraid of four feet) he dives to the bottom and soon comes up the steps with his fish.

THE ELECTION RETURNS.

The CHRONICLE of to-morrow morning will contain full reports of the result of the elections to-day.

IT WAS THE KING-FISH.

The men tending one of the weirs at the mouth of the harbor about two weeks ago found in the trap a school of small fish such as they had never before seen, and brought a number of them up to the city. A description of these fish was published at the time in this paper, but none of the fishermen or fish dealers recognized them, and one of them was forwarded to the Smithsonian Institute at Washington by a gentleman of this city, who last week received the following in response:

UNITED STATES NATIONAL MUSEUM, UNDER DIRECTION OF THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 29, 1885.

Dear Sir: The fish sent on the 23d inst. is very interesting, coming from so far noth. We have not had it heretofore from farther north than Gloucester, Mass. A few specimens have been taken at Boston lighthouse, one at Lynn, and two at Provincetown. It has been known, also, at Marblehead and at Danvers. This I believe is about the entire list of specimens taken north of Cape Cod. Your example is extremely interesting, because it carries the species still farther northward.

The fish is known as "king fish." It is not uncommon on the south side of Cape Cod, but its centre of abundance is in the southern states. The scientific name of the species is menticirrus nebulosus. Besides the common name of king fish, it is locally known as whiting, hake and barb. Very truly yours, T. H. BEAN, Curator Dep't of Fishes.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 30, 1885.

Dear Sir: The fish of which you sent a specimen is known as the whiting on the south Atlantic coast, and as the king fish in New York. It is very unusual to find it so far north, although it occurs in considerable abundance near Provincetown, Mass. We shall take pleasure in making proper note of this extension of the geographical distribution of the king-fish. Yours truly, S. F. BAIRD.

THE ROAD OVER NOBLE'S ISLAND.

Mr. Editor: Can not your city authorities be induced to pay some little attention to the condition of the road over Noble's Island? It is full of broad holes in which after every rain remain large pools of water. A few loads of gravel properly graded would obviate the necessity of driving through pools of water as is now the case. KITTERY FORESIDE.

WANTS AN EVIL REMOVED.

Mr. Editor: Perhaps there is nothing in the contract concerning the stagnant basin of filthy water at the corner of Deer and High streets, but if we have a board of health and if they know their duties, such a possible breeder of pestilence should at once be removed. Will the authorities please hold their nose, while they look into this evil.

DEER STREET.

ANOTHER COMPLAINT.

Mr. Editor: Now that the contractor has built a substantial fence on Deer street, and cleared one-half of that street for the passage of teams, why will he not remove the pile of earth and stones at the corner of Deer and Market streets, opposite Fred S. Wendell's store, so that the hundreds of people (including many ladies) passing there every day will not be obliged to go into the middle of the street. A man with a shovel would in five minutes clear the sidewalk and flagstones of this dirt thrown out of the sewer, so they would be passable.

PEDESTRIAN.

THE THEATRE.

A large audience gathered in Music hall on Monday evening, and a very pleased audience it was, too. Miss Ullie Akerstrom is an actress of much merit, and is strongly supported, the performance as a whole being even better than was given when Miss Akerstrom was here last year, though very satisfactory then.

This evening "The Hidden Hand" will be presented.

THE STORM.

The heaviest gale for many months prevailed on Monday, and played havoc with dead and dying limbs of trees and ancient fences, in and around the city; loose slates and shingles were torn off, swinging blinds unhinged, and here and there a pane of glass, and in several instances entire windows, blown in. Several signs were laid low, and a few unfurled awnings were made into ribbons.

Part of the roof of Samuel Langdon's barn, on Lafayette road, was torn off; and the big eagle on Ex-Alderman Caswell's residence was made to look like a Thanksgiving turkey, by the blowing away of its out-spread wings.

Shortly after one o'clock the wind ripped up a short space of the zinc on the ridge of the building on Daniel street owned and occupied by John T. French, loosening some of the slates, one of which was whirled across the street by the wind and struck one of the large plate-glass windows in Sampson & Co.'s store nearly in the centre, cracking it in all directions.

The waters of the Piscataqua were quite turbulant during part of the day, making the crossings to and from the navy yard and Kittery quite interesting.

There was a large fleet of coasting vessels (about sixty) in the lower harbor, none having sailed for a number of days; there were one or two cases of getting foul through the dragging of anchors, but no serious mishaps were reported. The steam tug Confidence, of Boston, which put in with her tow, a large three-master bound east, picked up one or two jobs of towing during the gale.

In Kittery a number of trees are reported as having been broken off or torn up by the roots, a very large one in Rice's hollow being blown down in such a manner as to interfere with travel on the highway.

The new Eclipse windmill on Seavey's island, (navy yard,) erected for the purpose of pumping water from the lower reservoir to the upper one for the use of the yard, was blown down at about twelve o'clock, and broken to pieces. The loss will fall upon the contractors, the affair not having been finished, and consequently not accepted by the government. Had the structure been completed it is probable the blow would have had no effect on it.

One of the large skylights on shiphouse No. 4 at the navy yard was wrenched from its fastenings, and landed near the boathouse at the Emerald's landing, very badly demoralized.

No injury to life or limb occurred, so far as we had learned up to Monday night.

Eight vessels of the brick fleet, all loaded and ready to sail for Boston at the first favorable opportunity, were lying at the draw pier of Portsmouth bridge on Monday.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

The deputy minister of marine of Canada gives notice that a beacon lighthouse erected by the government of Canada on the outer end of the breakwater pier at the entrance to Margaree harbor, in the county of Inverness, Cape Breton, was put in operation on the 10th of October. The seaward (or front) light, which faces N. 14 deg. E., and should be visible over an arc of about thirty-five degrees on each side of this bearing, is fixed red. White lights will be shown from the eastern and western sides of the lantern. The light is elevated twenty-one feet above high water mark and should be visible four miles. The tower is a square wooden one, painted white; its vane is twenty-one feet in height above the pier. This light is intended to guide into Margaree harbor, and in order to keep the channel the eastern light should be kept close aboard in passing. Two small range lights on poles, located a short distance landward of this light, have been in operation for some years past. These were discontinued from the above date.

The Official Gazette of Canada gives notice that an automatic whistling buoy has been established at Sheet Harbor, Nova Scotia, and a beacon light placed at Flewellyn's Landing, St. John river, New Brunswick.

What Parents Fear.

Many persons—especially parents—object to many quack nostrums as likely to engender or encourage a love for strong drink. They are right. Better die of disease than of drunkenness. The use of Parker's Tonic does not involve this danger. It not only builds up the system, curing all ailments of the stomach, liver and kidneys, but it stimulates without intoxicating and absolutely cures the appetite for liquor.

In criminal court at Graham, Texas, Oct. 30th, the case of Jesse W. Jones, a sixteen-years-old stage robber, was called. He pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary. Jones had read the life of Jesse James. He had robbed two stages, and told the officers he had intended organizing a band that would surpass the James gang.

Those persons who do not need Iron, but who are troubled with Nervousness and Dyspepsia, will find in Carter's Little Nerve Pills a most desirable article. They are mostly used in combination with Carter's Little Liver Pills, and in this way often exert a most magical effect. Take just one pill of each kind immediately after eating and you will be free from indigestion and dyspepsia. In vials at 25 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

Mrs. Vernon Young was deliberately murdered at Wausnau, Wis., on Thursday night, Oct. 29th, by her former husband, from whom she was divorced last fall on the ground of drunkenness. Young went to the house where his former wife boarded, called for her, and when she came to the door shot her dead without warning. He claims that she was intimate with another man.

DORA SEATOUN'S LOVER.

She was very pretty, with a lissome young figure, very badly dressed, and Charles St. Eustace leaning over the deck-railing of the Scottish Queen, looked in vain for her companions.

His eyes had been caught by her great bronze braids, and held by her beauty and loneliness. But he was about to dismiss the subject carelessly from his mind, when a young man slouched up from the cabin and sat down beside the girl. He was a good-looking, flashily-dressed, vicious-looking fellow; and St. Eustace idly wondered what relation he held to his companion.

He did not look like her brother—he was too dark and too coarse; he might be her husband. People of that class marry so shamelessly young and so reprehensibly, he thought; but one thing was quite certain, the fellow had been drinking, and pity was added to the young gentleman's regard, as he continued to observe the two.

He had traveled much, and seen all kinds of people, but it struck him that he had never seen so pretty a girl so unsuitably accompanied in his life.

The Scottish Queen had just set sail, leaving London behind her, and was bound for Edinburgh.

St. Eustace remained on deck until the boat was well down the river, and then went below for a book he had placed under the pillow of his berth. In the cabin the young girl sat alone, crying.

St. Eustace's steps were arrested. He involuntarily lifted his hat, his face softening with regret.

"I beg your pardon. Can I be of any service to you?"

The young girl looked up, then dropped her face and sobbed harder than ever. Then she looked up again.

"I don't know; I don't know what to do."

There were few passengers on board, and this seemed to be the only lady. One or two men, strolling by, stopped, curiously.

"Let me take you to the other end of the cabin by the window; it is cooler," said St. Eustace, observing this, and offering his arm.

She rose and took it. He pitied her; had a gentleman's instinct to serve any woman in distress; but he was conscious, also, of her very ugly green delaine dress, her faded gloves fringed at the finger-tips, her small, thick boots.

"What's your trouble?" he asked, when she was more screened from general observation. "Or shall I send the captain to you?"

"I don't know," she said again.

She was very young—not more than seventeen—and had that unconscious and unaffected manner which made intrusion upon her as impossible as if she were possessed of the greatest stateliness. She made an effort, at last, to check her sobs.

"You are very kind! I'll try to tell you. I have come from London. I have been living there. My grandmother has died, and my grandfather has sent me to my aunt, in Edinburgh, whom I never saw. He put me in care of that man on deck. He did not know him much. I am afraid of him, and I am all alone."

"Is that all?" asked St. Eustace, with a smile of relief. "It is very unpleasant for you, of course, but that fellow can be prevented from annoying you. I will speak to the captain."

"The captain thinks I am in his care. His name is William Smallpiece. He is——"

"Tipsy. Certainly he is, and very badly. I wonder Captain Balfour doesn't notice it. I will find him immediately. Are you quite comfortable here? Let me bring you something to read."

He unlocked the door of his little cabin, and brought her some magazines. She tried to smile with her eyes still red, and to thank him.

"I believe I am very homesick, or I should not care so much," she said, with a final quiver of the red lips. "My grandmother's death has broken up our home, and my aunt I have never seen in my life."

"I am an Edinburgh man myself; possibly I may know her. What is your aunt's name?" asked St. Eustace, taking a seat.

"Mrs. Elinor Lorton, of Linlithgow-square."

Mr. St. Eustace smiled.

"Are you Dora Seatoun?" he asked. The girl nodded quickly.

"Then I know you very well," said her companion, offering his hand. "I have often heard Mrs. Lorton speak of you. You are her sister's child. She wanted to adopt you when your mother died, but your father's parents claimed you."

"Yes."

"Little, curly-headed Dora. Yes, she told me about you long ago," said St. Eustace, musingly.

"She may have me now," said the girl, musingly.

With the kindest motives in the world, St. Eustace spent an hour trying to amuse this lonely young girl.

And while he chatted he fancied the elegant Mrs. Lorton's reception of so much beauty and such utter lack of styles.

The girl was in mourning for her grandmother. He fancied that she had ever been very poor; but there was a gentleness and refinement native to her that he thought prettier than any results of training.

By-and-bye he offered his arm for a promenade on deck, and, since he knew her aunt, Dora accepted these attentions gladly.

St. Eustace could not but observe how very guileless she was, and grew tender over her innocence.

He gave her his card; he related many particulars of her aunt's history, that if any thoughts of fear arose they might be set at rest.

And, looking into the sweet, fearless eyes he was secretly only too glad that he was what he professed to be—irreproachable in truth and standing.

A few words spoken to the captain gained for Dora, too, his bluff, fatherly interest, and her forlorn look was soon banished.

The sea-trip was full of novelty and pleasure for her, and her prettiness grew radiant as she yielded to the fresh and healthful influence around her.

Mr. William Smallpiece fortunately became seasick at once, and had to "seek the seclusion that a cabin gives" for the whole time.

But Dora was a good sailor. Though the boat plunged restlessly all the night, and beat about to the incessant ringing of the fog-bell, she came to breakfast with rosy cheeks and bright eyes.

She soon became a favorite with the captain, who placed her at his right hand, and constantly encouraged and complimented her.

The next was a bright and beautiful day, and those of the passengers who were not seasick, promenaded the deck in the bright October sunshine, or lounged on settees and camp-chairs.

By a marked courtesy, St. Eustace succeeded in preventing Dora from feeling the embarrassment of being the only lady on board.

She was more picturesque without the frayed gloves, sitting with her bounteous braids uncovered, her slight shoulders wrapped in a white knit shawl under an awning, which the captain gave orders to have rigged for her; and she was more conspicuously pretty.

St. Eustace felt that the other passengers envied him as he lounged near, chatting in quiet seriousness, she silently watching the shifting water, the hovering sky, the winging gulls or flying sails, with her eyes of sweet enjoyment.

The First Keen Twinge.

As the season advances, the pains and aches by which rheumatism makes itself known, are experienced after every exposure. It is not claimed that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a specific for rheumatism—we doubt if there is, or can be, such a remedy. But the thousands benefited by Hood's Sarsapasilla, warrant us in urging others who suffer from rheumatism to take it before the first keen twinge.

MARITIME NOTES.

The brick schooners D. K. Ham, G. W. Raitt, Hattie Lewis, J. Chester Wood, Lillie, Gurnet and Satellite sailed from Portsmouth bridge for Boston on Tuesday.

The schooner Ripley Ropes, Capt. Alley, having loaded with apples at Staples' wharf in Eliot, sailed for the eastward and a market on Tuesday.

The schooner Yale, Capt. Hodgdon, sailed for Newport News, Va., on Tuesday. She will return to this port, having been chartered by J. Albert Walker, and will discharge at the Concord railroad wharf.

Charles Butler and Leslie Bickford, two young men, were driving across the Wentworth house bridge about four o'clock Monday afternoon, when an electric-light wire which was hanging low caught the top of the buggy, totally wrecking the vehicle, throwing the young men out and causing the horse to run away, the animal, however, being quickly stopped. Young Bickford was thrown across the railing of the bridge and knocked senseless, but fortunately fell back on the bridge instead of overboard; his face was considerably scraped, and he received some bruises.

The Hotel Flanders on Vaughan and Elm streets, on the opposite corner from the White Hart hotel, is now under the management of Mr. Ross Flanders, formerly the clerk of the establishment. The hotel is well kept, the table well supplied and the charges reasonable, and a fair share of patronage is well merited.

John H. Coburn, a young man about twenty-five years of age, residing on Jackson street, was lying beside the track at the Green street crossing when the freight train due here at ten o'clock Tuesday evening arrived, and his left hand was run over in such a manner that three of the fingers were taken off, leaving the index finger and thumb.

Mr. Samuel P. Treadwell on Monday received a telegram from Contention, Arizona, announcing the safe arrival there of his daughter and her husband, Mr. Herbert M. Kennedy.

Winthrop Hoyt's store on Congress street was broken into at some time between last Saturday night and Monday morning, the intruder getting into the cellar by breaking a crossbar which fastened the doors on the inside. Nothing was stolen, so far as Mr. Hoyt can judge.

The alarm of fire, half an hour after midnight, Tuesday night, was caused by the partial burning of a bale of packing straw in the rear of a store in Franklin block. It was extinguished without damage.

Master Arthur Locke, of Rye beach on Saturday shot a gray eagle that measured three feet and an inch in length, and whose wings when spread measured seven feet and three inches from tip to tip.

Diphtheria is quite prevalent among the children in Newmarket, according to the Advertiser of that town. Mr. Will Caswell has had seven children sick with the terrible disease, and one of them died last week; an infant (adopted) child of Charles Prevost also died last week, and one or two others.

The dwelling of Mrs. Mary Brainard, in Newmarket, was damaged to the amount of four or five hundred dollars by fire and water on Tuesday of last week, the fire catching on the roof near the chimney. The fire was confined to the roof and attic, and the damage was mostly by water. This was the first fire for several years, in the village proper of Newmarket. The loss was fully covered by insurance.

The Bay View house at Ogunquit, Wells, has been opened by Mr. Chamberlain, formerly of the Atlantic house, Wells beach, recently destroyed by fire. The Atlantic had the best claim to the title of "seaside hotel" of any house along the coast, the waters of the ocean always coming up to within a rod or two of the building at high tide, and the seas in very heavy weather sometimes breaking into the stable yard. It was a noted resort for sportsmen, the water fowl shooting being good there when poor almost everywhere else. It was last of the large hotels at Wells beach, the Island Ledge house having been the first to go up in smoke and flame, a dozen years or so ago.

A correspondent of a Biddeford paper, writing from Wells, says: "From Cole's Corner, going eastward, it is one and a half miles to the postoffice, and within this distance we find we have fifty-six families; and of these families there are twenty-eight persons over seventy years of age; nine of them are over eighty years, and one over ninety years. We find also eleven maiden ladies over forty years of age, and two confirmed old bachelors; only two children under one year, and five under five years of age; we find also twenty-two widows; twenty-one families still have their first husbands and wives, and one family have survived their golden wedding, and but one. All this within the above mentioned mile and a half."

An excursion train of twenty-two cars passed through this city on the 3d inst., from North Conway for Boston. It was helped up the grade to the Plains by a shifting engine at the rear.

The Pullman train from the eastward, Sunday morning, was several hours behind time in arriving at this city, having been detained by the derailing of a freight train at Conway junction.

WE DO NOT CLAIM

that HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA will cure everything, but the fact that on the purity and vitality of the blood depend the vigor and health of the whole system, and that disease of various kinds is often only the sign that nature is trying to remove the disturbing cause, we are naturally led to the conclusion that a remedy that gives life and vigor to the blood, eradicates scrofula and other impurities from it, as HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA undoubtedly does, must be the means of preventing many diseases that would occur without its use; hence the field of its usefulness is quite an extended one, and we are warranted in recommending it for all derangements of the system which are caused by an unnatural state of the blood.

Why Suffer with Salt-Rheum?

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Gentlemen—I was a great sufferer from Salt-Rheum on my limbs, for a dozen years previous to the summer of 1876, at which time I was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. The skin would become dry, chap, crack open, bleed and itch intensely, so that I could not help scratching, which of course made them worse. At the time I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla (in the summer of 1876) they were so bad that they discharged, and I was obliged to keep them bandaged with linen cloths. The skin was drawn so tight by the heat of the disease that if I stooped over they would crack open and actually bring tears into my eyes. The first bottle benefited me so much that I continued taking it till I was cured. I used one box of Hood's Olive Ointment, to relieve the itching. Hoping many others may learn the value of Hood's Sarsaparilla and receive as much benefit as I have, I am,

Very truly yours,
MRS. S. S. MOODY,
No. 75 Broadway.

WM. L. WALKER'S WILL.

The will of the late William L. Walker, formerly of this city, has been probated. Mr. Walker gives a thousand dollars to the selectmen of South Newmarket, to be held as a perpetual trust, from the income of which is to be expended such sums as may be regarded as a judicious amount in the care, renewal and adornment of the deceased's lot in Locust Grove cemetery. Any surplus is to be in like manner economically expended in the general care, repair and permanent improvement of the cemetery.

He gives to the Old Ladies' Home in this city the silver table spoons and tea spoons which his sister, Lucy M. Walker, give to him in trust for the Home.

There are no other public bequests.

His farm on Gwyn's Island, Va., Mr. Walker devised to his brother-in-law, Charles R. Hill, formerly of Greenland.

Albert Bachelder, Esq., of North Hampton, is named as executor of the will.

TRACES OF THE STORM.

Capt. Trefethen, of the steamer Mystic, says he never knew the water on the river so rough, or felt the wind blow so heavily there, as between twelve and one o'clock on Monday afternoon last, the Mystic and Emerald both diving into it so as to scoop up solid water a foot deep over both bows at once. The tall and handsome flagstaff at Ex-Alderman Green's residence on Water street was canted about twenty degrees from the perpendicular, the heavy iron braces by which it was stayed to the barn being twistered out of shape by the force of the wind. A windmill at Mr. George Bilbruck's place on Creek street, after standing unmoved for several years, was lifted bodily out of the ground, into which the posts were set to a depth of five feet, and thrown down. At the young lady's seminary two windows were blown in, sashes and all; four panes of glass in a bay window of Mr. A. Pearson's residence were driven inward in fragments, and dozens of squares were broken in the roofs of his greenhouses; and single panes were smashed in scores of houses all over the city. At Oak hill, Mr. Jas. R. Yeaton's residence, one of the big trees was torn up by the roots; and at Lincoln hill a large dead tree was broken off. Several large pines in Wendell's woods at Sagamore creek were broken off or uprooted, and the flagstaff on Ward's distillery at Christian Shore was snapped in two.

In Greenland the gale seems to have been more severe than in this city. At the Peirce farm, among the trees blown down were two red oaks at least two feet in diameter and seventy feet high. John Hatch and Joseph Holmes had two windmills overthrown; George W. Weeks, at the Bayside, had the ends taken out of two barns, and a cattle shed laid flat; and minor damages are reported on many other places in the town.

A native and life-long resident of Kittery informs us that the havoc wrought among the trees in that town was greater than he ever before knew in a single storm, and that nearly all of it was done in an hour or so, about noon. At Samuel J. Keen's, near the river at the village, a large pear tree was twisted off ten or twelve feet from the ground. The old "Tabernacle" was well shaken up, and a flag-pole opposite Dr. Wentworth's residence was canted a long way from the perpendicular. Telephone poles were blown down, and wires broken; chimneys, fences and walls overthrown; and several buildings more or less injured.

MUSIC HALL.

"The Hidden Hand," on Tuesday evening, was witnessed by another large audience, and the manner in which it was performed showed that Miss Akerstrom is as effective in the emotional drama as in plays of the "Fanchon," class; and her support also did equally as well.

This afternoon and evening "Fanchon, the Cricket," will be the attraction. See advertisement.

ONE MORE.

Mr. Editor: The articles in the Chronicle of the 3d inst. concerning the Deer street ditch were well put. We all would like to know how much longer a suffering public have to put up with this nuisance to health and the pedestrian. Whose fault is it that this state of affairs exists on Deer street? Surely not the contractor's nor the street commissioner's. It seems to rest with the committee of the city government who have the matter in charge. It is hinted that it would be better for them to attend to this matter immediately; it would be more to their credit to do so than to spread false reports as to the reason of the outlet of the sewer being changed. CITIZEN.

We were informed on Tuesday afternoon that on Wednesday the contractor for the brewery sewer would put on all the men who could work to advantage, on the Deer street end of the sewer, that the public might be incommoded no longer than is unavoidable by the impediments to travel in that region. —Ed.

The young people of the Methodist Episcopal church will give a supper and entertainment in the chapel on Daniel street this (Wednesday) evening; admission 10 cts., children under twelve years 5 cts. Supper from six o'clock to 7:30, price 15 cts.

The first meeting of the committee of St. John's lodge, No. 1, A. F. & A. M., appointed to make arrangements for the proper celebration of the 150th anniversary of the lodge, will be held at Masonic hall on Thursday evening, the 5th inst.

G. I. McAllester, Internal Revenue Collector Page's deputy at Manchester, is a lawyer. The appointment is said to be an excellent one.

Some of the lasters of E. P. Dodge's shoe manufactory are out of work at their trade, and have gone to work on the new sewer.

The directors of the Cottage Hospital gratefully acknowledge the following donations: An air-tight stove from Dr. Jewett; three tin pans, a saucepan, two dishes and a thermometer, from Mr. Waldron; twenty yards of pillow-case cotton and six towels from Mrs. William Lambert, formerly of this city; two table cloths from Mrs. C. D. Hebb, of the navy yard.

The salvation army on Tuesday vacated their "barracks" in the Badger block on Daniel street, and moved to the Association building on State street.

SCROFULA.

A remedy that can destroy the germs of scrofula, and when once settled has the power to root it out, must be appreciated by those afflicted. The remarkable cures of young children and the more wonderful cures of those of middle age and late in life, as illustrated by our printed testimonials, prove HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA to be a reliable remedy, containing remedial agents which do positively cure scrofula and eradicate it from the blood.

WARKER, N. H., Jan. 21, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.: Gentlemen—For ten years previous to the early part of 1877 I had been a constant sufferer from scrofulous ulcers or sores, which had finally reduced me to a helpless condition, as described in my letter to you in September of that year. The continued excellent health which enables me to keep house for my aged father and to enjoy life, keeps alive my intense personal interest in HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA, and I cannot refrain from expressing my gratitude for the permanent cure this wonderful medicine effected in my case nearly two years ago, while living in Lowell, when all my physicians gave me up as being in an incurable condition. One thing before I close. I have recommended your Sarsaparilla to hundreds, and I think more than a thousand cases, and my faith in its invincibility in curing scrofula has become absolute by the wonderful cures it has effected aside from my own. I trust you will not be slow in making the merits of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA known everywhere, for it is a duty you owe to mankind. With best wishes I remain very truly yours,

The paradise of invalids! The home of tropical fruits! Climate unsurpassed! No frost! No extremes of heat or cold! No malaria! Ground high and dry! Plenty of fish and the finest hunting and fishing in America.

PALMA SOLA has the name of being the largest, prettiest and youngest town in Florida. Is beautifully located on the Gulf Coast, two miles above the Manatee River. Already the iron horse is wending its way to Palma Sola, and soon the tourist will arrive at its first-class hotel, where he can get a meal to suit his epicurean tastes.

Palma Sola possesses the largest store in Southern Florida, with sawmill, furniture manufactory, packing houses, warehouses, churches, school house, postoffice, stores, beautiful residences, and a large wharf at which ocean steamers arrive daily from Tampa.

WARREN LELAND, Jr., of "Long Branch" fame, has secured a location at Palma Sola for the erection of a winter resort. The prediction is a safe one, based as it is upon the natural advantages and attractions of the place, that he will make this the "LONG BRANCH" of FLORIDA, and other large hotels will be built.

With the completion of the railroad, this will be the terminus, and the direct route to Havana, Cuba. Lots will double and quadruple their present prices. Now is the time to buy.

LOTS 100x300 ft. $45 to $200 per lot. We want PALMA SOLA to keep booming, and as an inducement to the public, and to properly advertise this beautiful place, WE WILL GIVE AWAY a LIMITED number ONLY of our lots, giving lots ALTERNATELY as they come (corners excepted) charging applicants the expense of deed, transfer, etc., which will not exceed $1.00. Applicants can send postal money order with application to insure promptness, otherwise deeds will be sent C. O. D. Applicants must not be surprised at the return of their money, as being LIMITED the first come will be first served. Title perfect. Full warranty deed.

In Life's Decline

Infirmities beset us to which our youth and maturity were strangers. Weakness of the loins, rheumatic ailments, dyspepsia, loss of appetite and unquiet sleep, are among these. As a means of counteracting the infirmities of age, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is unrivalled. It quickens and enriches the sluggish and impoverished circulation, begets a hearty appetite and youthful relish for the food, and enables the stomach to digest it. It soothes and invigorates the nervous system and checks a tendency to rheumatism. Its quieting action upon the great sympathetic nerve, which connects the stomach with the brain, results in the speedy departure of the restlessness by night and disquietude by day, which are the reflected manifestations of dyspepsia. It is a most effectual antidote to the poison of malaria, gives a healthful impetus to the action of the kidneys and bladder, and is an admirable means of resuscitating vigor when impaired by overwork or other cause.

The strikers in the New England glass works at Cambridge, Mass., have very sensibly returned to work.

Prevents some doctors from advertising their skill, but we are bound by no such conventional rules, and think that if we make a discovery that is of benefit to our fellows, we ought to spread the fact to the whole land. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" is the best known remedy for consumption (scrofula of the lungs) and kindred diseases. Send two stamps for Dr. Pierce's complete treatise on consumption, with unsurpassed means of self-treatment. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, New York.

That Dirty Dandruff.

Dandruff is dirty and disagreeable in every way. It soils the clothing continually, and is accompanied by a hardly less annoying sensation of itching. The scalp is diseased. There is nothing in the world so thoroughly adapted to this trouble as Parker's Hair Balsam. It cleanses and heals the scalp, stops the falling hair and restores its original softness, gloss and color. Is not oily, highly perfumed, an elegant dressing. Very economical, as only a small occasional application keeps the hair in perfect condition.

DORA SEATOUN'S LOVER.

Dora was both unassuming and free from embarrassment. Even Mrs. Lorton's anticipated training could not improve the young girl's simple ladyhood, and St. Eustace felt himself deeply interested respecting this young creature.

After supper the moon came up gloriously. Dora ran up from the cabin with a cry of delight.

"Oh, how pretty!—like a dream!" she cried.

"Would you not like the change of a walk?" asked St. Eustace, offering his arm.

So they promenaded the smooth, white deck, the sea rippling, and the moon shedding her soft light.

"How pleasant this is!" said Dora. "I thought it was going to be dreadful when we came on board. It would have been if it had not been for your kindness."

"Do you think I do not find this pleasant?" asked St. Eustace. "What should I have done if you had not been on board?"

She looked up with her frank, sweet eyes.

"I had not thought of that," she said.

St. Eustace laughed heartily.

"Oh, well," she said, "we know it can't make much difference to you."

The young man watched her face of humility, and thought he had never tasted such exquisite flattery.

"Do we?" he said. "I am not so sure. See how white those sails are, coming from beneath those clouds. Do you," he added, presently, "expect to enjoy yourself at your aunt's? Do you know how rich she is?" he went on, "and how luxuriously she lives?"

"I had not thought," she said. "Grandpa said she was a good woman, very cheerful and charitable. I expect to be as happy there as I can be anywhere."

He noticed the sadness of the young voice, but knew she would soon recover from the sorrow of losing her grandmother, and mused on what the rich woman would make of this sweet, unsophisticated girl.

Dora could think of nothing but her own pleasant emotions. That long, bright evening—the fresh, mild scene—the handsome face, the gallant figure made an era in her life.

But when she left him, she forgot all in the sound sleep of early youth.

With St. Eustace it was different. The confiding clasp of that little hand upon his arm seemed to linger.

There was a marriage planned for him by his father. Why did he think of that now with abhorrence, and vow that it never could be?

He had not been so averse once, though never enthusiastic, about Miss Montgomery. But Dora Seatoun's pure spirit and fine beauty was a revelation to him. More dazzling faces he had seen, never one that thrilled him to the finest fibre of his being like that.

By grey daylight he tried to scoff at himself; but at the first sight of Dora's sweet eyes made him her slave again.

"Only a short time more at sea," she said, with her sunny smile.

But it was a long, bright day, and St. Eustace made his resolve.

When they had reached Edinburgh, and he had put her into a carriage, he said:

"I shall do myself the pleasure of calling on you soon!"

"How soon?" she asked, brightly.

"Perhaps to-morrow evening. If not give me three days' grace!"

How her heart bounded at his parting bow and eloquent eyes!

She had a girl's heart, to be glad at that look! And when her aunt had made her at home, she forgot the elegance around her to muse on it.

When her aunt had tried a score of pretty dresses on her the next afternoon, she signified her wish to continue wearing one which was pronounced satisfactory.

"I expected a friend this evening," she faltered.

Her excitement did not escape her aunt.

When the evening passed, and St. Eustace did not come, she drew the truth from her.

"Charles St. Eustace!" exclaimed the lady. "My dear!"

Dora waited with a sinking heart.

"Not but what you are very pretty, child," resumed the lady. "Your increased beauty is a great delight to me; you have grown up utterly handsome; but the St. Eustace family are so proud, so everything that is desirable. And you have hardly had the training; but we will give him three days' grace. Young men are sometimes very headstrong in such matters; and I really can't wonder," kissing the girl's dimpled cheek.

Such a pang as she had planted in that young heart she did not dream of; her own emotions were long since quite controllable.

But when the three days and subsequent weeks went by, and there was no sign of Charles St. Eustace, she was annoyed by her niece's sadness and abstraction, and uttered some sharp words that cut into the girl's soul.

"Folly, presumption—yes, it is!" sobbed the girl on her pillow. "But it was so sweet—so sweet! And it has spoiled all the rest. I know I am wicked, when Aunt Elinor has taken so much pains; but I care nothing for it all. He will never see me prettily dressed, instead of shabby and awkward; he will never care that they praise my voice, my looks, and that I have learned so easily the ways that make me more like him. He was only amusing himself that lovely night, and has forgotten me."

There grew into that young heart a vein of bitterness; but pride was not unbecoming to the perfect face and lissome figure.

A month had passed, when a party brightened the stately reception rooms of Mrs. Lorton. Dora was charming in her dress of pearl-grey silk with its cherry ribbons. But she was very quiet.

"I am sorry," said Mrs. Lorton to her most intimate friend, "that my niece grows more reserved, instead of more social. Why——"

A look of radiance had spread over Dora's distant face, followed by an ashy pallor.

A tall, gallant figure, with an arm in a sling, had entered.

"Charles St. Eustace!" cried Mrs. Lorton, clasping the free hand.

She questioned him severely; he answered fearlessly.

"Go and find Dora," she said at last, under cover of the music.

She was in the conservatory, drooping, trembling, among the exotics. She could not help her look of reproach; it was involuntary.

"I know you have not heard," he said, gently, "that I was thrown from a carriage, on the morning after I parted from you, and nearly killed. I was unconscious for three days. As soon as I was able I directed a note to be sent to you. Your aunt tells me you did not get it."

Then and there this dull old world of ours grew bright to Dora Seatoun.

"I did not get it," she repeated, mechanically.

The strange delight that she had known but once, seemed to have entranced her senses.

He took her hand gently.

"Tell me that you cared, Dora—that you were a little disappointed!" he murmured—"for not for worlds would I have missed my three days' grace, if I had but had possession of my senses."

She looked up at last.

"I have missed you," she said, simply.

What need of more words when the sweet eyes said so much?

The young man's heart melted within him as he watched her.

"How beautiful you are!" he uttered softly.

The wedding was within six months; and, after all, no one wondered when they saw the bride.

THE ELECTIONS.

Massachusetts on the 3d inst. re-elected Gov. Robinson by a plurality of over 21,000, and elected Beard as treasurer by over 17,000. The next senate will stand 28 republicans to 12 democrats, and the house more than two to one republican.

Connecticut elected members of the legislature only, and the next house stands 129 reps., 117 dems., two independents and one tie.

In New York the democratic majority for governor is about 15,000; the republicans have both branches of the legislature, with 33 maj. on joint ballot.

In New Jersey the republican majority in the house was largely reduced, while their majority in the senate was increased by two. This insures the return of Mr. Sewall to the United States senate.

In Virginia the democrats have a two-thirds majority in both branches of the legislature, and Lee's majority is 25,000 to 30,000.

Maryland rolled up the usual democratic majorities, or even increased ones; the legislature is two-thirds democratic.

A NUISANCE.

Mr. Editor: Please allow a subscriber room in your columns to suggest to the police the stopping of an annoying and dangerous nuisance—the playing of football in the streets by boys. My occupation obliges me to drive a team over a certain route every morning; and twice recently, while driving through Daniel street, has my horse been frightened by a flying football, which was being kicked about by a howling horde of boys whom I was told belonged to the high school. On one of these occasions I was barely able to prevent the upsetting of my wagon, which had it happened would have given the city a bill to pay, or a law suit to defend. The football players seemingly aim to frighten horses and annoy people all they can. MILKMAN.

THE COTTAGE HOSPITAL.

The directors of the Cottage Hospital very gratefully acknowledge the following valuable donations from a friend:

One set basswood splints;
Two rolls adhesive plaster;
One E. S. March's tourniquet;
Two pounds jute;
One-half pound absorbent cotton;
One probe;
One pair dressing forceps;
One pair short scissors;
Two syringes;
Four skeins assorted silk;
One dozen curved assorted needles.

From the present date the Cottage Hospital will be open to visitors, on Tuesdays and Fridays only, from two till four o'clock P. M.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 4th.

Joseph Gardner and James Fitzsimmons, for drunkenness, were requested to hand over $9.90 each, fine and costs, and did so.

Josiah Searcy, charged with malicious mischief, was discharged.

John Collins, William Gordon, Thomas Quinlan and Thomas Philbrook, charged with "affray," they having, as was alleged, been engaged in a sort of free fight on Water street the evening previous, were also dismissed after a hearing.

MUSIC HALL.

At Music hall this evening "Annette, the Dancing Girl," an original drama by Miss Ullie Akerstrom, will be the attraction. If the young lady is half as successful a playwright as she is actress, the drama will prove a wonderful success.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Nov. 3d.

Evidently the idea of having a postoffice in North Kittery is becoming more popular every day, as the petition for it has been signed by many of our best citizens, and we trust before many moons to see one established there permanently.

Several of our young folks at the village went to York last Saturday evening to attend the New England supper given by the Baptist society of that town at the Sea Cottage; they report a hearty good time, and a plenty of good things to eat—which one is always sure to find if Landlord Grant has anything to do with the business.

Mr. James Brown of the Lower Foreside raised a Chile squash this season that weighed eighty-three lbs.; he also raised eighteen lbs. of potatoes, of the Empire State variety, from one potato about the size of a hen's egg.

A party of about thirty friends of Albert S. Cottle gave him a surprise party last Thursday evening at his home in North Kittery; all had a pleasant time.

Mr. Azariah L. Spinney expects to move this week with his family to Portsmouth, where he has secured a farm on the Newington road, near Hon. Frank Jones' estate.

The winter term of school in district two, North Kittery, will commence Monday, Nov. 9th, and will be taught by Mr. E. K. Smith of Ashland, N. H.

An old-fashioned quarterly meeting will be held at the 1st Methodist church, North Kittery, commencing Saturday afternoon, Nov. 14th, and continuing through Sunday. The presiding elder of the district, Rev. W. S. Jones, will be present, and probably the pastors of the neighboring churches will take part in the exercises. It is the intention of those interested to conduct these meetings as nearly as possible like those held twenty or twenty-five years ago.

Mr. Geo. W. Muchmore returned Sunday evening last from Boston and vicinity, where he has been visiting his daughters and taking a little rest.

The funeral services of Wilber F. Fernald took place at the house of his father in West Kittery on Friday afternoon last, Rev. Perry Chandler officiating.

At a meeting of Morrill Lodge, I. O. G. T., of North Kittery, held Friday evening, the 30th ult., the following were elected officers for the ensuing quarter:

W. C. T., Wm. A. Fernald;
W. V. T., Lillian A. Brooks;
W. R. S., John P. Brooks;
W. F. S., Wm. F. Bartlett;
W. T., Isaac H. Lambert;
W. C., James W. Brooks;
W. M., John J. Lambert;
W. I. G., Nellie Todd;
W. O. G., H. J. Lambert.

The installation of these officers will occur at the next meeting of the lodge, Friday evening, the 6th inst.

The officers of Whipple Lodge of Good Templars, at the Foreside, were elected Wednesday evening, the 25th ult., and are as follows:

W. C. T., Geo. Manent;
W. V. T., Maggie Jackson;
W. R. S., Emma Hayes;
W. F. S., Frank C. Eaton;
W. T., Lucinda Hayes;
W. C., Rev. E. E. Colburn;
W. M., Samuel A. Jackson;
W. I. G., Martha Manent;
W. O. G., Geo. F. Hayes.

Installation of officers Wednesday evening, the 4th inst.

The high wind of Monday last gave the old "Tabernacle" at the Foreside a decided shaking up, and tipped the top several inches toward Mr. William Tobey's house; at one time in the forenoon its entire destruction was expected.

Dr. Miller, of New York, who has been lecturing at the Universalist church in Portsmouth the past two weeks, will commence a course of lectures on Friday evening, the 6th inst., at Trefethen's hall, Kittery Foreside, the first lecture being free.

There has been a change made in the choir at the 2d Methodist church. Mr. H. Keen, of York, has resigned as chorister, and Miss Florence E. Sanderson has been engaged in his place; Miss Millie Damon is organist. The new choir took charge on Sunday last. SUB ROSA.

At a meeting of the board of engineers on Tuesday evening, the 3d inst., Michael H. Gregg was appointed engineer of Col. Sise steam fire engine, No. 2, in place of William H. Gardiner, who has left the city. Daniel N. Cox was appointed fireman of the same engine.

The schooner Louisa A. Boardman, of Calais, Me., arrived at this port on the 4th instant, and took a berth at Commercial wharf, to load 1200 barrels of apples for an eastern port and a market.

Charles N. Davis, a Maine Central brakeman who was killed in the freight yard at Portland on the 1st inst., and was buried on the 3d, in the forenoon, left a young wife and child. After returning from the funeral Mrs. Davis was so overcome with grief that she went into convulsions, and died that evening.

PALMA SOLA has the name of being the largest, prettiest and youngest town in Florida. Is beautifully located on the Gulf Coast, two miles above the Manatee River. Already the iron horse is wending its way to Palma Sola, and soon the tourist will arrive at its first-class hotel, where he can get a meal to suit his epicurean tastes.

Palma Sola possesses the largest store in Southern Florida, with sawmill, furniture manufactory, packing houses, warehouses, churches, school house, postoffice, stores, beautiful residences, and a large wharf at which ocean steamers arrive daily from Tampa.

WARREN LELAND, Jr., of "Long Branch" fame, has secured a location at Palma Sola for the erection of a winter resort. The prediction is safe one, that Palma Sola will equal the natural advantages and attractions of the place, that he will make this the "LONG BRANCH" of FLORIDA, and other large hotels will be built.

With the completion of the railroad, this will be the terminus, and the direct route to Havana, Cuba. Lots will double and quadruple their present prices. Now is the time to buy.

LOTS 100x300 ft $45 to $200 per lot. We want PALMA SOLA to keep booming, and as an inducement to the public, and to thoroughly advertise this beautiful place, WE WILL GIVE AWAY a LIMITED number ONLY of our lots, giving lots ALTERNATELY as they come (corners excepted) charging applicants the expense of deed, transfer, etc., which will not exceed $4.50. Applicants can send postal money order with application to insure promptness, otherwise deeds will be sent C. O. D. Applicants must not be surprised at the return of their money, as being LIMITED the first come will be first served. Title perfect. Full warranty deed.

What Parents Fear.

Many persons—especially parents—object to many quack nostrums as likely to engender or encourage a love for strong drink. They are right. Better die of disease than of drunkenness. The use of Parker's Tonic does not involve this danger. It not only builds up the system, curing all ailments of the stomach, liver and kidneys, but it stimulates without intoxicating and absolutely cures the appetite for liquor.

When Secretary Whitney was in New York recently he gave verbal directions that the U. S. S. Dispatch, commanded by Lieutenant W. H. Emory, be prepared for sea as rapidly as possible, to join the North Atlantic squadron. Formal orders to this effect have not yet been issued from the navy department, and the same may be said with reference to the Brooklyn. Both vessels will be added to the North Atlantic fleet.

Pearline. James Pyle's Pearline stands pre-eminent as a most valuable acquisition to the laundry, for it very greatly lessens the labor of washing. It should be, as it very generally is, in every household. No family is so rich as to be able to do without it and none so poor as not to afford to have it. It is obtainable at all grocery stores.

Those persons who do not need iron, but who are troubled with Nervousness and Dyspepsia, will find in Carter's Little Nerve Pills a most desirable article. They are mostly used in combination with Carter's Little Liver Pills, and in this way often exert a most magical effect. Take just one pill of each kind immediately after eating and you will be free from indigestion and dyspepsia. In vials at 25 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

A Boston sport claims that Teemer was offered $10,000 to lose the race with Hanlan. Jack Breen, who acted as judge for Hanlan at the turning stake, says that when Hanlan reached that point he was too weak to retain hold of his oars. He dropped one before he fell out of his boat. At every stroke, says Breen, Teemer made a hole in the water big enough to hide in.

The cholera is raging in old Shanghai, (the Chinese walled city, said to be the filthiest and worst-smelling city in China,) and there were during August about 100 deaths among the Chinese living in the English, French and American settlements outside the walls. Only about ten Europeans have died with the disease.

That Dirty Dandruff.

Dandruff is dirty and disagreeable in every way. It soils the clothing continually, and is accompanied by a hardly less annoying sensation of itching. The scale is diseased. There is nothing in the world so thoroughly adapted to this trouble as Parker's Hair Balsam. It cleanses and heals the scalp, stops the falling hair and restores its original softness, gloss and color. Is not oily, highly perfumed, an elegant dressing. Very economical, as only a small occasional application keeps the hair in perfect condition.

Taking in a Sawdust Swindler.

"The killing of Tom Davis, the sawdust man, in New York, by a man from Texas reminds me of an experience I once had with a gang of this kind," said a well-known oil region sport, in the bar-room of the Option House, at Bradford, Pa., a night or two ago.

"Tell the story," came from a dozen throats.

"Well, boys, you all know that I am somewhat of a sport. So was my dad before me. The old man was up to all kinds of speculations. Nothing was too risky for him. If he wasn't in a lottery it was a horserace or a raffle. One time he got one of those enticing circulars, such as Tom Davis sent out to his dupes. At that time the old man was flying in hard luck. He had lost a century or so on a horse race, and a speculation in mining stocks had turned out disastrously. The offer of the sawdust chap struck him right favorably. 'Tim, if I can collar a thousand or two of the quare,' he said to me, 'I know that I can pass it without trouble in the oil country. I've a great notion to try it on and trust to luck.' All right, dad,' said I; 'try it on.'

In a few days he received another letter from the sawdust man, appointing a meeting at a hotel in Chatham square, in New York. 'I can't raise the wealth to go,' said the old man to me, 'so I must get my grip on some of that bogus money.' I thought the matter over, and concluded that I would give the old man a lift. I took the crook's letter, and, with the assistance of a young fellow in the newspaper business, cooked up a reply which I calculated would catch the swindler in as neat a trap as he ever set to catch sucker. In the letter I told the chap that New York was not the place for him to do business in. The oil country was then booming, and I advised him to come here, or at least open an agency. I pictured to him how easy it was to shove wagon loads of the queer. A mining or oil town afforded superior advantages for shoving bogus money. In conclusion, I told him that I had $10,000 to invest, but that like other oil men, I was not in the habit of buying a pig in a poke.

"'Send on samples,' I wrote, 'by mail or express, and I will examine the goods, and, if they are as slick as represented, will take $10,000 worth.' It was utterly impossible for me to meet him in New York. If he wanted to transact business he must either send samples or come on himself. In a few days a neat express packet was delivered at the door of the old man's house. With trembling hands he tore off the wrapper, revealing a long and narrow pasteboard box. Carefully hidden under a lot of papers was a long package done up in oiled silk. In it were four crisp new bills of the denominations of $2, $5, $10 and $20. They looked like genuine, and were pronounced as such by the cashier of the Bradford National Bank.

"But I am getting ahead of my story. When the package arrived the old gentleman sent for me. He was nearly wild with excitement.

"'Ain't they beauties?' he cried, as he tenderly fondled the crisp slips of paper.

"'They look good,' I replied, 'but that don't hinder their being counterfeits.'

"'That's exactly what they are,' said my dad, in triumph. 'We ain't paying for good money, are we?'

"I admitted the force of the logic. Then I proposed that I take the bills to a bank for examination. 'If the banks say they are good,' I said, 'then we'll have a picnic in passing them.' I had an idea that the money was genuine, and I wanted to get my hands on it before the old man had a chance to shove it. It nearly broke dad's heart to part, even for a little while, with the beautiful new notes. I hustled to the bank and asked if the bills were really good. 'Certainly,' replied the cashier, after a scrutinizing glance. 'They are as good as they make. Here are some counterfeits,' and he produced a bundle of bills. Some of them were brand new. I persuaded him to loan me a crisp $20, across the face of which was stamped in red letters, 'Counterfeit.'"

"What then?" queried one of the crowd.

"Why, I showed it to the old man and said that the bank had taken all the money from me and branded it as bogus. It cured dad of his fever for queer, but he never really got over the belief that I had played roots with him. Somehow he caught on to the idea that the money sent by the sawdust man was genuine, but he never had a chance to spend it."

Pierced With a Fish-Hook.

"Wall, wall," remarked an ancient and honorable oarsman, who, on the retired list, as it were, was a trifle overcritical of the younger and rising members of the profession; "this 'ere's a world of improvement, sure enough. When I was a-pullin'—and, I tell you, I hefted the ash for some big men in my time—Secretary Edmunds, President Arthur—and what a fly he kin cast! And there was General—what's his name?—he that fought the duel with Col. ——. Names kinder slips on me these muggy days, but he was a caster too, and I've seen him put an old-fashioned hackle fly eighty-five feet with one hand tied behind him.

"See this earring," he continued, polishing a gouty finger at a gold hoop that hung from his left ear. "The General bored that himself. One day we was out and the two men got into a wrangle, they was always a-doin' it, and at last they got me to stand fifty foot off on a p'int—down at Pitch Pine P'int—and hold out a tin mug. The General he bet that he could take the mug out of my hand in three tries by putting the fly through the handle.

"I was gettin' paid well, and so, as I thought I couldn't lose more than an eye or so, I stood up, and the first cast the old man took me right through this 'ere ear. I tell ye I dropped the cup quick, but the General ups and hauls a twenty-dollar shiner and tossed it at me and says: 'Jack, lemme reel ye and it's yours.' 'Go it,' says I. So he began to reel in, playin' me for all I was with, the Colonel standing ready with gaff, and when the General got the line all in he hooked the gaff in the slack of my trousers and give me a sling of about ten foot and yells out: 'It's with $10 to land a 200-pound sucker.' He paid it, too. They hooked me and landed me, and it cost 'em $30. When they cut the hook out the Colonel said he'd pay for a gold earring to go in, and said I'd never have sore eyes, and I never have, so help me. That's how I wear one earring. I lost the money, though. When the old woman heard on't she allowed we was all drunk, and so took the $30 for her share."—Simcoe Island (Lake Ontario) Letter to Philadelphia Times.

A Syracuse bookseller of a statistical turn of mind has collected accounts of the lives of 10,000 centenarians. He found that 6,000 of them came from the Nutmeg State and that the majority were women. Fifty single women came up to the century mark, but only twelve bachelors. One hundred ministers lived to be one hundred, and only thirty doctors, ten lawyers and ten actors. A centenarian newspaper man could not be discovered. A New London widower of one hundred and three, according to the catalogue, married a maiden just ninety years his junior, and one woman at one hundred and six could reflect on the loss of thirteen husbands.

The Protection

Thrown around what many deem a necessary article like whiskey, such as C. H. Graves & Sons are doing with their G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon and Pure Rye Whiskeys, selling them bottled only by themselves, and put up in the most careful manner, is a real benefit to buyers. Nothing is more subject to adulteration than whiskeys, and the thanks of the community are due these dealers for every precaution taken by them to prevent counterfeits of these now standard articles of commerce. How The Matter Stands.

Many persons were led to think that possibly the democrats of New York state might see fit to rebuke Mr. Cleveland for his firm stand shown in favor of civil service reform.

The fact is that the president and the democrats understand all the intricacies and apparent inconsistencies of the president's course, and not a democrat will leave his party in consequence. The programme is to follow the rule laid down in the resolutions of democratic conventions, clear out all the republicans from the offices, and then insist upon the enforcement of the law as to the civil service! If there is anything with which the democrats can find fault in this, they must indeed be unreasonable. The president is a better politician than are some of the members of his party.

The Civil Service Commission.

President Cleveland on the 4th inst. appointed Alfred P. Edgerton of Fort Wayne, Ind., as civil service commissioner in place of Dorman B. Eaton; and Wm. J. Trenholme, of Charleston, S. C., in place of John W. Gregory. Mr. Edgerton is endorsed as a genuine civil service reformer by Vice President Hendricks, and Mr. Trenholme is the son of the gentleman who was secretary of the treasury of the southern confederacy. The civil service commission is now solidly democratic.

Among the many interesting and popular books suitable for a Christmas or a New Year's present, published by Estes & Lauriat, Nos. 301 and 305 Washington street, Boston, and which are for sale in this city by M. Goodrich, may be found the following:

"Three Vassar Girls in Italy," by Lizzie W. Champney. A delightful record of the vacation trip of three college girls through the vineyards of Italy, visiting all the large cities, and passing some time at Rome, in the Vatican, the catacombs, etc. Although this is the fourth of the series of rambles by the famous "Three Vassar Girls," it is a complete story in itself. One vol., small quarto, illuminated board covers and linings; $1.50.

"Zigzag Journeys in the Levant," being an account of a spring trip of the Zigzag Club through Egypt and the Holy Land, with romantic stories and traditions connected with the early history of the country. By Hezekiah Butterworth, with over 100 fine illustrations. This is the seventh volume of the wanderings of the Zigzag Club. The popularity of these books may be judged by the fact that over one hundred and eighty thousand volumes of the series have been sold in six years. Price $1.75.

"Eve of St. Agnes," a poem, by John Keats; beautifully illustrated by Edmund Garrett. Price $1.50.

"The Chatter-Box for 1885," containing pictures that will please the children before they have learned to read, and stories that may be read to them by the hour, bound in an attractive form with illuminated covers and linings, making a beautiful present for the little ones. Price $1.25.

"Our Little Ones and the Nursery," being twelve numbers of this popular monthly, for the year 1885, beautifully bound and illustrated. Price $1.75.

"Cupid's Calendar" for 1886, a heart-shaped leaflet attached by a silken cord to a gilt arrow and intended for hanging on the wall—contains on each of its leaves a collection of extracts from popular poets and writers. Price $1.00.

"Whitney and Lowell Calendars for 1886." The fact that the writings of James Russell Lowell and Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney are used for these two new calendars (published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston,) is in itself enough to make them unusually attractive; but apart from this the calendars are among the prettiest in their decorations that have yet appeared.

The Lowell calendar has an excellent portrait of the poet, and a view of Elmwood, his house in Cambridge.

The Whitney calendar is printed in gold and light tints. The design is emblematical of the four seasons, which are symbolized by figures of little girls dressed in "Kate Greenaway" style, bearing each a garland, of spring and summer flowers, autumn fruits and wintry holly. The color-printing is excellent, and shows a marked advance over recent work of this kind.

The popular Holmes, Emerson, Longfellow, and Whittier calendars are reissued this year, their selections being newly arranged. All these calendars measure nine by twelve inches, and are sold at the uniform price of one dollar. It seems as if, wherever they go, they must have an educating influence, artistically, as well as in a literary sense.

The Raymond & Whitcomb Winter Trips To California.

The popularity of California as a winter resort is conclusively shown by the marked success of the Raymond and Whitcomb excursions. Three parties of Eastern people are now being formed to leave for the Pacific coast, December 10th, January 14th, and February 11th. A large number of names are already down for all these parties, and a brilliant series of excursions is already assured. Persons who take this way of visiting California secure many special advantages besides relieving themselves of all care. The passengers have literally nothing to do, except to enjoy themselves in their own way. Every possible comfort is afforded them, and every arrangement is first class. The tickets allow the widest limit regarding personal movements in California, and also regarding the date of return, choice of route, etc. Frequent opportunities will be had for returning under personal escort, or the tickets can be used independently at any time. Circulars giving full details of these delightful trips may be had by addressing W. Raymond, 240 Washington street, Boston.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, Nov. 5th, Mayor Eldredge in the chair:

Present the full board.

The records of the last meeting were read and approved.

Petitition of Mary E. Downs for brick sidewalk on Bow street was referred to the committee on streets, with power.

Petition of Henry Peyser and others for two gas-lights on Sheafe street was granted.

Request of John W. Caswell for widening of Lafayette road in accordance with his communication of Oct. 8th, was granted.

Request of J. D. Waldron and others for the services of a police officer at meetings in the Association building, was referred to the committee on police, with the mayor added.

Voted to appropriate $300 for alterations of the Spalding schoolhouse.

Bills amounting to about $2500 were ordered paid.

Question of appointing supernumerary policemen in place of James Kehoe and others, who have other regular occupations, was laid over to the next meeting.

Adjourned for two weeks.

NUISANCES.

Mr. Editor: Let me add to the suggestion of the ingenuous "Milkman" who thinks that the police can control the boys on our streets, the protest of a householder against the pernicious practice of small boys being suffered to shoot small pebbles at windows just after dark. This evil is one that demands attention. I have been obliged to have a large number of panes of glass reset, which had been maliciously broken by boys within a short time. Indeed in some streets the rattling of pebbles against the windows is heard nightly. A police officer in citizen's clothes should be detailed, not for keeping the sidewalks clear down town, because that duty is given over as a bad job, but in arresting a few "respectable" hoodlums who wantonly destroy property by this firing at glass. There must be reform attempted in this respect, or every one who can leave will seek a residence in some place where the authorities pay some attention to

LAW AND ORDER.

Mr. Editor: Your correspondent "Milkman," in his complaint about the football nuisance, ventilates an evil which is even more annoying than the obstructions on Deer street, the latter being to a great extent unavoidable, while the playing of football in the streets cannot be called a public necessity, and could be stopped by a word from the mayor or city marshal. Besides this, the pile of earth and stones lying beside the sewer trench, if anathematized by a person who has tumbled over it, does not respond with insolence, which cannot always be said of the football players. My wife, while walking on Daniel street a few days ago, uttered a remonstrance, and quite likely an indignant one, at being struck with a football and having her dress soiled; and all the satisfaction she got was an impudent "Why don't you keep out of the way then?" from a well-dressed youth old enough to have respect for himself and others. C. K. C.

The schooner Adeliza, of this port, before reported as beached on Fisher's island after being run down by another vessel, has become a total wreck.

The anchors and chains of the schooner Express, wrecked on Odiorne's point during the night of Oct. 29th, have been saved, with a few other articles, and sent to Tremont, Me., where the schooner was owned. The wreck and materials remaining on the beach were sold by auction on Tuursday, the 5th inst., for the benefit of whom it might concern, the sale being attended by quite a party of gentlemen from this city. The spars were bought by Mr. Charles S. Drowne. The cargo of coal, 150 tons, was bought as it lay in a "windrow" at high water mark, and on the bottom down to and far below low-water mark, by one of the late owners of the schooner, who paid $72.50 for it. The rigging and sails were bought by a Mr. Tucker, a dealer in old junk; and the hull was bought by Mr. George H. Shannon for $2.50.

The schooner Henry S. Culver, which arrived at this port on the 5th inst. with coal from Georgetown, D. C., in the blow of Oct. 30th had her spanker boom and gaff carried away, and her wheel and cabin skylight damaged, etc. The second mate, named Olsen, had one of his legs broken, and was left at Vineyard Haven.

From the present date the Cottage Hospital will be open to visitors, on Tuesdays and Fridays only, from two till four o'clock P. M.

READ! THINK! ACT!

Palma Sola, Florida.

The paradise of invalids! The home of tropical fruits! Climate unsurpassed! No frost! No extremes of heat or cold! No malaria! Ground high and dry! Plenty of pine! and the finest hunting and fishing in America.

PALMA SOLA has the name of being the largest, prettiest and youngest town in Florida. It is beautifully located on the Gulf Coast, two miles above the Manatee River. Already the iron horse is wending its way to Palma Sola, and soon the tourist will arrive at its first-class hotel, where he can get a meal to suit his epicurean tastes.

Palma Sola possesses the largest store in Southern Florida, with saw mill, furniture manufactory, packing houses, warehouses, churches, school house, postoffice, stores, beautiful residences, and a large wharf at which ocean steamers arrive daily from Tampa.

WARREN LELAND, Jr., of "Long Branch" fame, has secured a location at Palma Sola for the erection of a winter resort. The prediction is a safe one, based as it is upon the natural advantages and attractions of the place, that he will make this the "LONG BRANCH" of FLORIDA, and other large hotels will be built.

With the completion of the railroad, this will be the terminus, and the direct route to Havana, Cuba. Lots will double and quadruple their present prices. Now is the time to buy.

LOTS 100x300 ft. $45 to $200 per lot.

We want PALMA SOLA to keep booming, and as an inducement to the public, and to thoroughly advertise this beautiful place, WE WILL GIVE AWAY a LIMITED number ONLY of our lots, giving lots ALTERNATELY as they come (corners excepted) charging applicants the expense of deed, transfer, etc., which will not exceed $2.00. Applicants can send postal money order with application to insure promptness, otherwise deeds will be sent C. O. D. Applicants must not be surprised at the return of their money, as being LIMITED the first come will be first served. Title perfect. Full warranty deed.

An Internal Revolution

Which enables the stomach to throw off the yoke of dyspepsia, is effected through the aid of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a most efficient ally in warring with all disorders which affect the digestive organs, the liver and the bowels. Many dyspeptic experiences heartburn, wind on the stomach, or any other familiar symptoms of his malady, a wineglassful of this matchless stomachic will dissipate them, and a pursuance of the remedy bring about a cure. Constipation and biliousness, evils to the relief of which aperients and cathartics are inadequate, also yield to this fine alterative. The restoration of appetite and nightly repose, and the disappearance of those nervous symptoms that habitually annoy the chronic sufferer from dyspepsia, also ensue upon the use of the Bitters, which is likewise a standard remedy and preventive of fever and ague, rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles and debility.

The United States government has forwarded to the Canadian minister of marine two gold medals, for presentation to Captain W. Graham, of the British bark Rapid Transit, and Captain John Bard, of the British bark Hauts County, for their services in rescuing the crew of the American steamship Hunter in March, 1885.

The value of an endorsement is known to those who do business in the commercial world. The endoresements of public men to the efficacy of Red Star Cough Cure ought to have their weight with all who wish a cough mixture that is prompt in its effects and contains no narcotic poisons.

The Only

medicine I ever found that helped me at all is ATHLOPHOROS, and I have not had the Rheumatism since I took it."—EDWIN SEARS, Provincetown, Mass.

A professor in a medical college once said to his class "put your hand in a vice, turn the screw until the pain is all you can bear, and that's rheumatism; turn the screw once more, and that's neuralgia—and gentlemen, the medical profession knows no cure for either." That was before the discov. ATHLOPHOROS which does and will cry of ATHLOPHOROS quickly cure both rheumatism and neuralgia. Thousands of many physicians use it regularly—frankly admitting that they can prescribe nothing else so effective.

Many persons have tried so many so-called remedies, without benefit, that they have no faith to try more, but it is worth your while to try Athlophoros, if you have any doubts as to its value write for names of parties in your own State who have been cured by its use.

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

DANIEL LITTLEFIELD,

THE MEXICAN CONGRESS.

Mexico is nominally governed by a Congress, first called September 14, 1813, which has probably seen as many vicissitudes as any assembly on earth has ever seen in the same time. It has been chased here and there, dissolved, expelled, recalled, and remodelled, until it has finally settled down into an established institution. It now consists of a Senate of about sixty members, which meet in a room in the National Palace, and a Chamber of Deputies of some two hundred and twenty members, which meet in the old Theatre of Iturbide, over half a mile from the National Palace. In appearance this Congress could hardly be distinguished from that of the United States. Fully nine-tenths of its members are of pure white blood, and the other tenth have no more color than fashion demands of a stylish brunette. No traces of rusticity, coarseness, ignorance, or stupidity are visible, nor is there any sign of what is generally known as Mexican costume. Both bodies are composed of eminent soldiers, scholars, lawyers, and members of other professions, with young men whose talents have attracted notice; and the members show a degree of politeness and dignity that would improve many of our State Legislatures. Their conversation in the lobbies and on the floor shows an extraordinary degree of culture and education, and both bodies are the last to which one would look for subserviency to the Executive.

Theoretically this Congress is elected by the people. Practically it is elected by the President. A note to the officer in command of the military district, or to the political chief—a civil officer whose actual powers are co-extensive with the requirements of any emergency—recommending a certain person as a suitable subject for a Congressman, rarely fails. Should it fail, the error is easily corrected in the canvass, or still more easily in the final returns. In the federal district—the city of Mexico and its environs—the elective system is still more charmingly simple. Should there be two candidates, which is rarely the case, the defeated candidate is the last one on earth to complain or contest the seat.

A congress so elected can be nothing but a rubber stamp committee. Especially must it be so in the country like Mexico, with a vast ignorant lower class taking no interest in public affairs in time of peace, with no middle class worthy of mention, and with an upper class too small to resist the army, which must be kept up to restrain the turbulant part of the lower class. Under such circumstances it is quite useless for a representative to be independent. The result would be the loss of a good position, with $250 a month for doing next to nothing. And should he find himself, upon some pretext, banished to Yucatan or languishing in prison, his nominal constituents are the last ones on the earth to whom he can look for redress.

The visitor in the galleries of the Mexican Congress sees at once the effect of this. Day after day the Houses meet, and adjourn in a few moments after hearing the minutes of the last meeting and a formal communication or two from some state legislature or officer. Occasionally a bill is passed. But it goes as a matter of course, the members taking no interest in it. Many do not even hear their names called, and their assent is assumed; others give a delicate nod or little wave of the hand; while others merely smile at the secretary, as if conscious of the absurdity of the ceremony. The Congressman cares no more for the "clear people" than the people care for him. Respect for them can only get him into trouble, whereas respect for the President will insure his return. His constituents trouble him with no letters, instructions, resolutions, or petitions; and he in return spares them the infliction of public documents, printed speeches, papers, and all other evidences of his regard.—T. S. Van Dyke, in Harper's Magazine for October.

Girls in Summer Vacation.

I had a letter the other day from a young lady on a vacation, writes a correspondent to the St. Paul Globe. She had heavenly blue eyes and a complexion that matched a pink dress. A number one-and-a-half brown kid slipper is just her fit. When she is in the city she delights in reading Heine, in the original dialect, and there are not three swell parties during the winter given by what the newspapers call "prominent society people" that she doesn't get an invitation to. It is my impression that she teaches a class in Sunday school during the Christmas rush. Whatever she does is recognized by the society ladies and mothers in Israel as about the correct thing. She told me about her vacation and informed me that she was "having a most delightful time," which consisted in driving a broken down old horse hitched to a buckboard, until the horse has to stop to get breath, and then she dismounts from the buckboard and lies down on the grass at full length beside the highway until the poor old beast is ready for another spin. She said, too, that her evenings were put in on a pretty little lake near by in a boat, with a man named Fred, who pulled water-lilies for her while she looked at the stars. She sized up this young man Fred as an honest sort of a man, in that cold-blooded sort of a way in which Dakota farmers speak of their hired men. You can put down two or three things on that vacation which will apply to about 100,000 cases during the present calendar month, namely people that are on vacations not only take vacations from work, but from the conventionalities of city life, so that what would paralyze the public during eleven months of the year is recognized as O. K. during the odd month; everything goes. I once knew of a young society lady who boasted on the return from a vacation that she could vault a barbed-wire fence that was four wires high, though she said she had to practice on ordinary board fences for a while. It was a New Jersey youngster that said in his prayer the night before going on the vacation trip: "Good-by, God: I'm going on a vacation to-morrow." Another thing, these vacation trips are one of the chief causes of the great rush of young men to the great cities. Do you suppose that that young man rowed that boat in which was seated that young lady with the heavenly blue eyes and pink-dress complexion with the same emotions as he would have ferried a neighbor across the lake at $1 an hour? And do you suppose that he was very well satisfied with the general run of the universe, after the aforesaid eyes, etc., had come back to the city? I should say not, and about next October he will pack his grip, wish his old mother a tearful good-by and say to himself that he will go out and rustle with life in the metropolis a few times.

Upward of 150,000 vessels and 600,000 men in Europe and America are engaged in the fishing industry, and the total annual product of fish is not far short of 1,500,000 tons. Few people realize the full meaning of these latter figures. A ton of fish is equal in weight to about twenty-eight sheep, and hence a year's fish supply for ten European countries, included in this estimate, and the United States and Canada might be represented by 42,000,000 sheep. Of this amount the United Kingdom, Canada, Russia and the United States alone aggregate 1,000,000 tons, equivalent to 28,000,000 sheep.

The Insurance Law.

The New Hampshire Club will dine at the Quincy house in Boston on Wednesday, the 11th inst., at two P. M. The after dinner speeches will relate to the insurance question in New Hampshire. It is to be hoped that the orators will be better informed than some of the newspapers which attack or defend the existing laws.

It is not the valued policy law alone which caused the companies to withdraw from the state, because there could have been an adjustment of premiums or an election to take risks under this law, which might have permitted the companies to continue to write policies through their agents in New Hampshire, were it not for another act, which was made to apply to contracts entered into or renewed after it went into effect. This act provides that—

All statements of description or value in an application or policy of insurance are representations and not warranties; erroneous descriptions or statements of value or title by the insured do not prevent his recovering on his policy unless the insurers find that the difference between the property as described and as it really existed contributed to the loss or materially increased the risk; a change in the property insured, or in its use or occupation, or a breach of any of the terms of the policy by the insured, do not affect the policy except during the continuance of the change, use or occupation, or of the state of things constituting the breach of the terms of the policy; nor shall any misrepresentation of the title or interest of the insured in the whole or a part of the property insured, real or personal, unless material or fraudulent, prevent his recovering on his policy to the extent of his insurable interest.

The wording is somewhat ambiguous, but at the same time the intent is sufficiently apparent to put the companies upon their guard. The fear of the underwriters was that in insurance of stocks of merchandise, for example, a person might cover a larger quantity than was contained on his premises, and the "erroneous statement" would not prevent his recovering of the company the alleged amount of his loss, except under certain circumstances. It is under this law that the local companies must write their policies. Thus it will be seen that on the insurance of stocks of goods, furniture, etc., the utmost care must be exercised by the underwriters, and for the time spent in investigation and in watching a certain class of risks, the premium would be no sort of compensation.

If the club will edify the world upon this phase of the question, the discussion can but be of the most interesting nature.

President Cleveland has enjoyed all the fun he is likely to obtain from being president. The man Hill, already mentioned as the next democratic candidate for president, will be constantly crowding off the platform the man who voted for him before breakfast, and will be a constant bete noir to his predecessor.

Kimball of Lebanon has offered three gold medals of the New Hampshire Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, as prizes to the schools of Lebanon and West Lebanon, to the writers of the best three essays on "Kindness to Animals." The award and presentation will be made in the public hall, and appropriate ceremonies will be observed. Many prominent gentlemen of the state will be present, and address the assembled schools and the citizens generally, on the occasion.

A large pile of coal arrived at this port on Thursday and Friday to J. Albert Walker, brought in by schooners, as follows: Bertha Dean, 1127 tons; Charlotte Buck, 351 tons; Calvin D. Baker, 905 tons; H. W. Middleton, 903 tons; James Ford, 970 tons; Normandy, 846 tons; Charles T. Sampson, 733 tons,—a total of over 6000 tons.

The railroad commissioners of Maine were in this city Friday, arriving on a special train from Portland, being on a tour of inspection of the Portland, Saco & Portsmouth railroad, accompanied by D. W. Sanborn and H. Bissell of the eastern division of the Boston & Maine railroad.

The schooner Flying Dart, Capt. William Miles, arrived at Commercial wharf on Wednesday, the 4th inst., to fit out for haddock fishing. She has been extensively renovated, and placed in complete repair.

During the heavy storm of the 3d inst. two coasting schooners, the Nettie Cushing and Castilian, coal laden, and the fishing schooner Rebecca F. Atwood, anchored close to Stage island, Biddeford pool, were abandoned by their crews, who expected them to go down at their anchors. The men were cared for at the life-saving station through the night, and boarded their vessels again next morning, they having rode the gale out all right.

Daniel Clark, at Commercial wharf, received 2000 lbs. of fish on Friday.

At the annual meeting of the Mechanics Association of this city, holden on Tuesday evening, 3d, the following persons were chosen officers for the ensuing year:—Joseph Pettigrew, president; Oliver H. Locke, vice president; Lewis G. Davis, treasurer; Benj. M. Parker, secretary; J. Warren Davis, dept. secretary; John Pender, Joshua M. Vaughan, Franklin N. Paul, William G. Billings, Marcellus Bufford, Edward J. Moulton, trustees; Charles H. Downs, marshal; J. Chaplin Carr, dept. marshal; Daniel Mason, standard bearer; John Knowlton, Wm. A. Hodgdon, John Nutter, auditors.

At a meeting of the trustees of the Public Library held Thursday evening, it was voted to ask the city for the same appropriation as last year.

Mr. R. H. Paine has commenced in this city the manufacture of what he calls the common sense jacket for winter wear. It takes the place of a leather jacket, being made of a light rubber cloth lined with red flannel. The sale, we are informed, is already large. We believe that it is really an excellent article, and can be purchased at a very low price.—Times.

SCROFULA.

A remedy that can destroy the germs of scrofula, and when once settled has the power to root it out, must be appreciated by those afflicted. The remarkable cures of young children and the more wonderful cures of those of middle age and late in life, as illustrated by our printed testimonials, prove Hood's SARSAPARILLA to be a reliable remedy, containing remedial agents which do positively cure scrofula and eradicate it from the blood.

SANFORD, N. H., Jan. 21, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.: Gentlemen—For ten years previous to the early part of 1877 I had been a constant sufferer from scrofulous ulcers or sores, which had finally reduced me to a helpless condition, as described in my letter to you in September of that year. The continued excellent health which enables me to keep house for my aged father and to enjoy life, keeps alive my intense personal interest in HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA, and I cannot refrain from expressing my gratitude for the permanent cure this wonderful medicine effected in my case nearly two years ago, while living in Lowell, when all my physicians gave me up as being in an incurable condition. One thing before I close. I have recommended your Sarsaparilla to hundreds, and I think more than a thousand cases, and my faith in its invincibility in curing scrofula has become absolute by the wonderful cures it has effected aside from my own. I trust you will not be slow in making the merits of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA known everywhere, for it is a duty you owe to mankind. With best wishes I remain very truly yours,

SARAH C. WHITTIER

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

FRIDAY, Nov. 6th.

Albert G. Merrill was charged with drunkenness, and the charge was proved. He said he belonged in Rhode Island, and if allowed to go on probation would immediately emigrate from this state. He was taken at his word, and started off at a rate of speed which, if he kept it up until he reached the boundary of Rhode Island, must have carried him clear across that state before he could stop.

Samuel Flanagan, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $5.36; paid.

Patrick McLaughlin, for drunkenness, fined $3, costs $6.90.

GUY FAWKES.

A party of big boys and little boys, and big girls and little girls, about twenty-five in all, had a grand time on the evening of the 5th at Christian Shore celebrating "Pope night" by a procession. The boys had pumpkin lanterns and the girls had cigar-box lanterns; the procession was headed by a band consisting of a kettledrum and a piccolo; one happy urchin carried a torch; and there were tin horns enough, of all sizes and degrees of depravity, to go around. Not only the walls but the houses of Jericho would have been justified in going down under such a clatter as they made. Had the entire party been put through a mugwump civil service examination, it is doubtful if one of them could have told the significance of their celebration.

MAIL CHANGES.

Within the past few days improvements have been made in the mail service between New York and this city, which save several hours time. A closed mail is made up in this city at 6:45 P. M., and sent on the Flying Yankee to Boston, where it makes close connection with the night train to New York. A closed mail bag also arrives in this city on the seven o'clock P. M. train from Boston, which brings to us much of our mail which has usually arrived here at nine P. M. Under this new arrangement letters mailed in this city as late as 6:45 P. M. arrive in New York early next morning, and letters mailed in New York in the morning arrive here early in the evening of the same day.

The mail from this city to York and Cape Neddick at six o'clock P. M., and the mail which has arrived in this city at 4:40 P. M. from the places named, are discontinued.

MORE PAY?

Mr. Editor: It is quite interesting reading, these complaints of your correspondents, who seem to send to the Chronicle a statement of their grievances as naturally as Londoners, years ago, found vent for their indignation in the "Times." The trouble complained of was foreshadowed in the inaugural address of our excellent mayor. He foresaw that the democrats having carried the city, there would be assumed a certain freedom from restraint on the part of some of the inhabitants. For this reason he maintained that men of good habits and uncoubted efficiency should compose the police force. This is sound, but not democratic. The "billets" are wanted to reward political workers. A police officer should have a certain qualification for the position he seeks to fill; that is, he should be a success, as in any business or occupation. How many of this kind are now in the force, it would be well for the aldermen to consider when they take from the table the proposition to increase the officers' pay. The lot of a policeman may not be a happy one, but before we are saddled with the additional cost of more pay, let us behold some evidence of increased efficiency. There is vast room for improvement in this respect. A. D. F.

Editor of Chronicle: I see by your report of the proceedings of the board of aldermen, that increased pay is asked for by some of the police force, or the whole, I cannot be sure which from the report. Now it is very distinct in my memory that one of the standing complaints of our democratic brethren against the republican city administrations was that of extravagance in policing the city, it being charged that there were many more officers than were required, and that the pay was heavier than the duty. What has caused the change? Is the present police force so much more efficient than former (republican) ones—do they show so much more energy in enforcing the prohibitory liquor law, the city ordinances ordering saloons to close at eleven o'clock every night and to keep closed all day Sunday, and other wholesome regulations—have they done so much better at repressing fast driving, drunkenness, fights and other nuisances on our streets, and hoodlumism on our sidewalks and in public gatherings—in short, are the present officers so great an improvement over their republican predecessors that what was extravagant compensation then is niggardly compensation now?

STRAIGHT-OUT REPUBLICAN.

Miss Frances E. Willard, president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, will address the people of Portsmouth on the subject of Temperance at the Congregational church on Wednesday evening, Nov. 11th.

Elvin Newton and wife have arrived home from a two weeks trip to New York and elsewhere. Mr. Newton is getting ready to drive the fish-buying business again, provided the fish are brought in this winter. He bought 10,000 lbs. on Friday, paying $2 per hundred lbs., the cooler weather having caused an increase of prices.

Mr. Charles H. Kehoe, office clerk of the Eldredge Brewing Co., is on a vacation for about two weeks. He will visit New York, and call upon the absent members of the P. S. H. & C. club.

Messrs. Philbrick, Sanderson and White will give their first assembly for this season in Franklin hall on Thursday evening, Nov. 12th, with music by Taylor & Tasker's orchestra of Dover.

Have you seen Coleman's elegant eight-inch range for $30, with all the apparatus, including hot closet, also the seven-inch range for $25? Mr. Coleman has one of the largest stocks of household goods in New Hampshire, and it will repay any one in want of articles in the housekeeping line to visit his warehouse on Market street.

READ! THINK! ACT!

Palma Sola, Florida.

The paradise of invalids! The home of tropical fruits! Climate unsurpassed! No frost! No extremes of heat or cold! No malaria! Ground high and dry! Plenty of pine! and the finest hunting and fishing in America.

PALMA SOLA has the name of being the largest, prettiest and youngest town in Florida. Is beautifully located on the Gulf Coast, two miles above the Manatee River. Already the iron horse is wending its way to Palma Sola, and soon the boats will arrive at its first-class hotel, where he can get a meal to suit his epicurean tastes.

Palma Sola possesses the largest store in Southern Florida, with sawmill, turpentine factory, packing houses, warehouses, churches, school house, postoffice, stores, beautiful residences, and a large wharf at which ocean steamers arrive daily from Tampa.

WARREN LELAND, Jr., of "Long Branch" fame, has secured a location at Palma Sola for the erection of a winter resort. The prediction is a safe one, based as it is upon the natural advantages and attractions of the place, that he will make this the "LONG BRANCH" of FLORIDA, and other large hotels will be built.

With the completion of the railroad, this will be the terminus, and the direct route to Havana, Cuba. Lots will double and quadruple their present prices. Now is the time to buy.

LOTS 100x200 ft. $45 to $200 per lot.

We want PALMA SOLA to keep booming, and as an inducement to the public, and to thoroughly advertise this beautiful place, WE WILL GIVE AWAY a LIMITED number ONLY of our lots, giving lots ALTERNATELY as they come (corners excepted) charging applicants the expense of deed, transfer, etc., which will not exceed $2.00. Applicants can send postal money order with application to insure promptness, otherwise deeds will be sent C. O. D. Applicants must not be surprised at the return of their money, as being LIMITED the first come will be first served. Title perfect. Full warranty deed.

What Parents Fear.

Many persons—especially parents—object to many quack nostrums as likely to engender or encourage a love for strong drink. They are right. Better die of disease than of drunkenness. The use of Parker's Tonic does not involve this danger. It not only builds up the system, curing all ailments of the stomach, liver and kidneys, but it stimulates without intoxicating and absolutely cures the appetite for liquor.

IN A CYCLONE.

Rocked and Wrecked by the Charleston Gale.

F. J. McGarey, whose house was wrecked and whose family had a narrow escape from death, gives the following account of his experiences: "It was," said he, "a time of terrible suspense and anxiety. There were in the house with me my wife, my mother-in-law, my sister-in-law, and my three children. From two o'clock in the morning until 6 o'clock we were all up, and all hands except the children were kept pretty busy in the effort to secure the windows and doors of the house. During all this time the house next west of the Moultrie House was rocking like a cradle. I made several efforts to get over the way to my friend, Mr. Barrigan, in order to see how he was getting on and to offer assistance to him if he needed it, but failed to make the trip. It was simply an impossibility. Every time I ventured out into the front piazza the wind threw me down to the ground and carried me under the house, which I could only reach again by way of the back stairs, which were on the leeward side of the house.

"About 8 o'clock my troubles was increased. My wife became seasick from the constant rocking of the house, and had to take a couch. Her services, which had heretofore been invaluable, were sadly missed. Shortly after this I went on the back piazza of the house to see how the kitchen, a substantial structure, was weathering the storm, when to my horror the roof was lifted off and thrown to the street, and the sides laid out like so many cards. I then managed to get down the back steps, and, seeing that the posts of the house were giving away, crawled to the side nearest the Moultrie House, and holding on to the corner post of the house tried as well as I could by signs (the sound of my voice being unable to be heard) to convey to several men standing on the rear piazza my want of assistance.

"I then managed to get up-stairs into the main building, which was rolling, and told the folks that we had to get out as soon as possible, as the house would soon be down upon us. Just then a colored man, who had waded through the seething waters which had covered the whole island, made his appearance and took one of the children. After him came Mr. Cogswell, who took another. My sister-in-law, who had behaved like a hero throughout our rough experience, managed to get out and took with her the remaining child. I then hastened to the room where I left my wife, and not finding her there passed into the sitting-room, where she was assisting her mother, and just as I reached them I felt the floor give way, and in a moment the whole structure came down and we were all buried in the ruins.

"Fortunately, we escaped with our lives. None of us were struck by the falling beams. Scrambling to our feet we managed to get to the rear door, to find that the steps had gone down with the house. With the assistance of those who had returned from the Moultrie House we managed to get over there, where we were kindly taken care of by Mrs. Fairly and the ladies of the house, whose kindness I shall never forget."—Charleston (S. C.) News and Courier.

Doffing the Hat.

Can anybody tell me where this abominable habit, now in vogue among young men who profess to be the elite, of doffing the hat on meeting lady acquaintances comes from? In the good old days, when "aussiety" didn't depend on the height of a man's shirt-collar or the scarcity of cloth in his pants, or the drawl in his articulation, there was something stately and commanding in the manner of lifting the hat when the lady gave the signal for recognition. It was combined with a bow, which had to be well executed in order to make the other effectual. It was a sure index to a gentleman, for I never knew a vulgar man to acquire the art of lifting his hat gracefully. But this seems to have been obliterated by the coming generation in pants. The thing now is to grab the rim of the hat in front with the same celerity you would grab for a seat in a street car. Having clutched the right spot, you jerk the hat down as if you were trying to hide your face—and a man who will take off his hat in this way ought to hide his face—then you rub the hat up and down your front, taking care not to go below the belt, about three times, very quickly, just as if you were trying to allay irritation. When the hat gets back to its place you grin like a monkey—one grin is all that the custom requires. By this time the lady has passed, and, if she is a sensible woman, it is her turn to grin. I think our most graceful man in the handling of the hat is ex-President Arthur. That is what one of the most aristocratic ladies of Louisville once told me, and they know. He lifted the hat straight above his head about two and a half inches and then put it back. Imagine ex-President Arthur trying to rub the buttons off his coat with his hat. Let us have reform in this hat business.—Meddler in Chicago Herald.

Engagements in England.

English girls seldom marry before the age of 22 or 23 says a writer in the New York Mail and Express. Some marry well at the age of 30. A marriage in England is not arranged in a few days, or in a few months. A young man of about 20 engages himself to a young lady of, say, 18, and the lovers remain engaged for three, or even five, years. These are the woman's good times. During the engagement she enjoys almost all the sweets of married life without any of its troubles, and she is free. Sometimes she does her best to make the engagement last as long as possible. She prefers to murmur words of love to her betrothed to shutting herself up with him in some semi-detached cottage wherein to bemoan the high price of bread and butter and coal. On the day she is married she is settled, as they say in England; that means she is established. I would define the word "settled" more correctly by saying that her business is done for her. I do not wish at all to convey the idea that woman finds no happiness in the English household; nothing is further from my mind. I think, on the contrary, she can enter it with more confidence than can her sister across the channel, because she assumes much less responsibility and because her mother has invariably versed her most thoroughly in domestic economy. Women in England know nothing at all about their husband's business, no more than a clerk knows about the private affairs of his employer; and it is even a difficult matter for her to say whether he is making a fortune or on the verge of bankruptcy. When her husband dies an Englishwoman who has no fortune may become a governess, a housekeeper, or a nurse. That is servitude. An Englishman gives his wife so much a month for household expenses, and so much for her wardrobe—her wages as it were. She evinces no surprise when she learns one fine morning that her husband is taking her to a sumptuous abode, nor when she learns that they must move some evening in the dark without making any noise. She goes with the furniture—in a double sense.

is a very prevalent and exceedingly disgreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to evelop into serious consumption. Being constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Lieut. Comdr. W. Farenholt has been detached from the training ship Portsmouth, and ordered to duty as executive of the Swatara.

The simples in the laboratory of nature are health giving. What can be more reviving than the odor of the pine forests? And when it is remembered that St. Jacobs Oil has in it the essential elements which give this life and strength, it can well be understood what a boon it is to the afflicted.

A Little Big Man.

A Boston paper of last Friday contained the following:

There is much feeling at the navy yard over the sudden and unlooked for ordering of Civil Engineer U. S. G. White to "waiting orders." Mr. White has been in charge of the yards and docks department at this yard for seven years, and his removal, it is said, was by the orders of Commodore Harmony, chief of the bureau of yards and docks, while he (Harmony) was acting secretary of the navy the past few days during the absence of Secretary Whitney in New York. Some trouble occurred between these two officers about six months ago, which is assigned as the cause. Efforts are making to have the order revoked by Secretary Whitney.

Very small men sometimes get into places where men of broad minds should be. Commodore Harmony, though an officer of high rank and holding an important position of trust, seems very ready to prostitute the powers entrusted to him to be used for the benefit of the country, for the gratification of his own petty personal spite against individuals. This is not the first time the charge has been made against him, and on apparently good grounds.

The Worcester, Nashua & Rochester Railroad.

The Boston Journal on Thursday of last week contained the following:

The action of the directors of the Eastern railroad yesterday, in approving a lease of the Worcester, Nashua & Rochester railroad to the Boston & Maine from January 1, 1886, at five per cent per annum, confirms our statement of last week that the Boston & Maine had offered to lease the road at five per cent.

The Worcester, Nashua & Rochester road is 94 48-100 miles in length and runs from Worcester to Rochester, N. H., where it connects with the Rochester & Portland, a road owned in the Boston & Maine interest. By this lease the Boston & Maine brings up the mileage of itself and leased properties to 587.77 miles. Adding to this the 527.47 miles operated by the Maine Central, a road controlled in the interest of the Eastern, and we have a grand total of 1116 miles of railroad in New England under the Boston & Maine-Eastern-Central.

It would be supposed that a guarantee of five per cent upon stock purchased at $50 to $100 per share would be a reasonable kind of a deal, but it is understood that a new issue of 4805 shares of Worcester & Nashua stock is to be made, upon which the Boston & Maine will also guarantee five per cent per annum.

Considering that the Boston & Maine already controlled the Portland connection of the road to be leased that the lease is very likely to lead to an incursion of the Boston & Maine's territory by the Boston & Lowell under certain circumstances, and the present earning power of the Worcester & Nashua, it is difficult to conceive of any great benefit to accrue to the Boston & Maine from the lease. The fact, however, that under the terms of the lease of the Eastern to the Boston & Maine losses incurred will be at the expense of the Eastern stockholders, instead of the Boston & Maine's, will perhaps account in a measure for the bargain that has been made. The inside history of the deal will form an interesting chapter in the history of New England railroads.

The schooner Sharon, Donnell master, was at Commercial wharf Saturday, loading with grain from J. Brooks & Co. for Cape Neddick, to sail the first fair weather. The fishing schooner Flying Dart, at the same wharf, was nearly ready for sea; she took on board ten new dories Saturday.

The first gill-net catch of codfish in Ipswich bay, for this season, was made on Saturday, the 31st ult., the schooner Eva May taking 14,000 lbs., the Rising Star 8,000 and the Alabama 7,000, all of which was landed at Rockport, Mass. The gale and heavy sea of the 2d inst. played the mischief with the nets, as it also did with trawls and lobster-pots all along shore.

The schooner Albert Woodbury, Ephraim Henry Downs master, stranded for the Isles of Shoals on Thursday last to bring in Mr. John B. Downs and wife, who will this winter reside on Cates street in this city with their son, Capt. Levi Downs. Mr. John B. Downs is the only one of the old residents of Star island who now owns a homestead there, and he and his wife have lived there continuously more than an average lifetime, excepting the winter after the Oceanic hotel was burned, their house having been destroyed at the same time.

The Parade had quite an old-time look, Saturday, there being a herd of about fifty cattle there for sale,—cows, calves, oxen and bulls,—quite a number of them being disposed of during the day. There was one big pair of white oxen, and a big black Dutch bull that seemed as gentle as a kitten. There was a smaller bull, a grade Durham, that didn't look half so amiable and contented as the big fellow; this latter was sold during the day, and carried off in tow behind a farmer's wagon. Owing to the threatening weather and the muddy condition of the roads, the number of country teams in town was smaller than usual, and the customary display of hay, wood and charcoal was lacking.

It was reported Saturday, upon what seemed good authority, that there will be no more appointments or changes in federal offices in this city at present.

Ed. Jameson received on Saturday 1500 lbs. of cod from the schooner Rambler, Capt. Isaac Pridham. Daniel Clark received 1200 lbs. from George Byas, 2500 lbs. of hake from the Helen Mar, and a fare of cod from Oren Caswell. Elvin Newton & Co. received 3000 lbs. from the Helena, Capt. Creamer, and other small lots. There were scarcely any arrivals of fish on Sunday.

Eastern railroad stock advanced from 54 to 57 1-2 in Boston on Saturday. It is suggested that this sharp advance was due to the holders of Eastern stock having awakened to the fact that the Worcester & Nashua deal, referred to in another column, cannot be carried out without their votes, and to their determination to make the parties to the deal purchase their stock at high prices; the lease of the Worcester, Nashua & Rochester by the Boston & Maine must be approved by the stockholders of both corporations. Portsmouth, Great Falls & Conway stock felt the influence of the advance in Eastern; for some time past it has been difficult of sale at forty, but on Saturday sold at 43 and 44. Worcester & Nashua sold at 134.

THE WONDER

Is becoming universal as to how such an immense sale could be created in Lowell for HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. But, my friend, if you could stand behind our counter a week and hear what those say who are using it. The reason would appear as clear as the noon-day sun. The real curative power of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA demonstrates itself in every case where our directions are faithfully regarded. We would that we might get before the people a fractional part of the confidence that is expressed to us every day in this medicine by those who have carefully noted (without prejudice) its effects upon the blood and through that upon the whole system, stimulating all the functions of the body to perform the duties nature requires of them. Try a bottle and satisfy yourself.

Cold Hands and Feet.

LOWELL, Feb. 3, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO. Gentlemen—About one year ago my daughter commenced taking your Sarsaparilla. At that time she had very little appetite; could take no long walks, and her face was badly broken out with a humor. She was low-spirited; troubled with cold hands and feet; her blood seemed to be poor, and she was in a condition which caused us great anxiety. After taking one bottle of your Sarsaparilla she began to improve; and she now has a good appetite and can take much longer walks. Her humor is nothing compared with what it was one year ago. She is in better spirits, is not troubled with cold hands and feet as previously. Am I attributing this improvement in her condition largely to your Sarsaparilla. She has taken six bottles, and intends to continue its use. I was inclined to oppose the trial of it at first. I now have great faith in it as a blood purifier. Very truly yours,

A. L. HINCKLEY,

DEATH OF LIEUT. COMDR. ANTHONY.

Lieutenant Commander Charles M. Anthony, United States navy, on the retired list, died at his residence on State street in this city on Sunday, after a long and painful illness.

He was appointed an acting ensign in the navy Dec. 18, 1863; was promoted to acting master in 1865, and commissioned a master in the navy March 12, 1888, and lieutenant in December of the same year; was commissioned lieutenant commander in 1878, and placed on the retired list in 1883, on account of physical disability resulting from exposure in the line of duty.

GEORGE KIMBALL JEWETT

Died in East Boston on the fifth inst. Mr. Jewett was for many years widely known as a prominent business man and capitalist of Bangor. To his efforts was largely due the construction of the European & North American railway, an enterprise which swept away a large portion of his previously acquired fortune. Mr. Jewett had been a bank president and a leading citizen of Bangor, and for many years was a member of the house of Jewett & March in that city. After his financial reverses Mr. Jewett removed to East Boston, where he engaged in extensive lumber operations in connection with his son, Nath'l March Jewett. The deceased was married to Marie L. March, daughter of the late Nathaniel B. March of this city, on the 21st of October, 1840. His widow survives him. Mr. Jewett had a large acquaintance and many friends throughout the country. He was a man of strict integrity, diligent in business, and of comprehensive views. His age was seventy-three years.

THE "SLING-SHOT" MUST GO.

Mr. Editor: I have been interested in reading the flock—or school, or swarm, or shower, or whatever the proper term may be—of communications which you have been giving us for two or three days. Not that my horse has ever been frightened by a football or tumbled over a pile of dirt thrown up in the street, as I have never driven him where such things were; in fact, I haven't got any horse, and never drive one or ride behind one anywhere, if I can avoid it. Neither has my wife's dress been soiled by a football, and she sauced by a small boy; my wife has no dress, I not having any wife. But when "Law and Order" talks about the breaking of windows he arouses my personal interest, I having suffered the same way.

Though I own no horse and am not owned by a wife, I do own a little house; this house is well tenanted, and of course I want to do whatever is right to keep my tenants. About two weeks ago the lady of the house notified me that two lights were broken in a chamber window, apparently from the outside, she having found glass on the floor. I at once left orders with a glazier to make the needed repairs, and meeting the lady on the street a day or two since, asked her if they had been done, to which she replied that they had, but that two more panes had since been broken in the same mysterious way. On further questioning I learned that she had several times seen boys in the streets near by, apparently snapping small missiles at birds with an implement made of a forked stick and piece of rubber; and there can be no doubt that my windows were broken, either in malice or wantonness, by stones thrown from these "catapults," as the boys call them.

I am a working mechanic, and cannot afford to pay for mending windows needlessly broken, every week. The use or display of these catapults on the streets should be prohibited by ordinance, and the police instructed to summarily confiscate any they saw, and in case of a "kick" to lock the offenders up at once. Similar measures were effective in promptly suppressing the "devil's fiddle" of six or seven years ago, though I believe Mayor Sise acted without waiting for any vote of the board of aldermen, taking the ground that as chief executive of the city it was not only within his powers but was his bounden duty to suppress any palpable and dangerous nuisance whether such nuisance was specifically mentioned in the statutes or not.

JACKPLANE.

Mr. Editor: It may seem really cruel to the city fathers and the friends of our "Reform City Government," that a constant string of complaints are pouring in from one source and another; but when one is constantly annoyed by being either hit by pebbles snapped from the so-called sling-shots; in danger also, at all times when passing through the public streets, and by having parlor windows broken by them, (as thrown from these weapons, in the hands of about nine boys out of ten, and as was case with your complainant Thursday afternoon, when a window glass, 12x24 inches, was shattered,) I for one think the cruelty is imposed on the public, and that it is high time the city fathers took the matter in hand and endeavored to put a stop to the nuisance; otherwise the city may be called upon to reimburse one of its SUFFERERS.

AKERSTROM.

The visitors to Music hall the past week have greatly enjoyed the varied roles in which Miss Ullie Akerstrom has appeared.

The charm of her acting has consisted in the natural manner of her portrayals of characters, and the entire absence of the "stagey" style so frequently seen. In a novel by a celebrated writer an eminent singer is made to say, "Sometimes my enemies write in their journals that I 'Sing as if I was a Tuscan peasant, strolling through his corn.' How proud they make me! But they do not mean to do so."

The representations of Akerstrom are given, it would seem, solely with a view to represent the character she assumes, not herself. There is no fussiness or posing for effect, no apparent effort at by-play, but a fixedness of purpose, an intent study of her part as it should be rendered, which gives promise of a brilliant career for this already successful actress.

The repertoire for this week is one that can satisfy all ranges of dramatic enjoyment. There will be nothing below the high standard of leading dramatic representations to be found at Music hall this week,—except the prices of admission.

The trustees of the Rice public library of Kittery held a meeting in this city on Saturday.

The Portsmouth Brewing Co. have put in a new copper boiling kettle of 200 barrels capacity that is second to none in the state, and which with the new refrigerator that is located on the easterly corner of the second story from Bow street, will be ready for use in about a week. The kettle and refrigerator are put in by the firm that similarly supplied the Jones brewery.

NOTES OF THE STORM.

During the blow of Monday of last week a shed on the Rollins place in Newington, attached to the barn, was taken up from its foundations and carried about seventy-five feet in a northerly direction, and piled up promiscuously in the lane leading from the Patterson road to the Rollins place. A large elm tree, over three feet in diameter, was blown down across the Bloody Point road.

At North Hampton a resident in going from his house at noon saw his hat taken from his head, borne aloft in the air, carried over his barn, and sent a great distance from the point of uncovering.

The sea came through the pile of rocks between the fish houses at Rye and Little Boar's head, and the water stood in the road over two feet deep. The ocean waves at this point were a sight to behold in their unusual gambols.

On the application and in consequence of the representations of Senator Blair and Col. William H. Hackett, the first assistant postmaster general last week issued orders establishing a post-office at West Rye, and appointing Mr. Charles D. Garland postmaster thereof.

Palma Sola, Florida.

The paradise of invalids! The home of tropical fruits! Climate unsurpassed! No frost! No extremes of heat or cold! No malaria! Ground high and dry! Plenty of pure water and the finest hunting and fishing in America.

PALMA SOLA has the name of being the largest, prettiest and youngest town in Florida. It is beautifully located on the Gulf Coast, two miles above the Manatee River. Already the iron horse is wending its way to Palma Sola, and soon the tourist will arrive at its first-class hotel, where he can get a meal to suit his epicurean tastes.

Palma Sola possesses the largest store in Southern Florida, with sawmill, furniture manufactory, packing houses, warehouses, churches, school house, postoffice, stores, beautiful residences, and a large wharf at which ocean steamers arrive daily from Tampa.

WARREN LELAND, Jr., of "Long Branch" fame, has secured a location at Palma Sola for the erection of a winter resort. The prediction is a sure one, based as it is upon the natural advantages and attractions of the place, that he will make this the "LONG BRANCH" of FLORIDA, and other large hotels will be built.

With the completion of the railroad, this will be the terminus, and the direct route to Havana, Cuba. Lots will double and quadruple their present prices. Now is the time to buy.

LOTS 100x300 ft $45 to $200 per lot. We want PALMA SOLA to keep booming, and as an inducement to the public, and to thoroughly advertise this beautiful place, WE WILL GIVE AWAY a LIMITED number ONLY of our lots, giving lots ALTERNATELY as they come (corners excepted) charging applicants the expense of deed, transfer, etc., which will not exceed $12.50. Applicants can send postal money order with application to insure promptness, otherwise deeds will be sent C. O. D. Applicants must not be surprised at the return of their money, as being LIMITED the first come will be first served. Title perfect. Full warranty deed.

An Internal Revolution

Which enables the stomach to throw off the yoke of dyspepsia, is effected through the aid of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a most efficient ally in warring with all disorders which affect the digestive organs, the liver and the bowels. When the dyspeptic experiences heartburn, wind on the stomach, or any other familiar symptoms of his malady, a wineglassful of this matchless stomachic will dissipate them, and a pursuance of the remedy bring about a cure. Constipation and biliousness, evils to the relief of which aperients and catharitcs are inadequate, also yield to this fine alterative. The restoration of appetite and nightly repose, and the disappearance of those nervous symptoms that habitually annoy the chronic sufferer from dyspepsia, also ensue upon the use of the Bitters, which is likewise a standard remedy and preventive of fever and ague, rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles and debility.

Our New York Letter.

A ROUGH WINTER; A WINTER OF STRIPES; MIXING THINGS; NOVEMBER NOTES.

There is a rage for roughness. Bourette dottings are eminently rough, and eminently fashionable, therefore, are bourette dottings. A joy to thin people, who thus be-sprinkled, go forth respectably plump members of society. Self colored dottings roughen redingotes, jackets and mantelets, while material woven in self colored or contrasting dots, serves as a welcome offset to smoother goods for dresses. As a later addition, comes porcupine cloth, where mohair threads stiffly out from loose woven foundation, or, again, where coarse twinelike threads are laid in bars or stripes and held together by cross stitches. The roughest of twills are liked because rough, and sometimes show hairy finishings. Of the boncle and frize fabrics, so much is said that the subject grows monotonous, yet to omit them this winter would be like presenting Hamlet without the Prince. Astrakan cloths they are sometimes called, because the curled and looping threads simulate the same, and thus variously provided, one need not travel a rough road in search of roughness. The way is easy and many are its travellers.

STRIPES.

There is a rage for stripes. They run from narrow to widths of three inches, and differences of color keep pace with breadths. In the narrow, we often see intensely bright and varied hues set close together, but where broad columns appear there is cautious departure, if any, from a monotone. As a stripe producing element, the diverse textures of the day come in most aptly. Bourette dottings are woven in columns, on plain fabrics; boncle and frize loopings are likewise set; brocaded patterns are crowded together in vertical lines, and not only so, but alternations appear of different goods, as where plush, velvet or silken stripes combine with wool. These give the key-note to what is a notable feature this season. It needs but a glance to know that it is a winter of combinations, and often most unwonted unions, a logical result of the bringing out of so much that is too rough or pronouncedly striped to be worn alone. Some rich, imported dresses of silk and velvet are combined with cotton etamine. This is an extreme case, but not more so than ribbons, where plush stripes are side by side with wool and cotton of very thin gauze surfaces. Mantelets of wool are stylishly worn with silk costumes; wool in general never occupied quite so high a position, and the indications are that woollen redingotes will take precedence of silk. There is a rage for cloth, and foremost of this rage, dull red cloth; red cloth jackets are decidedly "the thing" for young ladies, and lit up by gilt braid and gilt military buttons will add to the aggressive, military look now sought after.

NOVEMBER NOTES.

In millinery, there is a marked prominence of wool. Jersey webbing lies plainly over the frame, brocaded wool can be puffed or lie plain, or plain wool can be used as a prelude to wool or silk brocade.———Palm Kosmeo, which has attracted such wide-spread attention among ladies because of its remarkable efficacy in preserving the complexion and preventing wrinkles, is not a cosmetic but an unguent to be used at night and absorbed by the skin during sleep. It is also excellent for chapped hands and lips.

———There is a rage for wooden beads. They appear as component parts of thick woollen ribbons, are placed in all sorts of ways on bonnets, diversify dresses in large singleness at intervals or in smaller groupings, but of all styles of wearing, the most popular, perhaps, are the fringes of wooden beads which mildly jingle with every movement.

York is rapidly becoming one of the most attractive and desirable summer resorts on the New England coast, and the constantly increasing demand for building lots has caused a rapid advance in the value of real estate. Among the recent sales there is that of the Baker lot, so called, at York harbor, to Francis A. Peters, Esq., of Boston, for $4250, on which Mr. Peters will erect the coming season a fine residence.

If there ever was a specific for any one complaint then Carter's Little Liver Pills are a specific for sick headache, and every woman should know this. They are not only a positive cure, but a sure preventive if taken when the approach is felt. Carter's Little Liver Pills act directly on the liver and bile, and in this way remove the cause of disease without first making you sick by a weakening purge. If you try them you will not be disappointed.

The store of C. E. Hayes in Durham was entered last Thursday night by way of a cellar window, and cigars, tobacco, blankets, etc., to the amount of $50, stolen. After ransacking the store the thieves set it on fire, but the flames were seen and extinguished before much damage was done.

Only a Step.

When catarrh has progressed to a certain extent, it is only a step to that terribly fatal disease, consumption. If you have catarrh, even slightly, is is a terrible mistake to allow it to continue its course unchecked. If you will only read, you will find conclusive reasons why you should take Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, in the statement of many people who have been completely cured of this disease in its most severe form. Send for book containing abundant evidence, to C. I. Hood & Co., proprietors of Hood's Sarsaparilla, Lowell, Mass.

From Major Downs, Military Instructor, Mt. Pleasant Academy, Sing Sing, N. Y.: During the very cold weather I was suffering with catarrh. My head and throat ached so severely that I was obliged to keep quiet. Ely's Cream Balm was suggested. Within an hour from the application I felt relieved, the pain began to subside. In a few days I was entirely cured.—W. A. Downs. Price 50 cts.

—A conceited person's story extends as far as the eye (I) can reach.

Be Careful!

No matter what disease you may have. Be sure that the medicine you take is reliable. Such a medicine you will always find Sulphur Bitters. They are not a cheap rum drink, but are made of the choicest roots and herbs to be found in in the vegetable kingdom. — Daily Argus.

BILIOUSNESS.

Bilious symptoms invariably arise from indigestion, such as furred tongue, vomiting of bile, giddiness, sick headache, irregular bowels. The liver secretes the bile and acts like a filter or sieve, to cleanse impurities of the blood. By irregularity in its action or suspensions of its functions, the bile is liable to overflow into the blood, causing jaundice, sallow complexion, yellow eyes, bilious diarrhœa, a languid, weary feeling and many other distressing symptoms. Biliousness may be properly termed an affection of the liver, and can be thoroughly cured by the grand regulator of the liver and biliary organs, BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. Act upon the stomach, bowels and liver, making healthy bile and pure blood, and opens the culverts and sluiceways for the outlet of disease. Sold everywhere and guaranteed to cure.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1860, my first patent. Since then, you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

Tired and Languid Women.

How many women there are of whom these words are true: "They feel languid and tired, hardly able to bear their weight on their feet, the bloom all gone from their cheeks, irritable and cross without meaning to be, nerves all upset, worried with the children, fretted over little things, a burden to themselves, and yet with no acute disease." What a pity it is. But a few bottles of Parker's Tonic will drive all this away, and relieve the troubles peculiar to their sex.

LONGEVITY IN NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Statistics show that New Hampshire is pre-eminently the home of the centenarian, nonagenarian and octogenarian, of hale and hearty old men who began life with the republic. Indeed, so numerous are the veterans of the war of 1812 in some of the remote towns of the Granite State that a popular impression prevails there that "the last war," as it is still called by these warriors of bygone days, was fought entirely by New Hampshire regiments, and that from Lundy's Lane to the battle of New Orleans they carried the American banner to the front on every hard-contested field. Many theories have been spun as to why people should live to be older in New Hampshire than in Vermont or Maine. Of course, there must be some good reason for it. Perhaps it is because they take better care of their health and understand what is the right medicine for the right disease. Such at least would seem to be the inference from the following account by Charles M. Lampner, Esq., a well-known attorney and counsellor, of Hampton, N. H., of how he was cured of rheumatism:

"I have had several attacks of rheumatism within the last thirty years," he says, "and have got rid of them the best I could with the help of good physicians. The last attack, which began in April, 1884, was the severest. I was daily under the care of the doctor, who gave me the best attention to relieve me of the severe pain and to relax the contracted muscles. I was taken in the back of the neck. In a few days the pain moved down into the limbs, and in the course of three weeks had run all through the joints from head to foot. At the commencement of the fourth week it had apparently settled down to stay all over me from the back of the head to the toes, and I was unable to move any part of the body except the right hand at the wrist joints. The day before, Deacon Hobbs, a neighbor, who had been suffering for several months with rheumatism, sent me word that he was taking Athlophoros and that it was doing him good. My father accordingly sent to Boston for a bottle. It was brought into the house at 8 o'clock in the evening and found me lying in bed like a corpse.

"I was about to give up the ghost and of course was ready to take anything in hopes that it might do some good. A dose was administered and three hours later another. My hearing became obtuse and my head confused. I dropped into a sleep and slept all night. The next morning after waking I found the pain had could move any part of the body. In the course of three hours I sat upright without any assistance. I continued to take the medicine every three hours through the day and a part of the next day and then stopped.

"In a few days I had very severe rheumatic pains in the thumb, and when I went to bed one dose was administered. I slept all night and in the morning the pain was gone. A few days later it returned in the left hand very seriously. On retiring one dose was taken, followed by sleep and no pain in the morning. The whole amount of medicine taken was one and a half bottles, and I have had no occasion to use any since. I consider that the Athlophoros saved my life and I recommend it to all who have rheumatic troubles."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if you haven't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed. ATHLOPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York.

THE DARK DAY.

May 19, 1780—New England's Black Friday.

May 19, 1780. That was during our revolution, you remember, and the same year in which the traitor Benedict Arnold attempted to betray his country to his enemies. For several days before the 19th the air was full of vapors, as we often see it when the fires are raging in the woods near us, and the sun and moon appeared red, and their usual clear light did not reach us especially when rising and setting. The wind blew chiefly from the southwest and northeast, and the weather was cool and clear. The morning of the 19th was dusky, and in many places slight showers fell, sometimes accompanied by thunder and lightning; but as the sun arose it did not increase the light, and the darkness deepened, until the children standing before the tall clocks could not see to tell the time, and the older people peering over the Almanac were unable to distinguish the letters. The birds sang their evening songs and flew to their nests in the woods, the poultry hurried to their roosts, while the cattle in the field uttered strange cries, and leaped the stone fences to gain their stalls, and the sheep all huddled together bleating piteously.

Color, which you know depends upon the light of the sun, filled many with astonishment by its unusual appearance, for the clouds were in some places of a light red, yellow and brown, the leaves of the trees and the grass in the meadows were of the deepest green, verging on indigo, the brightest silver seemed tarnished, and everything that is white in the sunlight bore a deep yellow hue. The shadows, which before noon fell to the westward and afternoon to the eastward, were observed in the increasing darkness to fall in every direction. The rain also was unlike any other rain, and it set all the people to wondering as they dipped it from tubs and barrels, for a scum formed on it resembling burnt leaves, emitting a sooty smell, and this same substance was seen on rivers, especially on the Merrimac, where it lay four or five inches thick for many miles along the shore. Another peculiarity was the vapor; in many localities it descended to the earth from high in the atmosphere, but at one point a gentleman saw the vapors at 9 o'clock rising from the spring, and low lands; one column he particularly noticed rapidly ascending far above the higher hills, then it spread into a large white cloud and sailed off to the westward; and a second cloud formed in the spring, but did not rise as high as the first, and a third formed fifteen minutes afterward. At a quarter of 10 o'clock the uppermost cloud was of a reddish hue, the second was green indigo and blue, and the third was almost white. So unwholesome was this vapor that small birds were suffocated in it, and many of them so frightened and stupefied that they flew into the houses, adding to the fear of ignorant people, who consider it a bad sign for a bird to enter a dwelling.

The commencement of the darkness was between 10 and 11 o'clock in the forenoon, when the men were busy in the fields, offices and workshops, the women spinning, weaving and preparing dinner, and the children at school, or helping their parents at home, and it continued until the middle of the following night; but the degree of darkness varied; in some places the disk of the sun was seen when the darkness was most dense. Lights were seen in all the houses, and the people in passing out of doors carried lanterns and torches, which were curiously reflected on the overhanging clouds.

Thousands of people were sure that the end of the world had come; many dropped their work and fell on their knees to pray; others confessed to their fellows the wrongs they had done, and endeavored to make restitution. The meeting-houses were crowded, and neighboring prayer-meetings were formed, and the ministers and old church members prayed long prayers, mentioning the nations and individuals of Bible times who had been destroyed on account of their sins, and begging that as God spared the great city of Nineveh when it repented, so he would forgive them, cheer them again by the light of the sun, and give victory to their armies.

It is said that the Connecticut legislature being in session, the members became terrified, and when they could not see each other's faces a motion was made to adjourn, when Mr. Davenport arose and said:

"Mr. Speaker, it is either the day of judgment, or it is not. If it is not there is no need of adjournment. If it is, I desire to be found doing my duty. I move that candles be brought, and that we proceed to business."

All the shivering, frightened people began now to look forward for evening, hoping that, as the moon rose at 9 o'clock her light would penetrate the gloom; but all the children who coaxed to sit up and see her, grew very sleepy; their strained eyes were not rewarded by her beautiful beam, for at 9 o'clock in the evening the darkness was total; they could not distinguish between the earth and heavens, and it was impossible to see a hand before one's face. Then all the weary children were sent to bed, after the most earnest prayers that they had ever prayed, and the older people sat up to watch for the light that never before had appeared so glorious.

And never dawned a fairer morning than the 20th of May, for the sun that opened the flowers and mirrored itself in the dewdrops brought the color again to the children's faces, and filled every heart with confidence. The birds sang joyously, the cattle returned to their pastures, and everyone went about his work more gentle toward man and more grateful toward God.

After the darkness was passed several persons traveled about to gather all possible information concerning this memorable day, and Dr. Tenny wrote an account of what he learned while on a journey from the East to Pennsylvania. He says the deepest darkness was in Essex county, Mass., the lower part of New Hampshire and the eastern portion of Maine. In Rhode Island and Connecticut it was not so great; in New Jersey peculiar clouds were observed, but the darkness was not uncommon, and in the lower parts of Pennsylvania nothing peculiar was observed. It extended as far north as the American settlements, and westwardly to Albany, but its exact limits could not be ascertained. In Boston the darkness continued fourteen or fifteen hours, varying in duration at other places.

As it was impossible to attribute the darkness to an eclipse, the wise people formed many theories respecting it; being convinced that it was due to immense fires in the woods, winds blowing in opposite directions, and to the condition of vapors, but Herschel says: "The dark day in North America was one of those wonderful phenomena of nature which will always be read with interest, but which philosophy is at a loss to explain." — Mrs. Coburn in American Rural Home.

He went to the mountains, but receiving no benefit, at his wife's request began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. He immediately began to improve; in two months his rheumatism was all gone, and he sailed in command of his vessel a well man. Hood's Sarsaparilla will help you. Sold by all druggists.

Passed Assistant Engineer C. J. Habighurst and Assistant Engineers C. C. Kleckner and William C. Herbert have been ordered to proceed to Chester and report to Chief Engineer Dungan for duty in connection with the unfinished cruisers.

The simples in the laboratory of nature are health giving. What can be more reviving than the odor of the pine forests? And when it is remembered that St. Jacobs Oil has in it the essential elements which give this life and strength, it can well be understood what a boon it is to the afflicted.

Assistant Engineer Alexander S. Halstead and Ensign John M. Ellicott have been ordered to proceed to the Mare Island navy yard, and report for duty on the United States steamer Ranger.

Taking Things

For granted is just as bad as stealing. This was the witty remark of H. N. Gridley, who for fifty-five years was bookkeeper for one establishment in Boston, and whose experience caused him to doubt the correctness of anything until it was proved. Now the G. O. Taylor Whiskey must not be taken for granted, as that would be stealing, but it can be bought for a small sum of money, and easily proved to be the finest, purest brand of whiskey ever sold. Bottled only by C. H. Graves & Sons, Boston, and sold by reputable grocers and druggists everywhere.

West Point Cadetship.

Hon. Martin A. Haynes gives notice that a nomination of candidate for appointment as cadet at West Point will be decided by competitive examination, open to every qualified person. Hon. Wm. E. Buck, superintendent of public instruction, Manchester, Hon. Channing Folsom, superintendent of schools, Dover, and J. G. Dearborn, of Manchester, will constitute the examining board, and the examination will be held in the city of Manchester, Dec. 2d. The candidate must be an actual bona-fide resident of the first congressional district of New Hampshire, and between the ages of seventeen and twenty-two years. Those contemplating examination will be furnished more definite information by addressing M. A. Haynes, at Lake Village.

The great journalistic success of the present time, in New England, is the Boston Globe, which from being a nonpaying venture for the first few years of its existence, and a poor-paying one for several years more, has since it became the property of its present owners rapidly increased in circulation, until now it has a daily issue of over 70,000, the Sunday edition running up to 85,000 or 90,000, and steadily increasing. This remarkable prosperity is the legitimate result of energy, enterprise and judicious foresight, neither expense nor trouble having been spared to make the paper a "news" paper of the first class. In politics the Globe is bad—that is, democratic; yet not so very bad, for it is always squarely democratic, without wobbling, so that one always knows where to find it, and though an earnest opponent of republicanism, it aims to be a just and honorable one. The Sunday edition is an immense affair, its principal objection being the enormous amount of reading matter furnished in it. The establishment has largely outgrown its present quarters, and will shortly erect a building between its present location and the Advertiser office, which it is intended shall furnish the Globe the best possible workshop in all departments, and be an ornament to the city.

The World's Albany correspondent maintains that Gov. Hill will show the world how to run an administration on democratic principles,—that is, independent of all other than democratic politicians. With a legislature of a different stamp he probably will have a good time.

Secretary Whitney thinks that Admiral Jouett accomplished so much with the North Atlantic squadron last winter, that he should at once be sent to Aspinwall, to watch matters there. The admiral's series of naval manœuvres at Tampa bay projected for the winter, and the rendezvous at Fortress Monroe, are to be postponed for a stay at the isthmus, where possibly there may be need of the presence of the squadron in connection with the canal interests in that uncomfortable locality.

The schooner W. H. Middleton arrived at the navy yard on Saturday, with 450 tons of coal for the department of construction, on the contract of J. Albert Walker.

The schooner Louisa A. Boardman, of Calais, Me., was on Monday loading with apples at Appledore (steamboat) wharf. There were about twenty vessels at the north end wharves on Monday afternoon.

The "pinque" Hope, of Gloucester, Mass., Capt. Charles Coffin, was lying near the Spring market on Monday. She had on board preserved mackerel and other fish put up in packages convenient for trade at the up-river towns. She will purchase apples and potatoes for a return cargo, and will take about 400 bushels.

The schooner Bonita arrived on Sunday night from Lynnsville, Mass., having set her trawls in Ipswich bay. The schooner Eva May, of Rockport, netter, arrived on Monday with 12,000 lbs. of fish; reported sold to E. Newton & Co.

A. W. Sulloway has paused from considering claims of rural aspirants for the United States marshalship long enough to have his hosiery mill at Franklin fitted for admission to the Manufacturers' Mutual Ins. All the pupils from the third district who have been attending the grammar school in the academy were on Monday transferred to the Haven school, which is within the limits of the district named.

Mayor Eldredge on Monday instructed the city marshal to arrest and have punished any boy found using a "sling-shot" or "catapult," concerning which we have published several communications; and the teachers of the public schools were instructed to inform their pupils of the order.

Our citizens are much to be congratulated on having an opportunity on Wednesday evening, November 11th, of listening to a lecture on temperance by Miss Frances P. York is rapidly becoming one of the most attractive and desirable summer resorts on the New England coast, and the constantly increasing demand for building lots has caused a rapid advance in the value of real estate. Among the recent sales there is that of the Baker lot, so called, at York harbor, to Francis A. Peters, Esq., of Boston, for $4250, on which Mr. Peters will erect the coming season a fine residence.

LIEUT. COMDR. ANTHONY'S FUNERAL.

A special meeting of DeWitt Clinton Commandry of Knights Templar will be held this afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, preparatory to attending the funeral of Sir Knight Charles M. Anthony at his late residence on State street, at three o'clock. The interment will take place at New Bedford, to which place the remains will be accompanied to-morrow morning by a delegation of Templars.

Lieut. Comdr. Anthony was a member and senior warden of DeWitt Clinton Commandry of Knights Templar, and a member of St. Andrew's Lodge, Washington Chapter and Davenport Council; was dictator of Sagamore Lodge, Knights of Honor, and commander of St. George Council, American Legion of Honor; and was a member of Storer Post, G. A. R. In all these organizations he was an active, working member, and will be much missed.

He was a thorough seaman and excellent officer, a good citizen, a warm friend, and a devoted husband and father.

THE SHIP ELIZABETH HAMILTON.

The old ship Elizabeth Hamilton, built on the Piscataqua, and fired at sea and abandoned a few years ago, has been the subject of a legal controversy for many years, which was brought to a close in the supreme court at New York last week after a trial that lasted nine days before Justice Van Voorst and a jury. The mate of the vessel, which was leaking at the time she was abandoned, was convicted on a charge of destroying her in order to prevent an examination being made prior to her owners' demanding payment of the insurance. In August, 1873, the ship was purchased for $19,000 from Edwin Atkins by James Bigler, of Newburg. In January, 1875, Mr. Bigler sued Mr. Atkins for $80,000 damages, alleging that the Elizabeth Hamilton was in a leaky condition at the time of the purchase, and that this fact had been concealed. Justice Donohue dismissed the complaint in 1883. It was carried to the general term and a new trial ordered. The defendant sought to prove that the vessel was sound at the time of the sale, calling fourteen witnesses to establish this, but a verdict of $13,000 was rendered for the plaintiff.

The Elizabeth Hamilton was built in 1847 by the late William L. Hauscom, afterward a naval constructor, at his yard in Eliot, opposite the Rollins farm in Newington, for Messrs. William Jones & Son. She was of 742 tons measurement, and considered of excellent model, being a fast sailer and good carrier, and was for many years commanded by the late Capt. Thomas Jones.

LEAKY BOILERS.

We take the following item from the Army and Navy Journal of last week:

Advices from Norfolk, Va., state that the U. S. S. Vandalia, which has been undergoing repairs at the Portsmouth, N. H., navy yard for some time, has been discovered to have very leaky boilers, and as soon as possible the vessel will be brought to the Norfolk, Va., navy yard to have them patched up. The ship is in such a condition that it is inexpedient to put in new boilers, but by patching, with the overhauling and general repairs now being made, it is thought she will last for two years' more cruising before going to "rotten row." It is understood that Captain Henry L. Howison will command the Vandalia when that vessel is ready for sea in about two months.

The Vandalia's boilers are bran-new, and at this writing (Monday, Nov. 9th,) have never had steam raised in them. If they are in such bad condition as to need patching up before being used, the Norfolk navy yard would hardly be the place to have the work done, as the boilers were made there, and brought to this yard to be put in the ship. A skilled boiler-maker who has been engaged in placing the boilers informs us that they seem to be very fair ones, though the workmanship is not up to the standard of that done at this yard; and that they will probably be tested by steam on Wednesday.

It is quite likely the Galena is the ship intended to be referred to, that vessel having recently had her boilers tinkered at this yard, along with other temporary repairs made; but if her boilers are not in as good condition as they can be put in, it is not the fault of the mechanics or the officers at the yard, it having been represented to the department some ten days before she sailed from here that her boilers needed a number of new tubes, and other repairs more than had been done, but orders were not sent to do the work.

Worcester, Nashua & Rochester.

There is much in the papers concerning the proposed lease of this road to the Boston & Maine. There is some doubt expressed if the stockholders of the latter road will contentedly see their corporation, little by little, become absorbed in entangling alliances which will benefit a few but will hazard their own dividends. From a great mass of matter which appeared on Monday we extract the following:

A stockholder of the Eastern, who was asked if he thought his company would ratify the lease, said he presumed so, for the necessary influences were probably secured in advance. But he thought there would be some opposition until it is seen that the great profit in the deal has been made for the benefit of the Boston & Maine and Eastern stockholders. He did not permit himself to doubt that this will in due time appear. His reasons for thinking so are these: Hon. Frank Jones is a director of the Boston & Maine. About a year ago a syndicate, headed by Mr. Charles A. Sinclair, a near relative of Mr. Jones, began buying the stock of the Worcester & Rochester road for from $50 to $60 a share. After securing a majority they took control, and yet continued to buy stock. This indicates that they were looking beyond a mere change of management. When the stock reached about par they bought all that the city of Nashua owned, and continued to buy of individuals.

Various rumors then filled the air that one road after another was trying to secure this one. Under the stimulus of these rumors the stock continued to advance. When it had reached 120 or thereabouts the Boston & Maine bargained for a lease, agreeing to pay a rental equivalent to the fixed charges of $83,000 a year and 5 1-2 per cent on the full authorized capital of $3,000,000. There are in the treasury 4805 shares that have never been issued. They stand in the balance sheet at $60 each. It is said that they will be sold and the proceeds divided among the stockholders. The outstanding shares number 26,193. Since the syndicate began operations these have advanced in value $75 a share. This makes $1,963,400. If the shares in the treasury are sold at 135, the proceeds will be $648,675. These two items added aggregate $2,612,670, and this represents the syndicate's profits up to the present time.

Now, of course, Mr. Jones, as a director of the Boston & Maine, has engineered all this for the benefit of his company. The other directors, at least one of whom is a l of the Eastern, would never have consented to place a fixed charge of $250,000 a year ahead of the right of the Eastern stockholders to receive dividends, unless they had believed two things: First, that the rental would be earned by the road under a more advantageous management, notwithstanding it never has been before; and, second, that by holding aloof until the stock reached a high figure and then helping it to go higher by taking a lease, they could influence their friends composing the syndicate to turn the principal share of the profits into the Boston & Maine treasury. It may be objected, said this gentleman, that directors are chosen to operate the road and not to operate in stocks; but if they can add to the earnings of a poor year $2,000,000 or such a matter, that has been made by reason of the commanding position and credit of the consolidated properties under their control, he thought very few stockholders would trouble themselves about the ethics of speculation or the law of ultra vires.

Over 4000 shares of Eastern railroad stock were sold at the brokers' board in Boston on Monday, the 9th inst., at 57 to 57 1-2.

Palma Sola, Florida.

The paradise of invalids! The home of tropical fruits! Climate unsurpassed! No frost! No extremes of heat or cold! No malaria! Ground high and dry! Plenty of pine! and the finest hunting and fishing in America.

PALMA SOLA has the name of being the largest, prettiest and youngest town in Florida. Is beautifully located on the Gulf Coast, two miles above the Manatee River. Already the iron horse is wending its way to Palma Sola, and soon the tourist will arrive at its first-class hotel, where he can get a meal to suit his epicurean taste.

Palma Sola possesses the largest store in Southern Florida, with sawmill, furniture manufactory, packing houses, warehouses, churches, school house, postoffice, stores, beautiful residences, and a large wharf at which ocean steamers arrive daily from Tampa.

WARREN LELAND, Jr., of "Long Branch" fame, has secured a location at Palma Sola for the erection of a winter resort. The prediction is a safe one, based as it is upon the natural advantages and attractions of the place, that he will make this the "LONG BRANCH" of FLORIDA, and other large hotels will be built.

With the completion of the railroad, this will be the terminus, and the direct route to Havana, Cuba. Lots will double and quadruple their present prices. Now is the time to buy.

LOTS 100x300 ft $45 to $200 per lot. We want PALMA SOLA to keep booming, and as an inducement to the public, and to thoroughly advertise this beautiful place, WE WILL GIVE AWAY A LIMITED number ONLY of our lots, giving lots ALTERNATELY as they come (corners excepted) charging applicants the expense of deed, transfer, etc., which will not exceed $2.00. Applicants can send postal money order with application to insure promptness, otherwise deeds will be sent C. O. D. Applicants must not be surprised at the return of their money, as being LIMITED the first come will be first served. Title perfect. Full warranty deed.

What Will Surely Do It.

One's hair begins to fall out from many cases. The important question is: What is sure to make it grow in again? According to the testimony of thousands, Parker's Hair Balsam will do it. It quickly covers bald spots, restores the original color when the hair is gray or faded, eradicates dandruff and causes the scalp to feel cool and well. It is not a dye, not greasy, highly perfumed, safe. Never disappoints those who require a nice, reliable dressing.

Albert Cardoza died in New York on the 8th inst., aged fifty-seven years. He was an ex-judge of the supreme court of New York, being on the bench with Barnard and McGunn, the three being owned by Jim Fisk and Boss Tweed. After Fisk's death and Tweed's overthrow, all three of them were impeached; Barnard and McGunn were kicked out, but Cardoza had sense enough to resign without standing a trial.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office." EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1840, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

It is told by Tobias Lear that when General Washington first complained of his cold he advised him to take something. "No," answered Washington, "you know I never take anything for a cold; let it go as it came." But it went to his lungs, and in a few days the nation mourned the loss of its father. How significant the warning? Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup can be obtained of every druggist.

TWO RIVAL CITIES.

In the long and at times bitter rivalry between Connecticut's two biggest cities—Hartford and New Haven—honors now seem to be pretty equally divided. Hartford has secured the State Capital, one of the most beautiful in the country, situated in a lovely park, but New Haven has gone ahead in population. In the political rivalry between the two, also New Haven, by her Democratic majority, has succeeded in putting the dim little State on the list of those that voted for President Cleveland. Hartford, however, is just now proud of having had her many charms set forth at length, with plenty of illustrations, in the pages of Harpers' Magazine, and so the struggle goes on. Brains will succeed in putting one or the other city ahead, and just here it may be said that New Haven has an exceptionally brainy bar. But, then, Hartford has more literary people—Charles Dudley Warner, Mark Twain, Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe and others. Among the able lawyers of New Haven is Edward A. Anketell, the assistant clerk of the Superior Court, who office is No. 10 in the Court House. Mr. Anketell is well known to the legal profession throughout Connecticut and is also the reputation of being a favored writer for the press. As such this little story, coming from him under date of September 24, 1885, possesses no slight interest:

"Day before yesterday, and for a day or two prior thereto, I suffered great pain in my right arm, which I felt sure was rheumatic. Being determined to do something to relieve the pain if possible I sent out and got a bottle of Athlophoros, and took three doses during the day. Yesterday morning the pain was nearly gone and one more dose completed the cure, so that to-day my arm is as well as ever."

Mr. Anketell was wise in taking such prompt measures to check the pain. Doubtless if Mr. Morris Hobbs, of Hampton, N. H., had known of the existence of Athlophoros, the rheumatism from which he suffered would have been cured with equal speed long ago. Mr. Hobbs thus tells the story of his cure:

"I had the rheumatism nine months before I heard of your Athlophoros. I was present all that time and could do nothing. I had several doctors, but they did no good. I tried all the medicine I could hear of with no better results. At last I saw Athlophoros advertised and sent for some. On the day it arrived I took three doses in the afternoon before I went to bed, and that night I slept as well as I did when a boy. It seemed to kill the pain at once, and I never have been troubled since. My joints were badly swollen at the time, but as soon as the pain stopped the swelling began to go down very gradually. I am satisfied that if I had taken Athlophoros when I was first troubled with the disease it would have saved me $300 in expenses, time and pain.

"I have recommended it to several others in this place with equally good results. One case was that of a boy 16 years old, who was so badly afflicted with rheumatism that his father had to carry him up stairs to bed for two weeks. His mother came to me to inquire about Athlophoros. I advised her to get it at once by all means and she did. In two days after taking the medicine the boy was out at play with other boys, being entirely cured and has been well ever since.

"If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it of your druggist, but if he doesn't fit, do not be persuaded to try some thing else, but order at once from us as directed. ATHLOPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York.

Land Grants to Railroads.

In some instances these roads have been partially constructed, in others no attempt has been made to build, yet in all cases the entire grant is claimed, and the lands thus covered are withheld from settlement. The Supreme Court of the United States having decided that "a failure to complete the road within the time fixed in the grant does not forfeit the grant," the lands thus withheld must remain so until by act of Congress the respective unearned grants are declared forfeited. It has been truly affirmed "that title to nearly one hundred million acres of land, rightfully belonging to the people of this country, is in a condition that it may, by crafty entanglement of law, be confirmed in the interest of grasping and corporate monopolies; yet Congress remains passive, refusing to assert the rights of the people, although well advised of the imperative necessity for action."

A fair illustration that the government is or has been in danger of losing these lands is the case of the "Backbone" grant, made in 1871 to the New Orleans, Vicksburg, and Baton Rouge Railroad. One of the conditions of the grant was that the road should be completed in five years. Not a yard of earth was ever moved by this company. They did, however, issue and sell bonds, then transferred the grant to the New Orleans and Pacific road, which company sold its charter rights to the Texas Pacific, reserving its assigned grant, and transferring it to the American Improvement Company. The "Backboners" have repeatedly importuned Congress for confirmation, always meeting with refusal. The culmination of this affair shows how great the power and how little the care exercised by high officials in disposing of or protecting the public lands. During the last few weeks of the retiring administration there was great and unusual animation noticeable in the General Land Department. Extra clerks were busy night and day filling out papers with precipitous haste; and when the present secretary assumed control of the office the mill was still in full blast, grinding out what proved to be patents for lands of this "Backbone" grant, seven hundred thousand acres of which were already deeded, every revolution of the wheels severing from the public domain, without adequate, if any, compensation, great tracts of land. At once the machinery was ordered stopped, saving to the government thousands of acres, and inaugurating, it is to be hoped, a new era in the methods of disposing of that portion of our public domain which still remains.

The wanton and wholesale plunder of our public lands the past twenty years furnishes material for the most astounding chapter of American history.

In what terms we may fitly characterize a system which permits one man, by questionable methods, to secure a grant of lands covering a narrow strip extending for miles along the banks of a large stream with all its tributaries, comprising in itself a small acreage, but rendering inaccessible to others, and depriving the government the sale of millions of acres of the adjacent lands (a notable instance of this kind occurring in New Mexico)—a system which winks at the building of fences by cattle kings around vast areas, excluding therefrom the honest settler, putting up in effect a barrier to the progress of civilization, and which enables railroad corporations, after receiving patents to over fifty-three million acres, still to set up, with a fair prospect of success, claims for one hundred and two millions more?—Veeder B. Paine, in Harper's Magazine for October.

Napoleon in America.

Napoleon III. admired American genius because it is creative genius; he grew indignant over French character that humiliates itself more and more in order that a man may become a state official, whether a minister or a stone-breaker on the highways. Turning toward King Jerome and Prince Murat he said: "I am sure you are not come to Saint Cloud this morning solely to drink Suresnes wine; you must have, as usual, your pockets filled with requests—one for a decoration, one for a license to sell tobacco, one for a senatorship. What a city! Why do not those people make a fortune?—that is true liberty—instead of striving to enter the service of the state and spend their lives in slavery. Americans grafted upon Englishmen are real freemen; they are the masters of the universe because they are their own masters. For example, when I was in New York I dined at a table d'hote beside a poor devil who had no shirt to his back, but who fascinated me by the daring of his schemes. It was extravagant, but sublime. That high-toned, penniless fellow, who, in France, would have died as tax collector or a quill-driver in an administrative department, possessed, one year later, twelve millions in cash. And he had not stolen the money, either. One day he was an hour late at the table d'hote, so he said to us by way of apology: 'You see, I have made a fortune.' As we looked at him rather dubiously, for he had not yet bought a shirt, he spread upon the table a roll of paper upon which he had drawn the plan of a city of twenty thousand inhabitants, with churches, fountains, squares, and monuments—a stock-exchange not being forgotten, of course. All this was fairylike, but reasoned out to perfection; it was a real city of the future, such as we shall have some day in France. My man had not confined himself to designing the town, but had purchased the ground upon which to build, and made his contracts with masons and gardeners. They were about to lay the foundations and make the streets. And your city will rise like Thebes, when Amphion played upon the lyre?' 'Yes, and they will not build, as in Europe, one house at a time; all will be commenced on the same day, and completed at the same time.' And, after a pause, 'what I tell you now,' continued Napoleon III., "sounds like a tale, but our fellow-diner was in earnest; he had secured the refusal of the site, and shown the contracts to bankers, who perceived that there was a fortune in the affair for themselves as well as for him; all of them took the bit in their teeth, and thus the country reckoned an additional state. On that day I promised myself that on my return to Paris—a thing I never doubted—I should rebuild the capital, and this I shall do, with God's help."—Houssaye's Confessions.

Florida is three times as large as Massachusetts.

S. B. Barger of Brownsville, Ore., has on exhibition at the post-office of that city a curiosity in the shape of a natural bow that has elicited the examination of the people in that vicinity. It is a vine maple about eight feet in length, has the curves of an ordinary Indian bow, and, strange to say, is already strung with a slender limb that grows out of one end into the other so perfectly that at first sight it would be quite difficult for one to detect at which end the the limb began. The bow is about three inches thick, and the string part is about one-fifth of that thickness, and is strong enough to shoot an arrow 200 yards.—San Francisco Examiner.

Brown's little Joke.

"Why, Brown, how short your coat is," said Jones one day to his friend Brown, who wittily replied: "Yes; but it will be long enough before I get another." Some men spend so much for medicines that neither heal or help them, that new clothes is with them like angels' visits—few and far between. Internal fevers, weakness of the lungs, shortness of breath and lingering coughs, soon yield to the magic influence of that royal remedy, Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery."

In the Armstrong abduction case, which has been on trial in London, the jury on the 7th inst. brought in a verdict of guilty against Mr. Stead, editor of the Pall Mall Gazette, and Rebecca Jarrett, but acquitted Booth, the general of the salvation army, and Jacques.

Mr. Editor: "Dark and dismal is the weather," yet very mild.

The "old cider mill" is at work, late and early. The boys have made forty-two pressings and have twenty-two engaged, and yet "the returns are not all in." We shall give the statistics after we get full returns. It should be said in advance, however, that "vinegar" is the only object in making.

We have never had the pleasure of looking upon a finer specimen of a full-blooded white Chester boar than one owned by Mr. Timothy Ferbish, near York bridge. Mr. Ferbish sent to Pennsylvania for the boar last spring, and is justly proud of the purchase.

The York bridge has undergone much-needed repairs. An entire new abutment on the eastern end has been built, Mr. Ferbish having charge of the building. The end of the bridge has been raised about a foot, and the road-bed also raised and graded.

The Varrell Bros., sons of Capt. Rufus Varrell, are making extensive repairs on their store, doubtless with a view of locating the York postoffice therein, Fremont Varrell having recently been appointed postmaster.

War in Burmah.

The reply of King Thebaw of Burmah to the British ultimatum has been received by the British, and is hostile and inadequate. War has been declared.

One evening last week, at Plymouth, England, Rev. Stewart Ross, formerly rector of Christ church at Belfast, Ireland, was addressing the Plymouth Young Men's Christian society when Charles Joy, Canadian emigration commissioner, burst into the room and shouted: "You hypocrite; you eloped with my wife." Ross turned pale and fled from the room pursued by a crowd of men who raced him a mile, when he turned and stabbed two of them, and was arrested. Ross disappeared from Belfast two years ago, leaving a wife and three children. Mrs. Joy, who was a teacher in his Sunday school, also disappeared at the same time. She was found in the prisoner's lodgings, and when informed of her paramour's arrest gloried in her connection with the "Lord's anointed," as she called her illicit lover. She attended court next day, when her "reverend" friend was held without bail, and appeared proud of her position.

Don Carlos Buell has been appointed pension agent at Louisville, Ky. He is a noted Union general of the late war, who organized and for a long time commanded the army of the Ohio. Since the war he has been engaged in business in Kentucky.

The president on the 7th inst. issued a proclamation to the anti-Chinese rioters in Washington territory, calling upon all good citizens to obey the laws, and notifying others that military force will be used to make them obey, if need be. Troops arrived at Seattle on the 8th, but the rioters did not come out again. No further trouble is feared.

William Delaney, while drunk, accidentally capsized a kerosene lamp in a boarding house at Weston, Mass., on the night of Nov. 7th, and then ran away. There were about sixty persons in the building, but all escaped except Patrick Sullivan, who was burned to a skeleton.

"GONE TO REST."

From apparently perfect health, and in the prime of activity, Miss Eva Frost, only daughter of John D. Frost, Esq., of Eliot, Me., departed this life on Monday of last week.

It is with the deepest feelings of grief we record this sad event,—grief on account of her family, on account of her friends, and on account of the society in which she mingled, which can ill afford to lose one of such great promise. She was a young lady of brilliant intellectual attainments, possessing the qualities of an excellent character and a most amiable disposition. The members of her class in the Sabbath school had a large basket of flowers arranged for her funeral, consisting of roses, smilax, etc., in the center of which was worked "Eva." There is nothing more satisfactory to her many friends than the reflection that she made herself beloved by all who knew her.

The immediate cause of her death was typhoid fever, from which she had partially recovered, but being very weak could not rally, and so gradually sank away. The funeral services were held on Thursday, and were largely attended by relatives and friends. P.

On the night of the 9th, at Durham, Chester Moran and Irving Moran, brothers, were arrested on suspicion of being implicated with John H. Moulton, previously arrested and now awaiting trial for burglarizing and setting fire to Chester Hayes' store in Durham on Thursday night last.

Hon. Leverett Saltonstoll was on the 9th inst. appointed collector of the port of Boston, vice Worthington, removed. Mr. Saltonstoll is a leading member of the civil service reform association of Massachusetts, and reported to be in entire accord with the president's policy on that question. It is probable that other important changes in the customs service at Boston will follow very soon, and the first of them will probably be the appointment of either Colonel Henry O. Kent or Colonel John H. George of New Hampshire, as naval officer.

PURE IS THE ABSOLUTE NECESSITY OF HEALTH. BLOOD

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

THE marvellous results of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA upon all humors and low conditions of the blood (as proven by the cures effected) prove it the best BLOOD MEDICINE. Such has been the success of this article at home that nearly every family in whole neighborhoods have been taking it at the same time. It eradicates scrofula, vitiates the blood, fires and enriches the blood, thereby restoring and renovating the whole system. Hood's SARSAPARILLA purifies the blood. Hood's SARSAPARILLA cures dyspepsia. Hood's SARSAPARILLA cures biliousness. A peculiar point in Hood's SARSAPARILLA is that it builds up and strengthens the system, while it eradicates disease, and as nature's great assistant proves itself invaluable as a protection from diseases that originate in changes of the seasons, of climate and of life.

SCROFULA.

I do sincerely advise any one who is troubled with scrofula to give this valuable remedy a trial, and assure them they will not be disappointed. Very truly yours, C. C. PICKERING. (Coburn Shuttle Co.)

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA is sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

A PECULIAR CASE.

At the battle of Gettysburg was engaged Co. K of the 17th Maine Volunteers, of which company several young men from Kittery were members. One of them was seen to have been severely wounded, and carried to the rear; and he was never seen afterward, either by his comrades or any of his acquaintances. In due time, his father made application for the arrears of pay, etc., due his son whose life had been given to his country, and was met with the assertion that the rolls showed that his son was put down as deserted, or absent without leave. For several years the father exerted himself to have this cruel charge removed. Evidence from his fellow soldiers, reputable residents of Kittery, proved that he was wounded in the battle as above stated; his cap, known by a silk device worked by a comrade, was found on the field of battle; but just when he died no one among the acquaintances of the soldier was able to say.

The numerous statements under oath of the fact of the severe wound of the soldier, his never having been seen after that, and testimony of like character, after twenty years' delay convinced the adjutant general of the United States army that the man had been killed in battle or had died from the effects of his wounds, and the charge of desertion was removed. The father, who was in poor circumstances, with a heart lightened with hopeful expectancy again sought to recover the arrears due his son from the government, all doubt as to his death in the service having been removed; but he was met with the solemn statement that it was true that the soldier did not desert, true in all probability that he was killed in the battle of Gettysburg, July 2, 1863, or died in consequence of wounds received in that battle, but the war department must have definite information of the day on which he died, and that by satisfactory evidence of reliable persons who have personal knowledge of the fact that the man was killed, in order to determine when his pay as a soldier ceased! Of course the astonished parent was ready to concede to the government that his son performed no service after the 2d day of July, but the secretary of war inexorably maintains that this is not sufficient.

The correspondence in the matter will probably be brought to the notice of Congress, and the father subjected to the delay and annoyance incident to having an act passed allowing him the sum due in the right of his dear son, whose life was over twenty years ago given to the service of an ungrateful country. Heretofore the common law rule held by Secretary Ewing thirty-five years ago, that a person absent and unheard-of for seven years is presumed to be dead, has been regarded as governing in cases of this character; but this seems now to be set aside, though the deceased in this case has not been heard from for over three times the number of years for which such presumption has heretofore governed.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

TUESDAY, Nov. 10th.

Timothy Falvey, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.90. Brentwood for Timothy.

John Lee, for assault on Thomas Kelly, was fined $1, costs $6.76. Paid.

Thomas Kelly, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.90. Brentwood for Thomas.

Wood Island as a United States hospital station having been abandoned, an inventory of the public property was taken and the watchman removed on Tuesday. Of course a very large proportion of the visits of naval ships to our waters will be diminished by the removal to Widow's island of the hospital station, and there will follow necessarily less refitting of ships; but the powers that be have so decided.

The out-look for work this winter at the navy yard does not seem encouraging. The Vandalia has her top masts up and her rigging is being rattled down, and ere long she will be ready for sea. The Leyden remains in the dry dock. The big mass of old iron remains as yet not shipped. When the department had the much-criticized Tallapoosa to use as a carrier the cost of transporting supplies and materials was far less than when freighted by merchant vessels, which now can obtain better rates for freights then if the Tallapoosa was at the deposal of the government for this purpose.

When the owners of the schooners Grace K. Green and Annie F. Conlon were paid their dividends a few days ago, the owners of the former received more than double the amount per share that the latter divided.

The managers of Music hall have placed a gas light outside the door at the north side of the hall, to light up the passage leading from that door to Congress street, along the westerly side of the Kearsarge house. This door has hitherto been hardly used at all as an exit, on account of the passageway being so dark.

Have you seen Coleman's elegant eight-inch range for $30, with all the apparatus, including hot closet, also the seven-inch range for $25? Mr. Coleman has one of the largest stocks of household goods in New Hampshire, and it will repay any one in want of articles in the housekeeping line to visit his warehouse on Market street.

At Kennebunk beach, during the great gale of the 2d inst., the barn connected with the cottage of W. F. Paul of Reading, Mass., was lifted from its foundations and dashed upon the rocks below, and then scattered in pieces along the whole length of the beach. The building was nearly new, and cost about $300.

The winter fishermen of Ogunquit and Cape Porpoise, who have hitherto stuck wholly to handlines and trawls in prosecuting their industry, ignoring the codnets altogether, are this season providing themselves with nets quite extensively.

The fishing schooner Rover's Bride, of this port, arrived at Vineyard Haven on the 9th inst., having carried away her mainmast head on Nantucket shoals the previous day.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

BAR BETWEEN THATCHER'S ISLAND AND MILK ISLAND, MASS.—An examination recently made by Lieut. J. E. Pillsbury, U. S. N., assistant United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, commanding the steamer Blake, has developed a bar between Thatcher's island and Milk island.

The shoalest points on the bar are a rock awash at low water, from which the northeastern extremity of Milk island bears S. S. W. ¼ W., distant 310 yards; a spot with three feet of water, from which the western extremity of Thatcher's island bears E., distant 200 yards; and a spot with seven feet, from which the western extremity of Thatcher's island bears E. N. E. ¼ E., distant 440 yards.

Mariners not thoroughly acquainted with the location are cautioned not to attempt the passage between these islands.

All bearings are magnetic and all depths at mean low water.

"Whom the gods love die young," says Byron; but why die when you can cure the cold or cough, which neglected means death? Dr. Ball's Cough Syrup mayn't be in favor with the gods, for it keeps thousands from their grasp, but mortals, who take it, praise it.

After Diphtheria.

Diphtheria is a terrible disease, requiring the greatest medical skill to effect a complete cure. Even when its power is broken, it clings to the patient with great persistency, and often leaves the system poisoned and prostrated. Just here Hood's Sarsaparilla does a vast amount of good, expelling impurities from the blood, giving it richness and vitality, while it renovates and strengthens the system.

"Prove all Things,

Hold fast that which is good." This text of the Aposle Paul is of great practical value. That many have been willing to try the G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon and Pure Rye, and do now steadily hold fast to their belief that it is good, is proved by the increased sales of these standard articles of spirits, bottled exclusively by C. H. Graves & Sons, 35 Hawkins st., Boston, and sold by grocers and druggists in many states of the Union.

Quite a Change Since the War.

Commander Albert Barker, commanding U. S. S. Enterprise, in an official report to the secretary of the navy writes very enthusiastically of the treatment accorded to himself and his officers by the authorities and people of Melbourne, Australia. He says:

The enterprising people of this magnificent city vie with each other in extending their hospitality to us, and the chief danger now is that we may be killed with kindness. Invitations for excursions, parties, dinners, lunches, theatre entertainments and the like are showered upon us because we are Americans. Free passes over all the railroads in this country have been given each officer, and when it is remembered that there are nearly 2000 miles of railway, and that all are under control of the government, and that our passes are good for every mile of completed road and for every day of our sojourn here, the value of this mark of attention can be faintly appreciated.

It is evident that a very marked change has come o'er the spirit of their dream since the time when Waddell, the commander of the British pirate "Sea King," (renamed the "Shenandoah,") paraded the streets of Melbourne arm-in-arm with the governor of Victoria, and had the entree of government house and the crown solicitor's office at any hour of the day or night, while it was only after persistent and repeated attempts that the United States consul could get an interview with an under-secretary of the viceroy or solicitor during office hours; when the Sea King was allowed to go on the government railway and remain there week after week, having the government workmen make whatever alterations were desired; when in defiance of international law, the "foreign enlistment act" of Great Britain, and the queen's special proclamation, the government authorities winked at the enlistment on the Sea King of eighty-five "gallant British seamen," as the papers of the city boastingly reported; and when the sight of an American flag would call forth such remarks as "That Yankee gridiron won't fly much longer; the stars and bars will soon put that thing out of sight!" Possibly the million or two which Britain had to pay for the depredations of the Shenandoah on our commerce may have had something to do with the wonderful growth of Melbourne's love and respect for Americans and their institutions since that time.

Hazen to be Overhauled.

The Washington correspondent of the Boston Post on the 10th inst. wrote: "At last some official notice is to be taken of the multitude of complaints and accusations against Chief Signal Officer Hazen. The general of the army to-day requested the secretary of war to send down the papers in the Fort Myer court-martial scandal case to Inspector General Baird, who will examine them and report to the secretary his conclusions as to the next step to be taken. It is believed by the friends of the aggrieved parties that so strong a prima facie case exists against Hazen that he will be called sharply to account; and if he once be brought to face a court it will go hard with him, unless the feeling now cherished by his brother officers undergoes a wonderful change meantime. Even those army men who most deprecate the airing of personal prejudices within the service are sometimes betrayed into the admission that Hazen is an exception to all rules, and that they would be glad to have the army get rid of him."

Albert Lowe and Miss Corey, daughter of E. H. Corey, of Newton, Mass., were married in Boston on the 10th inst. The young lady's parents were opposed to the match, and watched her closely, but she went in to Boston on the 10th with a male friend, to go to the theatre; in Boston they were met by the lover, whom the girl two years before had promised to wed when she became of age, and together they went to a minister and got married. They then went to the theatre, and at the close went back to Newton and visited the bride's parents, who have forgiven all. The husband is a prosperous and respected young business man.

At Greensboro, N. C., Mrs. Martha Wilkerson, a widow of forty, living on a farm with a son of eighteen, became infatuated with a young hired man named Alsoph. Her son declared he would leave home forever if she married him. On the 8th inst. the neighbors found the mother and son dead, each with a bullet hole through the head. It is suspected they agreed to end their existence.

Sterling, a Brooklyn alderman, was appointed a weigher in the New York custom house without examination. The appointment, being contrary to law, was revoked by the president, and an examination was ordered. Sterling presented himself to the examiners, and secured the 24th place in a list of thirty candidates. That disposed of Sterling, though there are rumors that some contrivance to evade the law is still contemplated.

GRANITE STATE FIRE INS. CO.

Insurance Commissioner Pillsbury on the 11th inst. gave the officers of the Granite State Fire Ins. Co. a certificate of authority for the transaction of business, the capital stock of $200,000 being fully paid up and on deposit in the Strafford national bank at Dover, and the organization of the company complete.

The company accordingly issued instructions to its agents authorizing them to bind risks on and after the 12th inst., the policies to be issued on the reception of blanks from the printer. The risks are limited in amount as follows: On city dwellings and contents, $5000; brick mercantile risks, brick churches, village dwellings and contents, $2500; frame mercantile risks, frame churches, $1500.

THE COTTAGE HOSPITAL.

The directors of the hospital gratefully acknowledge the following donations: Bean crock, cake cutter, egg beater and apple corer, from Mr. J. M. Smith; reading matter and package of oatmeal, from Mrs. T. M. Ball; four large, new nightshirts, and a long Canton flannel skirt, from an unknown friend; bedstead, bureau, washstand, table and chairs, from Mrs. Robert L. Harris; and a table from Mrs. David Kimball.

A SAD SUICIDE.

HAMPTON, Nov. 10th.

With tender and sorrowing sympathy we mention the suicide, this noon, of Mrs. Alice Taylor, daughter of the late J. J. Leavitt, Esq., by attaching a cord to the stair-rail in the front hall of her mother's residence, and hanging herself in the presence of her two little weeping girls.

From other sources we learn that the deceased, Mrs. Alice Cheney Taylor, was only twenty-one years old, and for two years past had resided with her mother, she and her husband not living happily together. Mrs. Leavitt went to Exeter on the 10th, leaving Mrs. Taylor and her two children, aged respectively two and four years, at home; and on returning in the afternoon found the lifeless body hanging in the hall.

A PRIEST SWINDLED.

On Saturday, the 7th inst., two well-dressed and well-appearing young men went to see the French priest at Rochester. Although he did not remember them, they told such a plausible story and mentioned so many facts and incidents that the father thought they were all right. They then told their business, which was that they wanted him to identify them at the bank, so they could get a check for $900 cashed. He not only identified them but also indorsed the check, which, accordingly, was paid, and the young men left town.

On Tuesday morning, the 10th, the priest was notified that the check had been raised from $100 to $900, and that he would be held responsible for $800. The check was an old one, had originally been drawn on a Portsmouth bank, and had been indorsed by several parties through whose hands it had passed, but until the 7th inst. had never gone to any bank.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Nov. 10th.

The post office question is being discussed by many, and the idea of moving the Depot office from its present location to North Kittery meets the approbation of nearly all residents there. The latest proposed route is from Portsmouth to Kittery Foreside, thence to North Kittery and York, the Kittery Point mail to be taken from the Foreside office by special carrier.

Will H. Anderson, mail carrier at the navy yard, lost a valuable English and Irish setter dog last week; the finder, on returning him to the owner, will be rewarded.

It is reported in North Kittery that a kaolin bed has been found on the banks of the creek; it is a kind of clay used in making pottery, bricks, ect., and has been looked at with regards to working it.

Mrs. John Fernald has made improvements on her house in North Kittery, and has also painted and blinded it, we understand she thinks of making her summer residence here.

Mr. John Gunnison is enlarging the capacity of his hennery, and intends to increase his flock of fowls this season.

D. G. Templar Clarence S. Chick, deputy of Morrill lodge at North Kittery, installed the officers of that lodge last Friday evening, previous to which four candidates were initiated.

John P. Brooks is teaching the winter term of school in district No. 3, North Kittery.

Residents in Kittery should remember the old fashioned quarterly meeting at the first Methodist church, commencing next Saturday afternoon, the 14th inst., and continueing through Sunday.

Smelts are being caught in small quantities from the mill-bridge; they are scarce this year at that point.

Mr. William Adams has made a vast improvement on the exterior of his house and store, by changing the old fashioned window sash for the more modern four light ones. He has also painted his buildings in a most becoming style, the trade at his store is said to be increasing.

Mr. Alvin Libby has the cellar for his new house completed, and it is expected that he will commence the erection of the house immediately.

Mr. Oliver Hatch has given up the idea of moving into Mr. T. J. Pettigrew's house, having secured Mr. Charles H. Bartlett's house instead. SUB ROSA.

"The Hidden Hand" at Music hall this evening.

At a session of the probate court in this city on the 10th inst. the following business was transacted: Estates of Clara F. Dame and James Junkins, administrators' accounts settled; estates of Daniel H. Spinney and Mary B. Furber, executors' accts. settled; acct. of Jenny L. Hook, guardian, settled; administration granted on estates of Susan P. Rogers, Portsmouth, and George A. Baker, Newcastle; inventory returned in est. of James M. Carr, Portsmouth, and allowance to widow decreed; a petition to adopt a child was granted.

A Boston paper states that "Rev. Dr. A. P. Peabody, of Cambridge, has suddenly been stricken wish almost complete deafness. His family and friends are compelled to use a tablet in order to communicate with him."

The schooner Agnes E. Downs, of this port, Downs master, which arrived here on the 10th inst. from mackereling, will it is said fit for winter fishing.

The schooner Rover's Bride, of this port, Norton master, which put into Vineyard Haven on the 9th inst. with her mainmast head gone, sailed again the same day.

Eastern railroad stock on the 11th inst. fluctuated between 57 5-8 and 58 1-2, at the brokers' board in Boston, the closing transactions being at 57 3-4.

A well dressed young man about twenty-five years old was struck by a shifting engine at the Washington street crossing in Lynn, Mass., on the forenoon of the 11th inst., and instantly killed. He was attempting to cross the track while the gates were closed.

Miss Anna Ripley of Buxton has, unaided, secured the necessary papers and a pension for George W. Edgerly, an old, broken-down soldier of her town. While engaged in this work she took the affidavit of every man in his company from Maine to Colorado, and every physician who had treated him, and personally supplied his wants as long as she was able rather than allow him to go to the poor farm. When the pension was granted, $1070 was also allowed as arrearage. She asked and received no compensation for her efforts.

What Will Surely Do It.

One's hair begins to fall out from many cases. The important question is: What is sure to make it grow in again? According to the testimony of thousands, Parker's Hair Balsam will do it. It quickly covers bald spots, restores the original color when the hair is gray or faded, eradicates dandruff and causes the scalp to feel cool and well. It is not a dye, not greasy, highly perfumed, safe. Never disappoints those who require a nice, reliable dressing.

They are not only a positive cure, but a sure preventive if taken when the approach is felt. If you try them you will not be disappointed.
